Local.

☞ A case of real utility in almsgiving is presented to the people of Portsmouth in this item. Some time last September, a little boy named Stickney lost one hand and most of the other, on the track of the Concord & Portsmouth R. R. in this city, in a way which imposed no legal liability on the Corporation to pay any damages, and for which they were no way to blame. He was at play underneath some empty freight cars that had been at rest some time, and when the engine backed down to move them, happened, unseen, to have both hands among the wheels, which cut off the right hand at the wrist, and of the left spared only the thumb and a stump of the hand.

This Spring, since the boy's wounds were healed, Mr. John M. Davis took him to Concord, where the Directors of the Road agreed to give $500 into the hands of proper trustees for the boy's benefit,—provided the city or some benevolent society or individuals shall raise an equal sum. Of this $500 something over $100 has already been subscribed on the Navy Yard:—and charitable people who would like to aid in giving this poor boy the means of subsistence and education for usefulness may learn more particulars by calling on Mr. Davis; and if they choose to aid in securing his fund, can hand their subscription to him, or forward it through the Chronicle office.

CAPT. GEO. A. GERRISH.—We find in the Manchester American the following extract from a letter by a member of the Battery to his family:—

BELLA PLAIN, Va., April 1.

Yesterday, Capt. Gerrish appeared among us as a citizen, having resigned his commission as commander of the Battery. Last evening at dress parade he came out in front of the company, and was greeted by three rousing cheers. He made a short, but eloquent address, which gave us great credit as soldiers. He seemed to regret much that he was obliged to leave us, but he hopes yet to be where he can see and hear of us often. He said he never was connected with a body of men that he loved so much and respected as the members of the N. H. Battery. I think he is respected by every man in the company in return.

I have seen the time that I thought Capt. Gerrish was arbitrary and tyrannical, but I have since learned enough of regulations to know that at the time when I thought him the worst, he was doing that which was the best for us, and I now respect him for what I once disliked. Capt. Gerrish has proved himself a man in every respect. W. G. C.

AMERICAN SILVER AT A DISCOUNT IN ST. JOHN.—The St. John Morning News says American speculators have lately been circulating American silver very extensively through the city, and the Banks having refused to receive it for deposit, merchants and the public generally have determined not to receive it except at a discount, and not to receive copper and nickel American cents at all. The value of the American half dollar will hereafter be only 40 cents; the quarter dollar 20 cents; the ten cent piece 8 cents; the five cent piece 4 cents; and the three cent piece 2 cents. The adoption of this course by N. B. merchants is to debar speculators from exchanging the silver for Bank Notes, and obtaining gold at the banks in lieu thereof, which last named article they take with them to the States, and obtain a handsome premium on it. If this precaution had not been adopted, there would certainly have been a disastrous run upon the Banks in a very short time, it is said.

Honesty and Dishonesty, Truth and Falsehood, Good and Evil, are distinctions of character,—and are not confined to any nation or color, to any race or condition among men. To speak or write contrary to this plain truth, is either to deceive ourselves, or try to deceive somebody else.

MONITOR CLOTHES WRINGER!

THE ONLY PERFECTLY SELF-ADJUSTING MACHINE IN THE MARKET!

The pressure in this Machine is put on in putting it on the tub, and removed in taking from the tub, all at one operation, an arrangement which no other Wringer has. It has no rubber bands or thumb screws to take off and unscrew, which may be neglected and spoil the rollers.

It is perfectly SELF-ADJUSTING in every respect.

The many advantages of Wringers are too well known to need any further comments. But we might add that it is almost the only successful labor-saving Machine invented for women's use. In short, it saves labor, clothes, time and strength, and does the work better. It saves its cost in three months. It only needs a fair trial to convince one that the above is perfectly true.

☞ Call and examine. The money refunded if not perfectly satisfactory.

THE MODEL COOK

The novel—the peculiar feature of the MODEL COOK, that which distinguishes it from all others, is the addition of a Ventilated Roasting Oven within the body of the stove and in front of the fire; so arranged that it can be used separately for a roaster (by the removal of a simple plate) in connection with the larger oven, for baking; giving an oven nearly 3 feet long, or large enough to take six large plates on the bottom, every part of which will bake evenly at the same time! A check draft is applied to this stove by means of which the consumption of fuel is greatly lessened, and a steady fire can be kept day and night if desired.

Ayer's SARSAPARILLA,

THE WORLD'S GREAT REMEDY FOR
Scrofula and Scrofulous Diseases.

From Emery Delos, a well-known merchant of Oxford, Maine.

"I have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, but never yet one bottle that failed of the desired effect and full satisfaction to those who took it. As far as our people try it, they agree there has been no medicine like it before in our community."

Eruptions, Pimples, Blotches, Pustules, Ulcers, Sores, and all Diseases of the Skin.

From Rev. Robt. Stratton, Bristol, England.

"I only do my duty to you and the public, when I add my testimony to that pouring forth of the medicinal virtues of your SARSAPARILLA. My daughter, aged ten, had an affecting humor in her ears, eyes, and hair for years, which we were unable to cure until we tried your SARSAPARILLA. She has been well for some months."

From Mrs. Jane E. Rice, a well-known and much-esteemed lady of Pennsville, Cape May Co., N. J.

"My daughter has suffered for a year past with a scrofulous eruption, which was very troublesome. Nothing afforded any relief until we tried your SARSAPARILLA, which soon completely cured her."

From Charles P. Gage, Esq., of the widely-known Gage, Harvey & Co., manufacturers of enamelled papers in Nashua, N. H.

"I had for several years a very troublesome tumor in my face, which grew constantly worse until it disfigured my features and became a terrible affliction to me. I tried almost every thing a man could of both advice and medicine, but without any relief whatever, until I tried your SARSAPARILLA. It immediately made my face worse, as you told me it might for a time; but in a few weeks the new skin began to form under the blotches, and continued to build my face up as smooth as any body's, and I am without any symptoms of the disease that I know of. I enjoy perfect health, and without a doubt owe it to your SARSAPARILLA."

Erysipelas—General Debility—Purify the Blood.

From Dr. Robt. Swain, Houston St., New York.

"DR. AYER. I seldom fail to remove Erysipelas and Scrofulous Sores by the unsparing use of your SARSAPARILLA, and I have just now cured an attack of Malignant Erysipelas with it. No alterative we possess equals the SARSAPARILLA, which have supplied to "be profession as well as to the people."

From J. E. Johnston, Esq., Wabash, Ohio.

"For twelve years, I had the yellow Erysipelas on my right arm, during which time I tried all the celebrated physicians I could reach, and took hundreds of dollars worth of medicine. The ulcers were so bad that the cords became shrunk, and the doctors decided that my arm must be amputated. I began taking your SARSAPARILLA. Took two bottles, and some of your Pills, and they entirely have cured me. I am now as well and sound as any body. Being in a public place, my case is known to every body in this community, and excites the wonder of all."

From Hon. Henry Monro, M.P.P., of Newcastle, C. W., a leading member of the Canadian Parliament.

"I have used your SARSAPARILLA in my family, for general debility, and for purifying the blood, with varyingly beneficial results, and feel confidence in commending it to the afflicted."

St. Anthony's Fire, Rose, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Sore Eyes.

From Harvey Skeller, Esq., the able editor of the Tuskaloosa Democrat, Tuscaloosa, Ala.

"Our only child, about three years of age, was attacked by pimples on his forehead. They rapidly spread until they formed a handsome and virulent sore, which covered his face, and actually blinded his eyes for some days. A skilful physician applied nitrate of silver and other remedies, without any apparent effect. For fifteen days we guarded his hands, lest with them he should tear open the festering and corrupt wound which covered his face. Nothing tried every thing else we had any hope from, we began giving your SARSAPARILLA, and applying the iodide of potassium, as you directed, for some months to heal, when we had given the first bottle, and was well when we had finished the second. The child's eyelashes, which had come out, grew again, and he is now as healthy and fair as any other. The whole neighborhood predicted that the child must die."

Syphilis and Mercurial Disease

From Dr. Simon Stivel, of Richmond, Kentucky.

"I find your SARSAPARILLA a more efficacious remedy for the secondary symptoms of Syphilis and mercurial Syphilitic diseases than any other alterative. The preparation are preferred to you for some of the best medicines we have."

From S. J. Fenick, M. D., an eminent physician of Lawrence, Mass., and for many years president, member of the Legislature of Massachusetts.

"DR. AYER. My dear Sir: I have found your SARSAPARILLA an excellent remedy for Syphilis, both of the primary and secondary type, and effected in some cases that were too obstinate to yield to other remedies. I do not know what we have in pharmacy with more certainty of success, where a powerful alterative is required."

From Mr. Jesse Lister, of New Brunswick, N. J.

"Mr. Ayer, S. Van Liew, of New Brunswick, N. J., has detailed above the history of my case, and the abuse of mercury, or mercurial disease, which grew more and more aggravated for years, in spite of every remedy or treatment that I could hear of, until I tried persevering use of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA relieved him. Few cases can be found more inveterate and discouraging than this, and it took several dozen bottles to cure him."

Leucorrhœa, Whites, Female Weakness, are generally produced by internal Scrofulous Ulcerations, and are very often cured by the alterative efficacy of this SARSAPARILLA, when all else fails, however, in aid of the SARSAPARILLA, the skilful application of local remedies.

From the well-known and widely-celebrated Dr. Dixon, of Cincinnati, Ohio.

"I have found your SARSAPARILLA an excellent alterative in diseases of females. Many cases of Irregularity, Leucorrhœa, Menorrhagia, Sterility, and Incontinently, arising from the scrofulous diathesis, have yielded to it, and there are few that do not, when the medicine is properly aided by local treatment."

A lady, unwilling to allow the publication of her name, writes:

"My daughter and myself have been cured of a very obstinate Leucorrhœa, of long standing, by two bottles of your SARSAPARILLA."

Rheumatism, Gout, Liver Complaints, Dyspepsia, Heart Disease, Neuralgia, when caused by Scrofula in the system, are rapidly cured by this SAT. SARSAPARILLA.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS

IMPORTANT TO THE AFFLICTED.

DR. DOW continues to be consulted at his office, Nos. 7 and 9 ENDICOTT STREET, Boston, on all diseases of a

PRIVATE OR DELICATE NATURE.

By a long course of study and practical experience of unlimited extent, Dr. D. has now the gratification of presenting the unfortunate victims of disease that have resisted all else, and introduced them, failed to cure the most alarming cases of

GONORRHŒA AND SYPHILIS.

Beneath his treatment, all the horrors of venereal and impure blood, in the form of pimples, scrofulous tumors, Chronic pain and distress in the regions of procreation, inflammation of the Bladder and Kidneys, Hydrocele, Abscesses, Humors, frightful nocturnal emissions, and the long train of horrible symptoms attending this class of diseases, are made to become as harmless as the simplest ailings of a child.

SEMINAL WEAKNESS.

Dr D. devotes a great part of his time to the treatment of those cases caused by a secret and solitary habit, which ruins the body and mind, unfitting the unfortunate individual for business or society. Some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, are Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Dimness of the Eyes, Pain in the Head, Dizziness, Palpitation of the heart, Dyspepsia, Nervousness, Derangement of the digestive functions, Symptoms of Consumption, etc. The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded: loss of memory, confusion of ideas, depression of spirits, evil forebodings, aversion to society, self-distrust, timidity, &c., are among the evils produced. Such persons should, before contemplating matrimony, consult a physician of experience, and be at once restored to health and happiness.

Patients who wish to remain under Dr. Dow's treatment a few days, will be furnished with pleasant rooms, and charge as for board moderate.

Medicines sent to all parts of the country, with full directions for use, on receiving description of your cases. Dr. Dow has also for sale the French Capotins, warranted the best preventive. Order by mail. Three dollars per dozen, and 1 cent stamp.

April 7—1y Saw.

CAUTION

To Females in Delicate Health.

DR. DOW, Physician and Surgeon, No 7 & 9 Endicott Street, Boston, is consulted in all those diseases incident to the female system. Prolapsus Uteri, or falling of the Womb, Fluor Albus, Suppression, and other irregularities of menstruation, are treated upon new pathological principles, and speedy relief guaranteed in a few days. No invariably certain is the new mode of treatment, that thousands have already tried once or twice, and the afflicted person soon rejoices in perfect health.

Dr. Dow has no doubt had greater experience in some large cases of disease of women and children, than any other physician in Boston.

Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.

Dr. Dow, since 1845, having confined his whole attention to his private practice, for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

Dr. Dow is consulted daily, from 8 A. M. to 9 P. M. as above, upon all difficult and chronic diseases of every name and nature, having by his unwearied attention and extraordinary success gained a reputation which calls patients from all parts of the country to obtain advice.

Among the physicians in Boston, none rate more higher in the profession than the celebrated DR. DOW, No. 7 Endicott street, Boston. Those who need the services of an experienced physician and surgeon should give him a call.

P. S.—Dr. Dow imports and has for sale a new article, called the FRENCH SECRET. Order by mail. Two for $1 and a red stamp.

Of the VERY BEST QUALITY can be had at MOULTON & BLAISDELL'S.

THE MAGEE
COOKING STOVE.

The subscribers, having received their Fall stock of ranges, would especially call the attention of the public to the

CELEBRATED AND UNRIVALLED
MAGEE COOK STOVE,

as the very best Stove yet made, and would invite those about purchasing or exchanging Stoves, to examine this, believing it to be far superior to any other Stove yet invented, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual. The oven plates are covered with plaster, which renders it equal to the old-fashioned brick oven for perfection in baking.

☞ There is a new style and very superior broiler and sad iron heater combined, by which the odor of broiling meats are prevented from creeping into the room. With the extension top there is a large copper Reservoir for hot water; also a large tin warming-closet attached, in which any article can be kept warm, while the other parts of the Stove are occupied for other purposes.

The arrangements for sifting the coal and cleaning the grate are far superior to those of any other Stove now in use, as no dust can possibly escape into the room, and the shovelling up of the ashes is entirely dispensed with. The fire is regulated in the same manner as in the MAGEE PARLOR STOVE, and will be continued day and night for weeks together, thus saving the expense of re-kindling every day.

For economy, durability, ease of management, cleanliness and perfection of baking, it cannot be surpassed by any other Stove, as hundreds of families in this city and vicinity, who are now using them, are willing to testify, and speak of them in the highest terms of praise.

We would refer to the following purchasers:

"MAGEE'S PATENT"
VENTILATING & AIR-WARMING
FURNACES.

The subscribers, being the Sole Agents in this vicinity for the manufacture and sale of this valuable Furnace, would ask those about remodelling or erecting buildings to examine this truly valuable invention.

For economy, purity of air and ease of management it has no equal, producing a current of warm air, moist and agreeable;—and as none of the air which comes in contact with the fire-pots is used for respiration, it cannot be produced to produce headache so much complained of in other Furnaces, is entirely obviated.

The defects sought to be cured by the constructors of heating apparatus have been to obtain the greatest amount of heat from a given amount of fuel, and to prevent, the escape of heat to the smoke pipe or chimney.

To accomplish this many complicated and expensive heating arrangements have been constructed, some possessing but little improvement over former methods, while many have proved a total failure. The reason for this is obvious. The combustible gases being lighter than the air, pass off into the pipe or chimney without being consumed. This objection, so common in other Furnaces, is obviated in the

MAGEE FURNACE.

The flue or pipe in this Furnace being below the fire-pots, the gases, from their specific gravity, cannot descend, and are burned up by the admission of cold air through the fire-pot, which ignites them as they pass off from the coal, thus saving at least 50 per cent of the properties of the heat in the fuel.

No heating apparatus with the smoke-pipe or flue on the top of the cone can be made to consume the gases. Experience has proved that a large amount of the heat generated, making the chimney the hottest part of your dwelling.

This Furnace does away with the great number of pipes and angles in the pipes, so fatal to heat, and by reason of its simplicity, and its being thus simplifying, while it increases the surface of radiation.

These Furnaces consume all the coal, make no clinkers, the sifting of coal is entirely dispensed with, and they will save from 30 to 50 per cent. of fuel over common Furnaces.

For ease of management, economy and purity of air, these Furnaces have no equal. They can be regulated so as to give any amount of heat required, and the fire may be kept the entire season without once going out.

They give entire satisfaction wherever used. We have in store the different sizes, Brick and Portable, to which we invite the attention of those in want of the best Furnace in the world, and would refer them to the following named gentlemen, who have them now in use:

Samuel Cleaves, Esq.,	Albert R. Hatch, Esq.,
Amos H. Hill,	Charles H. Merrill,
Henry F. Wendell,	John Sise, and others.

Teeth on Vulcanized Rubber,

SOME OF ITS ADVANTAGES.

1st It is stronger and lighter than any known material.

2d. From two to six times the amount of suction is attained which can be obtained by it.

3d. When the arch is irregular we can by building out the depressions—which can be done to any extent—give the mouth a more natural appearance.

4th. No bad taste arises in the mouth by its use, as the secretions of the stomach and mouth do not affect it in the least.

5th. Teeth mounted upon this base can be kept clean and sweet as easily as a sound tooth.

6th. Its lightness adds much to the comfort of the mouth.

7th. While in all ways it is better, save in a few peculiar cases, it is much cheaper than Gold.

DR. A. P. STEVENS, Surgeon Dentist,
No. 5 Daniel St., Portsmouth.

Has had four years of practical experience in making this material, and will guarantee satisfaction in all cases entrusted to his care.

DENTISTRY.

No. 60 CONGRESS STREET.
Portsmouth, Jan. 1st, 1863.

DR. GOODALL

Would respectfully inform his patrons and the public, that he had of late many calls to insert teeth upon the VULCANIZED RUBBER, that he has purchased the best VULCANIZER in the market, and is now prepared to do all work upon VULCANIZED RUBBER, the other bases of GOLD and SILVER as formerly, if preferred.

The Rubber has several important advantages, viz.: It is very light and elastic, and consequently is perfectly easy to the tender tissues of the mouth and cheeks. There are no insertices or open joints to collect food, &c.; consequently they can be worn night and day, and are very easily kept neat and clean.

Beside all this, the most accurate fit is obtained, as the Rubber is Vulcanized directly upon the plaster model, and the suction is of course much stronger than in plates of Gold or Silver.

Any one who is waiting for their permanent teeth will, I am confident, be perfectly satisfied with the Rubber, as a base. The expense is but a little more than for Silver, and you get the same teeth upon the block; that you would pay $60.00 for on upper or lower set on Gold.

In New York and Boston, and throughout the West, Vulcanized Rubber is used almost to the exclusion of the other bases, and by the best Dentists too. I will warrant a perfect fit and teeth from the best manufacturer in the country, S. S. White.

ALL OTHER OPERATIONS IN DENTISTRY I will do at the usual rates. I will here mention that my price for EXTRACTING is 25 cents.

I take pleasure in referring the public to Dr. TREADWELL, Dr. BOARDMAN, Dr. OLIVER and Dr. DERBY, for particular success in extracting Teeth. Teeth extracted without pain and with perfect safety, with Ether. Teeth polished to their natural whiteness without pain or injury to the Enamel. Reputation of Adults' and Children's Teeth will receive particular attention.—All whole and partial sets of Teeth repaired with Neatness and Dispatch. All other operations in Dentistry, I will do at the usual rates.

GRACE'S CELEBRATED SALVE
A SURE RELIEF FOR THE SUFFERER.

This Salve is a vegetable preparation, invented in the 17th century, by Dr. WM. GRACE surgeon in King James's army. Through its agency he cured thousands of most serious sores and wounds that baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians of his day, and was regarded by all who knew him as a public benefactor.

Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Burns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Scalds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Flesh Wounds.

Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Erysipelas Sores
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Abscesses.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ulcers.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chapped Hands.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ringworms.

And from Sores and Wounds of the most serious nature down to a common Pimple. It eradicates Pimples from the face, and beautifies the skin. There is no preparation before the public that can equal this Salve in prompt and energetic action for the speedy cure of external diseases, as those who have tried its virtues testify. Soldiers, Sailors, and Fishermen, will find this Salve their best friend.

It has none of the irritating, heating properties of other remedies, but cools, cleanses, and heals the most serious Sores and Wounds. Every family, and especially those containing children, should keep a box on hand in case of accident, for it will save them much trouble, suffering, and money. All it wants is a fair trial to cure old and inveterate Sores.

Love truth, do good, be just and fair with all;
Exalt the right, though every ism fall."

"Let me warn you in the most solemn manner against the baneful effects of the spirit of Party, generally. It is a spirit not to be encouraged.—Its common and continual mischief is sufficient to make it the interest and duty of a wise people to discourage and restrain it. In governments of the popular form, it is seen in its greatest rankness, and is truly their worst enemy."—Washington's Farewell Address.

American and Foreign Patents.
R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of U. S. Patent Office, Washington, (under the Act of 1857.)
75 State Street, opposite Kilby Street,
BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on liberal terms, and with dispatch. Researches made into American or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of patents or inventions—and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.

The Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantage for securing Patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The Testimonials below given prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional service so moderate.

The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents.

These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining Patents.

All modesty aside, a journey to Washington, to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents.

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their applications in form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.

Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications, on all but one of which patents have been granted, and that is now pending. Such unmistakeable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges."
JOHN TAGGART.

During eight months, the subscriber, in course of his large practice, made on twice rejected applications SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided in his favor, by the Commissioner of Patents.

Morning Chronicle.

Portsmouth, N. H.

FRIDAY, APRIL 10, 1863.

THE REBELLION.

General orders for the consolidation of our depleted regiments have been issued.

An expedition was sent out from Yorktown on Tuesday morning.

The negro brigade shelled and captured Pilatka, Fla. Jacksonville, Fla., has been burned by our forces in return for the attempt of the rebels to shell it and murder all the Union inhabitants. The evacuation was ordered by Gen. Hunter.

Assistance has been sent to Gen. Foster from Fortress Monroe, an officer having brought information that it was believed that Longstreet some time ago applied to Jeff. Davis for 50,000 troops for the purpose of clearing Albemarle Sound, and was informed that he could have 30,000 from the army of the Rappahannock, but must obtain the balance from Gen. Vance, of North Carolina. It is reported that one of the Hills is in command.

The rebels threatened to shell Little Washington, N. C., where Gen. Foster is with 2000 troops, but up to April 2 had not done so. More of our gunboats have been sent to open communication, and it is thought Gen. Foster will be able to hold out. Two companies of the Mass. 44th fell into an ambuscade, suffering considerably. The rebels are reported to have 5000 men between Newbern and Washington.

Deserters state that Longstreet is on Blackwater River with 3 rebel divisions.

New Orleans advices to the first say there was no confirmation of the report that the rebels were evacuating Port Hudson. The rebels have captured the gunboat Diana at Pattersonville, La. We lost 4 officers killed and 3 wounded. Several privates were killed and wounded, 29 were paroled by the rebels.

It is thought that the rebels under Van Dorn are investing Fort Donelson.

Recent Federal reconnoissances from Murfreesboro have captured large numbers of prisoners and quantities of provisions.—1200 rebels, under Wordward, have captured and burned two steamboats near Clarksville, Tenn.

A Charleston dispatch of the 4th says important movements were taking place there, but for military reasons no particulars could yet be telegraphed. The Richmond Sentinel of the 7th states that the expected collision had probably already taken place.

A New York dispatch says a "person" who passed Charleston harbor last Sunday night, reports our fleet ready for the action, but it had not commenced.

☞ Many people have wondered at the long delay, on the part of Admiral Dupont, in attacking Charleston, but they will appreciate the magnitude of the undertaking when they learn that the iron-clad fleet would use up in six days twelve hundred tons of shot and shell, and a hundred tons of powder! This is a maximum. The fire of the fleet cannot be thus sustained. It probably will fall far short of it. But these are elements which have been taken into the calculation.

☞ Speaking of the old battering rams, used by the ancients on land and water, the Scientific American says, of these and others of the ancient weapons of offense and defense that were employed centuries ago "Fashions change; the world moves, it is said; and yet we come round, in cycles of time, to adopt these methods which the barbarians of old invented. Aided by the discoveries of science, we so improve upon their crude ideas, that we shall shortly reduce the art of war to a fruitless struggle—one wherein neither side can obtain a decided advantage. This is the present tendency of things, and in the words of the poet, it is 'a consummation most devoutly to be wished.'"

☞ The majority of the Pennsylvania Senatorial Investigating committee have made a report finding Gen. Cameron guilty on the charges of bribery preferred against him by Jefferson Boyer, a member of the Legislature. They say it appears from the testimony that other members of the Legislature besides Boyer were offered money and a place to induce them to vote for Cameron for U. S. Senator. It is understood that the minority report, signed by the Republican members of the committee, will differ materially from these conclusions. The testimony is very voluminous, occupying over 130 pages.

☞ A woman named Elizabeth Drum had a desperate quarrel, resulting in a fight with another woman who resided with her in the same house, in New York, on Sunday evening, and on Monday Mrs. Drum died. The women, who were intemperate, struck and kicked each other with the utmost desperation and effect. Mrs. Drum died in convulsions.

☞ The number of traitor inmates of Fort Lafayette, New York, at the present time, is about fifty.

THE BRITISH PIRATE ALABAMA AND THE LONDON TIMES.—The London Times, the paid mouth-piece of the rebels, has published several articles to show that the British Government should not be held responsible for the piracies of the "290," alias Alabama. It has probably been prompted by a golden argument from the Government, thus receiving pay from two sources for the same job. If the case is a clear as the Times labors to make it appear, why return to it so frequently? A person would be regarded as insane who would attempt to prove that it was light when the sun shone in a cloudless sky, and equally so if he affirmed that it was dark at noonday under like circumstances. That which is seen by all requires no logic to demonstrate it; yet the Times has undertaken, again and again, to prove that a British vessel is not a British vessel, and because not a British vessel, the British Government ought not to be held responsible for her actions. The Government, however, at one time, proved the reverse of this, for Earl Russell issued orders a day or two after she sailed to detain her. We allude to the "290." The representations of our Government that she was designed to prey upon our commerce, have been confirmed by her actions; and now our Government very properly and justly calls upon that of England to make good the damage. It is impossible for any man in his senses to show that the English Government is not responsible for every cent of American property that she has destroyed.

Suppose that those who have suffered most by the depredations of this British pirate, should secretly organize gangs of lawless men to fire the British steamers and ships in our ports by way of retaliation, and that the English officials here should call upon our Government for protection, and this protection should be refused upon the ground that the party making the complaint could not swear to the parties implicated, and thus allow the incendiaries to carry out their schemes of destruction—we ask, would the English Government or people be satisfied with the excuse set up by our Government? We fancy not. The fact that the British Consul or Minister had called upon our Government in advance for protection, would be justly used as an unanswerable argument, after the vessel had been burned. The cases of the "290" and Oreto are just as clear. Our Government showed that they were designed to prey upon our commerce; and their depredations since have proved the truth of what was alleged, therefore, the party who permitted them to go to sea is responsible for their acts. They are still British vessels—are manned by British seamen, and the British Government will yet be compelled to pay every dollar of American property which they have destroyed. It is to avoid payment that the Times lies so unblushingly.—Commercial Bulletin.

☞ The Richmond Sentinel editorially refers in ambiguous terms to a riot which took place in Richmond last Thursday, of such magnitude as to cause the affair to be suppressed from publication. From the article it appears that the city was for a while at the control of a lawless mob of men and women for the ostensible purpose of saving themselves from starvation by breaking open stores, bakeries, &c. The movement was headed by a female, who, the Sentinel says, was above want, and the whole affair was simply to rob and plunder under the excuse of a scarcity of food. The millinery, dry goods and fancy stores suffered as much as those containing the necessaries of life. The movement proved to have been in consequence of high prices generally. The Sentinel, in speaking of this riot, alludes to the fact that all the papers had, after consultation, concluded at the time not to mention the matter.

The banks of Savannah have joined in a loan without interest to relieve the sufferings of the poor in that city.

☞ Havana advices of the 4th state that the Vanderbilt was there. The Sonoma sailed on the 3d. The English steamer Dolphin was captured March 25th off Porto Rico by the gunboat Wachusetts, and arrived at Havana, leaking, in charge of a prize crew. She was repaired and sailed for Key West. The Dolphin left St. Thomas on the 24th ult. She is the vessel that was leaving Liverpool as the George Griswold arrived.

☞ The Pope is rapidly failing, and he is said to be fully conscious that he has but a short time to live; but then, this report is made regularly about once a year, and it is not unlikely that the old Pontiff will continue to live on, in spite of those who would like to put him under ground.

☞ The Rev. Converse Francis, D. D., Professor of Pulpit Eloquence and Pastoral Care, in the Divinity School at Cambridge, died at his residence in that city on Tuesday morning, aged 68. Dr. Francis was a native of Medford, and graduated from Harvard College in 1815. He was a brother of Mrs. Lydia Maria Child.

☞ Eight of the general prisoners at Fort Independence, Boston, awaiting trial by Court Martial, escaped about 8 o'clock on Tuesday evening in a small skiff, which, not being large enough to carry half the number, was swamped and all the men were drowned. One of the lost was John Dale, born in Concord.

☞ John W. Howland of Pittsfield, Mass., recently appointed Commissary of Subsistence in the army, has absconded with $16,500 of Government money, and a large amount of securities which were placed in his hands while acting as Division Quartermaster.

EDITORIAL JOTTINGS.

It is not pleasant to be "sold," generally; but then, after all, there is some satisfaction in the thought that it is better to be cheated than to cheat another willfully. Roman Fiance—that is, piano-fortes with Coleman's patent æolian attachment—giving all the beauties and advantages of both a piano and a melodeon, and more too, in one instrument; which in appearance is not in the least altered by the attachment, from a simple piano,—these are very rare and desirable instruments, and are very scarce withal,—the high price preventing large manufacture. There are probably not more than two in Portsmouth, out of the hundreds of pianos found here. Well, seeing Auctioneer McGilvray advertise "1 all round corner, rosewood case, 7-octave piano-forte, æolian attachment," to be sold with the furniture in a dwelling house, Boston, on Thursday, we took the cars up, or they took us up, on that day, to see it—notwithstanding the always suspicious circumstance that no maker's name was given. Now, this same "seller" had previously, for a long time, offered for sale at his Tremont St. rooms, an old fashioned, square-cornered æolian piano, with black walnut case—and on getting a look at the instrument, in the house aforesaid, over the heads of the eager crowd always present on such occasions, we saw that it was that same old settler brought from the auction room! Zounds! how this world is given to lying, exclaimed we, and turned away, "sold again," leaving the old jingling box to some other customer, who hadn't come so far to be disappointed. Ah! McGilvray, even your smooth tongue can't varnish that yarn, so as to make it anything but a downright—mistake.

Boston is full of fun just now. The theatres are all filled with and by great attractions, in these days. At the Museum, Miss Caroline Richings, the best English opera singer in this country, certain, is, with Mr. Richings, and the regular strong team of that popular house, drawing great crowds. Mr. Wyzeman Marshal, the gentlemanly and talented actor and manager, is lessee of both the Boston Theatre and the Howard Athenæum. At the Howard, John E. Owens, the great comedian, has just closed a very successful engagement—and Manager Marshal of course has plenty of other good things in reserve. The Hernandez Ravel troupe, at the Boston, are delighting and astonishing everybody, with their burlesques, and their feats of athletics. Annetta Galeti, the finest dancer in the country, and Marietta Ravel, on the tight rope, with Hernandez himself, and the entire ballet troupe and company, make up a rare entertainment of the sort—which will make you laugh if there's any laugh in you, and unfortunate indeed is the man in whom there is not. Then at Mrs. English's theatre, Tremont St., and at Morris Brothers, as usual, there is fun alive, roaring farces, &c. So goes public Boston, while no little of grief and sadness must be concealed within her borders.

Mr. P. S. Gilmore, who just now is almost the only band leader prominently before the public, and who has just given a series of fourteen "patriotic concerts," to aid Massachusetts soldiers, is to give a gift concert on Saturday evening. He calls it a "grand piano forte concert," as a splendid new piano, donated for the object by Messrs. Hallet & Cumston, the manufacturers, is to be drawn on the occasion. The tickets are $1 each, and the number is not limited, even by the size of Tremont Temple, for Mr. G. announces that tickets will be sent by mail when desired. However, the musical entertainment, with Madame Anna Bishop and Miss Addie Ryan to sing, and Gilmore's full Band to play, will be worth half the money, sure; and to see the drawing, the other half—not to mention that the soldiers in the field get the proceeds. The advertisement announces that "the tenth number drawn will be entitled to the instrument." If our ticket takes it, we will agree to give it for use in the new City Hall at Portsmouth, when it shall be built.

But we dare say that there are some grannies who will condemn this beautiful, commendable, and innocent entertainment, because it is a lottery. As if all the business of life, and life itself, were anything else. And there is absolutely no "speculation"—no gambling, if you prefer the term—so legitimate, so equal for all concerned, as a lottery. Why, at the stockboard, and in most of the trading where great gains and (of course) great losses may be made, as well as in most "games of chance," so called, the uninitiated have no more chance to succeed or win than a bull has to butt a locomotive from the track. But if one hundred or one thousand men put a dollar apiece into a purse or pool, and agree that ten of their number shall draw it all out—why somebody must win considerable, while nobody can lose much. What other speculation, or gambling, is there, in which the participators are sure of getting back, among them, all or most of the money paid out? We are not defending or apologizing for "lotteries," but we only say this is one of the least objectionable forms of the "gambling" which almost everybody is so fond of, under one name or another.

But how Mr. Gilmore gets over or under, or through the laws, is not so clear,—for besides the stringent State and City statutes, the National tax law demands $1000, and a 50-cent stamp on each ticket. But then a question comes up—how can the United States license and so legalize, in a State, that which is forbidden by that State? However, no doubt, the authorities all, will be wise enough to wink at and pass over, a harmless and merely nominal offence, though an actual breach of law, as is so often done—in the case of "fairs" and the like, for instance. Read the following recommendation from the Cashier of the Lake Bank, Wolfboro', N. H.

WOLFBORO, N. H., Lake Winnipiseogee, Nov. 10, 1862.

Agents Lodi Manufacturing Co., Boston.

GENTS:—I have used the Poudrette made by your Co. for two years. The first year I used four barrels, and experimented with it on both corn and potatoes. I was pleased and satisfied with the result, and the past season purchased over 100 barrels for my own use, and my neighbors. I think some twenty-five different farmers tried and used the Poudrette on my recommendation, and all have the Fall expressed themselves entirely satisfied to use each an increased quantity this next spring. Planting season comes late, and we have very early frosts, and the Poudrette ripens our corn from two to three weeks earlier. We have also found it a preventative of the wire worm, which oftentimes destroys our entire crops. Our mode of applying the Poudrette is, to put about a handful in each hill, and place the seed in direct contact. I think I shall want double the quantity next Spring that I had this year.

Yours, Respectfully,

ABEL HALEY,

MONITOR CLOTHES WRINGER!

THE ONLY PERFECTLY SELF ADJUSTING MACHINE IN THE MARKET!

The pressure in this Machine is put on in putting it on the tub, and removed in taking from the tub, all at one operation, an arrangement which no other Wringer has. It has no rubber bands or thumb screws to take off and unscrew, which may be neglected and spoil the rollers.

It is perfectly SELF-ADJUSTING in every respect.

The many advantages of Wringers are too well known to need any farther comments. But we might add that it is almost the only successful labor-saving Machine invented for woman's use. In short, it saves labor, clothes, time and strength, and does the work better. It saves its cost in three months. If only needs a fair trial to convince one that the above is perfectly true.

☞ LADIES ARE INVITED TO ATTEND.

H. F. WENDELL, Auct.

IMPORTANT TO THE AFFLICTED.

DR. DOW continues to be consulted at his office, Nos 7 and 9 ENDICOTT STREET, Boston, on all diseases of a

PRIVATE OR DELICATE NATURE.

By a long course of study and practical experience of unlimited extent, Dr. D. has now the gratification of presenting the only efficacious remedies that have never, since he first introduced them, failed to cure the most alarming cases of

GONORRHŒA AND SYPHILIS.

Beneath his treatment, all the horrors of venereal and impure blood, Impotency, Scrofula, Gonorrhœa, Ulcers, pain and distress in the regions of the kidneys, Inflammation of the bladder and Kidneys, Hydrocele, Abscesses, Humors, frightful Swellings, and the long train of horrible symptoms attending this class of disease, are made to become as harmless as the simplest ailings of a child.

SEMINAL WEAKNESS.

Dr D., devotes a great part of his time to the treatment of those cases caused by a secret and solitary habit, which ruins the body and mind, inflicting the unfortunate individual for business or society. Some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, are Weakness of the Back and limbs, Dizziness of the head, Dimness of sight, Palpitation of the heart, Dyspepsia, Nervousness, Derangement of the digestive functions, symptoms of Consumption, &c. The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded; loss of memory, confusion of ideas, depression of spirits, evil forebodings, aversion of society, self-distrust, timidity, &c., are among the evils produced. Such persons should before contemplating matrimony, consult a physician of experience, and be at once restored to health and happiness.

Patients who wish to remain under Dr. Dow's treatment a few days or weeks, will be furnished with pleasant rooms, and charges for board moderate.

Medicines sent to all parts of the country, with full directions for use, on receiving description of your cases. Dr. Dow has also for sale the French Capsules, warranted the best preventive. Order by mail. Three for $1 and a red stamp.

Highly Important!

To Females in Delicate Health.

DR. DOW, Physician and Surgeon, No 7 & 9 Endicott Street, Boston, is consulted daily for all diseases incident to the female system. Prolapsus Uteri, or falling of the Womb, Fluor Albus, Suppression, and other menstrual derangements, are all treated upon new pathological principles, and speedy relief guaranteed in a few days. So invariably certain is the new method of treatment, that most obstinate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted person soon rejoices in perfect health.

Dr. Dow has no doubt had greater experience in the cure of diseases of women and children, than any other physician in Boston.

Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.

Dr. Dow, since 1845, having confined his whole attention to an office practice, for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

N. B.—All letters must contain four red stamps, or they will not be answered.

Office Hours from 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.

CERTAIN CURE

in all cases, or No Charges Made.

Dr. Dow is consulted daily, from 8 A. M. to 9 P. M. as above, upon all difficult and chronic diseases of every name and nature, having by his unwearied attention and extraordinary success gained a reputation which calls patients from all parts of the country to obtain advice.

Among the thyroid we in Boston, none stands higher in the profession than the celebrated DR. DOW, No. 7 Endicott street, Boston. Those who need the services of an experienced physician and surgeon should give him a call.

P. S.—Dr. Dow imports and has for sale a new article, called the FRENCH SECRET. Order by mail. Two for $1 and a red stamp.

—— Lady Elizabeth Maclane, widow of General Sir Archibald Maclane, K. G B., was married to Edward Henry Neal, Esq., of Dover, on the 12th of March at the fashionable church of St. George's, Hanover Square, London. The N. Y. Home Journal thinks that the knowledge of when this titled lady is to be addressed as "Lady Elizabeth," when as "Your Ladyship," and when as "Miladi," will make "sharp practice" for the etiquetticists.

—— Robert Watson, Esq., of Hopkinton, has bought the Elm street House, Manchester, of Daniel W. Fling, Esq., paying for it a little rising $4000. The Mirror says it is the best bargain in real estate made there for a long time.

UNOPENED BUDS.

A shape of beauty beyond man's device
Which held a precious life, with us begun,
Light fret at rest, like a streamlet chained with ice,
And folded hands whose little work is done,
Make this poor lumber sacred to our grief:
Passed is the soul, which was of nobler worth,
Like fire from flow-worm! from withered leaf,
Perfume from fallen flower, or daylight from the earth.
Star, faded from our sky elsewhere to shine,
Whose beam to bless us for a while was given;
Little white hand a few times clasped in mine,
Sweet face, whose light is now returned to Heaven.
With empty arms I linger where thou lies.
And pluck half opened flowers as types of thee,
And think that angels amid joys the highest,
Are happier for thy love, which still they share with me.

☞ A young man named C. L. Stackpole, of Beverly, Mass., has been arrested and lodged in Salem jail for poisoning his father's familiy. Some arsenic was put into a dish of soup prepared for the family, and a young sister, about three years old, died Tuesday in consequence of eating it, while the rest of the family are yet sick from the effects of the poison. A bottle of arsenic was found on his person after being arrested. It was procured in Salem for the alleged purpose of killing rats. His object in trying to make way with the family was to get possession of his father's property.—His antecedents are bad.

Ayer's SARSAPARILLA,

THE WORLD'S GREAT REMEDY FOR
Scrofula and Scrofulous Diseases.

From Emery Stiles, a well-known merchant of Stafford, Maine.

"I have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, but never yet one bottle which failed of the desired effect and full satisfaction to those who took it. As fast as our people make it, they agree there has not been medicine like it before in our community."

Eruptions, Pimples, Blotches, Pustules, Ulcers, Sores, and all Diseases of the Skin.

From Rev. Robt. Stratton, Bristol, England.

"I only do my duty to you and the public when I add my testimony to that already given in the medical virtues of your SARSAPARILLA. My daughter, aged ten, had an afflicting humor in her ears, eyes, and hair for years, which we were unable to cure until we tried your SARSAPARILLA. She has been well for some months."

From Mrs. Jane E. Allen, a well-known and much-esteemed lady of Dennisville, Cape May Co., N. J.

"My daughter has suffered for a year past with a scrofulous eruption, which was very troublesome, defiling alended any remedy until we tried your SARSAPARILLA, which soon completely cured her."

From Charles P. Gage, Esq., of the widely-known firm of Gage, Marvin & Co., manufacturers of enamelled leathers in Hudson, N. H.

"I had for several years a very troublesome humor in my face, which grew constantly worse until it disfigured my features and became an intolerable affliction. I tried almost every thing a man could of both advice and medicine, but without any relief whatever, until I took your SARSAPARILLA. It immediately made my face worse, as you told me it might for a time; but in a few weeks the new skin began to form underneath, and now I have a smooth and fair face is as smooth as any body's, and I am without any symptoms of the disease that I have spoken of. I enjoy perfect health, and without a doubt owe it to your SARSAPARILLA."

Erysipelas—General Debility—Purify the Blood.

From Dr. Robt. Smith, Houston St., New York.

"DEAR SIR: I sell large quantities of your Sarsaparilla and Scrofulous Cures by the persevering use of your SARSAPARILLA, and I have just now cured an attack of Malignant Erysipelas with it. Your alterative is powerful, and the SARSAPARILLA you have supplied "is the profession as well as to the people."

From J. E. Johnston, Esq., Wakeman, Ohio.

"For twelve years I was troubled with a yellow blotch on my right arm, during which time I tried all the celebrated physicians I could reach, and took hundreds of dollars worth of their medicine. It would come out so bad that the cords became visible, and the doctors decided that my arm must be amputated. I began taking your SARSAPARILLA, and took two bottles, and some of your PILLS. Together they have cured me. I am now as well and sound as any body. Being in a public place, my cure has spoken to every body in this community, and excites the wonder of all."

From Hon. Henry Monro, M. P. P., of Newcastle, C. W., a leading member of the Canadian Parliament.

"I have used your SARSAPARILLA in my family, for a general debility, and for purifying the blood, with very beneficial results, and feel confidence in commending it to the afflicted."

St. Anthony's Fire, Rose, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Sore Eyes.

From Henry Sachler, Esq., the able editor of the Tuskhannock Democrat, Pennsylvania.

"Our only child, about three years of age, was attacked with pimples on the forehead, which rapidly spread until they formed a loathsome and virulent sore, which covered his face, and actually blinded his eyes for nine days. A skilled physician applied his remedy of blister and other remedies, without any apparent effect. For fifteen days we guarded his hands, lest with them he should tear open the festering and corrupt wound which covered his whole face. Having tried every thing else we had any hope from, we began giving your SARSAPARILLA, and applying the soothing SALVE to the sores you direct. The sore began to heal when we had given the first bottle, and was well when we had finished the second. The child is now in health, has been out, grew again, and he is now as healthy and fair as any other. The whole neighborhood predicted that the child must die."

Syphilis and Mercurial Disease

From Dr. Hiram Sheet, of St. Louis, Missouri.

"I find your SARSAPARILLA a more effectual remedy for the secondary symptoms of Syphilis and for public disease than any other we possess. The profession are indebted to you for some of the best medicines we have."

From A. J. Peach, M. D., an eminent physician of Longmeadow, Mass., who is a prominent member of the Legislature of Massachusetts.

"By the use of your SARSAPARILLA I have found your SARSAPARILLA an excellent remedy for Syphilis, both of the primary and secondary type, and effectual in some cases that were long and obstinately held to other remedies. I am glad to know what we can employ with more certainty of success, where a powerful alterative is required."

Mr. Chas. S. Hine, Office of New Brunswick, N. J., had dreadful ulcers on his legs, caused by the abuse of mercury, or mercurial disease, which grew more and more aggravated for years, defying every remedy or treatment that could be applied, until the persevering use of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA relieved him. Few cases can be found more inveterate and distressing than this, and it took several dozen bottles to cure him.

Leucorrhea, Whites, Female Weakness, are generally produced by internal Scrofulous Humors, and yield to the vitalizing and purifying effect of this SARSAPARILLA. Some cases require, however, a aid of the SARSAPARILLA, the skillful application of local remedies.

From the well-known and widely-celebrated Dr. Jacob Morrill, of Cincinnati.

"I have found your SARSAPARILLA an excellent alterative in diseases of the Blood, Many cases of Irregularity, Leucorrhea, Internal Ulceration, and local debility, arising from the scrofulous diathesis, I have found to be cured by it, when I feel that I do not, when its effect is properly aided by local treatment."

A lady, unwilling to allow the publication of her name, writes:

"My daughter and self have been cured of a very debilitating Leucorrhea of long standing, by two bottles of your SARSAPARILLA."

Rheumatism, Gout, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Heart Disease, Neuralgia, which owing to Scrofula in the system, are rapidly cured by this EXT. SARSAPARILLA.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS

possess so many advantages over the other purgatives in the market, and their superior virtues are so universally known, that we need not do more than assure the public their quality is maintained equal to the best it ever has been, and that they may be depended on to do all that they have ever done.

Dr D. devotes a great part of his time to the treatment of those cases caused by a secret and solitary habit, which ruins the body and mind, rendering the unfortunate individual for business or society. The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded; loss of memory, confusion of ideas, depression of spirits, evil forebodings, aversion to society, self-distrust, timidity, &c., are among the evils produced. Such persons should, before contemplating marriage, consult a physician of experience, and be at once restored to health and happiness.

Patients who wish to remain under Dr. Dow's treatment a few days can board with him at his pleasant rooms, and charges for board moderate.

Medicines sent to all parts of the country, with full directions for use, on receiving description of your cases. Dr. Dow has also for sale the French Aperient, the best preventive of pain. Order by mail. Three for $1 and a red stamp.

Of the VERY BEST QUALITY can be had at MOULTON & BLAISDELL'S.

THE MAGEE COOKING STOVE.

The subscribers, having received their Fall stock of Stoves, would especially call the attention of the public to the

CELEBRATED AND UNEQUALLED
MAGEE COOK STOVE,

as the very best Stove yet made, and would invite those about purchasing or exchanging Stoves, to examine this, believing it to be far superior to any other Stove yet invented, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual. The oven plates are covered with plaster, which renders it equal to the old-fashioned brick oven for perfection in baking.

There is a new style and very superior broiler and tea iron heater combined, by which the odor of broiling meats are prevented from escaping into the room. With the extension top there is a large copper Reservoir for hot water; also a large tin warming-closet attached, in which any article can be kept warm, while the other parts of the Stove are occupied for other purposes.

The arrangements for sifting the coal and cleaning the grate are far superior to those of any other Stove now in use, as no dust can possibly escape into the room, and the shoveling up of the ashes is entirely dispensed with. The fire is regulated in the same manner as in the MAGEE PARLOR STOVE, and can be continued day and night for weeks together, thus saving the expense of re-kindling every day.

For economy, durability, ease of management, cleanliness and perfection in cooking, it cannot be surpassed. Over a hundred of these Stoves in families in this city and vicinity, who are now using them, are willing to testify, and speak of them in the highest terms of praise.

We would refer to the following purchasers:

VENTILATING & AIR-WARMING FURNACES.

The subscribers, being the Sole Agents in this vicinity for the manufacture and sale of this valuable furnace, would ask those about remodeling or erecting buildings to examine this truly valuable invention.

For economy, purity of air and ease of management it has no equal, producing a current of warm air, moist and agreeable—and as none of the air which comes in contact with the fire-pots is used for respiration, the tendency to produce headache so much complained of in other Furnaces, is entirely obviated.

The objects aimed at by the constructors of heating apparatus have been to obtain the greatest amount of heat from a given amount of fuel, and to prevent the escape of heat to the smoke pipe or chimney.

To accomplish this many complicated and expensive heating arrangements have been constructed, some possessing but little improvement over former methods, while many have proved a total failure. The reason for this is obvious. The combustible gases being lighter than the air, pass off into the pipe or chimney without being consumed. This objection, so common in other Furnaces, is obviated in the

MAGEE FURNACE.

The flue or pipe in this Furnace being below the fire-pot, the gases, from their specific gravity, cannot descend, and are burned up by the admission of cold air through the fire-pot, which ignites them as they pass off from the coal, thus saving at least 50 per cent. of the properties of the heat in the fuel.

No heating apparatus will the smoke-pipe or flue on the top of the cone can be made to consume the gases of coal, as they pass off with a large amount of the heat generated, making the chimney the hottest part of your dwelling.

This Furnace does away with the great number of pipes and enormous pipes for conveying of heat, which are so liable to fill up and get out of order, thus simplifying, while it increases the surface of radiation.

These Furnaces consume all the coal, make no clinkers, the sifting of coal is entirely dispensed with, and they will save from 30 to 50 per cent. of fuel over common Furnaces.

For ease of management, economy and purity of air, these Furnaces have no equal. They can be regulated so as to give any amount of heat required, and the fire may be kept the entire season without once going out.

They give entire satisfaction wherever used. We have in store the different sizes, Brick and Portable, to which we invite the attention of those in want of the best furnace in the world, and would refer them to the following named gentlemen, who have them now in use:

Samuel Cleaves, Esq.	Albert R. Hatch, Esq.,
Aaron H. Hill,	Charles H. Moulton,
Henry F. Wendell,	John Sise, and others.

Teeth on Vulcanized Rubber,

SOME OF ITS ADVANTAGES.

1st. It is stronger and lighter than any known material.

2d. From two to six times the amount of suction or adhesion can be obtained by it.

3d. Where the ridge is irregular so can by building out the depressions—which can be done to any extent—give the mouth a more natural appearance.

4th. No bad taste arises in the mouth by its use, as the secretions of the stomach and mouth do not affect it in the least.

5th. Teeth mounted upon this base can be kept clean and sweet as easy as a saucer, as when finished. We do not require a single piece.

6th. While in all ways it is better, save in a few peculiar cases, it is much cheaper than Gold.

DR. A. P. STEVENS, Surgeon Dentist,
No. 5 Daniel St., Portsmouth.

Has had four years of practical experience in making this material, and will guarantee satisfaction in all cases entrusted to his care.

DENTISTRY.

No. 60 CONGRESS STREET,
Portsmouth, Jan. 1st, 1863.

DR. GOODALL

Would respectfully inform his patrons and the public, having had of late many calls to insert teeth upon VULCANIZED RUBBER, that he has purchased the best VULCANIZER in the market, and is now prepared to do all work upon RUBBER, or the bases of GOLD and SILVER as formerly, if preferred.

The Rubber has several important advantages, viz.: It is very light and elastic, and consequently is perfectly easy to the roof of the mouth and cheeks. There are no insertions or open joints to collect food, &c.; consequently they can be worn night and day, and are very easily kept sweet and clean.

Beside all this, the most accurate fit is obtained, as the Rubber is Vulcanized directly upon the plaster model, and the section is of course much stronger than in plates of Gold or Silver.

Any one who is waiting for their permanent teeth will find an comfort, be perfectly satisfied with the Rubber, as a base. The expense is but a little more than for Silver, and you get the same set for the Rubber, for which you would pay $60.00 for an upper or lower set on Gold.

In New York and Boston, and throughout the West, Vulcanized Rubber is used almost to the exclusion of the other bases, and by the best Dentists too. I will warrant a perfect fit and teeth to suit the best manufacturer in the country.

S. G. WHITE.

ALL OTHER OPERATIONS IN DENTISTRY I will do at the usual rates. I will here mention that my price for EXTRACTING is 25 cents.

I take pleasure in referring the public to Dr. TREADWELL, Dr. HOARDMAN, Dr OLIVER and Dr. BURNETT, for particular success in extracting teeth. Teeth extracted without pain and with perfect safety, with Ether. Teeth polished to their natural whiteness without pain or injury to the Enamel. Regulation of Adults' and Children's Teeth will receive particular attention.—All whole and partial Sets of Teeth repaired with Neatness and Dispatch. All other operations in Dentistry, I will do at the usual rates.

American and Foreign Patents.

R. H. EDDY,

SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

Agent of U. S. Patent Office, Washington, (under the Act of 1837,)

State Street, opposite Kilby Street, BOSTON,

Offer an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States, also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on liberal terms, and with dispatch. Researches made into American or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of claims of Inventions—and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.

The Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages in securing Patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered in elsewhere. The Testimonials below given show that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber. ITS SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and prove, that at no other office of the kind are charges for professional service so moderate. The immense practice of the subscriber during thirty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents.

These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render it able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining Patents.

Instead of a journey to Washington, to secure a patent, and the usual great delay there, I here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable practitioners in patent business with whom I have had official intercourse."

CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents.

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their applications in form to secure for them as early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.

Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications, on all but one of which patents have been granted, and that is now pending. Such unmistakeable proof of great talent and ability in this part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their patents, as they may be sured having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges."

JOHN TAGGART.

During eight months, the subscriber, in course of his large practice, made on their rejected applications SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided in his favor, by the Commissioner of Patents.

SATURDAY, APRIL 11, 1863.

THE REBELLION.

Rebel papers contain the following: On the 7th the Federal iron-clads and transports crossed the Charleston bar, after failing in one attempt. Gen. Morgan was attacked at Liberty, Tenn., on Friday, and driven back to Snow Hill. The rebels at Woodbury, Tenn., were repulsed with some loss on Saturday and fell back to within 12 miles of McMinnville, Tenn.—15,000 Union troops are advancing on Columbia, Tenn., and a battle is imminent.

The rebels are actively engaged on their earthworks around Fredericksburg. This bustling activity looks like so many former weak inventions, that the belief that an evacuation is intended is entertained by many officers. The Baloon and Signal Corps, however, report no withdrawal up to this time.

A late report from Knoxville states that East Tennessee has been entirely drained of rebel soldiers to reinforce Bragg.

Farragut still holds the river between Vicksburg and Port Hudson. Porter and Grant are reconnoitering up the Yazoo, with a considerable force. The Queen of the West is up Red river. A new canal, eight miles long has been commenced 3 miles above Young's Point.

A Vicksburg dispatch, 7th, reports that our troops were withdrawn from the Peninsula, and that four large transports, with troops, had gone up the river. But a dispatch from Jackson, Miss., same day, also from the rebels, declares that Vicksburg will be attacked this week. Troops from the Hartford had landed at Bayou Sara and destroyed the rebel government stores. Farragut's fleet had opened fire, lying out of reach of the rebel batteries.

A Baton Rouge letter of March 30 says Gen. Banks was there and the troops had been ordered to be ready to march at an hour's notice, with 3 days' rations,—this to be the grand movement upon Port Hudson. Richmond papers, however, say he has gone to reinforce Gen. Weitzel with 10,000 men and to attack the Bayou Leche country.

In a letter received at Newbern on the 4th, from Gen. Foster, he says he can hold out for ten days against 20,000 men.

A letter received in Boston dated Newbern 6th inst., 9 P. M., states that news had just been received that Gen. Foster had been reinforced and had driven back the rebels. This statement is somewhat doubtful.

New York papers have a batch of rumors regarding Charleston,—among them, that the bombardment of Fort Sumter by our iron clads commenced on Monday; that a decided advantage had been gained by our forces, and that a fort had been taken, what fort is not stated; and that Admiral Dupont had secure as charts of the water approaches of the city, on which the localities of the torpedoes are laid down, and the channels by which they may be avoided carefully traced.

The Richmond papers of Thursday at last give some reports from Charleston.—The attack commenced on the 7th, four iron-clads being engaged in the morning.—The Ironsides was ashore, but subsequently got off. In the afternoon 9 Monitors and the Ironsides were engaged. An incessant fire was concentrated on Fort Sumter from 2.15 until 5; at 4 o'clock the Ironsides and the Keokuk were withdrawn, and it was reported that the latter was sunk, off Morris' Island. The firing from the fleet and from Forts Sumter, Moultrie and Morris' Island' was very heavy. The ironclads and the Ironsides were inside of the bar on the 8th, but the conflict was not renewed. The rebels report their loss as one boy killed and 5 men badly wounded in Fort Sumter. The loss in the other batteries was unknown. There was intense excitement in Charleston. On the 7th the rebel iron clads went down to take part in the fight; the result of their movement is not stated, nor is any mention made of the effect of our fire on the forts.

☞ The General Term of the Supreme Court for the Northern Dist. of New York has just decided that the United States Legal Tender notes are Constitutional as to debts contracted before the passage of the law making such notes a legal tender. All the four judges concurred.

Gold, when bearing a fictitious value, is neither "currency," nor the standard of value. The soundness of the legal tender "greenbacks," and government bonds, is based upon the perpetuity of the government, intact. Whoever sustains the one sustains the other, and whoever decries and depreciates the one is the enemy of the other.

☞ A petition drawn up by an influential citizen, is in circulation in Salem, requesting the City Council to take immediate steps for defending Salem and Beverly from attack by water. The signers ask for a Monitor for the inner waters and rifled cannon for Fort Lee.

NEW HAMPSHIRE ITEMS.

——The Annual Examination of the State Reform School, in Manchester, took place on Wednesday, and was largely attended. The number of boys now in the school is 91; girls, 15. The progress of the pupils has been quite remarkable. One class of boys read easily and readily, who four months ago could not read a word.—Short addresses to the pupils were made by the President of the Board of Trustees, Hon. Horton D. Walker, Mayor Dearborn, and Hon. Marcellus Bafford, of this city, and others.

——A young married man, of considerable property, and librarian in one of the Sabbath Schools at Nashua, has been detected in stealing cloth extensively from the room in which he worked in one of the mills.

——Mr. Wilder, of Rindge, father of Hon. Marshall P. Wilder, of Boston, died Tuesday morning, April 7th, at the advanced age of 85 years. He was a man much respected and had held many offices of honor and trust.

——The Aid Society in Lebanon and vicinity, sent, mostly to the Sanitary Commission, from May 1st, 1861, to April 1st, 1863, articles to the amount of $1598.54; and the Aid Society at West Lebanon, have furnished articles to the amount of $674.63, in all $2273.17.

——A letter from St. Augustine, Fla., states that five companies of the 7th N. H. regiment, under command of Col. Putnam, left St. Augustine on the 30th ult., on the U. S. Steamer Cossack. Their destination was unknown, but it was supposed they were bound for the vicinity of Charleston. The companies remaining were under the command of Lt. Col. Abbott.

——Arrangements are being made for the Fair in Manchester in aid of the Sanitary Commission, on a liberal scale. It is intended to continue it for three days.—We notice in the American the announcements of the "fair committees on refreshments,"—composed of ladies, of course.

——The Congregational Society, at Milford, through the generosity of several benevolent ladies, are about executing a fine chapel, on the square occupied by their church.

——The Quarterly meeting of the Rockingham County (N. H.) Free Will Baptist denomination will meet in Amesbury, Mass., on the third Wednesday of May next.

——There are 928 volunteers from Nashua, and all but 8 are enlisted for 3 years.

☞ The "Confederate loan" seems to be enjoying a great popularity in the London Stock Market. Some people regard this as a sure indication of popular favor being accorded to the rebel cause. It seems to be however little more than a British cotton speculation. The bonds are payable in cotton and the owners are to run the risk of getting it out of the blockaded ports of the South. If our navy does its duty, and in case of their failure, if a few Yankee privateers think it worth their while to make a good thing by capturing a quantity of cotton, the benefit of the loan will inure almost wholly to our own enemy. There may yet be good reason for issuing letters of marque.

The Times' city article says there is very little political feeling manifested with regard to the loan, and it seems evident, so far as London is concerned, that it is in viewing it as a cotton speculation that any attraction it possesses is to be found. In other respects there can be no doubt that a majority of the merchants and capitalists would have wished it had not been introduced, as the affair will not be introduced on 'Change.

HAT FACTORIES.—The Hat Factory in Newburyport will be in operation in a few weeks. The building is some 40 feet wide by 110 long, giving ample room for the employment of 150 hands, but it will not commence with more than a third of that number.

The building for the Amesbury Hat Company will be raised next week. It will be located at Amesbury Ferry, in the shipyard formerly occupied by Mr. Simon McKay. The building will be 100 feet long by 40 wide, three stories high, and when in full operation will require 150 hands. Should the hatting business continue good for a couple of years, these establishments, with the one at Salisbury, will turn out an immense number of hats.

☞ The "Union Club," lately formed in Boston, of which Hon. Edward Everett is President, inaugurated its first public act by a meeting on Thursday evening at Tremont Temple. The occasion was signalized by an address by Mr. Everett. The hall was filled in every part. The orator was frequently greeted with enthusiastic applause. Mr. Everett spoke an hour and a half, and was listened to with attention to the end. There were no other speakers on the occasion.

☞ One's on the Harvard Bank of Cambridge, altered or "raised" to Five's, are now in circulation in Boston. The alteration is very finely done and cannot be detected except by a close scrutiny.

NOTES OF FORMER DAYS.

Collected and Collated — By UNCLE TOBY.

To-day we give two letters,—one from Gov. Gilman in '82, hoping for an Honorable Peace, but despising a mean one; the other letter from Mr. Blanchard in 1784, showing that there was a treacherous and jealous aristocracy, even then, that dreaded a free people. Messrs. Gilman and Blanchard were members of Congress: both wrote to Gov. Bartlett.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 11, 1782.

Dear Sir,—Your obliging letter of the 17th ulto. I received the 3d Inst. I observe your sentiments respecting peace, and those of our Friend. I have been so much of an unbeliever in this matter, that I can scarcely expect my sentiments to have Weight, yet, I am sure your acquaintance with me is such, that you will not think I have any aversion to an Honorable peace, but, on the contrary, that I should rejoice most sincerely at such an Event, and my greatest anxiety is that the prospect appears to me so distant.

You will see by the News Papers, accounts of the late Change in the British Ministry; what will be the Consequence time must Determine. I am still of opinion that the Enemy have hopes of making a separate Peace with us, but if this is the case, they must be Disappointed. Our Independence, and the Alliance with France, must go Hand in Hand. I believe it may be depended on, that about 1500 Troops have lately sailed from New York, said to be for Halifax; what their next destination may be, I cannot say, perhaps a Plundering Expedition.

A Resolution has lately passed, respecting Interest on Loan Office Certificates, which supposes you will see, by the time this reaches you. Gen'l Washington has removed Head Quarters to Verplank's Point. The French Army from the Southward marched through this City a few days since—are now in the Jerseys. Twelve States are now represented in Congress.

It was expected that Rhode Island would have passed the Impost act, but their Assembly broke up a few Days since, without doing it. Nothing done, or likely to be done respecting Vermont affairs, or the Western Lands.

It is so long since we had any accounts from our Ministers in Europe, that whether they are Dead or living I cannot say. I have wrote in several of my Letters respecting money; I hope it will not be many Days before I receive some. I shall be glad to hear from you frequently. Please to make my Compliments to my Friends with you, and believe to be with much Esteem,

Your most Hom. Servt.,

Honble. JOHN TAYLOR GILMAN.

Josiah Bartlett, Esquire.

☞ In March, 1782, Lord North went out of office, and was succeeded by the Marquis of Rockingham, who died during the month of July, following, the Earl of Shelburne took his place, as Prime Minister. Under his auspices the Provisional Treaty of Peace was signed, Nov. 30th, 1782.

ANNAPOLIS, June 6th, 1784.

Sir,—Since my last I have not been favrd. with a line from you.

Congress are now adjourned, to meet at Trenton, on the 30th of Octr. next. The Committee of the States to remain here, if they do not desert, but some are taking French leave. I shall tarry so long as any prospect remains of doing business, and when that is over I shall return to New Hampshire.

The Public affairs are in better situation, I apprehend, than at any earlier period since the War. Many important matters have been agreed on, within two or three months past.

Mr. Morris's bills on the agents in Holland are paid. The troops at West Point to be discharged, and militia call'd from Connecticut, N. York, N. Jersey & Pennsylvania, to garrison the Frontier post. The Missa. has put in a claim to lands claimed by N. York, and praying for a Federal Court to decide. Notice is ordered to N. York; So much for Massa. Politics.

No determination respecting Vermont. Some of the Southern Delegates declare openly, that they will not consent to her being admitted into the Union, for it will give a ballance to the Eastern Scale, which Eastern Scale has been pretty formidable for two months past, and been generally able to carry a Good, and to defeat a bad Question.

Mr. Foster set out yesterday; I expect that he will very soon call and see you.

The Department of Finance is put into Comm.; I send you a copy of the ordinance for perusal. I hope it will meet the approbation of the Legislature. Money matters must be attended to, and great power being lodged in the hands of one man, may prove a Dangerous Engine.

I am, Sir,

Your most h'ble. Servt.,

JONA. BLANCHARD.

THE THEATRE:—A discourse preached at the Bromfield Street M. E. Church, Boston, March 15, 1863, by Rev. F. H. Newhall, Pastor. Boston: J. P. Magee. We are indebted to A. Williams & Co. for a copy.

"Mr. Newhall condemns with no little vehemence that which he appears not to understand—it is a minister of the gospel scolding; a teacher of justice precipitate in his prejudice; a moralist talking as in temper; a man pronouncing judgment with little investigation, and much sweeping vehemence that hath the suggestion of "sound of fury signifying nothing," in it. If the gentleman had reasoned more and denounced less, we should have had more sympathy with his production. This is an age of facts rather than sentiments—if he believes the theatres absolutely, totally, entirely wrong, let him show us the how and wherefore, and we will listen respectfully. It is not wholly good; this we know, neither is it wholly bad: it is much like many other human institutions, good with an admixture of evil. That it needs reforming none will deny; that it can be abolished is folly to suggest; so we must look to men of sense, to public sentiment, to purge it."—Boston Post.

THERE BE THOSE.

There be those who sow beside
The waters that in silence glide,
Trusting no echoes will declare
Whose footsteps ever wandered there.

The noiseless footsteps pass away
The stream flows on as yesterday;
Nor can it for a time be seen
A benefactor there had been.

Yet think not that the seed is dead;
Which in the lonely place is spread;
It lives, it lives—the Spring is nigh,
And soon its life shall testify.

That silent stream, that desert ground,
No more unlonely shall be found;
But scattered flowers of simplest grace
Shall spread their beauty round the place.

And soon or late a time will come
When witnesses that now are dumb,
With grateful eloquence shall tell
From whom the seed, there scattered, fell.

—Bernard Barton.

TRUST.

To Him who hears, I whisper all;
And softlier than the dews of heaven
The tears pf Christ's compassion fall:
I know I am forgiven!

Wrapt in the peace that follows prayer,
I fold my hands in perfect trust,
Forgetful of the cross I bear
Through noonday heat and dust.

No more Life's mysteries vex my thought;
No cruel doubts disturb my breast;
My heavy-laden spirit sought
And found the promised rest.

MONITOR CLOTHES WRINGER!

THE ONLY PERFECTLY SELF ADJUSTING MACHINE IN THE MARKET!

The pressure in this Machine is put on in putting it on the tub and removed in taking from the tub, all at one operation, an arrangement which no other Wringer has. It has no rubber bands or thumb screws to take off and unscrew, which may be neglected and spoil the rollers.

It is perfectly SELF-ADJUSTING in every respect.

The many advantages of Wringers are too well known to need any farther comments. But we might add that it is almost the only successful labor-saving Machine invented. It has no rubbish, In short, it saves labor, clothes, time and strength, and does the work better. It saves its cost in three months. It only needs a fair trial to convince one that the above is perfectly true.

It is a narrative of the early life, education, and training of ABRAHAM LINCOLN, and is entitled

The well-known ability of the author in this difficult department of literature gives assurance that the forthcoming work will be of real interest and value.

LODI MANUFACTURING CO.'S POUDRETTE.

J. F. SHORES, Jr., No. 1 Congress Block, is now on hand a large supply of this valuable manure. The price this year will be $1.70 per Barrel, without regard to quantity, delivered at any wharf or depot in this city. A discount from this price to those who buy to sell again.

Read the following recommendation from the Cashier of the Lake Bank, Wolfboro', N. H.

WOLFBORO, N. H., Lake Winnipesaukee, Nov. 10, 1862.

Agents Lodi Manufacturing Co., Boston:

GENTS.—I have used the Poudrette made by your Co. for two years. The first year I used four barrels, and experimented with it on both corn and potatoes. I was pleased and satisfied with the result, and the last year purchased over 100 barrels for my own use, and any neighbors. I think some twenty-five different farmers used the Poudrette on my recommendation, and all have this Fall expressed themselves entirely satisfied to use such an increased quantity the next Spring. Planting season comes late, and we have very early frosts, and the Poudrette ripens our corn from two to three weeks earlier. We have also found it a preventative of the cut worm, which oftentimes destroys our entire crop. Our mode of applying the Poudrette is, to put about a handful in each hill, and place the seed in direct contact. I think I shall want double the quantity next Spring that I had this year.

Yours, Respectfully,

ABEL HALEY,

Cashier Lake Bank, Wolfboro, N. H.

Local.

☞ There was a brilliant display of the Aurora Borealis on Thursday evening. In the height of its splendor, about 9 o'clock, while the Northern Lights were leaping up and illuminating the heavens with their brilliant flashes, a broad and expansive belt of light extended from the Eastern to the Western horizon, lasting some minutes, afterwards lessening in extent until the flashes of light were scattered in every direction. The early hour at which this splendid display occurred was peculiarly fortunate, as a large number of persons were privileged to behold it. The auroral arch was witnessed over a wide extent of country, and is mentioned as having been seen in Troy, Springfield, Boston, Portland and many other places. A correspondent of the Newburyport Herald thus describes it as seen in that city:—

The auroral arch was equalled only, during our remembrance, by that of August, 1827. Starting from a point just above the horizon not far from due east, it enveloped the star in the right knee of Bootes, and passed amid the stars in the Sickle, or the head and neck of Leo, thence enveloping Castor and Pollux, covering the space between the feet of the Twins, swerving thence a little to the northwest between the heads of Orion and Taurus, until it faded from view. The arch was about 8° in width, remarkably well defined, though not so sharply so as that in 1827. It gradually moved to the South at the rate of about 8° or 10° in 20 minutes, when it broke up into wisps of light strikingly resembling those seen in the tail of Donati's comet,—so beautifully and truly represented in Prof. Bond's drawing of that body.

☞ In Board of Aldermen, on Thursday evening, the petition of John Laighton and 84 others, that the passage way west of the brick school house on State street might be re-opened for the use of the public, was referred to a committee.

The petition of William W. Shaw and 19 others, Portsmouth members of Co. K, 2d N. H. regiment, asking for a bounty of $100 each, was also referred.

☞ Among the very many highly complimentary notices received by Prof. Briggs, who will read at the Temple on Wednesday evening next in behalf of the Sanitary Commission, is the following from the Boston Transcript, which is excellent authority in such matters:

Prof. N. L. Briggs delighted the select audience assembled last evening at Chickering's Hall with his admirable readings of Longfellow, Dickens and Lover. He gives evidence of possessing a nice taste, cultivated to a high degree; and his delineations of humorous characters are eminently successful. He seldom offends the severest criticisms by his renderings, and often displays great histrionic power. We commend his entertainments to the general patronage of the public.

☞ We are pleased to learn that Sergt. Enoch G. Adams, of the 2d N. H. Regt., will probably deliver a brief course of lectures in this city at an early day, in relation to the war and the South. A small admission fee will be charged. The course will be delivered in compliance with the expressed wishes of many of our citizens, and will, probably, be repeated in other places.

☞ The Journal understands that Judge Doe has tendered his resignation—to take effect as soon as his successor can be appointed.

Communication.

Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it. Useful amusement is quite as interesting to children as is play of any kind; but when left to seek their own amusement, they often fall into bad habits for want of the right kind of instruction by their parents or other persons capable of giving it.

Beginning at this time, being one of the best seasons for setting out fruit trees, I would recommend to the boys of each school to form themselves into companies and make their arrangements for furnishing the City of Portsmouth with fruit by procuring and setting out fruit trees of all kinds, selecting the most favorable part of each street to begin with. Hundreds of various fruit trees would be given to these companies.

This plan for amusement may be opposed on various grounds: some might say that the city would not admit of it. To this we apply the law admits of it. Others might object that bad boys would destroy them; but let every boy become interested in the scheme, and then should one be found so bad as to mar one of those trees, let all the rest place a black mark on him.

Others might argue that the boys lack judgment as to the manner of planting trees, &c.—but there is no man, I trust, in the city, who has the knowledge of transplanting trees, who would not instruct and assist the boys; and so lay a foundation to keep the boys honest by employing them, and by making good fruit trees so abundant here, as to remove the great temptation to pilfering. REFORM.

☞ The Evening Post says an attempt was made on Saturday night last to fire the Washington Navy Yard and blow up the magazine. The incendiary was arrested.

☞ Philip Huber and three others, who it is charged are Knights of the Golden Circle, have been arrested at Reading, Pa.—Considerable excitement prevails in Reading in regard to the affair. A mob threatened to attack the jail and release the prisoners, not knowing that they had been sent off to Philadelphia.

☞ Rev. R. A. Ballou, for the last five years pastor of the First Universalist Church in Augusta, Me., has notified the Society of his design to resign his charge. He intends to devote himself hereafter exclusively to his duties as editor of the Gospel Banner.

☞ A tremendous explosion is said to have taken place in the harbor of Charleston a few days since, causing a jarring sensation to the whole blockading squadron, six miles distant. It is supposed to have been a premature explosion of some torpedo.

☞ Archbishop Hughes, in a letter to the New York Herald, expresses the opinion that "if a law of conscription had been adopted twenty months ago in the North, as it has been in the South, the results would be of more humane consequences to both sections than they are to day."

☞ A tipsy fish peddler recently had a horse drowned in a mud puddle on the road from Bellows Falls, Vt., to Rockingham. He was so badly "discouraged" that he drove the horse off into a ditch, where it fell down with its head in water just deep enough to cover it, and lay until drowned.

☞ Twenty of the one hundred and twenty houses usually rented for the summer season at Newport have been sold, eighty rented, and the balance will probably be let by the first of May. The season thus promises well.

☞ The Ocean Steam Mills Company, Newburyport, has declared a semi-annual dividend of 5 per cent., payable on Monday.

☞ See yon fair maiden in another column, picking Sambuci Grapes for Speer's Wine. It is an admirable article, used in hospitals, and by the first class families in Paris, London and New York, in preference to old Port wine. It is worth a trial, as it gives great satisfaction. 1y.

THE MODEL COOK

FOR WOOD OR COAL.

The novel—the peculiar feature of the MODEL COOK, that which distinguishes it from all others, is the addition of a Ventilated Roasting Oven within the body of the stove and in front of the fire; so arranged that it can be used separately for a roaster or (by the removal of a single plate) in connection with the larger oven, for baking; giving an oven nearly 3 feet long! or large enough to take six large plates on the bottom, every part of which will bake evenly at the same time! A check draft is applied to this stove by means of which the consumption of fuel is greatly lessened, and a steady fire can be kept day and night if desired.

Ayer's SARSAPARILLA,

THE WORLD'S GREAT REMEDY FOR
Scrofula and Scrofulous Diseases.

From Henry Eliot, a well-known merchant of Cofeed, Mass.

"I have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, but never yet one bottle which failed of the desired effect and full satisfaction to those who took it. As fast as our people try it, they agree there has been no medicine like it before in our community."

Eruptions, Pimples, Blotches, Pustules, Ulcers, Sores, and all Diseases of the Skin.

From Rev. Robert Wright, Bristol, England.

"I only do my duty to you and the public, when I add my testimony to that you publish of the medical efficacy of your SARSAPARILLA. My child, aged ten, had an afflicting humor in her ears, eyes, and hair for years, which we were unable to cure until we tried your SARSAPARILLA. She has been well for some months."

From Mrs. Jane E. Rice, a well-known and much-esteemed lady of Pensalsville, Cape May Co., N. J.

"My daughter has suffered for a year past with a scrofulous eruption, which was very troublesome. Nothing afforded any relief until we tried your SARSAPARILLA, which soon completely cured her."

From Charles P. Gage, Esq., of the widely-known firm of Gage, Murray & Co., manufacturers of enamelled papers in Hadham, N. H.

"I had been troubled for years a very troublesome tumor in my face, which grew constantly worse until it disfigured my features and became an intolerable affliction. I had almost given up all hope of such advice and medicine, but without any relief whatever, until I took your SARSAPARILLA. I immediately began to improve, and my cold was gone in a night for a time; but in a few weeks the new skin began to form under the blotches, and continued until my face is as free from it as any body's, and I am without any symptoms of the disease that I know of. I enjoy perfect health, and without a doubt owe it to your SARSAPARILLA."

Erysipelas—General Debility—Purify the Blood.

From Dr. Robt. Smith, Houston St., New York.

"DR. AYER: I seldom fail to remove Erysipelas and Scrofulous Sores by the persevering use of your SARSAPARILLA. I have found it never failed to cure Malignant Erysipelas with it. No alterative we possess equals the SARSAPARILLA you have supplied us." [illegible]

From J. R. Johnston, Esq., Wakeman, Ohio.

"For twelve years, I had the yellow Erysipelas in my right arm, during which time I tried all the celebrated physicians of the day, and took hundreds of dollars worth of medicines. The ulcers were so bad that the cords became visible, and the doctors decided that my arm must be amputated. I began taking your SARSAPARILLA. Took two bottles, and some of your PILLS. Together they have cured me, and my health is as good as ever, and by acting in a public place, my case is known to every body in this community, and excites the wonder of all."

From Hon. Henry Moore, M. P. P., of Newcastle, C. W., a leading member of the Canadian Parliament.

"I have used your SARSAPARILLA in my family, for general debility, and for purifying the blood, with very good effect. It purifies and feel confidence in recommending it to the afflicted."

St. Anthony's Fire, Rose, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Sore Eyes.

From Harvey Sickler, Esq., the able editor of the Tuckahoe Democrat, Pennsylvania.

"Our youngest child, about three years of age, was attacked by pimples on his forehead. They rapidly spread until they formed a loathsome and virulent sore, which for three weeks or more totally blinded its eyes for some days. A skilful physician applied nitrate of silver and other remedies, without any apparent effect. For fifteen days we guarded his hands, lest with them he should tear open the festering and corrupt wound which covered his whole face. Having tried every thing else we had any hope from, we began giving your SARSAPARILLA, and applying the iodide of potash lotion, as you direct. The sore began to heal when he had taken the first bottle, and was well when we had finished the second. The child's eyelashes, which had come out, grew again, and he is now as healthy and fair as any one in our whole neighborhood. We believe that the child must die."

Syphilis and Mercurial Disease

From Dr. Hiram Stout, of St. Louis, Missouri.

"I feel your SARSAPARILLA is a more effectual remedy for the secondary symptoms of Syphilis and for syphilitic disease than any other we possess. The profession are indebted to you for some of the most valuable remedies we have."

From A. J. French, M. D., an eminent physician of Lawrence, Mass., who is a prominent member of the Legislature of Massachusetts.

"DR. AYER: My dear Sir: I have found your SARSAPARILLA an excellent remedy for Syphilis, both in the primary and secondary stage, and in most cases that were too obstinate to yield to other remedies. I do not know what we can employ with more certainty of success, where a powerful alterative is indicated."

Mr. Chas. S. Van Liew, of New Brunswick, N. J., had dreadful sores on his legs, caused by the abuse of mercury, or some other cause, which grew more and more aggravated for years, in spite of every remedy or treatment that could be applied, until the growing use of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA relieved him. Few cases can be found more inveterate and distressing than this, and it took several dozen bottles to cure him.

Leucorrhœa, Whites, Female Weakness, are generally caused by a scrofulous taint in the system, and are very often cured by the alterative effect of this SARSAPARILLA. Some cases require, however, the aid of the SARSAPARILLA, the skilful application of local remedies.

From the well-known and widely-celebrated Dr. Jacob Morrill, of Cincinnati.

"I have found your SARSAPARILLA an excellent alterative in diseases of females. Many cases of irregularity, Leucorrhœa, Internal Ulceration, and local debility, which have long resisted other treatment, have yielded to it. And there are few that do not, when its effect is properly aided by local treatment."

A lady, travelling to allow the publication of her name.

"My daughter and myself have been cured of a very debilitating Leucorrhœa of long standing, by two bottles of your SARSAPARILLA."

Rheumatism, Gout, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Heart Disease, Neuralgia,

when caused by Scrofula in the system, are rapidly cured by this EXT. SARSAPARILLA.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS

possess so many advantages over the other purgatives in market, and their superior virtues are so universally known, that we need not do more than to assure the public their quality is maintained equal to the best it ever has been, and that they may be depended on to do all that they have ever done.

IMPORTANT TO THE AFFLICTED.

DR. DOW continues to be consulted at his office, Nos 7 and 9 ENDICOTT STREET, Boston, on all diseases of a

PRIVATE OR DELICATE NATURE.

By a long course of study and practical experience of unmitted extent, Dr. D. has now the gratification of presenting the unfortunate with remedies that have never, since he first introduced them, failed to cure the most alarming cases of CONSIDERABLE AND SEVERE SKILL.

Beneath his treatment, all the horrors of venereal and impure blood, Impotency, Scrotula, Gonorrhœa, Gleet, pain and distress in the region of procreation, Inflammation of the Bladder and Kidneys, Hydrocele, Abscesses, Humors (frightful Swellings, and the long train of horrible symptoms resulting from the secret habits, which so become as harmless as the simplest ailings of a child.

SEMINAL WEAKNESS.

Dr D., devotes a great part of his time to the treatment of those cases caused by a secret and solitary habit, which ruins the body and mind, unfitting the unfortunate individual for business or society. Some of the sad and melancholy consequences of early habits of youth, are Weakness of the Back and limbs, Dizziness of the head, Dullness of sight, Palpitation of the heart, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the digestive functions, Symptoms of Consumption, &c. The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded; loss of memory, confusion of ideas, depression of spirits, evil forebodings, aversion of society, self-distrust, timidity, &c., are among the evils produced. Such persons should before contemplating matrimony, consult a physician of experience, and be at once restored to health and happiness.

Patients who wish to remain under Dr Dow's treatment a few days or weeks, will be furnished with pleasant rooms, and charges for board moderate.

Medicines sent to all parts of the country, with full directions for use, on receiving description of your complaint. Dr Dow has also for sale the French Capotes, warranted the best preventive. Order by mail. Three for $1 and a red stamp.

Highly Important!

To Females in Delicate Health.

DR. DOW, Physician and Surgeon, No 7 & 9 ENDICOTT STREET, Boston, is consulted daily for all diseases incident to the female system. Prolapsus Uteri, or falling of the Womb, Fluor Albus, Suppression, and other menstrual derangements, are all treated upon new pathological principles, and speedily relieved in a few days. No invalid can feel certain in the new mode of treatment, that most obstinate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted person soon rejoices in perfect health.

Boarding accommodations are for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.

Dr. Dow, since 1845, having confined his whole attention to an office practice, for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in his profession.

N. B.—All letters must contain four red stamps, or they will not be answered.

Office Hours from 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.

THE MAGEE COOKING STOVE.

The subscribers, having received their Fall stock of Stoves, would especially call the attention of the public to the

CELEBRATED AND UNEQUALLED

MAGEE COOK STOVE,

as the very best Stove yet made, and would invite those about purchasing or exchanging Stoves, to examine this, believing it to be far superior to any other Stove yet invented, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual. The oven plates are covered with plates which render it equal to the old-fashioned brick oven for perfection in baking.

There is a new style and very superior broiler and air iron heater combined, by which the odor of broiling meats are prevented from escaping into the room. With the extension top there is a large copper Reservoir for hot water; also a large tin warming-closet attached, in which any article can be kept warm, while the other parts of the Stove are occupied for other purposes.

The arrangements for sifting the coal and cleaning the grate are far superior to those of any other Stove now in use, as no dust can possibly escape into the room, and the shoveling up of the ashes is entirely dispensed with. The fire is regulated in the same manner as in the MAGEE PARLOR STOVE, and can be continued day and night for weeks together, thus saving the expense of re-kindling every day.

For economy, durability, ease of management, cleanliness and perfection in cooking, it cannot be surpassed by any other Stove, as hundreds of families in this city and vicinity, who are now using them, are willing to testify, and speak of them in the highest terms of praise.

We would refer to the following purchasers:

"MAGEE'S PATENT"
VENTILATING & AIR WARMING
FURNACES.

The subscribers, being the Sole Agents in this vicinity for the manufacture and sale of this valuable Furnace, would ask those about remodelling or erecting buildings to examine this truly valuable invention.

For economy, purity of air and ease of management it has no equal, producing a current of warm air, moist and agreeable as spring time and the air which comes in contact with the fire-pots is used for respiration, the tendency to produce headache so much complained of in other Furnaces, is entirely obviated.

The objects aimed at by the constructors of heating apparatus have been to obtain the greatest amount of heat from a given amount of fuel, and to prevent the escape of heat to the smoke pipe or chimney.

To accomplish this many complicated and expensive heating arrangements have been constructed, some possessing but little improvement over former methods, while many have proved a total failure. The reason for this is obvious. The combustible gases being lighter than the air, pass off into the pipe or chimney without being consumed. This objection, so common in other Furnaces, is obviated in the

MAGEE FURNACE.

The flue or pipe in this Furnace being below the fire-pot, the gases, from their specific gravity, cannot descend, and are burned up by the admission of cold air through the fire-pot, which ignites them so they pass off from the coal, thus saving at least 20 per cent. of the properties of the heat in the fuel.

No heating apparatus with the smoke-pipe or flue on the top of the cone can be made to consume the gases of the coal, as they pass off with a large amount of the heat generated, making the chimney a costly and useless appendage.

This Furnace does away with the great number of pipes and angles for the radiation of heat, which are so liable to fill up and get out of order, thus simplifying, while it increases the surface of radiation.

These Furnaces consume all the coal, make no clinkers, the sifting of coal is entirely dispensed with, and they will save from 30 to 50 per cent. of fuel over common Furnaces.

For ease of management, economy and purity of air, these Furnaces have no equal. They can be regulated so as to give any amount of heat required, and the fire may be kept the entire season without once going out.

They give entire satisfaction wherever used. We have in store the different sizes, Brick and Portable, to which we invite the attention of those in want of the best Furnace in the world,—and would refer them to the following named gentlemen, who have them now in use:

Samuel Cleaves, Esq.,	Albert E. Hatch, Esq.,
Aaron H. Hill,	Charles H. Mendum,
Henry F. Wendell,	John Sise, and others.

Teeth on Vulcanized Rubber,

SOME OF ITS ADVANTAGES.

1st. It is stronger and lighter than any known material.

2d. It from two to six times the amount of suction or adhesion can be obtained by it.

3d. When the arch is irregular we can by building out the deficiency—which can be done to any extent—give the mouth a more natural appearance.

4th. No bad taste arises in the mouth by its use, as the secretions of the stomach and mouth do not affect it in the least.

5th. Teeth mounted upon this base can be kept clean, and as easy as a saucer, as when finished the work presents one whole piece.

6th. While in all ways it is better, easy in a few peculiar cases, it is much cheaper than Gold.

DR. A. P. STEVENS, Surgeon Dentist,

No. 5 Daniel St., Portsmouth,

Has had four years of practical experience in this material, and will guarantee satisfaction in all cases entrusted to his care.

DENTISTRY.

No. 60 CONGRESS STREET,
Portsmouth, Jan. 1st, 1863.

DR. GOODALL

Would respectfully inform his patrons and the public, that he has now ready for sale his best teeth upon VULCANIZED RUBBER, that he has purchased the best VULCANIZER in the market, and is now prepared to do all work upon RUBBER, or the other bases of GOLD and SILVER as formerly, if preferred.

The Rubber has several important advantages, viz.: It is very light and elastic, and consequently is perfectly easy to the mouth, the roof of the mouth and cheeks. There are no insertions or open joints to collect food, &c.; consequently they can be worn night and day, and are very easily kept neat and clean.

Beside all this, the most accurate fit is obtained, as the Rubber is Vulcanized directly upon the plaster model, and the suction is of course much stronger than in plates of Gold or Silver.

Any one who is waiting for their permanent teeth will, I am confident, be perfectly satisfied with the Rubber, as a base. The expense is but a little more than for silver, and you get the same teeth (in blocks) that you would pay $60.00 for an upper or lower set on Gold.

In New York and Boston, and throughout the West, Vulcanized Rubber is used almost to the exclusion of the other bases, and by the best Dentists too. I will warrant a perfect fit and teeth from the best manufacturer in the country, S. S. White.

ALL OTHER OPERATIONS IN DENTISTRY I will do at the usual rates. I will here mention a tooth powder for Extract in 24 cents.

I take pleasure in referring the public to Dr. TREADWELL, Dr. BOARDMAN, Dr OLIVER and Dr. BENNETT, for particular success in extracting teeth. Teeth extracted without pain and with perfect safety, with Ether. Teeth polished to their natural whiteness without pain or injury to the Enamel. Regulation of Adults' and Children's Teeth will receive particular attention.—All whole and partial Sets of Teeth repaired with Neatness and Dispatch. All other operations in Dentistry, I will do at the usual rates.

American and Foreign Patents.

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of U. S. Patent Office, Washington, (under the Act of 1837.)
75 State Street, opposite Kilby Street,
BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on liberal terms, and with dispatch. Researches made into American or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of patents or inventions—and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.

The Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for obtaining Patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below give proof that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional service as moderate.

The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents.

These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining Patents.

All business at a distance by Letter or Telegraph, to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents.

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they can employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their applications in form to secure for them as early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.

Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications, on all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that is now pending. Such unmistakeable proof of great talent and ability in his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges."
JOHN TAGGART.

During eight months, the subscriber, in course of his large practice, made on twice rejected applications SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided in his favor, by the Commissioner of Patents.

THE REBELLION.

The expedition from Yorktown on Tuesday, went to Mobjack Bay. It brought back some contrabands and horses, having seen no considerable body of rebel troops.

Van Dorn's whole force attacked Gen. Granger on Friday at Frankton, Tenn. After severe fighting for two hours the rebels retreated, leaving their dead on the field. Near Lagrange on the same day, a passenger train was attacked by a rebel force of 200. Twelve or fifteen of the train guard were killed and wounded. The train was destroyed and the track torn up.

The reports from North Carolina via Edenton, state that Washington, N. C. had been burned, but by whom it was not stated. The vessels sent from Newbern with reinforcements for Washington had not been able to reach that city. The Richmond Dispatch, which has news to Thursday, says the Federal forces have refused to surrender or allow the women and children to leave the place—so Gen. Hill, it is presumed, will shell the town.

Rebel papers have reports from Charleston to the morning of the 9th. They say our forces were busy repairing damages, and it was thought would soon renew the attack. The Keokuk was certainly sunk: two other iron-clads had gone South. The "Devil," designed for the removal of the torpedoes, had floated ashore and fallen into the rebels' hands. A Nashville dispatch says late Southern papers state that the land forces were fighting within sight of the city, and the iron-clads had been repulsed. How much of this is correct, time will show.

The steamer Surprise, with 207 bales of cotton, from St. Marks, Fla., and several schooners have been captured by our blockaders.

Gen. Grant has removed his headquarters to Milliken's Bend. He accompanied a flag of truce to Vicksburg on the 4th, on a secret mission. Rebel reports state that our forces are retreating from before Fort Pemberton.

By Telegraph, Sunday, to Messrs Hutchings, Foley, and others.

Nothing additional has been received from Charleston. Richmond papers of the 9th say it was the Montauk and not the Keokuk that was sunk. As 7 Monitors in good condition remained at anchor inside the bar without renewing the bombardment, it is thought in official circles that the attack on Tuesday was a reconnoissance rather than a formal attack. Had there been any decisive results either way, information would have been received at Washington before this date.

The rebels have erected batteries below Little Washington, N. C., and it is impossible for reinforcements to reach Gen. Foster by water. One gunboat making the attempt was sunk by their guns. There are 2000 negroes at Little Washington, whom the rebels failed to remove before they were surrounded.

It is reported that Gen. Grant visited Vicksburg at the special request of rebel officers.

It is reported that the Government has decided to lay an embargo on English shipping in American ports. A Cabinet meeting was held on Saturday to consider our Foreign relations.

FOREIGN.—In the British House of Commons, Mr. Bright has presented a petition from the Union Emancipation Society of Manchester, calling attention to the construction of war vessels for the Confederates, asserting that forty vessels were building under pretense of being for China, and demanding government watchfulness and interference. Mr. Foster said he would call attention to it on the 27th. There were considerable fluctuations in the Confederate loan. On the 26th it had declined 3-4 a 1-4 per cent. premium.

There had been serious rioting at Staleybridge and adjacent towns in Lancashire, owing to reduction in allowances by the relief committees, and giving tickets instead of money. Shops were sacked and the military had to interfere. There was no bloodshed.

The seizure of the steamer Peterhoff by Admiral Wilkes is causing considerable discussion, and the London Times' city article assumes that the demand for its surrender will be complied with as promptly as in the Trent affair. It says the Federal Government loses dignity by employing Wilkes.

☞ The Ship Bethsak Mayer arrived at Nantes, from Callao, was captured by the Alabama, and the captain had to sign a bond for $40,000 to obtain the release of the vessel.

Capt. Cooper of the ship John A. Park of Hallowell, destroyed by the Alabama, arrived in England on the ship Nightingale. The John A. Park was taken March 2d, in lat. 29, lon. 38, on a voyage from New York to Buenos Ayres.

NEW HAMPSHIRE ITEMS.

—— We have received a revised and corrected copy of Gov. Berry's proclamation for Fast Day in New Hampshire, fixing April 30th as the day, to agree with the National Fast proclaimed by the President. We have already published the proclamation as it was. It is now changed only as to the time and date.

—— A member of the 2d regiment is publishing some interesting accounts of its history in the Manchester American. In a recent number, he says:—

For the New Hampshire Second we claim the honor of having saved the battle of Williamsburg, by their opportune arrival at and sturdy defence of the left—the loss of which would have rendered the battle of Williamsburg a disaster instead of a victory.

—— The number of letters, mailed and sent from the Post Office of Manchester during the last quarter, ending March 31st, was 69,730. The "penny postmen" during that period had delivered about the city 28,206 letters.

—— There are now living in the town of Londonderry five families on the original farms settled in 1719, at the time of the first settlement of the town. These farms still retain the names of the original proprietors, the fifth generation having been born there.

—— Union Bank is the name adopted by the new banking institution in Nashua, under the National Banking Law, with the following gentlemen as Directors: Messrs. Thos. Chase, E. P. Emerson, Charles H. Nutt, E. H. Spalding and Luther Roby. The books were opened last week and nearly one-half of the requisite amount of stock has been taken.

—— Lieut. Col. Coughlin of the Tenth Regiment, has arrived in Manchester on a brief furlough. He is looking well and hearty, and brings a favorable account of the men under his command.

—— A dispatch to the Boston Journal on Saturday says there was great excitement in Concord on Friday evening, occasioned by soldiers threatening to destroy the office of the N. H. Patriot. The building through the night was in charge of a large police force. The excitement has partially subsided.

—— A writer in the Dover Enquirer, in speaking of a certain "movement" in Strafford County, mentions the following places as having been favored:—

Every hole and corner was full of it from Clamshell Corner to Poke O'Moonshine Brook, from Snakata to Canaan, from Witchtrot to Leathers City, from Mink Brook to Sodom.

Where those interesting localities are does not appear upon maps of the County.

FORNEY ON PIERCE.—Col. Forney, in a letter from New York to the Press, says:

"Whom do you think I met last night? Franklin Pierce, neither more nor less. And looking like a bridegroom—fat, friendly, and (pardon me, General) fifty-four. I had not seen him for three years. Remembering his kindness to me in days gone by, and his genial nature and generous heart, I felt glad once more to take him by the hand. We spoke no politics, for we differ much, I am sorry to feel on these troubles; but I soon saw that we did not differ on one point, viz: that there was to be no separation of this Republic."

AN APPEAL TO ENGLAND.—An address signed, up to last accounts, by 708 distinguished protestant pastors of France has been forwarded, through the Rev. Dr. Massie, to the ministers and pastors of all evangelical denominations in Great Britain, appealing to them to complete the good work of emancipation which for sixty years they have carried on, by urging their country to declare itself openly for the cause of the liberation of the slave. The address is written in plain and vigorous style. It pictures a confederacy consisting mainly of protestants, with slavery for its cornerstone, as the most revolting spectacle ever set before the civilized world, and points to the terrible blow to the cause of civilization and humanity which the triumph of such a cause would give. As exponents of a universal Christian church, these seven hundred pastors hold themselves responsible to a certain extent for any retrograde step in the cause of human progress, and, ask the powerful co-operation of their British brethren, so "that soon there may no longer be in the United States a colored man that is not free and equal with the whites."

☞ Mr. Simon Stone, owner of a mill in Newfield, Me., on Thursday went below to clear the gate of ice. A cake of ice, weighing as estimated 1500 pounds, shot over the bulkhead striking Mr. Stone in the breast and submerging him for a few moments beneath the water. By cutting the ice, and holding the unfortunate man's head above water, he was at last rescued, apparently lifeless, but after much rubbing and severe exertion was partially restored, so that he could speak in a whisper. It is supposed that he is injured internally. Mr. Stone is about 40 years of age. He has a family of five children—two sons in the army, having lost one in the war.

☞ It has been ascertained from an official source, that no commission has been authorized to obtain recruits in Ireland, as alleged by the Liverpool Albion.

Communication.

LORD LYONS' LETTER.

This curious letter from one English Lord to another, lets in a little daylight on a dark spot of our American politics, inducing the Boston Courier to say that the letter itself ought not to have seen the light; that is, it ought not to have been published where it could come back with its damaging revelation of treasonable plots.

Last November, just after New York election, Lord Lyons visited New York city, and while there he was visited by some persons whom he styles "conservative leaders," who exulted over their triumph, expecting the president to compromise for a peace. Next morning, however, he says, their hopes were dashed by the removal of Gen. McClellan, whom they had regarded as the representative in the army of the conservative element or party.

"The irritation of the Conservatives at New York was very great; it seemed, however, to be not unmixed with consternation and despondency.

"Several of the leaders of the Democratic party sought interviews with me, both before and after the arrival of the intelligence of Gen. McClellan's dismissal. The subject uppermost in their minds while they were speaking to me was naturally that of foreign mediation between the North and South.

"I gave no opinion on the subject. I did not say whether or no I myself thought foreign intervention probable or advisable; but I listened with attention to the accounts given me of the plans and hopes of the Conservative party. At the bottom, I thought I perceived a desire to put an end to the war, even at the risk of losing the Southern States altogether; but it was plain that it was not thought prudent to avow this desire. Indeed, some hints dropped before the elections were so ill received that a strong declaration in the contrary sense was deemed necessary by the Democratic leaders.

"At the present moment, therefore, the chiefs of the Conservative party call loudly for a more vigorous prosecution of the war, and reproach the Government with slackness as well as with want of success in its military measures. But they repudiate all idea of interfering with the institutions of the Southern people, or of waging a war of subjugation or extermination. They maintain that the object of the military operations should be to place the North in a position to demand an armistice with honor and with effect. The armistice should (they hold) be followed by a Convention, in which such changes of the Constitution should be proposed as would give the South ample security on the subject of its slave property, and would enable the North and the South to reunite and to live together in peace and harmony."

From the whole letter it is manifest that Lord Lyons is heart and soul with the enemies of our Government, and sees wholly through their spectacles. Altering the Federal Constitution to suit the Rebel slaveholders would in his view be a highly "conservative" proceeding; while to resist that change and insist on simple obedience to the "Constitution as it is" is in his view "radical."

Nevertheless, we are much obliged to him for writing the letter, giving so much information, and making such rich disclosures.

The careful reader will perceive in the above, a remarkable likeness to the new Pennsylvania Platform, just adopted by the leading peace democrats of that State, and endorsed elsewhere by similar leaders. It is, however, quite improbable that such a programme can find followers enough to carry it out. U. T.

VICTIMS OF THE TREACHERY OF TWIGGS.—Extract from a private letter of Col. H. Walker, of the Mass. 4th Regiment: "Yesterday morning, some three hundred regulars, part of those turned over to the rebels by General Twiggs in the early part of the war, came here from up the river, and encamped near us. I went in the evening to see them. I found them without water for cooking, without cooking utensils, hardly clothed. Three women, wives of some of the men—were sitting on a pile of luggage, without any covering. Returning to my camp, I obtained a tent and sent it over for the women; summoned my captains to my quarters, and, in a few minutes, had ten camp kettles of hot coffee prepared. Carrying it over, I saw it distributed, and came back to camp about 10 P. M. Those men were grateful indeed. One man said "he did not believe the rebels would, on their arrival home, find any one who would turn out and build fires and make coffee for them." One of them told me he had not tasted good coffee before for twenty-two months. They deserved our attention.—Nearly two years had they been in captivity, without swerving from their loyalty.—Every inducement to desert had been held out to them in vain. Old drilled soldiers, they would have been a valuable acquisition to the Texan forces. They very generally desired to get a chance to strike one blow at the rebels."

☞ One of the Sultan's ex-chamberlains was recently married rather abruptly. The official received a sudden summons from his imperial master, and without having any previous intimation of what was about take place, was ordered forthwith to marry one of the ladies of the palace, whom of course he never had seen, and whom it is said he had not even heard of before. In ten minutes the happy affair was over.

☞ Gen. John Cochrane, in a recent letter, states that the Order No. 8, of Gen. Burnside, alluded to in the report of the Committee on the Conduct of the war, "dismissed from the service and relieved of their commands twenty general officers of the Army of the Potomac, who had disturbed General Burnside. At the head of this list stood the significant name of Gen. Joe Hooker."

☞ Some soldiers at Camp Quincy, Boston, became dissatisfied on Thursday because they were to be sent to Readville, before receiving advance pay, and resisted the officers. One, William Pendergast, of Boston, attempted to run a lieutenant through with his sabre, when Col. Lowell shot him dead with his revolver. He was 22 years of age, and of a bad character.

A GOOD RIDER—A GOOD KING.—"I was amused," writes the London correspondent of the Manchester Guardian, "at the judgment on the Prince of Wales pronounced by that eminent authority on the value of a man, the huntsman of the Pytchley Hunt, after the Prince's first appearance in Northamptonshire, a few days since—'He rides hard, and he rides straight; he'll make a good king.'"

☞ New Orleans papers state that a rebel deserter, who lately came into the Federal camp at Brasher City, had $6000 in gold with him, which he said he took from a lot of $200,000 secreted in the ground. He revealed the place where this treasure was hid, and the Union will probably have the benefit of it.

MONITOR CLOTHES WRINGER!

THE ONLY PERFECTLY SELF ADJUSTING MACHINE IN THE MARKET!

The pressure in this Machine is put on in putting it on the tub, and removed in taking from the tub, all at one operation, an arrangement which no other Wringer has. It has no rubber bands or thumb screws to take off and unscrew, which may be neglected and spoil the rollers.

It is perfectly SELF-ADJUSTING in every respect.

The many advantages of Wringers are too well known to need any further comments. But we might add that it is almost the only successful labor-saving Machine invented for woman's use. In short, it saves labor, clothes, time and strength, and does the work better. It saves its cost in three months. It only needs a fair trial to convince one that the above is perfectly true.

LODI MANUFACTURING CO.'S

POUDRETTE.

J. F. SHORES, JR., No. 1 Congress Block, has now on hand a large supply of this valuable manure. The price this year will be $1.70 per Barrel, without regard to quantity, delivered at any wharf or depot in this city. ☞ A discount from this price to those who buy to sell again.

Read the following recommendation from the Cashier of the Lake Bank, Wolfboro', N. H.

WOLFBORO, N. H., Lake Winnipisseogee, Nov. 10, 1862.

Agents Lodi Manufacturing Co., Boston.

GENTS.—I have used the Poudrette made by your Co. for two years. The first year I used four barrels, and experimented with it on both corn and potatoes. I was pleased and satisfied with the result, and the past season purchased over 100 barrels for my own use, and my neighbors. I think some twenty-five different farmers tried and used the Poudrette on my recommendation, and all have the Fall expressed themselves entirely satisfied to use such an increased quantity this next Spring. Planting season comes late, and we have very early frosts, and the Poudrette ripens our corn from two to three weeks earlier. We have also found it a preventative of the wire worm, which oftentimes destroys our entire crops. Our mode of applying the Poudrette is, to put about a handful in each hill, and place the seed in direct contact. I think I shall want double the quantity next Spring that I did this year.

Yours, Respectfully,

ABEL HALEY,

Cashier Lake Bank, Wolfboro, N. H.

Local.

☞ Among the building which is talked of, for the coming season, in Portsmouth, we hear that additions for machine shops, &c., are to be made to both the Portsmouth and the Sagamore Mills; that Mr. Frank Jones is to add a large malt house to his already extensive brewery establishment; and that the C. & P. Railroad will at once proceed to the erection of the storehouses on their new wharf at the North End.

Mr. Jenness is also receiving liberal subscriptions for shares in the new Ocean House at Rye Beach, and we are told that it is more than probable that operations will be commenced there ere many months.—These, with the work at the Navy Yard, and the Forts in our harbor, will furnish good employ for all our workmen who do not get drafted.

☞ Speaking of musical instruments, we are informed that Mr. John Sise, of this city, has been presented with the Hand Organ which was given to the Arctic Expedition by Mr. Weld of Boston. It was injured some during the journey to the North pole, but Mr. S. has had it put in thorough repair; and when he is ready for his first public performance, we will chronicle it without charge! Or perhaps he will use it only to amuse the children, or lend it to amorous swains for serenading purposes.—At any rate, we are assured that there are sweet "notes" in the machine, if they can only be ground out of it.

☞ As will be seen by the advertisement Sergt. Enoch G. Adams of the 2d regiment will deliver a lecture at the Temple, to-morrow (Tuesday) evening, on the Women of the South, bond and free; and their connection with the Rebellion. It will be remembered Mr. Adams, at the recent reception of the members of the 2d regiment in this city, made a most impressive and thrilling response to a sentiment in Jefferson Hall, and was most enthusiastically cheered.—The reputation which he then won among our citizens as an eloquent and attractive speaker, we doubt not will be further enhanced by the lecture to-morrow evening.

☞ Genial and pleasant have been the past two days,—days worthy to be marked with a white stone. One could almost wish they might be petrified and put away to keep, that Time's destroying fingers might harm them not. The robins have sung gleefully, an! the young ladies have talked seriously about spring dresses,—two circumstances perhaps equally suggestive of notes and bills.

☞ The steamer Sassacus left the Portsmouth Navy Yard on Saturday afternoon, in tow of a government tug boat, for South Boston, where she will receive her machinery.

☞ By the recent general orders for the consolidation of regiments, each regiment of infantry is to be consolidated into five or a less number of companies of the maximum strength, and the Colonel, Major and one Assistant Surgeon mustered out. The company officers, commissioned and non-commissioned, rendered supernumerary, are to be mustered out at the date of consolidation; and the officers to be retained are to be selected by the division and corps commanders, under the instruction of the commanding general of the army or department, from among the most efficient officers of the respective regiments.

The same general rules apply to cavalry and artillery.

☞ Com. Farragut till continues to hold the Mississippi between Vicksburg and Port Hudson. This implies that the batteries at Grand Gulf are weak, and that the Indianola has not been repaired; for if Grand Gulf had been fortified as reported, he would not have gone down the river; and if the Indianola could be used the rebels would have attempted his capture before this.

☞ Preparations are in progress for a celebration of the 100th anniversary of the settlement of Machias, Me. Committees have been appointed by the towns of Machias and East Machias to make arrangements.

☞ In addition to the bounty of $50 conferred by the act of March 3d, upon soldiers who, after the expiration of their term of service, shall re-enlist for one year, the War Department has ordered that each soldier so re-enlisting shall be allowed a furlough of thirty days, to be granted immediately after his re-enlistment.

☞ George B. Lawrence, author of the well-known romance, "Guy Livingston," was arrested a mile and a half beyond our picket lines, while making his way towards Richmond. He was committed to close confinement in the Old Capitol as a rabid "Secesh."

☞ Mr. Blossom, the officer who was thought to have been shot while endeavoring to arrest a deserter, in Maine, has been heard from. He has had no trouble thus far in attending to his duties.

☞ The New York Canal Commissioners have resolved that the canals shall be opened for navigation on the 1st of May.

☞ New Orleans correspondence says that a pamphlet has been secretly circulated in that city, dated at Richmond, from the pen of Rev. Dr. Palmer, formerly a Presbyterian clergyman of New Orleans, one of the leaders of the secession movement in Louisiana. This pronunciamento is an ably written and eloquent appeal to rebel sympathizers in New Orleans, and their name is legion, calling upon them to rise, disregarding their oaths of allegiance, and strike one sturdy, earnest, patriotic blow for the deliverance of their city from a worse than Egyptian bondage.

☞ A plain looking woman called at the store of a famous jeweller in New York city to look at some diamonds. Samples were exhibited, but they did not suit her taste,—more costly ones were then shown to her, but she desired something richer to gratify her wishes; the safe was unlocked, and a splendid set of diamonds was placed before her. She admired them, asked their price, and was told they were worth $15,000. "I will take them," she replied. She paid for them on the spot. This woman is the wife of an Irish tailor who has made a fortune out of Government contracts.

MUSIC HEALTHFUL.—Music, like painting and statuary, refines, elevates, and ennobles. Song is the language of gladness, and it is the utterance of devotion. But coming lower down, it is physically beneficial. It rouses the circulation, wakes up the bodily energies, and diffuses life and animation around. Does a lazy man sing? Does a milk and-water character ever strike a stirring note? Never! Song is the outlet of mental and physical activity, and increases both by its exercise.

THE ADAMS EXPRESS ROBBERY.—The Herald's Washington dispatch says: "It is stated that among the parties arrested by Detective Allen Pinkerton—14—were several ladies. Upon one of the number, neatly sandwiched between her ample quilted skirts, were $30,000 in Treasury six per cent. Certificates of Indebtedness consigned to Adams & Co.'s Express."

☞ The State authorities of Minnesota are still urging upon Government the necessity for the execution of the Sioux Indians engaged in the recent massacres. The prisoners are at present guarded by 600 soldiers, and so intense is the feeling on the part of the people that a difficulty is feared between the populace and the authorities unless more executions take place.

☞ Another of the innumerable applications of iron, or its modified form of steel, appears in the form of enameled steel collars. They have been worn for a year or two in England, but are just beginning to come into general use in New York. Seen at even a short distance, they look like highly polished linen, differing from that article only in their greater lustre and cleanliness.

☞ From data furnished by the medical statistics of the United States army, it appears that the largest men are found in Georgia, North Carolina, Tennessee and Kentucky, while the smallest men are found in the States of New York, Massachusetts and Connecticut.

☞ The bill prohibiting the banks from loaning money on gold or coin, passed the Senate of New York by a vote of 13 to 4.

☞ It is said that dying of homesickness is no figure of speech, but a reality of weekly occurrence in our army.

☞ North Carolina papers give accounts of women's bread riots in Raleigh and Salisbury.

The narrowest mind has room for a prejudice.

ANOTHER NEW STOVE!
THE MODEL COOK
FOR WOOD OR COAL.

The novel—the peculiar feature of the MODEL COOK, that wholly distinguishes it from all others, is the addition of a Ventilated Roasting Oven within the body of the stove and in front of the fire; so arranged that it can be used separately for a roaster or (by the removal of a simple plate) in connection with the larger oven, for baking; giving an oven nearly 2 feet long! or large enough to take six large pieces on the bottom, every part of which will bake evenly at the same time! A check draft is applied to this stove by means of which the consumption of fuel is greatly lessened, and a steady fire can be kept day and night if desired.

Ayer's SARSAPARILLA,

THE WORLD'S GREAT REMEDY FOR
Scrofula and Scrofulous Diseases.

From Emery Eder, a well-known merchant of Oxford, Maine.

"I have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, but never yet one bottle which failed of the desired effect and full satisfaction to those who took it. As fast as our people find it, the demand for it has been no medicine like it before in our community."

Eruptions, Pimples, Blotches, Pustules, Ulcers, Sores, and all Diseases of the Skin.

From Rev. Robt. Stratton, Bristol, England.

"I think it my duty to make a public acknowledgment, when I add my testimony to that you publish of the medicinal virtues of your SARSAPARILLA. My daughter, aged ten, had an afflicting humor in her eyes, and her hair came out, which we were unable to cure until we tried your SARSAPARILLA. She has been well for some months."

From Mrs. Rose E. Bellamy, a well-known and much-esteemed lady of Dennisville, Cape May Co., N. J.

"My daughter has suffered for a year past with a scrofulous eruption, which was very troublesome. Nothing afforded any relief until we tried your SARSAPARILLA, which soon completely cured her."

From Charles P. Gage, Esq., of the widely-known firm of Gage, Hollister & Co., manufacturers of wrapping paper in Hudson, N. H.

"I had for several years a very troublesome humor, which would appear internally and externally and would not yield to any medicine until it finally cured my trustees and became an intolerable affliction. I tried almost every thing a man could think of without effecting a cure, but without any relief whatever, until I took your SARSAPARILLA. It immediately made my sore worse, as you told me it might do at times; but in a few weeks the new skin began to form under the blotches, and I continued until my face is as smooth as any body's, and I am without any symptoms of the disease that I know of. I think it a most valuable medicine, and doubt not it is your SARSAPARILLA."

Erysipelas—General Debility—Purity the Blood.

From Dr. Robt. Swain, Houston St., New York.

"I have used your SARSAPARILLA in Erysipelas and Skin Diseases, and I have just now cured a stack of Mahogany with it, by the persevering use of your SARSAPARILLA, and I have just now cured an attack of Mumps in my family with it. I think it possesses equals the SARSAPARILLA you have supplied to my profession as well as to the people."

From J. E. Ashmun, Esq., Hudson, Ohio.

"For twelve years I had the misery of blotches on my right arm, during which time I tried all the celebrated physicians I could reach, and took hundreds of dollars worth of their medicines. The sores were so bad that the cords became visible, and the doctors doubted that my arm must be amputated. I began to take your SARSAPARILLA, PILLS, Liniment, Lotion, and some of your PILLS. Together they have cured me, I am now as well and sound as any body. Being in a public place, my case is known to every body in this community, and excites the wonder of all."

From Hon. Henry Moore, M. P. P., of Newcastle, C. W., a leading member of the Canadian Parliament.

"I have used your SARSAPARILLA in my family, for general debility, and for purifying the blood, with very beneficial results, and feel confidence in commending it to the afflicted."

St. Anthony's Fire, Rose, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Sore Eyes.

From Barney Seidler, Esq., the well-known publisher of the Pennsylvania Demokrat, Pennsylvania.

"Our only child, about three years of age, was attacked by the St. Anthony's Fire, which in a few days spread such that covered a loathsome and virulent sore, which covered his face, and totally blinded his eyes for ten days. We tried every thing we applied nitrate of silver and other remedies, without any apparent effect. For fifteen days we guarded his hands from scratching, and his face from coming in contact with the corrupt wound which covered his whole face. Having tried every thing else we had any hope from, we began giving your SARSAPARILLA, and applied your PILLS to the sore, with the best effect. The sore began to heal when we had given the first bottle, and was well when we had finished the second. The child has since grown to be a stout cob, free again, and he is now as healthy and fair as any child in the whole neighborhood predicted that he would never do."

Syphilis and Mercurial Disease

From Dr. Byron Shed, of St. Louis, Missouri.

"I find your SARSAPARILLA a more efectual remedy for the secondary symptoms of Syphilis and the effects of mercury than any other we have used. The profession are indebted to you for some of the best medicines we have."

From A. J. Sprague, M. D., an eminent physician of Louisville, Ky., who is a prominent member of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

"LOUISVILLE, KY., Feb. 1, 1857.

"DEAR SIR: I have found your SARSAPARILLA an excellent remedy for Syphilis, both of the primary and secondary type, and cured in some cases that were too obstinate to yield to the ordinary treatment of mercury. We can confidently, with every certainty of success, where a powerful alterative is required."

Mr. Chas. Van Riper, of New Brunswick, N. J., has for several years had his legs, caused by the abuse of mercury, or mercurial disease, which grew more and more aggravated for years, in spite of every remedy and treatment that could be applied, until the persevering use of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA relieved him. Few cases can be found more inveterate and desperate than this, and it took several dozen bottles to cure him.

Leucorrhœa, Whites, Female Weakness, are generally produced by internal Scrofulous Corruption, and yield readily to the alterative effect of this SARSAPARILLA. Some cases require, however, to aid of the SARSAPARILLA, the skillful application of local remedies.

From the well known and widely-celebrated Dr. Jacob Morrell, of Cincinnati.

"I have found your SARSAPARILLA an excellent alterative combined with other remedies in many cases of Irregularity, Leucorrhœa, Internal Ulceration, and local debility, arising from the scrofulous diathesis, have reason to hope that these are for the future, under your SARSAPARILLA, likely to yield a good and speedy cure."

A lady, unwilling to allow the publication of her name, writes:

"My daughter and myself have been cured of a very debilitating Leucorrhœa of long standing, by two bottles of your SARSAPARILLA."

Rheumatism, Gout, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Heart Disease, Neuralgia,

when caused by Scrofula in the system, are readily cured by this AYER SARSAPARILLA.

AYER'S

possess so many advantages over the other purgatives in the market, and their superior virtues are so universally known, that we need not do more than to assure the public their quality is maintained equal to the best it ever has been, and that they may be depended on to do all that they have ever done.

"Bound to no party—to no sect confined:
The world our home; our brethren, all mankind.
Love truth, do good, be just and fair with all;
Exalt the right, though every ism fall."

"Let me warn you in the most solemn manner against the baneful effects of the spirit of Party; generally. It is a spirit not to be encouraged.—Its common and continual mischief is sufficient to make it the interest and duty of a wise people to discourage and restrain it. In governments of the popular form, it is seen in its greatest rankness, and is truly their worst enemy."—Washington's Farewell Address.

American and Foreign Patents.

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of U. S. Patent Office, Washington, (under the Act of 1837,)
75 State Street, opposite Kilby Street,
BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on liberal terms, and with dispatch. Researches made into American or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of patents or inventions—and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.

The Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing Patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The Testimonials below given prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional service so moderate.

The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents.

These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining Patents.

All necessity of a journey to Washington, to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents.

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their applications in form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.

Mr. R. H Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications, on all but one of which patents have been granted, the other being pending. Such unmistakeable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges."
JOHN TAGGART.

During eight months, the subscriber, in course of his large practice, made on twice rejected applications SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided in his favor, by the Commissioner of Patents.

TUESDAY, APRIL 14, 1863.

THE REBELLION.

The entire Yazoo Pass expedition—gunboats, mortar boats, transports and troops—has returned to the Mississippi river, from the attempt to reach the rear of Vicksburg by way of the Pass. Gen. Grant has removed his headquarters to Milliken's Bend. It is reported that he has gone to Vicksburg with a flag of trace, on a secret mission.

From Charleston, we have dispatches from Admiral Dupont to the Government, Wednesday night. The vessels composing the fleet advanced upon Charleston on the 7th, in the following order: Weehawken, Capt. John Rodgers; Passaic, Capt. Drayton; Montauk, Capt. Worden; Patapsco, Capt. Ammen; Ironsides, (the flagship) Com. Turner, with Admiral Dupont and his staff on board; Catskill, Capt. George Rodgers; Nantucket, Capt. Fairfax; Nahant, Capt. Downes; and Keokuk, Capt. Rhinds.

In this order they proceeded up the main channel, arriving within 1700 yards of the main forts. The Ironsides became unmanageable, owing to the tide and narrowness of the channel, and she was therefore obliged to drop anchor to prevent drifting ashore.

The attack commenced at 3 o'clock and lasted 3 hours. The Keokuk passed half a mile above Sumter when she met with obstructions, at which time a terrific firing was kept up on both sides. She received a pointed shot of English manufacture, that passed through her between wind and water, from which she sank in 11 hours.

The Nahant went within 200 yards of Fort Sumter in the action, and received a shell at the junction of the turret with the deck, which prevented the turret from revolving, and rendered her useless for the time. The Ironsides received 150 shots, but sustained no damage, further than starting a few bolts. The rest of the fleet is uninjured, and hauled off.

The object of the reconnoissance—which was to ascertain the locality of the obstructions, was accomplished.

Our entire loss was 2 killed and 7 wounded. Some iron-clads were going to blow up to the Keokuk.

A vessel arrived at Fortress Monroe, passed through the fleet off Charleston on Thursday, 9th inst., at 10 A. M. The weather was clear and pleasant. The Monitors were ranged along the beach off Cummings' Point, all in good order.

A rebel dispatch from Charleston, 8th, says the people and troops are in high spirits at the result of yesterday's fight. The fight between the iron-clads and our forts was chiefly at a distance of 900 yards. The Monitors cannot pass Fort Sumter without coming within 500 yards of our batteries.—The impression is very general that the enemy will renew the attack after repairing damages. One gun was dismounted at Fort Moultrie and one man wounded.

The whaling vessel Ellen Kisben, recently arrived at Georgetown, Grand Cayman, reports having been chased for 12 hours by the pirate Retribution, on the 18th ult.—The Retribution was at Nassau on the 15th ult., supposed to be fitting out for another cruise as a privateer, or to run the blockade. Her recent condemnation and sale were doubtless deceptive, it is said.

Several thousand troops, attempting to reach Washington from Newbern, were driven back on Wednesday 8 miles, with the loss of 50 men.

The latest accounts from Gen. Foster state that the rebels had sent in 3 flags of truce for him to surrender Washington. Gen. Foster's reply to the last was to send no more flags; if they did, he would capture them; and if they wanted Washington, to come and take it.

Details of the attack on the Charleston forts are given in the New York papers.—The Tribune's correspondent says the Keokuk's turrets were penetrated a number of times and the hull at the water mark showed 19 holes. Eleven large holes, apparently running through the walls, some of which are about 3 feet wide, were made up the east face of Fort Sumter.

It is reported by a vessel from Newbern, 8th, that it was expected Gen. Foster would have to surrender from want of provisions. The transport Northerner left Newbern on the 7th, with 800 men to his assistance by way of Tar river, but meeting a number of rebel batteries she was forced to return.—[This report is denied. Another report says Gen. Foster has surrendered.] Gen. Foster's force consists of 1200 men.

The Herald's account says there was a rumor current at Port Royal and Charleston Bar that our troops were rapidly gaining the rear of Charleston.

☞ Gold opened in New York on Monday morning at 159, and at 11 o'clock was quoted at 157. At 1 P. M. gold was selling at 158 1-4. U. S. Sixes 105 and Seven-thirties at 105.

☞ Nine sons of Stephen W. Neal of Searsmont, Maine, are in the army.

CAPTURE OF PRIZES.—The Navy Department has been informed of the capture by the steamer Huntsville of the British steamer Surprise of Nassau, with a Confederate clearance from St. Marks, Fla., and bound to Havana, with a cargo of 207 bales of cotton, mostly Sea Island.

The Octorara captured the Confederate schooner Five Brothers with 34 bales of cotton, and the English schooner John Williams with an assorted cargo, including 100 bags of saltpetre, 12 tons of iron, &c. She was a notorious blockade runner.

The Tioga captured the English schooner Florence Nightingale, with a cargo of 100 bales of cotton. Three out of the six persons found on board are natives of the United States, including D. A. Madden, of Baltimore, the master.

The Tioga also captured the English schooner Brothers, with a cargo principally of liquors, medicines, and other contraband articles.

The N. Department has information of the capture on the 7th, of rebel sloop Rosalie, from Nassau for Charleston, with an assorted cargo: also (no date) of the English schooners Tuttle and Rising Dawn.

The prize schooner Rising Dawn, with a cargo of British salt from Nassau, captured by the gunboat Monticello, off Wilmington 5th inst., has arrived at New York.

CONSPIRACY IN PENNSYLVANIA.—The Knights of the Golden Circle who were arrested at Reading, Pa., on Wednesday, had a hearing in Philadelphia on Thursday.—The persons under arrest are Philip Huber, Augustus F. Illig, Gabriel Fieberl and Harrison Oxenoidor. Huber is the prime mover in the organization. The principal witness was William G. Lyon, a Government detective. He testified that on the 21st of March he heard there was to be a meeting of copperheads in Marion township, and he concealed himself in the barn where the meeting was to be held. There were about 100 men in the barn, who were addressed by Philip Huber, who denounced the war as unholy and unjust; he said that the So ciety was a million strong; he stated that it was first organized in the South; that the society had signs, passwords and grips.—The obligation was administered to 83 of the men in favor of the abdication of Abraham Lincoln by force, if necessary; in favor of a Northwestern Confederacy; and in favor of resisting the draft or conscription act. After Huber was arrested he told that the association was for the overthrow of the government; that money was raised to fee lawyers if any of the members were arrested; also to try the constitutionality of the conscription act, and it this would not do they would use force. When the arrest became known in Berks and Lebanon counties, there was great excitement among the order, who held meetings and decided to send a delegation to Reading the next morning for the purpose of rescuing their comrades from their prison. Accordingly 280 men living within ten miles of Reading marched into the city on Thursday morning, attracting a crowd and causing indignation by their traitorous demonstration. They were hooted and mobbed, and only by exertions on the part of the Mayor and city authorities was a serious outbreak prevented. Later in the day some half dozen members, who were visiting a tavern, were severely beaten and threatened with hanging.

☞ The message of Governor Benham, South Carolina, transmitted to the Legislature on April 3, would suffice, were other proof wanting, to show the extreme destitution from which the rebels are suffering.—He states that he has called the Legislature together for the express purpose of considering the proper measures to be taken to provide food for the sustenance of the army and the people.

RUSSIA.—An imperial ukase has been published in Russia abolishing all relations of obligatory character between the peasants and proprietors in certain districts; the emancipation to be completely effected; the peasants will pay rent to the Government, which will itself pay the proprietors the price of emancipation.

The Rev. Dr. Spring went to New Haven, Conn., and called on Dr. Taylor. He had ridden from Newburyport, Mass, to that place "in his one horse shay." "I have come for Moses Stewart," said Dr. Spring, "we want him to become a professor in our new Seminary at Andover." "You can't have him," was the reply, "he can't be spared." "I know that," was the response, that's the reason I have come for him. We have plenty who can be spared, but these men won't make good professors at Andover."

☞ The Washington correspondent of the New York Commercial Advertiser writes:

"Our government has positive information, that a fleet of iron-clads and light draft war steamers is being built in the yards of England and Scotland, ostensibly for the Emperor of China, but really for the rebels."

☞ The burning of the village of Jacksonville, by New England troops, is deeply to be regretted. The place was occupied mainly by Union people, and it does not appear that a sufficient provocation was given for the vandal act of destroying the town.

NEW HAMPSHIRE ITEMS.

☞ An Episcopal parish has recently been organized in Pittsfield, N. H., and $1200 raised to build a church, which is to be completed this season. The organization embraces some of the prominent citizens of the place, of ability and means. Among whom we notice our old friend Councillor Tenny. This denomination has been increasing very considerably a year or two past. L.

—— The Manchester American says "the Seventeenth Regiment is to be merged in the Second, under command of the Second's officers. The officers of the Seventeenth will be mustered out of service.—There are nearly 300 members of the regiment, and when added to the Second will fill up the ranks to a respectable number. While the 2d's men are strongly in favor of the movement, the 17th are as strongly opposed, and much bitterness results."

—— A session of the Governor and Council closed on Friday. The question of appointing an Attorney General was considered, but postponed as one member of the Council was absent.

☞ An English paper states that a spruce old widower in his 80th year, who very recently lost his better half, resolved after a tedious courtship of nearly three weeks to take for better or worse a blooming widow who had seen 76 summers, and the lady, according to previous arrangements, made her appearance at the church gates on the above day, which had been appointed for the wedding. The hour appointed was nine o'clock, but after waiting patiently at the church for two long hours the lady left in disgust. In a few minutes however, the widower arrived at the church gates, accompanied by his best man and the bridesmaids, but they were all doomed to be disappointed, for the widow had returned to her home. On the following morning when the lady was called upon to explain her conduct, she appeared much disgusted with the treatment she had received, and the parties are still unwedded.

☞ A foreign paper states that a cotton spinner, being about to marry a young workwoman of the same establishment, sent to Brussels for a certificate of birth, having been brought up at the Foundling Hospital of that city. Instead of the certificate asked for, the young man received a notice to call on the burgomaster of Brussels on important business, and on doing so was surprised to learn that he was the son of a Russian prince and a young lady belonging to the Belgian aristocracy, and that a property of eight to ten millions of francs awaited him."

☞ It being the invariable custom of Fernando Wood to point to the Mozart regiment as a refutation of the charges of disloyalty continually made against him, the members of that regiment have adopted a resolution, declaring "that he never furnished a man or a dollar for our benefit whatever—that we have no sympathy with his principles, no respect for his character, and hope the day is not far distant when such traitors will be shunned as lepers and outcasts."

Judge Sprague has recently decided that hand-writing, introduced for a standard, must be admitted by the defendant as a fact in the case to be his handwriting; otherwise it cannot be used either for comparison by experts, or for comparison by the jury. Hundreds of convictions have been reached by that kind of testimony alone which is here ruled to be inadmissible.—Gloucester Telegraph.

☞ The Richmond Examiner says "in the course of the month of June the campaign and the war will culminate. If we come out of that month defeated, the North will be forced on terrible measures to preserve itself. If we come out victorious then the war will be substantially over, as the Federals cannot operate in the South after that time."

☞ Adjutant General Thomas arrived at Helena, Ark., last Monday with full authority and for the purpose of organizing the negroes into regiments and arming them for service against the rebels from Cairo to Vicksburg. Those who are unfit for military duty are to be set to work on the abandoned plantations. The fortifications at Memphis are to be manned with negro troops.

☞ The paper money of the Southern States sells at $400 for 100 in gold, or at seventy-five per cent discount. The paper money of the Northern States sells at $147 for $100 in gold, or at thirty two per cent. discount.

How in the world everybody puffs his indignant morality at everyody else! It only takes the turn of the weathercock to bring about the millenium. Only let those gusts of virtue, that every man blows upon his neighbor, be turned upon himself, and the thing is done. It's easier than sinning.

☞ Col. Bowditch, of Vermont, formerly Collector of Burlington, was killed by a locomotive falling through an open drawbridge, near Suffolk, Va., last week.

☞ Dogs, horses, mules, foxes, wolves, mice, lions and bears are mentioned in the Bible,—but cats and rats are not named there.

IMMORTELLES.

THE VOICES OF SPRING.

The airs of Spring are sighing through the grove
On plaintive wings.
I hear, 'neath rustling leaves, like muffled chimes,
The gush of springs.
The river's silver voice is low afar—
How sweet, O Spring, thy tender voices are.
WILLIS.

NATURE'S WORSHIP.

The forest-tops are lowly cast
O'er breezy hill and glen,
As if a prayerful spirit passed
On nature on men.
The sky is as a temple's arch;
The blue and way air
Is glorious with the spirit march
Of messengers of prayer.
The gentle moon, the kindling sun,
The many stars, are given,
As shrines to burn Earth's incense on
The altar-fires of heaven.
WHITTIER.

THE INFINITE.

All is of God! If he but wave his hand
The mists collect, the rain falls thick and loud,
Till 'ith a smile of light on sea and land,
Lo! He looks back from the departing cloud.
Angels of Life and Death alike are his;
Without his leave they pass no threshold o'er;
Who, then, would wish or dare, believing this,
Against his messengers to shut the door.
LONGFELLOW.

HEAVEN.

Heaven is not far from those who see
With the pure spirit's sight,
But near, and in the very hearts,
Of those who see aright.

A NEW BOOK of GREAT INTEREST,

By REV. WM. M. THAYER,

Author of "THE BOBBIN BOY," "THE PRINTER BOY," "POOR BOY & MERCHANT PRINCE," etc.

It is a narrative of the early life, education, and training of ABRAHAM LINCOLN, and is entitled

The Pioneer Boy,

AND HOW HE BECAME

President.

The well-known ability of the author in this difficult department of literature gives assurance that the forthcoming work will be of real interest and value.

He has devoted the leisure of two years in collecting his material from the relatives and early friends of his hero, and woven the results of his investigations and inquiries into a graceful narrative, which will be at once readable and helpful.

Every American Youth should study the career of

and learn how energy, industry and honesty overcome every obstacle to a useful and honorable career.

MONITOR CLOTHES WRINGER!

THE ONLY PERFECTLY SELF ADJUSTING MACHINE IN THE MARKET!

The pressure in this Machine is put on in putting it on the tub and removed in taking from the tub, all at one operation, an arrangement which no other Wringer has. It has no rubber bands or thumb screws to take off and unscrew, which may be neglected and spoil the rollers.

It is perfectly SELF-ADJUSTING in every respect.

The many advantages of Wringers are too well known to need any further comments. But we might add that it is almost the only successful labor-saving Machine invented for women's use. In short, it saves labor, clothes, time and strength, and does the work better. It saves its cost in three months. It only needs a fair trial to convince one that the above is perfectly true.

☞ Call and examine. The money refunded if not perfectly satisfactory.

LODI MANUFACTURING CO.'S

POUDRETTE.

J. F. SHORES, Jr., No. 1 Congress Block, has now on hand a large supply of this valuable manure. The price this year will be $1.70 per Barrel, without regard to quantity, delivered at any wharf or depot in this city. ☞ A discount from this price to those who buy to sell again.

Read the following recommendation from the Cashier of the Lake Bank, Wolfboro', N. H.

WOLFBORO, N. H., Lake Winnipiscogee, Nov. 10, 1862.

Agents Lodi Manufacturing Co., Boston.

GENTS.:—I have used the Poudrette made by your Co. for two years. The first year I used four barrels, and experimented with it on both corn and potatoes. I was pleased and satisfied with the result, and the past season purchased over 100 barrels for my own use, and my neighbors. I think some twenty-five different farmers tried and used the Poudrette on my recommendation, and all have this Fall expressed themselves entirely satisfied to use each an increased quantity this next Spring. Planting season comes late, and we have very early frosts, and the Poudrette ripens our corn from two to three weeks earlier. We have also found it a preventative of the wire worm, which oftentimes destroys our entire crops. Our mode of applying the Poudrette is, to put about a handful in each hill, and place the seed in direct contact. I think I shall want double the quantity next Spring that I had this year.

Yours, Respectfully,
ABEL HALEY,
Cashier Lake Bank, Wolfboro, N. H

Local.

☞ Sergeant Adams, who is to lecture at the Temple to-night, is a man of talent, education, experience and travel—and will impart a good deal of information, derived from personal observation, on a vitally-important subject, which is now engrossing all attention. See the advertisement.

☞ What a sad set of wretches we live among, judging from the testimony of our friends of the Ballot and the Journal on one hand, and the States & Union on the other. Really, we never should have thought it, but for said evidence—and even that, positive as they all are who give it, is so contradictory and conflicting, that we are not yet entirely convinced in our own mind, that every man we meet is a villain, politically more than socially. Isn't it lucky that there are some of us independent chroniclers yet remaining, to give all sides their due without fear or favor.

☞ We are pleased to learn that a Company of responsible gentlemen have taken that Arctic Hand-Organ (not to mention the owner) in charge, and are ready to grind out music at short notice and on reasonable terms. Orders received by Mr. G. F. Melcher, who is agent for the concern—of which Maj. William H. Hackett is treasurer and manager general. Pipe her up, boys!

☞ A gentleman who has had much to do with music in Portsmouth, for many years, thinks that the decline in singing and the decrease in the number of singers, here, begun with the introduction of organs into the churches, and has been steadily going on ever since—until now there are hardly enough singers in the whole city to form a single full choir, and no signs of improving. There has not been a singing school or class of any sort whatever, for months,—none that amounted to much, for years; and the two Bands, and the new Hand Organ Company are all the musical institutions left among us. We fear vocal music will ere long have to be set down as among the lost arts, in Portsmouth.

☞ For any lack of interesting matters in our columns to-day, we must beg the indulgence of our readers, inasmuch as our working editor—that man "with a p,"—is off duty for a day or two, and we hardly know how to run the machine without him. Will Tenney, of the Brunswick Telegraph, look after him and "bring him safe to his native land?"

☞ The "Piscataqua" Engine Company No. 4 announce their first annual Ball for to-morrow night—and prompt as they are when duty calls, they will no doubt be as well up to time on this pleasant occasion—for which they have so efficient a committee of arrangements.

PROF. BRIGGS' READINGS at the Temple on Wednesday evening, 15th, will attract attention—not alone for the excellence of the performance, but also for the commendable object,—for which see advertisement. Mr. Briggs appears with the best recommendations from the schools and colleges where he has taught, and from the press of the cities where he has read. The Boston Journal says—"in flexibility and management of voice, purity of tone, and sympathy with the sentiments of the author, he is excellent." The Lewiston Journal pronounces him one of the first elocutionists in New England. The Worcester Spy says—"for classical power, nice and discriminating taste and chaste humor," he is unsurpassed by any elocutionist who has visited that city. The Portland Press gives the following compliment:

"Prof. Briggs personates the Irish character with great perfection. Poe's Raven, the Rival Editors, from Pickwick Papers, and the Charge of the Light Brigade, are very finely presented. In the Ghost Scene from Hamlet, he displays the depth and richness of his voice admirably."

☞ It will be seen that Mr. John S. Sides has purchased the Hacking Business connected with Mr. Ferguson's (formerly Mr. Blaisdell's) stable, and will promptly answer all orders in that line.

☞ The Auction Sale of Dry Goods today, by Mr. Wendell, is worthy the attention, not only of the general purchaser, but the dealers as well.

☞ We can hardly credit the rumor that Mr. Strict Constructionist refuses to insure his house or his life, on the ground that all insurance is gambling, and that all companies for the purpose deserve to be indicted. Nor that Mr. C. S. has also withdrawn from the Free Masons and Odd Fellows, as part of the benefits to be derived from those organizations, depend upon certain contingencies. Nor that he refuses to plant corn, because the increase is not a sure thing.

☞ The New York Herald's special Washington dispatch says a rumor was in circulation that Gen. McClellan had tendered his resignation.

☞ Portland has adopted a new city charter by nearly a unanimous vote.

PENNSYLVANIA LAWS.—By a recent act of the Legislature of Pennsylvania, whose benighted wisdom has always been afflicted with "broker on the brain" ever since the failure of their U. S. Bank, all "stock, exchange, bill, note, money, merchandise, real estate brokers and bankers" are taxed $1000 per annum and 10 per cent on all yearly profits over $30,000; and graded down to the the small fry, $40 per annum, without any tax upon their poor pickings. Penalty for not paying the above, double the tax due.

Many such laws have emanated from the solid Dutch and Dunker brilliants assembled at Harrisburg, who believe that education is only the high road to the State-Prison (vide speeches of 1852,) and refuse to pay the school taxes. Witness the laws previously taxing brokers $300 per year—auctioneers $700 to $1300 and a per centage of sales besides, except horse auctioneers, who are free of any impost—fining New Yorkers and New Englanders $700 for each and every felonious act of offering goods by sample in the city of Brotherly Commerce—the informer to get half, and his single evidence conclusive before any magistrate, with imprisonment till paid—fining victims from Delaware, the Jersies, and New England $20 for offering a bank note less than $5, the informer getting half from any magistrate, on his unsupported evidence. It is these and similar Russian laws that have kept and will keep Philadelphia in the back-ground of the commercial race.—Boston Com. Bulletin.

☞ According to the Richmond Enquirer, the Confederate rag, known as the "stars and bars," has gone out of use by general consent, and a crimson battle flag, with a St. Andrew's cross of blue, has been brought about, because of the resemblance of the other thing to the "Yankee concern."

☞ So perfect were the Egyptians in the manufacture of perfumes that some of their ancient ointment, preserved in an alabaster vase in the Museum at Alawick (England) still retains a very powerful odor, though it must be between 2,000 and 3,000 years old.

☞ The Baltimore American reports that all but $5000 of the $95,000 government securities recently stolen from the Adams Express Company have been recovered, either from the persons of the thieves, or from places where they had concealed them.

☞ The supply of coal was completely exhausted in Bath, Me., last week, so that not a pound could be obtained at any of the yards. One or more steam engines were consequently brought to a stand still.

A check draft is applied to this stove by means of which the consumption of fuel is greatly lessened, and a steady fire can be kept day and night if desired.

Ayer's SARSAPARILLA,

THE WORLD'S GREAT REMEDY FOR
Scrofula and Scrofulous Diseases.
From Every Etter, a well-known merchant of Orford, Maine.
"I have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, but never yet one that gave such full satisfaction as the inclosed letter and full satisfaction to those who took it. As fast as our people try it, they agree there has been no medicine like it before in our community."
Eruptions, Pimples, Blotches, Pustules, Ulcers, Scurs, and all Diseases of the Skin.
From Rev. Robt. Strachan, Leyden, England.
"I only do my duty to you and the public, when I add my testimony to that you publish of the marvellous virtues of your SARSAPARILLA. My daughter, aged ten, had an afflicting humor in her ears, eyes, and hair for years, which we were unable to cure until we tried your SARSAPARILLA. She has been well for some months."
From Mrs. Jane Eldridge, a well-known and much-esteemed lady of Dennisville, Cape May Co., N. J.
"My mother has suffered for a year past with a scrofulous eruption, which was very troublesome. Nothing afforded any relief until we tried your SARSAPARILLA, which soon completely cured her."
From Charles P. Gage, Esq., of the widely-known firm of Gage, Murray & Co., manufacturers of enamelled leather, in Haverhill, N. H.
"I had for several years a very troublesome humor in my face, which grew constantly worse until it disfigured my features and became an intolerable affliction. I tried almost every thing a man could of both advice and medicine, but without any relief whatever, until I took your SARSAPARILLA. I immediately noticed that it was doing me good, and in a month I might be a time; but in a few weeks the new skin began to form under the blotches, and continued until my face is as smooth as any body's, and I am without any symptoms of the disease that I knew of. I enjoy perfect health, and without a doubt owe it to your SARSAPARILLA."
Erysipelas—General Debility—Purify the Blood.
From Dr. Robt. Swain, Houston St., New York.
"Dr. AYER: I feel called upon to remove Erysipelas and Scrofulous Sores by the persevering use of your SARSAPARILLA, and I have just now completely cured a case of Malignant Erysipelas with it. No alterative we possess equals the SARSAPARILLA you have supplied to the profession and people."
From J. R. Johnston, Esq., Wakeman, Ohio.
"For twelve years, I had the yellow Erysipelas in my right arm, during which time I applied all the celebrated physicians I could reach, and took hundreds of dollars worth of medicines. The sleeves were so bad that the cords became visible, and the doctors decided that my arm must be amputated. I began taking your SARSAPARILLA. Took two bottles, and some of your PILLS. Together they have saved my arm. I am now as healthy and sound as any body. Being in a public place, my case is known to every body in this community, and excites the wonder of all."
From Hon. Henry Moore, M. P. P., of Newcastle, C. W., a leading member of the Canadian Parliament.
"I have used your SARSAPARILLA in my family, for general debility, and for purifying the blood, with very beneficial results, and feel confidence in commending it to the afflicted."
St. Anthony's Fire, Rose, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Sore Eyes.
From Henry Sickler, Esq., the able editor of the Tuskaloosa Democrat, Pennsylvania.
"One year ago, my little boy, then two years of age, was attacked by pimples on his forehead. They rapidly spread until they formed a loathsome and virulent sore, which covered his face, and actually closed his eyes for some days. A skilful physician applied nitrate of silver and other remedies, without any apparent effect. For fifteen months we guarded his hands, lest with them he should tear open the festering and corrupt wound which covered his whole face. We tried every thing we had or could hear of, hope from, we began giving your SARSAPARILLA, and applying the lotion of potash lotion, as you direct, and we began to hold them up and say he had given the first bottle, and was well when we had finished the second. The child's eyelashes, which had come out, grew again, and he is now as healthy and fair as any other. The whole neighborhood predicted that the child must die."
Syphilis and Mercurial Disease
From Dr. Hiram Shed, of St. Louis, Missouri.
"I find your SARSAPARILLA to be a valuable remedy for the secondary symptoms of Syphilis and for syphilitic disease than any other we possess. The profession are indebted to you for some of the best medicines we have."
From A. J. French, M. D., an eminent physician of Lawrence, Mass., who is a prominent member of the Legislature of Massachusetts.
"Dr. AYER: My dear Sir: I have found your SARSAPARILLA an excellent remedy for Syphilis, and for persons to cast off mercury, and feel well and in some cases that were too obstinate to yield to other remedies. I do not know what we can employ with more certainty of success, where a powerful alterative is required."
Mr. Chas. S. Van Liew, of New Brunswick, N. J., had dreadful ulcers on his legs, caused by the abuse of mercury, or mercurial medicines, which grew more and more aggravated for years, in spite of every remedy or treatment that could be applied, until the physicians gave up his case. SARSAPARILLA relieved him. Few cases can be found more inveterate and distressing than this, and it took several dozen bottles to cure him.
Leucorrhœa, Whites, Female Weakness, accompanied by Ulceration, Inflammation, Scrofulous Irritation, and are very often cured by the alterative effect of this SARSAPARILLA. Some cases require, in the mean time, the use of AYER'S PILLS to relieve the system

"Bound to no party—to no sect confined:
The world our home; our brethren, all mankind.
Love truth, do good, be just and fair with all;
Exalt the right, though every ism fall."

"Let me warn you in the most solemn manner against the baneful effects of the spirit of Party, generally. It is a spirit not to be encouraged.—Its common and continual mischief is sufficient to make it the interest and duty of a wise people to discourage and restrain it. In governments of the popular form, it is seen in its greatest rankness, and is truly their worst enemy."—Washington's Farewell Address.

American and Foreign Patents.
R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of U. S. Patent Office, Washington, (under the Act of 1837,)
75 State Street, opposite Kilby Street,
BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on liberal terms, and with dispatch. Researches made into American or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of patents or inventions—and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.
The Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below given prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional service so moderate.
The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents.
These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and, full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining Patents.
All necessity of a journey to Washington, to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse"
CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents.
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they can not employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their applications in proper form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents
Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges."
JOHN TAGGART.
During eight months, the subscriber, in course of his large practice, made on twice rejected applications SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided in his favor, by the Commissioner of Patents. R. H. EDDY.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 15, 1863.

THE REBELLION.

Our victory in Tennessee was greater and better than first reported. A Nashville dispatch of Monday 13th, says, "the flag of truce sent out from Franklin, yesterday, learned that the rebel Gen. Crosby was wounded, also two of Van Dorn's Aids, in the late battle. The rebels lost heavily in wounded. We captured many horses. Van Dorn expected to capture the town, having received information that the Federal force was only 2500 strong." [Van D. attacked our line at Franklin, on the 10th, with 15,000 rebels, but was repulsed. He lost 300 men; the federals 190. Van Dorn fled without burying his dead.]

Some thirty-five citizens, active and violent rebels, some of whom were on the Vigilance Committee last year, were arrested at Nashville, by order of Gen. Mitchell, and lodged in the penitentiary.

A letter from Col. Sissell, an officer under Gen. Foster, in North Carolina, under date of the 9th, says the latter cannot hold out more than a day longer, being short of provisions and completely surrounded.

The gunboat Valley City, which passed the rebel batteries below Washington, N. C. to Gen. Foster's assistance, was struck by 63 shots. Her subsequent fate is not known.

A letter to the N. Y. Times says the rebel steamer Vicksburg, which broke from her moorings at Vicksburg a few days since, and floated down the river, where she was captured by our vessels, had on board 2000 bales of cotton. The cotton was specially transferred to Loyal craft, as the Vicksburg was useless from want of machinery.

The Richmond Whig of Saturday has nothing later than the 9th from Charleston. At that time the Monitors were in sight from the city.

Gen. Hooker has issued an order in which he repremands in general terms officers who send incorrect information from the picket lines. The outposts of our army, he says, are its safeguards, and this duty must be so performed that the camps are not unnecessarily disturbed. Officers will be held responsible that their reports from the front are perfectly reliable. Corps Commanders will take effectual measures prevent straggling, which must not be omitted.

Beauregard reports that on the 9th Gen. W. S. Walker destroyed one of our armed steamers in Coosaw river on our side. Coosaw river is a few miles south of Pocataligo. It separates Port Royal Island from the main land.

The Richmond Dispatch of the 10th admits a bad defeat of Gen. Pegram in Kentucky, and says the rebel loss was heavy.—The Dispatch also says Gen. Rosecrans has sent five regiments of infantry to Kentucky, and has ordered all the cavalry from that State to his army at Murfreesboro'.

The Times' letter from New Orleans says Gen. Banks is fortifying all the approaches to the city strongly. The enemy are believed to have 75,000 men, who can be concentrated near the city at twelve hours' notice. Some apprehensions of a raid from Mobile on Ship Island are entertained.

The rebels under Longstreet attacked our force near Yorktown on Saturday. They were repulsed and fell back to Williamsburg, leaving behind considerable ammunition and other spoils. Pryor also assumed threatening attitude toward our forces at Suffolk—it was thought, to prevent reinforcements from being sent to Gen. Foster.

The Port Royal New South of the 11th says the fight at Charleston was renewed on the 10th; but a dispatch, seemingly authenticated, says the ironsides and six iron-clads remained off the bar on the 11th, and that Gen. Hunter, with his army, would leave for Port Royal on the next day. Nothing new had transpired since the 7th.

The gunboat Washington having run aground in Broad river on the 8th, was destroyed—a shot from a rebel battery striking her magazine.

☞ George L. Deming, who lost both hands while firing a salute at Hartford in honor of the Union triumph, has received the most liberal and substantial expressions of sympathy from his fellow townsmen. It is proposed to raise a fund of 10,000 dollars for himself and family.

☞ The estate of the late S. A. Douglas, in Chicago, has been inventoried at seven hundred thousand dollars, but there are encumbrances upon it equal to its appraised value. The executors report that there is no personal property.

☞ The N. Y. Herald's Washington dispatch says there is reason to believe that the conscription act will be indefinitely postponed. Opinion has been expressed by high authorities that the armies in the field are amply sufficient, and all that is necessary is to fill up the depleted regiments by recruiting.

Truth is an apostle, before whom every cowardly Felix trembles.

LETTER FROM NEW ORLEANS.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

It has come at last—the great abolition bubble has broken. The elephant captured in New Orleans is threatening to eat all his capter's subsistence—the following advertisement appears in the Era,—as if the people of New Orleans could so far forget a life-long education, as to employ servants who, in the first part of the notice, are mentioned as runaways. Drunkenness would be as fit a qualification for an engineer on a Northern railroad:—

OFFICE SUPERINTENDENT OF NEGRO LABOR, NEW ORLEANS, }

Situations Wanted.—Having many colored house Servants under my charge, who cannot be induced to return to their owners, and who are unfit for plantation labor, and believing that many persons would be willing to employ them at a reasonable compensation, I will furnish to any one wishing to hire good cooks, laundresses, coachmen, body servants and mechanics, who will be permitted to receive wages for their labor.

Office, Park Hotel. GEO. H. HANKS,
Lt. and Gen'l Supt. of Negro Labor.

The statements made in Northern and Western papers of the misery, squalor and mortality caused wherever large bodies of "contrabands" are centered, is fully borne out by my personal observation here. In one house, 226 Levee street, in this city, no less than twenty-seven inquests have been held on the bodies of runaway negroes since the arrival of the Federal forces; and the amount of prostitution among the colored population exhibits a terrible increase.—Their bodies have been freed, but their lives of innocence have been exchanged for a slavery more damning than any of which the chain or the lash are a symbol.

Don't take my word for this, but cast your eye at the court records in the papers I send you, and you will start back aghast at the ripeness of crime to which one little year has brought a people, down to whose level the administration would drag twenty millions of the Anglo Saxon race.

Lieut. Charles Howard, U. S. A., the nigger who made a business of manufacturing passes, signing Gen. Banks' name thereto, was last Saturday sentenced to eighteen months hard labor at Fort Pickens. That's one of your better educated nigs. Let us make haste and teach them all.

We have very elegant mail arrangements here now. The Roanoke arrived here last Saturday night with one day's mail;—that for the five days preceding having been shipped on some transport, may be expected in the course of a week. The Star of the South (transport) brought out a large mail, was telegraphed to proceed to Pensacola to bring troops here, and returned in time to land her mails here in eight days from the time she was first reported to have crossed the bar. Pleasant for business men, who are supposed to pay for having their letters brought them.

The steamship I* chartered to Government at $1200 per day, was detained here two days to receive two hundred hogsheads of sugar, and two more at Key West—to take in fuel displaced on account of said freight. The agent pocketed $40 commission, Government a freight of about $850, while the latter paid on account of detention about $5000. That's the way the money goes. IOX.

☞ The fact of any communication or letter appearing in these columns, is no evidence whatever that the sentiments are approved or endorsed by the Chronicle. We rarely refuse a well-written article, especially if it presents any facts or fresh arguments; and we rather prefer to print the views of such correspondents as differ from our own, rather than those who agree with us,—if any such there be.

For instance, one from whom we have received many favors, and whose writings are always readable, gives a letter to-day, which he evidently considers as going to confirm his views, that the negroes are an inferior race, and that both races are better off when the blacks are slaves, than when they are obliged to take care of themselves. While another old and valued, but rather "oracular" correspondent, thinks "a nigger is as good as a white man, if he behaves as well," and takes pleasure in making himself the special pleader for and defender of the slave.

Well, this Chronicle, itself, has no opinion or preference on the subject at all, but is independent enough to admit both to these columns—though it has given a hundred columns of "abolition," to one of even toleration to slavery. We are willing to take things as they come—and while we never regarded black slavery as more particularly "the sum of all villanies" than white; neither do we now fear that emancipation, if it can ever be bought about, will destroy all things. We always have faith in the future, we do.

☞ The Boston Commercial Bulletin is one of the best papers in the land—probably the best of the kind, and a very valuable kind it is too. Every live business man ought to read it. We can't give details of its excellence, but for amusement and information respecting the brokers, the weekly "Revelations" are intensely interesting.—No "gambling" at the stockboard, oh no!

NEW HAMPSHIRE ITEMS.

—— The Manchester Mirror, of Monday, says the Merrimack river at that place is very high and is still rising, having risen five feet since Saturday. It rose three inches from 8 till 9 o'clock Monday morning. A portion of the work in the machine shop stopped on account of the high water.

—— The Union Fair at Manchester is to be held on the 13th, 14th and 15th of May:—and the American understands it to be a fixed fact that the coming Fourth of July will be celebrated in Manchester in a patriotic manner, arrangements having already been made which will secure the successful accomplishment of so desirable an object.

—— Timothy W. Little, a prominent citizen of Manchester, died there on Sunday, aged 57: an officer in the Episcopal church: a public spirited, enterprising man.

—— The Manchester American's Concord correspondent rejoices over the failure of the mob to clean out the Patriot,—and states that the city authorities had all the regular police force, together with a large number of "special," on duty at the threatened locality, arrested one or two ringleaders, and nipped the plan in the bud. The Mirror is "happy to state that but very few of the soldiers of the soldiers of regiment sympathized with the acts of those who made the attempt;—the officers of the regiment succeeded in preventing harm, and the whole thing resulting in an alarm."

THE PIANO-FORTE DRAWING. — The Boston Post says a large audience attended Mr. Gilmore's concert on Saturday evening, the prominent feature of which was the drawing of the lucky number that decided the fate of the piano. Madame Anna Bishop, the splendid singer and estimable lady, deemed the interesting occasion a fitting opportunity to present Mr. Gilmore with a beautiful baton, of ebony and gold, accompanied with a highly complimentary letter. Mr. Gilmore briefly responded, accepting the gift very gratefully, after which the committee of five gentlemen appointed to arrange for the drawing proceeded at once to the task assigned them. The numbers, amounting o 1702, were placed in a glass box with an opening in the top, which was set upon the table, and the committee called upon the audience for some one to be blindfolded, who should draw out the numbers, the tenth of which would decide the fate of the piano. A boy was selected, who was blindfolded and placed besidethe box. The drawing then commenced, and the lucky number proved to be 743, held, as declared, by "Miss Mary F. Smith, No. 24 Oxford Street." The announcement was received with a good natured round of applause, and the concert closed with the National airs. So "nobody was hurt," and the soldiers got a rousing benefit from Mr. Gilmore's harmless scheme.

SMALL SCREWS.—The editor of the Scientific American has visited the American Watch Manufactory at Waltham, Mass., and among other things, tells of some infinitesimal jewel-screws made there.

The observer, going through the factory, sees some young women very busily employed with a small wire running in a lathe. He is told that these persons are making screws, and is requested to examine some of them and see how beautifully they are made. The visitor takes up a small box by the side of the lathe, and, looking into it, is rather disposed to consider himself the victim of a practical joke, as the contents resemble nothing in the world so much as rifle powder. He may be pardoned for some scepticism as to the fact of these little steel grains possessing any value and is not until they are examined thro' a strong magnifying glass that they resolve themselves into actual bolts (we may now call them,) possessing all the features in common with other screws, countersunk heads, threads and grooves for the reception of a screw-driver. We dare say that there may be pins in the world having heads as small as one of these little screws, but we assert that we never saw any. We have also said that these screws have threads; they have, and the general details of their production are the same as those employed in an ordinary sized bolt for mechanical purposes, with only the exception that these minute specks are much more perfect than the larger ones generally are. These screws are hardened and blued, fifty-two of them weigh one grain, and about 300,000 weigh one pound! The threads are cut with dies, and these dies are threaded with a machine-made tap—that is, one cut in an engine lathe. There are 240 threads in an inch, which is a fineness of division invisible to the naked eye. The market value of a pound of such screws is about thirty-six hundred dollars!

☞ A Democratic City Government was chosen in Hartford, Conn., Monday, by a majority of 450.

☞ The Deseret News comes to us this week from Great Salt Lake City, printed on paper almost sky blue. Sometimes it comes out on brown paper. It is well printed and ably edited; and although, like the Mormon leaders, it is charged with being disloyal to the Union, yet this issue at least must be allowed to be true blue.

It is said that Buchanan always abstained from matrimony because of a constitutional disposition to shirk responsibilities.—Deseret (Utah) News.

Brigham Young doesn't abstain from the responsibilities, does he? He is said to have scores of "wives" and hundreds of children.

☞ A London letter of the 28th ult., in the N. Y. Herald, says probably direct orders have been sent to Admiral Milne to capture Com. Wilkes and the Vanderbilt, the special ground being the capture of the Peterhoff. The N. Y. Times says the Attorney General is in doubt if the capture of the steamer Peterhoff can be sustained on the principles of public law. Lord Lyons has demanded her mail, which is in New York, unopened.

☞ Wm. Barney, a man 60 years old, who is said to have formerly resided in Eliot, Me., committed suicide on Sunday morning at the house of his son-in-law, in Charlestown, Mass., by taking laudanum.—Family trouble is said to be the cause. The deceased leaves a wife, from whom he had separated, and several adult children.

A NEW BOOK of GREAT INTEREST,

By REV. WM. M. THAYER,

Author of "THE BONNIE BOY," "THE PRINTER BOY," "POOR BOY & MERCHANT PRINCE," etc.

It is a narrative of the early life, education, and training of ABRAHAM LINCOLN, and is entitled

The Pioneer Boy,

AND HOW HE BECAME President.

The well-known ability of the author in this difficult department of literature gives assurance that the forthcoming work will be of real interest and value.

He has devoted the leisure of two years in collecting his material from the relatives and early friends of his hero, and woven the results of his investigations and inquiries into a graceful narrative, which will be at once readable and helpful.

Every American Youth should study the career of

and learn how energy, industry and honesty overcome every obstacle to a useful and honorable career.

MONITOR CLOTHES WRINGER!

THE ONLY PERFECTLY SELF ADJUSTING MACHINE IN THE MARKET!

The pressure in this Machine is put on in putting it on the tub, and removed in taking from the tub, all at one operation, an arrangement which no other Wringer has. It has no rubber bands or thumb screws to take off and unscrew, which may be neglected and spoil the rollers.

It is perfectly SELF-ADJUSTING in every respect.

The many advantages of Wringers are too well known to need any farther comments. But we might add that it is almost the only successful labor-saving Machine invented for women's use. In short, it saves labor, clothes, time and strength, and does the work better. It saves its cost in three months. It will make a fair trial to convince one that the above is perfectly true.

☞ Call and examine. The money refunded if not perfectly satisfactory.

POUDRETTE.

J. F. SHORES, JR., No. 1 Congress Block, has now on hand a large supply of this valuable manure. The price this year will be $1.70 per Barrel, without regard to quantity, delivered at any wharf or depot in this city. ☞ A discount from this price to those who buy to sell again.

Read the following recommendation from the Cashier of the Lake Bank, Wolfboro', N. H.

WOLFBORO, N. H., Lake Winnipisseogee, }
Nov. 10, 1862. }

Agents Lodi Manufacturing Co., Boston.

GENTS.:—I have used the Poudrette made by your Co. for two years. The first year I used four barrels, and experimented with it on both corn and potatoes. I was pleased and satisfied with the result, and the past season purchased over 100 barrels for my own use, and my neighbors. I think some twenty-five different farmers tried and used the Poudrette on my recommendation, and all have the Full expressed themselves entirely satisfied to use each an increased quantity this next spring. Planting season comes late, and we have very early frosts, and the Poudrette ripens our corn from two to three weeks earlier. We have also found it a preventative of the wire worm, which often destroys our entire crop. Our mode of applying the Poudrette is, to put about a handful in each hill and place the seed in direct contact. I think I shall want double the quantity next Spring that I had this year.

Yours, Respectfully,
ABEL BALLY,
Cashier Lake Bank, Wolfboro, N. H

Local.

☞ Prof. Briggs' Elocutionary Entertainment, at the Temple, this (Wednesday) evening, would seem to be sufficiently attractive in itself and for its object to fill the hall. Mr. B. occupies the high position of professor of elocution at Bowdoin college; and his recent Readings have met with great approbation and success, everywhere. The list of pieces for to-night is sufficiently varied to suit all tastes, and we hope a liberal sum will be netted for the Sanitary Commission.

☞ For the information of those, if any there be, among our readers, who are so unfortunately lazy as not to hear "the 5 o'clock bell"—we would state that the North bell commenced to ring (though, sad to say, there isn't much of "the true ring" in it, of late,) at that hour, on Monday morning.—This, with the appearance of that hand organ, we suppose may be regarded as sure evidence that Spring is indeed coming—as the charming weather of the past few days would indicate.

APPOINTMENTS OF METHODIST MINISTERS. — Portsmouth, Sullivan Holman; Rye, Wm. H. Stewart; Greenland, George S. Barnes; Hampton, Sam'l F. Whidden; Dover, Linville J. Hall; Great Falls, Chas. ☞ Squib wants to know if this Chronicle has at last really become the organ of a clique? He must refer to that hand-organ monopoly, we guess; but any fool ough to see that that is the organ for us, not we for that or any other man. Give us a tuner and let the chorus be our favorite one:

"Hurrah, hurrah, keep the motion,
Every man to his own notion."

☞ The staunch and trim little steamer "Sunflower," of 277 tons burthen, just built by Messrs. Brown & Lovell, of East Boston, for George B. Upton, Esq., has been purchased by Government at an expense of $40,000. She came round the other day, and towed the new gunboat Sassacus (not Portsmouth, as given in the Boston Transcript,) from the Portsmouth Navy Yard to Charlestown; and the Sunflower will at once proceed South.

SHIP JOHN A. PARKS,—Capt. Cooper, from New York for Montevideo, which was burnt by the British pirate Alabama, was built at Portsmouth, N H., in 1856, was 1050 tons burthen, and owned in Boston.—So say the papers. But the vessel was built at Portsmouth in Virginia, not here.

PLANT CORN.—Put in the plow; put on the manure; sow the grain and plant Indian corn and potatoes in due season. All will be wanted. On a general look over the country the Commercial Bulletin says, the balance of last year's grain crop remaining on hand is generally small. The demand for live stock for the subsistence of the army, added to the difficulty of getting their crops to market, induced most farmers in remote districts to deal out their corn in liberal rations to the cattle and hogs, and in this way they have realized a liberal return from it. The government demand for forage for the cavalry service has also nearly drained the West of oats, and a large portion of all the good spring wheat remaining will be required for seed. With the current demand for export and consumption, it is quite certain that the residue of the grain crop will be used up pretty close before the next harvest.

—— Ferdinand Gerrish, Sergeant of Co. E, 13th Regt. N. H. Vols., was sent to Fort Hamilton to conduct some soldiers to their regiment, and on his way with them had reached Newark, N. J., April 7, on a railroad train. As it stopped, he stepped on a platform to look after his men, when a sudden start of the train threw him off, and two or three cars passed over him, crushing one thigh, and injuring him so that he died next morning. He leaves a wife and two young children at Newmarket.

It is much better to use with cream tartar than soda. Try one paper, and you will be convinced. Most of the Grocers sell it. Depot 112 Liberty Street, New York.

DEATHS.

In this city, on Monday morning, WILLIAM THOMPSON PENHALLOW, aged 18 years 11 mos., son of Capt. Pearce W. Penhallow.

Is his "the spirit of a beast which goeth downward to the earth?" "Who knoweth?" But our beloved "Master and Lord" taught us to "have faith in God;"—then do we triumphantly exclaim how nobly, how beautifully, how lovingly did he gird himself for his sublime upward flight.—After a life which manifested, both in sentiment and "deed," much of harmony with "the truth," and after a wearisome and painful illness of ten weeks, on the morning of his departure, soon after the rising of the sun, he desired to get up and be dressed; then walked to the window and remarked on the beauty of the glowing sun, and, as now seems to us, as if surveying the "pavement of those heavenly courts where he should walk." Soon afterwards he expressed extreme weakness and illness, and at about 6 o'clock remarked to the dear one about him who had with devoted care watched over and ministered to him, that he was dying; and with perfect composure and manliness, affectionately embracing them severally, thus passed from mortal sight. "Weep not for me." COM.

☞ ATTENTION, THE WHOLE! ☜

RYE, N.H., Feb. 26, 1846. "I hereby certify that my daughter has had the salt rheum for a number of years—some of the time so badly as to prevent her labor, or even rest—as it affected her so much. A large sum had been expended to the most celebrated physicians, for Sarsaparilla Syrup, &c., &c., but she obtained no relief until I procured some ten or twelve bottles of Dr. SWEET'S PANACEA, and several bottles of his Humor Wash, which have effected a cure. There can be no mistake, as this cure was effected more than three years ago. No other medicines can equal Dr. Sweet's in removing the various kinds of humors. I have sold it to a number of my acquaintances, who were afflicted, and witnessed many full cures effected by it since I have acted as agent for the sale of it. JOSIAH HOWARD.

PORTSMOUTH, April 21st, 1862.

I have for several years been afflicted with distress at my stomach, loss of appetite, and often vomited up all of my food immediately after eating it, and all medicine failed to give any relief until about a year ago, when I took one bottle of DR. S. SWEET'S PANACEA, which fully cured me, so that I have not had the least trouble from any of these complaints since, and I enjoy good health. M. LOWD.

From ELDER I CHESLEY, Lee, May 31, 1841.

DR. SWEET: Permit me to testify, as I feel in duty bound to do, that my daughter was afflicted with scrofulous humor, and that previous to your visiting our house in the spring of 1840, she had been confined for a number of months, without her natural rest by day or night. She had applied to a number of physicians, but continued to grow weaker till she commenced using your PANACEA and HUMOR WASH. Since then, she has recovered her health so far as to rest quietly by night, and labor by day. I esteem your medicine one of the best that can be found for the disease above named." ISRAEL CHESLEY

☞ Any one returning the remainder of a bottle or box of Dr. Sweet's medicines shall have pay for it, if it do not agree with his case, or if not worth the price. All orders directed to DR. S. SWEET, Portsmouth, N. H., promptly attended to. may26o

A full set of Claude Duval, and also a large variety of other works, too numerous to mention.

The peculiar taint or infection which we call Scrofula lurks in the constitutions of multitudes of men. It either produces or is produced by an enfeebled, vitiated state of the blood, wherein that fluid becomes incompetent to sustain the vital forces in their vigorous action, and leaves the system to fall into disorder and decay. The scrofulous contamination is variously caused by mercurial disease, low living, disordered digestion from unhealthy food, impure air, filth and filthy habits, the depressing vices, and, above all, by the venereal infection. Whatever be its origin, it is hereditary in the constitution, descending "from parents to children unto the third and fourth generation;" indeed, it seems to be the rod of Him who says, "I will visit the iniquities of the fathers upon their children." The diseases it originates take various names, according to the organs it attacks. In the lungs, Scrofula produces tubercles, and finally Consumption; in the glands, swellings which suppurate and become ulcerous sores; in the stomach and bowels, derangements which produce indigestion, dyspepsia, and liver complaints; on the skin, eruptive and cutaneous affections. These, all having the same origin, require the same remedy, viz., purification and invigoration of the blood. Purify the blood, and these dangerous distempers leave you. With feeble, foul, or corrupted blood, you cannot have health; with that "life of the flesh" healthy, you cannot have scrofulous disease.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

is compounded from the most effectual antidotes that medical science has discovered for this afflicting distemper, and for the cure of the disorders it entails. That it is far superior to any other remedy yet devised, is known by all who have given it a trial. That it does combine virtues truly extraordinary in their effect upon this class of complaints, is indisputably proven by the great multitude of publicly known and remarkable cures it has made of the following diseases: King's Evil, or Glandular Swellings, Tumors, Eruptions, Pimples, Blotches and Sores, Erysipelas, Rose or St. Anthony's Fire, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Coughs from tuberculous deposits in the lungs, White Swellings, Debility, Dropsy, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Syphilis and Syphilitic Infections, Mercurial Diseases, Female Weaknesses, and, indeed, the whole series of complaints that arise from impurity of the blood. Minute reports of individual cases may be found in AYER'S AMERICAN ALMANAC, which is furnished to the druggists for gratuitous distribution, wherein may be learned the directions for its use, and some of the remarkable cures which it has made when all other remedies had failed to afford relief. These cases are purposely taken from all sections of the country, in order that every reader may have access to some one who can speak so him of its benefits from personal experience. Scrofula depresses the vital energies, and thus leaves its victims far more subject to disease and its fatal results than are healthy persons. Scrofula, when it tends to shorten, and does greatly shorten, the average duration of human life. The vast importance of these considerations has led us to spend years in perfecting a remedy which is adequate to its cure. This we now offer to the public under the name of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, although it is composed of ingredients, some of which exceed the best of Sarsaparilla in alterative power. By its aid you may protect yourself from the suffering and danger of these disorders. Purge out the foul corruptions that rot and fester in the blood, purge out the causes of disease, and vigorous health will follow. By its peculiar virtues this remedy stimulates the vital functions, and thus expels the distempers which lurk within the system or burst out on any part of it.

We know the public have been deceived by many compounds of Sarsaparilla, that promised much and did nothing; but they will neither be deceived nor disappointed in this. Its virtues have been proven by abundant trial, and there remains no question of its surpassing excellence for the cure of the afflicting diseases it is intended to reach. Although under the same name, it is a very different medicine from any other which has been before the people, and is far more effectual than any other which has ever been available to them.

AYER'S

CHERRY PECTORAL,

The World's Great Remedy for Coughs, Colds, Incipient Consumption, and for relief of Consumptive patients in advanced stages of the disease.

This has been so long used and so universally known, that we need do no more than assure the public that its quality is kept up to the best it ever has been, and that it may be relied on to do all it has ever done.

Prepared by DR. J. C. AYER & CO., Practical and Analytical Chemists, LOWELL, Mass.

Sold by all druggists every where.

IMPORTANT TO THE AFFLICTED.

DR. DOW continues to be consulted at his office, No. 2 and 4 ENDICOTT STREET, Boston, on all diseases of a

PRIVATE OR DELICATE NATURE.

By a long course of study and practical experience of an eminent extent, Dr. D. has now the gratifying assurance of being able to cure those with whom medicine has hitherto proved ineffectual, or who have been deceived by quacks.

GONORRHŒA AND SYPHILIS.

Beyond his treatment, all the horrors of venereal and impure blood, impotency, scrotula, tumors, &c., cancers, pain and distress in the regions of procreation, inflammations of the bladder and kidneys, urinary ocelli, Abscesses, Humors, Rheumatic Swellings, and the long train of horrible symptoms attending this class of complaints, are now treated as far in less as the simplest ailings of a child.

SEMINAL WEAKNESS.

Dr. D. devotes a great part of his time to the treatment of those cases caused by secret and solitary habit, which ruins the boy ere manhood, and the man ere he has attained to honor or society. None of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, are to be seen in the Pale Countenance, Diseased Head, Dim sense of sight, Palpitation of the heart, Dyspepsia, Nervous ness, Derangement of the Digestive Organs, Premature Decay, Consumption, &c. The tearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded; loss of memory, confusion of ideas, aversion to the sight of company, shunning the society, self-distrust, timidity, &c., are among the evils produced. Such persons should before contemplating marriage, consult a physician of experience, and be at once restored to health and happiness.

Patients who wish to remain under Dr Dow's treatment a few days or a week, will be furnished with pleasant rooms, and charges for board moderate.

Medicines sent to all part s of the country, with full directions for use, on receiving description of your case. Dr. Dow is also for sale the French Capsules, warranted the best preventive. Order by mail. Three for $1 and a red stamp.

Highly important!

To Females in Delicate Health.

DR. DOW, Physician and Surgeon, No. 2 & 4 Endicott Street, Boston, is consulted daily for all diseases incident to the female system. Prolapsus Uteri, or falling of the Womb, Fluor Albus, Suppressed, Painful and Irregular Menstruation, are all treated upon new pathological principles, and speedy relief guaranteed in a few days. So invariably certain is the new mode of treatment, that most obstinate complaints yield to it under it, and the afflicted person soon rejoices in perfect health.

Dr. Dow has had more medical and surgical experience in the cure of Cases of Women and children, than any other physician in Boston.

Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.

Dr. Dow, since 1845, having constantly had whole attention in the office practice, for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

N. B.—All letters must contain a red stamp, or they will not be answered.

Office Hours from 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.

CERTAIN CURE

In all cases, or No Charges Made.

Dr. Dow is consulted daily, from 8 A. M. to 9 P. M. as above, upon all difficult and chronic diseases of every name and nature, having by his unwearied attention and unbounded success gained a reputation which calls patients from all parts of the country to obtain advice.

Among the physicians in Boston, none stands higher in the profession than the office rival of Dr. DOW, No. 7 Endicott street, Boston. Those who have tried his skill, have experienced physicians, and surgeon should give him a call.

P. S.—Dr. Dow imports and has for sale a new article, called the FRENCH SECRET. Order by mail. Two for $1 and a red stamp.

THE MAGEE COOKING STOVE,

The subscribers, having received their Fall stock of Stoves, would especially call the attention of the public to the

CELEBRATED AND UNEQUALLED

MAGEE COOK STOVE,

as the very best Stove yet made, and would invite those about purchasing or exchanging Stoves, to examine this, believing it to be far superior to any other Stove yet invented, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual. The oven doors are covered with heavy iron which renders it equal to the old-fashioned brick oven for perfection in baking.

There is a new style and very superior broiler and iron heater combined, by which the odor of broiling meat is prevented escaping into the room. With the extension top there is a large copper Reservoir for hot water; also a large tin warming-closet attached, in which any article can be kept warm, while the other parts of the Stove are occupied for other purposes.

The arrangements for sifting the coal and cleaning the grate are far superior to those of any other Stove now in use, as no dust can possibly escape into the room, and the shovelling up of the ashes is entirely dispensed with. The fire is regulated by the same handle as in the MAGEE PARLOR STOVE, and can be continued day and night for weeks together, thus saving the expense of kindling every day.

For economy, durability, ease of management, cleanliness and perfection in cooking, it cannot be surpassed by any other stoves, as hundreds of families in this city and vicinity, who are now using them, are willing to testify, and speak of them in the highest terms of praise

"MAGEE'S PATENT"

VENTILATING & AIR WARMING

FURNACES.

The subscribers, being the Sole Agents in this vicinity for the manufacture and sale of this valuable Furnace, would ask those about remodelling or erecting buildings to examine this truly valuable invention.

For economy, purity of air and ease of management it has no equal, producing a current of warm air, moist and agreeable;—and as none of the air which comes in contact with the fire-pot is used for respiration, the tendency to produce headache so much complained of in other furnaces, is entirely obviated.

The objects aimed at by the constructors of heating apparatus have been to obtain the greatest amount of heat from a given amount of fuel, and to prevent the escape of heat to the smoke pipe or chimney.

To accomplish this many complicated and expensive heating arrangements have been constructed, some possessing but little improvement over former models, while many have proved a total failure. The reason for this is obvious. The combustible gases being lighter than the air, pass off into the pipe or chimney without being consumed. This objection, so common in other Furnaces, is obviated in the

MAGEE FURNACE.

The flue or pipe in this Furnace being below the fire-pot, the gases, from their specific gravity, cannot descend, and are burned up by the admission of cold air through the fire-pot, which ignites them as they pass off from the fuel, thus saving at least 50 per cent. of the properties of the heat in the fuel.

No heating apparatus with the smoke-pipe or flue on a level with the top of the fuel can consume the gases of the coal, as they pass off with a large amount of the heat generated, making the chimney the hottest part of your dwelling.

This Furnace can be set with the same number of pipes and angles for the radiation of heat, which are so liable to fill up and get out of order, thus simplifying, while it increases the surface of radiation.

These Furnaces consume all the coal, make no clinkers, the sifting of coal is entirely dispensed with, and they will save from 30 to 50 per cent. of fuel over common Furnaces.

For ease of management, economy and purity of air, these Furnaces have no equal. They can be regulated so as to give any amount of heat required, and the fire may be kept the entire season without once going out.

They give entire satisfaction wherever used. We have in store the different sizes, Brick and Portable, to which we invite the attention of those in want of the best Furnace in the world,—and would refer them to the following named gentlemen, who have them now in use:

Samuel Cleaves, Esq.,	Albert E. Hatch, Esq.,
Aaron H. Hill,	Charles H. Mendum,
Henry F. Wendell,	John Sise, and others.

Teeth on Vulcanized Rubber,

SOME OF ITS ADVANTAGES.

1st. It is stronger and lighter than any known material.

2d. From two to six times the amount of suction or adhesion can be obtained on the upper jaw, thus giving a firmer support, and preventing the food from lodging under the plate.

3d. When the arch is irregular we can by building out the depressions—which can be done to any extent—give the mouth a more natural appearance.

4th. No bad taste arises in the mouth by its use, as it does with the metals, and the stomach and mouth do not affect it in the least.

5th. Teeth mounted upon this base can be kept clean and sweet as a gold or silver set, as then finished the work presents one whole piece.

6th. While in all ways it is better, save in a few peculiar cases, it is much cheaper than Gold.

DR. A. P. STEVENS, Surgeon Dentist,

No. 5 Daniel St., Portsmouth,

Has had four years of practical experience in making this material, and will guarantee satisfaction in all cases entrusted to his care.

Portsmouth, Jan. 1, 1863.

DENTISTRY.

No. 60 CONGRESS STREET,
Portsmouth, Jan. 1st, 1863.

DR. GOODALL

Would respectfully inform his patrons and the public, that he had of late many calls to insert teeth upon a VULCANIZED RUBBER BASE, and has purchased the best VULCANIZER in the market, and is now prepared to do all work upon RUBBER, or the usual base—as GOLD and SILVER as formerly, if preferred.

The Rubber has several important advantages, viz.: It is very light and elastic, and consequently is perfectly easy to the muscles of the mouth and cheeks. There are no insterstices or open joints to collect food, &c.; consequently they can be worn night and day, and are very easily kept neat and clean.

Beside all this, the most accurate fit is obtained, as the Rubber is Vulcanized directly upon the plaster model, and the suction is of course much stronger than in plates of Gold or Silver.

Any one who is waiting for their permanent teeth until I am convalescent, be perfectly satisfied with the Rubber, as a base. The expense is but a little more than for Silver, and you get the same style of block that you would pay $60.00 for an upper or lower set on Gold.

In New York and Boston, and throughout the West, Vulcanized Rubber is used almost to the exclusion of the other bases, and by the best Dentists too. I will warrant a perfect fit and teeth from the best manufacturer in the country, S. S. White.

ALL OTHER OPERATIONS IN DENTISTRY I will do at the usual rates. I will here mention that my price for EXTRACTING is 25 cents.

I take pleasure in referring the public to Dr. TREADWELL, Dr. BOARDMAN, Dr. OLIVER and Dr. WEBSTER, for particular success in extracting Teeth. Teeth extracted without pain and with perfect safety, with Ether. Teeth polished to their natural whiteness without pain or injury to the Enamel. Reputation of Adults' and Children's Teeth will receive particular attention.—All whole and partial Sets of Teeth repaired with Neatness and Dispatch. All other operations in Dentistry, I will do at the usual rates.

Please call and examine specimens of Artificial Teeth upon Vulcanized Rubber, Gold and Silver.

THURSDAY, APRIL 16, 1863.

NAVAL WARFARE.

As a practical matter, it is of no consequence to us whether the British Government is so weak that it cannot prevent piratical vessels fitting out in her ports to prey on our commerce, or so wicked that it will not.

Its neutrality in this matter, is like ours in the war between Texas and Mexico, all a sham. But the offence is real and flagrant—and we must either meet it with something solid or else suffer by it.

Merchants and mariners look to Government for liberty and authority to fit out and issue letters of marque, or ships of war of some character, promptly.

The Boston Traveller urges something like this,—and the Commercial Bulletin says "already our commerce outrivals that of all other nations, while our navy is so insignificant that it cannot afford protection against a couple of pirates. This is a humiliating fact for so great a nation, and it is time that it was corrected.

But the question may be asked—How is this to be accomplished? We answer—By the commercial classes themselves providing for their own protection. In a single year of ordinary speculation they produced nearly six hundred thousand tons of the finest shipping that ever graced the ocean, and we believe if they are all united they can even now double that amount.

While we freely concede to the President and his Cabinet the best intentions, yet we are not blind to the fact that many of those upon whom they rely to carry their measures into effect are utterly unqualified, and hence the numerous disasters which we all deplore. If we wish to protect our commerce from destruction we must act for ourselves, and show the Government what a people resolved can do without its aid.—Our commercial classes can easily increase our navy a million tons in a year, and unless the attempt is made it requires no prophet to predict that our commerce will be swept from the seas by British pirates, the blockade of the Southern ports will be raised, New Orleans recaptured, and the Confederacy recognized.

We have no doubt that Congress and the Government will readily accept such a naval force as we now urge our commercial classes to build and equip, and will be but too happy to encourage them in their patriotic efforts.

It is too well known to require repetition that the rebels have neither ships nor sailors, and hence the pretence of the English that such vessels are Confederates is an infamous lie. It is against British pirates, not our rebel countrymen, that we shall soon be compelled to protect ourselves. The question is—Shall we do it, or submit like slaves?"

☞ The regular dispatch from New York, of Monday evening, states that a riot that day between the negro and Irish laborers was quite serious for a time. The Irish are said to have commenced the difficulty, and hurled missles at the negroes, driving them off a pier into boats. At this moment one of the negroes fired a pistol, wounding James Agar in the head, not seriously.

Another account says Agar's wound was inflicted by a brick thrown by one of the mob behind him. The riot was soon stopped by the police.

☞ A correspondent of the Horticulturist gives an account of the address delivered by Baron Von Tscudi, the celebrated Swiss Naturalist, at a late agricultural meeting at St. Galley in Switzerland.

"Without birds," said he, "no agriculture and vegetation are possible. They accomplish in a few months the profitable work of destruction which millions of human hands could not do half as well in as many years.

"STEADY, BOYS, STEADY."—It is truly said by the Newburyport Herald,—"We are too easily elated and too easily cast down. We want a steady determination that shall measure the whole field and look to the end. We may not hope for victory in a day, or for peace in a week; but if the monitors have succeeded in making one hole in Somter's walls, two can be made; and if two, they will take it at last if they keep pounding away. Or if Charleston can't be had by 9 monitors, add 29, but keep to work. And if Charleston can be reduced another place can, and a hundred, till the rebellion is crushed. We have men and means—money and ships, credit and courage; we gain to-day, to-morrow and the third day, and there can be no doubt of the result."

☞ A Congregational Society, in Auburn, Me., has voted to substitute the Mission or Sabbath School for the usual forenoon services, the afternoon service to remain as heretofore.

☞ An officer of a British man-of-war, off Mobile, reports the capture of the City of Mexico by the French.

☞ Gold closed in New York on Wednesday at 153.

THE REBELLION.

The iron-clad Patapsco has been repaired at Port Royal, and is again ready for service. Our fleet lay inside of Charleston bar on the evening of the 11th: part of the small land force had sailed for Port Royal. Naturally the comments on the result of the attack are various, and the reports conflicting. One rumor is that the entire iron-clad fleet will be sent to the Mississippi.—"Perley" states that it is the opinion in Washington, that the unofficial accounts, prompted by the desire of correspondents to conciliate navy officers, have so magnified the engagement as to give a false idea of it abroad and at home; and he ridicules the idea that the attack will not be promptly renewed. And yet there seems to be no doubt that the expedition has been abandoned. When the steamer Arago left on Saturday afternoon, the fleet of transports was on its way to Port Royal, and the Monitors were to follow as soon as the tide served for the Ironsides to cross the bar.

Steamer Stonewall Jackson, failing in an attempt to run the blockade at Charleston on the night of the 11th, was burnt by her crew. She had several pieces of artillery, 200 bbls. saltpetre, 40,000 army shoes, and a large assortment of merchandise. Another steamer ran the blockade on the night of the 9th.

As an engagement near Suffolk, Va., is not improbable, Gen. Keyes has given persons not in the employ of the United States permission to leave.

The rebels claim a partial victory over our troops near Washington, N. C. They also have reports of a fight near Williamsburg, Va., Wise commanding their troops; result unknown.

Intelligence reached Fortress Monroe on the 13th, that the enemy had retreated 4 miles from Suffolk, and that the gunboats sent to Gen. Foster's assistance had succeeded in running the rebel batteries.

The rebels at Jackson, Miss., report that 51 of our gunboats have gone up the Coldwater. Also that our troops in the Black Bayou are retreating toward the river, laying waste the whole country as they move along.

There are hints of a great strategic movement by our forces in the Southwest.

☞ In the Massachusetts Legislature on Monday a report was made in the House referring the bill relating to the Hoosac bore, to the next Legislature. In the Senate, the Metropolitan Police bill was defeated. By the provisions of this bill, the power to appoint the police of Boston was to be taken from the City Government and entrusted to three Commissioners, to be appointed by the Governor and Council, as has already been done in New York and some other cities.

☞ At the Theatre des Bouffes, in Paris, it is advertised that there are two or more pails of water kept in readiness on either side of the stage, containing blankets thoroughly saturated. This provides for the rapid extinction of ignited females, and it is recommended as highly necessary to be copied in England.

DORIES.—Almost every day loads of fishing dories, on their way from Salisbury to Gloucester, and other fishing towns, pass our office. A vessel also sailed from this port recently, with eighty of them on board, for Cape Cod. Wherry building is quite a business at Salisbury Point, above the Essex Merrimack Bridge. They are built during the winter, and sent all along the sea coast in the spring; and at no place do they build such boats so well as in Salisbury, which consequently monopolizes the business.—Newburyport Herald.

☞ Augeste Belmont, of New York, says that he has never expressed himself in favor of a peace with the South which had not for its fundamental basis the supremacy of the government and the union of all the States.

☞ The Empress of France is a very pious woman, and will have no dancing at her soirees during Lent, but a little amateur music she deems perfectly proper. An American lady, Mrs. Moulton, has very much charmed her Highness by her exquisite singing of an air from "Nina."

☞ Apples that were so plenty last season as to sell at $1.00 to $1.25, are now worth double that price. There is a ready demand for them at Southern ports; and in Washington they bring $4.00 per barrel.

☞ Captain G. Webster of the Federal army, was hanged on Friday last at Richmond. He met his fate with fortitude, himself giving the signal for the fatal trap to be sprung.

☞ Lawrence Washington, the nearest living relative to George Washington, has been arrested, charged with giving aid and comfort to the enemy.

☞ The first sealer of the season arrived at St. Johns, N. F., on the 13th inst., with 3500 fish. The general impression was that the catch would be an average one.

☞ The New York Sun thinks that Gen. Butler may be a candidate for the Presidency in 1864, nominated by the Loyal Leagues.

☞ It is reported that President Lincoln will visit New England this summer.

☞ The N. Y. Herald's dispatch says Gov. Curtin, of Penn., in view of the urgency of the public service, suggested to the President a plan of garrisoning the defences of Washington with militia, so that the veterans now in that department might be spared for more important and pressing duties in the field. To this end he offered to forward 20,000 militia, and asked that about 5000 volunteers who have had the necessary experience be distributed among the militia to render the latter force equivalent for all practical purposes to the same number of volunteers sent to the field. It is not known whether this patriotic offer will be accepted.

☞ The fight at Charleston is of interest to the whole world. This is a battle between iron and stone. If the monitors can capture Charleston half the forts in the world are useless; and if the monitors fail iron clads are at a discount. The Englishmen say they have guns that will sink any iron-clads now afloat in ten minutes. That is theory. The confederates have some of the best guns in the world and they will give us the practical illustration.

☞ The counterfeit fifty-cent postal notes in circulation, besides being imperfectly executed, may be distinguished by the inexperienced from the genuine note. In the latter, each side of the figures 50, and below the words "as designated" and "U. S. Depository," there are three small curved lines. In the counterfeit there are but two.

☞ The sale of the Reading Railroad Com'y at Reading, Pa., was robbed on Monday night of $10,000 in money. Gard & Gilmore's store, on Chesnut street, in Philadelphia, was entered on the same night and robbed of $4000 worth of goods.

☞ Hon. Edward Everett concluded a late speech, by saying "there is no alternative but to acknowledge the independence of the Confederacy, or to subdue the rebellion by the strong arm of military power. To suppose that there is hope of any other settlement is the grossest delusion."

☞ On the Central Railroad, a few miles above Albany, N. Y., on Tuesday, two or three passenger cars were thrown off the track, owing to the expansion of the rails. Twelve passengers were injured, but none fatally.

☞ The city authorities of Bangor propose to buy a burial place for soldiers, and to erect a suitable monument in the grounds. Bangor has suffered severe losses of her sons during the war,—and what is proposed there is both patriotic and in good taste.

☞ Henry A. Dolly, who killed his wife at Fort Fairfield, Aroostook county, Me., in February, and on the plea of insanity being set up, was sent to the Asylum at Augusta for observation, died in that institution of hemorrhage of the lungs on Wednesday.

☞ Chief Clerk Grinnell, of the Agricultural Department, has inaugurated a system by which full reports of the crops throughout the country will be received and published monthly, commencing in May next.

☞ Geo. Maffat, a boy of 12 years, committed suicide, in Upper Canada, by shooting himself. A troubled conscience was the cause. His bad actions had so grieved his mother that she became demented, when remorse seized the son.

☞ The City Marshal of Lewiston, Me., made a wholesale seizure of liquor on Friday afternoon—having taken a general sweep among the liquor shops, visiting 22 of them and seizing about 3000 gallons of liquor in all.

☞ The California Legislature has passed a law authorizing the California Volunteers serving in Utah and New Mexico to vote for State officers at the general election.

☞ The recent General Order announcing the principles on which regiments are to be consolidated, will not be carried into effect at present in Gen. Hooker's army.

☞ About 4000 mechanics and laborers, more than ever before at one time, are employed at the Charlestown Navy Yard. There are about 300 seamen on board the receiving ship Ohio.

☞ The Newfoundland Legislature adjourned on the 13th. One great object of the Legislature was the promotion of the agricultural interests of that island. The seal fisheries were unusually prosperous.

☞ The Pictou Chronicle says the gold diggings of Nova Scotia are promising. The Renfrew diggings make a good yield, and the paper says in some parts there "is not a cubic inch that does not contain gold."

☞ At Havana the other day Admiral Wilkes breakfasted on board H. B. M. steamer Ariadne, and courtesies were exchanged between the two commanders.

☞ An exchange says Dan Rice, the circus clown, has been engaged for the coming season at a salary of $25,000.

☞ The California Battalion, which is to join the 2d Mass. Cavalry Regiment, arrived in New York on Tuesday.

☞ A fellow named Gentenberg has just been convicted of bigamy in Wisconsin.—He only recently married his eleventh wife.

S. J. COURT,—EXETER.

This court commenced its session at Exeter on Tuesday, April 14th—Hon. S. D. Bell presiding.

Prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Newhall, of Exeter. Stephen Badger, of Plaistow, was appointed foreman of the Grand Jury.

The number of suits on the civil docket is 287.

Of 30 petit jurors 11 applied for discharges on the score of pressing business, but the court decided that such excuse could not be received. John Patten of Derry is appointed Foreman of the 1st Jury.

The well-known ability of the author in this difficult department of literature gives assurance that the forthcoming work will be of real interest and value.

MONITOR CLOTHES WRINGER!

THE ONLY PERFECTLY SELF ADJUSTING MACHINE IN THE MARKET!

The pressure in this Machine is put on in putting it in the tub, and removed in taking from the tub, all at one operation, an arrangement which no other Wringer has. It has no rubber balls or thumb screws to take off and unscrew, which may be neglected and spoil the rollers.

It is perfectly SELF-ADJUSTING in every respect.

The many advantages of Wringers are too well known to need any farther comments. But we might add that it is almost the only successful labor-saving Machine invented for woman's use. In short, it saves labor, clothes, time and strength, and does the work better. It saves its cost in three months. It only needs a fair trial to convince one that the above is perfectly true.

Read the following recommendation from the Cashier of the Lake Bank, Wolfboro', N. H.

WOLFBORO, N. H., Lake Winnipiscogee, Nov. 10, 1862.

Agents Lodi Manufacturing Co., Boston.

GENTS.—I have used the Poudrette made by your Co. for two years. The first year I used four barrels, and experimented with it on both corn and potatoes. I was pleased and satisfied with the result, and the past season purchased over 100 barrels for my own use, and my neighbors. I think some twenty-five different farmers tried and used the Poudrette on my recommendation, and all have this Fall expressed themselves entirely satisfied to use such an increased quantity the next Spring. Planting season comes late, and we have very early frosts, and the Poudrette ripens our corn from two to three weeks earlier. We have also found it a preventative of the grub worm, which oftentimes destroys our entire crops. Our mode of applying the Poudrette is, to put about a handful in each hill, and place the seed in direct contact. I think I shall want double the quantity next Spring that I had this year.

Yours, Respectfully,

ABEL HALEY,

Cashier Lake Bank, Wolfboro, N. H.

Local.

Communication.

Mr. Editor:—It is gratifying to observe that in the efforts which you are obliged constantly to put forth to enable you to steer between the Scylla and Charybdis of politics: away from that whirlpool of strife, in the peaceful domain of arts and sciences, you are found with opinions of your own, and an elevated taste in the brighter fields of musical art and criticism, occasional touches of which show that there is yet a valuable vein of your mine of intelligence yet unexplored.

With a good sense, which commends itself to every thoughtful reader of your morning "coffee accompaniment" you are content, however, to accept that degree of imperfection which the community and the times afford, making the most of it, and waiting for the first intimations that the people are ready to take up the march of improvement: well may you venture boldly, yet gently, to hint that the present attainment of the community in musical excellence is not the highest point attainable.

The inauguration of the "Arctic Hand Organ," to which your local columns has called the attention of the breakfast table of the town, is a commendable instance of your readiness to seize upon the first signs of the times for improvement.

It would be gratifying if you could induce the highly respectable and praiseworthy body of gentlemen who have that valuable relic in charge, to give an early exhibition of its powers at our Temple of art, or if the weather should prove propitious, it would afford instruction and gratify the curiosity of a larger number if it could be "played off" on Market Square, relieved perhaps at intervals by conservative speeches strictly confined to an account of the remarkable history of the machine, with bits of interesting intelligence from its present holders,—how they came by it, and what their intentions are regarding its future disposal.

Your remarks upon the destitution of the town of musical talents, are worthy the consideration of every fond parent who does not think money-making the end of his own life and that of his children.

If something is not done soon, our orchestras will be empty, and the churches can ill afford to part with that valuable assistant to public worship which is afforded by a good choir. Congregational singing will not do when the number of good singers in a parish is not equal to the smallest number of good men who would have saved Sodom. The time may come for congregational singing, but not until the children have been educated to something more than "O, I would like to marry," with a thrumming piano-forte.

I hope to unite with you, Mr. Editor, in a few gentle hints upon the musical necessities of the town, hereafter.

Yours, TURN.

☞ Sergeant Adams had a good audience at the Temple on Tuesday evening, to hear his lecture on the Women of the South, bond and free. He attributed the rebellion in great measure to the teachings of the white ladies of the South, who so commonly educate their children in pride and haughtiness, instead of humility and a regard to the rights of others: and also to the general ignorance in almost all classes, of the comparative prosperity of the free and slave States. Of the bond women he said less, describing only a few of their hardships, but alluding to their distress at the sale of their children, as one of the hardest features of slavery.

He gave also many reminiscences of his own experience as a teacher in Maryland and Missouri, and closed by reciting a poem of his own composition on the future life of the bondwoman.

He proposes to lecture again, soon, on the Battle of Williamsburg.

☞ Among the names of a number of naval officers, who have been ordered away from the New York station, we notice that of Acting Master's Mate Charles C. Jones.

☞ ATTENTION, THE WHOLE! ☜

RYE, N. H., Feb. 28, 1846. "I hereby certify that my daughter has had the salt rheum for a number of years, some of the time so badly as to prevent her labor, or even rest—as it affected her hands very much. A large sum had been expended to the most celebrated physicians, for Sarsaparilla Syrup, &c., &c., but she obtained no relief until I procured some ten or twelve bottles of Dr. Swett's PANACEA, and several bottles of his Humor Wash, which have effected a cure. There can be no mistake, as this cure was effected more than three years ago. No other medicines can equal Dr. Swett's in removing the various kinds of humors. I have sold it to a number of my acquaintances, who were afflicted, and witnessed many full cures effected by it since I have acted as agent for the sale of it. JOSIAH JENNESS.

PORTSMOUTH, April 21st, 1862.

I have for several years been afflicted with distress at my stomach, loss of appetite, and often vomited up all of my food immediately after eating it, and all medicine failed to give any relief until about a year ago, when I took one bottle of DR. S. SWETT'S PANACEA, which fully cured me, so that I have not had the least trouble from any of these complaints since, and I enjoy good health. M. LOWD.

From ELDER I CHESLEY, Lee, May 31, 1841.

DR. SWETT: Permit me to testify, as I feel in duty bound to do, that my daughter was afflicted with scrofulous humor, and that previous to your visiting our town in the spring of 1840, she had been confined for a number of months, without her natural rest by day or night. She had applied to a number of physicians, but continued to grow weaker till she, commenced using your PANACEA and HUMOR WASH. Since then, she has recovered her health so far as to rest quietly by night, and labor by day. I esteem your medicine one of the best that can be found for the disease above named." ISRAEL CHESLEY

WITTY EXAGGERATIONS.

Everybody has heard of the weather which was so cold that the mercury went out of sight, and no doubt would have been a good deal colder if the thermometer had been long enough. A similar exaggeration was that of the young man who took calomel on a morning so cold that the mercury ran down into his boots. And speaking of boots reminds us of the stage driver who wore such large ones that he had to use the forks of the road as a boot-jack.

The following passages are illustrations: The man out West whose legs are so long that he has to go down cellar to take off his shoes. The man who is so large that he has to go out of doors to turn over. The man who snores so loudly that he had to sleep in the next street to keep from wakening himself. The man whose nose is so long that he has to step forward three paces to reach the end of it. The man who was so large and heavy that his shadow killed a little boy when it fell on him. The man who was so fat that his shadow left a greasy trail along the road as he walked; and the man who was so thin that he had no shadow at all.

Among these deserve to rank the horse that ran so fast around a ring that the spectators could only see one continual circular horse; together with that other more famous racer that ran so swiftly about the arena that he nearly caught up to himself, and could see his own tail just before him.

A fireman once related an adventure in which he found himself surrounded by fine company and wealth. 'I didn't know myself until I felt in my pockets and found 'em empty.' Some one inferred that he was customarily short of funds. 'That's so! If steamboats were selling at a cent apiece,' said he, 'I haven't enough to buy a gangway plank.'

Along with this we may place the story of a man who, in consequence of a fright, ran so fast and so far that when he stopped, it was more than twenty minutes before his shadow came up with him. He was probably watched by the man whose dickey was so high that he had to climb a fence to see over it.

☞ Grace's Salve is without doubt one of the very best articles of the sort in the market. We have seen it used in several instances, for various ailments, and always with good effect. We have no hesitation in recommending it—as do hundreds of those who have tested it. See advertisement.

To every barrel of Flour you can make thirty pounds more Bread or Biscuit (and much better) by using Herrick Allen's Gold Medal, than by yeast fermentation or any other Saleratus.—If it perfectly healthy, will not turn your cookery yellow, will strengthen weak stomachs, and cure dyspeptic persons It is much better to use with cream tartar than soda. Try one paper, and you will be convinced. Most of the Grocers sell it. Depot 112 Liberty Street, New York.

☞ See yon fair maiden in another column, picking Sambuci Grapes for Speer's Wine. It is an admirable article, used in hospitals, and by the first class families in Paris, London and New York, in preference to old Port wine. It is worth a trial, as it gives great satisfaction. 1y.

ANOTHER NEW STOVE!

THE MODEL COOK

FOR WOOD OR COAL.

The novel—the peculiar feature of the MODEL COOK, that which distinguishes it from all others, is the addition of a Ventilated Roasting Oven within the body of the stove and in front of the fire; so arranged that it can be used separately for a roaster or (by the removal of a simple plate) in connection with the larger oven, for baking; giving an oven nearly 3 feet long; or large enough to take six large plates on the bottom, every part of which will bake evenly at the same time! A check draft is applied to this stove by means of which the consumption of fuel is greatly lessened, and a steady fire can be kept day and night if desired.

THE peculiar taint or infection which we call SCROFULA lurks in the constitutions of multitudes of men. It either produces or is produced by an enfeebled, vitiated state of the blood, wherein that fluid becomes incompetent to sustain the vital forces in their vigorous action, and leaves the system to fall into disorder and decay. The scrofulous contamination is variously caused by mercurial disease, low living, disordered digestion from unhealthy food, impure air, filth and filthy habits, the depressing vices, and, above all, by the venereal infection. Whatever be its origin, it is hereditary in the constitution, descending "from parents to children unto the third and fourth generation;" indeed, it seems to be the rod of Him who says, "I will visit the iniquities of the fathers upon their children." The diseases it originates take various names, according to the organs it attacks. In the lungs, Scrofula produces tubercles, and finally Consumption; in the glands, swellings which suppurate and become ulcerous sores; in the stomach and bowels, derangements which produce indigestion, dyspepsia, and liver complaints; on the skin, eruptive and other prompt protests. These, all having the same origin, require the same remedy, viz., purification and invigoration of the blood. Purify the blood, and these dangerous distempers leave you. With feeble, foul, or corrupted blood, you cannot have health; with that "life of the flesh" healthy, you cannot have scrofulous disease.

is compounded from the most effectual antidotes that medical science has discovered for this afflicting distemper, and for the cure of the disorders it entails. That it is far superior to any other remedy yet devised, I know by all who have given it a trial. The it does combine virtues truly extraordinary in their effect upon this class of complaints, is indisputably proven by the great multitude of publicly known and remarkable cures it has made of the following diseases: King's Evil, or Glandular Swellings, Tumors, Eruptions, Pimples, Blotches and Sores, Erysipelas, Rose or St. Anthony's Fire, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Coughs from tuberculous deposits in the lungs, White Swellings, Debility, Dropsy, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Syphilis and Syphilitic Infections, Mercurial Diseases, Female Weaknesses, and, indeed, the whole series of complaints that arise from impurity of the blood. Minute reports of individual cases may be found in AYER'S AMERICAN ALMANAC, which is furnished to the druggists for gratuitous distribution, wherein may be learned the directions for its use, and some of the remarkable cures which it has made when all other remedies had failed to afford relief. Those cases are purposely taken from all sections of the country, in order that every reader may have access to some one who can speak to him of its benefits from personal experience. Scrofula depresses the vital energies, and thus leaves its victims far more subject to disease and its fatal results than any other constitutional disorder. It tends to shorten, and does greatly shorten, the average duration of human life. The vast importance of these considerations has led us to spend years in perfecting a remedy which is adequate to its cure. This we now offer to the public under the name of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, although it is composed of ingredients, some of which exceed the best of Sarsaparilla in alterative power. By its aid you may protect yourself from the suffering and danger of these disorders. Purge out the foul corruptions that rot and fester in the blood, purge out the causes of disease, and vigorous health will follow. By its peculiar virtues this remedy stimulates the vital functions, and thus expels the distempers which lurk within the system or burst out on any part of the skin.

We know the public have been deceived by many compounds of Sarsaparilla, that promised much and did nothing; but they will neither be deceived nor disappointed in this. Its virtues have been proven by abundant trial, and there remains no question of its surpassing excellence for the cure of the afflicting diseases it is intended to reach. Although under the same name, it is a very different medicine from any other which has been before the people, and is far more effectual than any other which has ever been available to them.

AYER'S
CHERRY PECTORAL,
The World's Great Remedy for Coughs, Colds, Incipient Consumption, and for the relief of Consumptive patients in advanced stages of the disease.

This has been so long used and so universally known, that we need do no more than assure the public that its quality is kept up to the best it ever has been, and that it may be relied on to do all it has ever done.

DR. DOW continues to be consulted at his office, NO. 2 BOWDOIN STREET, Boston, on all diseases of a

PRIVATE OR DELICATE NATURE.

By a long course of study and practical experience of 20 intensely active years, Dr. Dow now the gratification of presenting the unfortunate with remedies that have never, since he first introduced them, failed to cure the worst cases.

GONORRHŒA AND SYPHILIS.

Beneath his treatment, all the horrors of venereal and impure blood, Impotency, Scrotula, Gonorrhœa, Ulcers, pain and distress in the region of procreation, inflammation of the Bladder and Kidneys, Hydrocele, Abscesses, Humors, frightful Swellings, and the long train of terrible symptoms attending this class of disease, are made to become as harmless as the simplest ailings of a child.

SEMINAL WEAKNESS.

Dr D., devotes a great part of his time to the treatment of those cases caused by a secret and solitary habit, which ruins the body and mind, unfitting the unfortunate individual for business or society. Some of the sad and melancholy results produced by early habits of youth, are Weakness of the back and limbs, Dizziness of the head, Dimness of sight, Palpitation of the heart, Dyspepsia, Nervousness, Derangement of the digestive functions, Symptoms of Consumption, &c. The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded; loss of memory, confusion of ideas, depression of spirits, evil forebodings, aversion of society, self-distrust, timidity, &c., are among the evils produced. Such persons should consider contemplating matrimony, consult a physician of experience, and be at once restored to health and happiness.

Patients who wish to remain under Dr. Dow's treatment a few days or weeks, will be furnished with pleasant rooms, and charges for board moderate.

Medicines sent to all parts of the country, with full directions for use, on receiving description of your case. Dr. Dow has also for sale the French Capsules, warranted the best preventive. Order by mail. Three for $1 and a red stamp.

Dr. Dow has no doubt had greater experience in the cure of Diseases of women and children, than any other physician in Boston.

THE MAGEE COOKING STOVE.

The subscribers, having received their Fall Stock of Stoves, would especially call the attention of the public to the

CELEBRATED AND UNEQUALLED
MAGEE COOK STOVE,

as the very best Stove yet made, and would invite those about purchasing or exchanging Stoves, to examine this, believing it to be far superior to each. The stove yet invented, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual. The oven plates are covered with plaster, which makes it equal to the old-fashioned brick oven for perfection in baking.

There is a new style and very superior broiler and sad iron heater combined, by which the odor of broiling meats are prevented from escaping into the room. With the range attached, there is a large copper Reservoir for hot water; also a large tin warming-closet attached, in which any article can be kept warm, while the other parts of the Stove are occupied for other purposes.

The arrangements for sifting the coal and cleaning the grate are far superior to those of any other Stove now in use, as no dust can possibly escape into the room, and the removing of the ashes is entirely dispensed with. The fire is regulated in the same manner as in the MAGEE PARLOR STOVE, and can be continued day and night for weeks together, thus saving the expense of re-kindling every day.

For economy, durability, ease of management, cleanliness and perfection in cooking, it cannot be surpassed by any other Stove, as hundreds of families in this city and vicinity, who are now using them, are willing to testify, and speak of them in the highest terms of praise.

"MAGEE'S PATENT"
VENTILATING & AIR WARMING
FURNACES.

The subscribers, being the Sole Agents in this vicinity for the manufacture and sale of this valuable Furnace, would ask those about remodelling or erecting buildings to examine this truly valuable invention.

For economy, purity of air and ease of management it has no equal, producing a current of warm air, moist and agreeable,—and as none of the air which comes in contact with the fire-pot is used for respiration, the necessity to produce healthy air is much complained of in other Furnaces, is entirely obviated.

The objects aimed at by the constructors of heating apparatus have been to obtain the greatest amount of heat from a given amount of fuel, and to prevent the escape of heat to the smoke pipe or chimney.

To accomplish this many complicated and expensive heating arrangements have been constructed, some possessing but little improvement over former methods, while many have proved a total failure. The reason for this is obvious. The combustion being better than the heat, passes off into the pipe or chimney without being consumed. This objection, so common in other furnaces, is obviated in the

MAGEE FURNACE.

The flue or pipe in this Furnace being below the fire-pot, the gases, from their specific gravity, cannot descend, and are burned up by the admission of air through the fire-pot, which ignites them as they pass off from the coal, thus saving at least 20 per cent. of the properties of the best in the fuel.

No heating apparatus with the smoke-pipe or flue on the top of the cone can be made to consume the gases of the coal, as they pass off with a large amount of the heat, without making the chimney the hottest part of your dwelling.

This Furnace does away with the great number of pipes and angles for the radiation of heat, which are so liable to fill up and get out of order, thus simplifying, while it increases the surface of radiation.

These Furnaces consume all the coal, make no clinkers, the sifting of fuel is entirely dispensed with, and they will save from 20 to 50 per cent. of fuel over common Furnaces.

For ease of management, economy and purity of air, these Furnaces have no equal. They can be regulated so as to give any amount of heat required, and there may be kept the entire season without once going out.

They give entire satisfaction wherever used. We have in store the different sizes, Brick and Portable, to which we invite the attention of those in want of the best Furnace in the world,—and would refer them to the following named gentlemen, who have them now in use:

Samuel Cleaves, Esq.,	Albert R. Hatch, Esq.,
Aaron H. Hill,	Charles H. Mendum,
Henry F. Wendell,	John Sise, and others.

Teeth on Vulcanized Rubber,

SOME OF ITS ADVANTAGES.

1st It is stronger and lighter than any known material.

2d. From two to six times the amount of mastication or adhesion can be obtained by it.

3d. When the teeth are worn down or gone by building out the depressions—which can be done to any extent—give the mouth a more natural appearance.

4th. No bad taste arises in the mouth by its use, as the secretions of the stomach and mouth do not affect it in the least.

5th. Teeth mounted upon this base can be kept clean and sweet as easy as a silver, as when inflated the whole plenum comes into use.

6th. While in all ways it is better, save in a few peculiar cases, it is much cheaper than Gold.

DR. A. P. STEVENS, Surgeon Dentist,
No. 5 Daniel St., Portsmouth,

Has had four years of practical experience in making this material, and will guarantee satisfaction in all cases entrusted to his care.

DENTISTRY.

No. 60 CONGRESS STREET,
Portsmouth, N. H., Jan. 1st, 1863.

DR. GOODALL

Would respectfully inform his patrons and the public, (having had of late many calls to insert teeth upon VULCANIZED RUBBER,) that he has purchased the best VULCANIZER in the market, and is now prepared to do all work upon RUBBER, or the other bases of GOLD and SILVER as formerly, if preferred.

The Rubber has several important advantages, viz.: It is very light and elastic, and consequently is perfectly easy to the muscles of the mouth and cheeks. There is no metal to interfere or open joints to collect food, &c.; consequently they can be worn night and day, and are very easily kept neat and clean.

Besides all this, the most accurate fit is obtained, as the Rubber is Vulcanized directly upon the plaster model, and the suction is of course much stronger than in plates of Gold or Silver.

Any one who is waiting for their permanent teeth will, I am confident, be perfectly satisfied with the Rubber, as a base. The expense is but a little more than for Silver, and you get the same teeth (in blocks) that you would pay $60.00 for an upper or lower set on Gold.

In New York and Boston, and throughout the West, Vulcanized Rubber is used almost to the exclusion of all the other bases, and by the best Dentists too. I will warrant a perfect fit and teeth from the best manufacturer in the country, S. S. White.

☞ ALL OTHER OPERATIONS IN DENTISTRY I will do at the usual rates. I will here mention that my price for EXTRACTING is 25 cents.

I take pleasure in referring the public to DR. TREADWELL, DR. BOARDMAN, DR. OLIVER and DR. BENNETT, for particular success in extracting Teeth. Teeth extracted without pain and with perfect safety, with Ether. Teeth polished to their natural whiteness without pain or injury to the Enamel. Regulation of Adults' and Children's Teeth will receive particular attention.—All whole and partial Sets of Teeth repaired with Neatness and Dispatch. All other operations in Dentistry, I will perform at reasonable rates.

☞ Please call and examine specimens of Artificial Teeth upon Vulcanized Rubber, Gold and Silver.

Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on short terms, and with dispatch. Researches made into American or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of patents or inventions—and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.
The Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing Patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonial below will prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional service so moderate.
The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents.
These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining Patents.
All necessity of a journey to Washington, to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents.
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their applications in form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents
Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications, on all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their patents, as they may be sured having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges."
JOHN TAGGART.
During eight months, the subscriber, in course of his large practice, made on three rejected applications SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided in his favor, by the Commissioner of Patents. R. H. EDDY.

Morning Chronicle.

FRIDAY, APRIL 17, 1863.

THE REBELLION.

Maj. Gen. Dix has resumed command at Fortress Monroe. He is now at Suffolk.—A dispatch says that the enemy in force are in close proximity to our lines there, but no general engagement is anticipated, unless the attack is made by the Union forces, which is more than probable. Gov. Wise has commenced entrenching the other side of Williamsburg. He has orders to take Fort Magruder at all hazards, and as he is afraid to make an assault, he has resorted to digging.

The rebels are rapidly reinforcing their columns on the opposite side of the Rappahannock.

Gen. Stoneman's cavalry corps, of Gen. Hooker's army, with artillery and infantry, has started on an important expedition.

It is rumored that a force of rebel cavalry has been pushing forward towards Harper's Ferry.

A letter from inside the fort at Washington, N. C., April 10th, says the rebels did not appear willing to run any risks, but kept at a respectful distance. The writer expresses confidence that Gen. Foster can hold out until reinforcements arrive.

The Port Royal correspondent of the Philadelphia Press says the Monitors, with the exception of the Montauk and Passaic, will now go to the vicinity of Vicksburg.

☞ Jefferson Davis has issued an address to the people of the Southern Confederacy, urging them to devote their agricultural labor to the production of food. He says although the soldiers are on half rations of meat there is plenty of it in the Confederacy, but that difficulty exists in its transportation, which is about to be remedied. And then he goes off into an unlimited brag about the war.

☞ There are now four Daily papers in New Hampshire—the Mirror, the oldest of all, claiming to be independent of party, but charged with rather inclining to the democratic persuasion; the American, republican, ("abolition;") and the Union Democrat, the new democratic ("copperhead,") organ—all these three at Manchester; and this Chronicle, independent, and so of course differently classed by opposing parties. The American and the Chronicle are issued in the morning; the Mirror and the Democrat in the afternoon. We propose to resume our afternoon edition, the coming summer, if satisfactory arrangements can be made for telegraphic intelligence, &c.

☞ The Law against obtaining husbands under false pretenses, passed by the English Parliament in 1700, enacts: "That all women of whatever rank, profession or degree who shall, after this act, impose upon, seduce and betray into matrimony any of his Majesty's subjects by virtue of scents, paints, cosmetic washes, artificial teeth, false hair, iron stays, bolstered hips, or high heeled shoes, shall incur the penalty of the law now in force against witchcraft and like misdemeanors; and the marriage under such circumstances, upon conviction of the offending parties, shall be null and void." Is marriage with a crinolined woman illegal?

☞ The Worcester Palladium mentions a mechanical operation in progress in that city on Saturday, which is a novelty in this country—the removal of one of the tall chimneys at Nathan Washburn's Rolling Mill. Its dimensions are about 8 feet at the base, and its height nearly 100 feet. It had been raised about 4 feet by screws, and been moved on rollers some two rods, of the 8, to where it was to be deposited. At those works which are driven by steam, not less than 250 men are employed in the manufacture of railroad iron, such as rails, tires, &c. The works are kept in operation day and night.

☞ It is said that our Government has purchased one of three steam gunboats built by J. C. Jewell & Co., for Admiral Ward of the Chinese navy. After his death, the money not forthcoming to pay for them, they were offered for sale, except the largest one, which it is said we have secured.

☞ The Richmond Sentinel of the 10th, has the following from the Charleston Mercury:—

"The Government Powder works at Augusta, Ga., when completed, will be the largest manufactory in the world. They are now superior to any known, and the powder is fully equal to the best Yankee or European standard."

☞ John Minor Botts, so long incarcerated in the Libby prison and in Salisbury, N. C., has been released through the interposition of a friend, and has permission to remain on his estate near Gordonsville, under the pledge of not aiding or abetting the Union cause.

☞ The N. Y. Tribune says Gen. Seymour, Chief of Gen. Hunter's staff, has resigned.

[Communication.]

DIRECT CONTRADICTION.

It is amusing to some observers, and provoking to others, to see public writers pretend to be the eminently true and conservative upholders of the Constitution, and yet violate and contradict its plainest provisions.

One of these writers recently found fault with the present "administration," because it had adopted a "theory, making the General Government the supreme sovereign," and called it the "severest folly and madness" to talk of the supremacy of the Government of the United States.

It is a remarkable fact that the Constitution itself, plainly and unmistakably claims this supreme sovereignty for the General Government, by saying that "the Constitution and laws of the United States shall be the supreme law of the land,—anything in the constitution or laws of any State to the contrary, notwithstanding."

Nothing could be plainer;—no contradiction could be more direct and positive. Whether such writers presume on the ignorance of their readers, or whether they are themselves ignorant of what the Constitution contains, is not known to us.

It is possible that some of them may know how the Constitution reads, and yet claim powers for the States which they all relinquished seventy-five years ago:—but if so, we cannot see how they are to be considered friends of the Constitution as it is.

The provision which we have quoted, is not only one of the plainest in the Constitution, but is also one of the most important. Without some such clause, expressed or implied, the Union would be a rope of sand, and our government would be a nonentity.

One of the complaining writers alluded to, charges the administration with "destroying all the rights of the States," by the same theory which makes the general government the supreme sovereign. This is one of those common cases, where a confusion of terms by the teacher, naturally tends to a confusion of ideas in the scholar.

The several States in our Union have certain powers, or if the reader pleases, rights;* but independent or complete sovereignty is not one of them. We have shown above, by a quotation from the Constitution, that the people of the Union gave the supreme law to the general government. Geo. Washington, when in 1787 he wished to get the Constitution adopted, said it was "obviously impracticable, in the Federal government of these States, to secure all the rights of independent sovereignty to each, and yet provide for the safety of all." And he enforces this "theory," by remarking that, "individuals, entering into society, must give up a share of liberty, to preserve the rest." This is a truism, but it is also a good illustration, and no argument can overthrow it.

The same truth may be farther illustrated by the corporations, parishes, towns and counties in a State. Our railroads, banks, colleges and academies, have certain powers and rights, but they are all subordinate to the laws of the State of New Hampshire, whose laws in turn are subordinate to those of the Union.

Parishes here have rights and powers, but no parish is sovereign; no one can violate a city ordinance without a fine. The city itself is a power, and has certain rights and privileges; but if is not a sovereignty: for if it does not keep good highways it can be indicted in a county Court and fined;—and it is compelled to pay a county tax. It pays a State tax also, and all its powers are subordinate to the State of New Hampshire.

Now let us go back to Gen. Washington's suggestion, that the "individual in society, must give up some share of liberty to preserve the rest." Suppose we reverse it, and say No: every man is free and therefore sovereign. Then no one can command another, nobody need obey,—anarchy reigns at once.

Let each parish and religious society here be sovereigns, and we get eight conflicting soveignties, and a church militant in more senses than one.

Let towns and cities be each a sovereign with full powers,—and instead of the State of New Hampshire we should have the State of Chaos.

The theory or doctrine of State sovereignty, if applied to thirty or forty States, would make just such a chaos, only worse; because it would be larger: and the application of it to a dozen States, tho' disguised by the name of State rights, has really been one great plea for secession and rebellion.

The doctrine of State Rights as urged by Mr. Calhoun and his school, has been for substance, that the slaveholding States might make any regulations they pleased, and snub the U. S. with impunity—but the free States must conform their regulations to the laws of the U. S. as interpreted by the slave power. This doctrine has culminated in rebellion and civil war.

If it could prevail in the free States now, it would dissolve the Union, destroy the government, and extinguish the nation.

U. T.

* One of the most important of these State powers or rights, is that of choosing two Senators each, whereby, in the upper house of Congress, New Hampshire and Rhode Island, small States, are equal to New York and Pennsylvania. Another important State right is, that the citizens of each State shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several States. This last, however, has been nullified by South Carolina constantly, and with impudence and impunity; and in other slave States as often as they pleased.

NEW HAMPSHIRE ITEMS.

—— On the 6th inst., George Morse, aged 11, only son of Reuben Morse, of Marlborough, while hunting in the woods with other boys, was shot in the thigh by the accidental discharge of a gun, and died in a few hours.

—— The Supreme Judicial Court will commence a session at Ossipee on Tuesday next. Judge Doe is to preside.

—— Rev. Jonathan Hall, stationed for the past two years at Sanbornton Bridge, and previously in Portsmouth, has been assigned by the Methodist Conference to the Society in Manchester.

—— At the N. H. Methodist Conference after much discussion, a vote was carried by a large majority to locate the buildings for the Conference Seminary and Female College at Sanbornton Bridge, but on a new site.

—— A deserter from the regular army was arrested at Manchester on Monday, just as he took a seat in the cars for a pleasant trip to Canada with his wife and children.

—— A member of the 9th regiment, in a letter to the Manchester American, dated at Lexington, Ky., April 4, says:—

"The Sixth N. H. Regiment is the only one from the State in our immediate vicinity, but I believe the Tenth and Eleventh are not far off."

—— In the 5th New Hampshire there is only one officer who was Captain when the regiment entered the service, and that is Lt. Col. Hapgood, a Bostonion. Of those who left in it as 1st Lieutenants, there are Maj. Cross, Capt. Larkin, Capt. Keller and Capt. Crafts. Of those who left as 2d Lieutenants these are Capts. Graves, Bean and Butler. Capts. Ricker, Goodwin and Livermore went out as 1st Sergeants.

—— At the New York trade sales, the Claremont Manufacturing Company exhibited a good looking book, which was made from rags purchased of a pedler on the morning of the day on which the book was printed. The paper is made, the volumes are printed and bound in the same establishment.

—— Lieut. Col. Liberty Billings, of the 1st Regiment South Carolina Vols., while recently on a steamer near Jacksonville, Florida, was wounded in both hands and also in the thigh. He was on the deck of the steamer, and was fired at by the rebels on the shore. His wounds are not serious. He went from Concord as Chaplain of the 4th Regiment.

—— The Manchester Union says the Belknap Gazette is now printed at the office of the Independent Democrat in Concord, containing a portion of the same matter, with the addition of a little local news and advertising.

LETTER FROM NEW ORLEANS.

I notice the citizens of Brooklyn and New York have been receiving the benefit of at least one of the rascals released from the Penitentiary at Baton Rouge by the Federal forces when they evacuated that place last fall—Charlie Gordon—a crack burglar, who has given the Gothamites a taste of his qualities in that line.

Of all the wholesale stealing that was carried on here, under the name of confiscation, before the arrival of Gen. Banks, not a solitary instance was according to law—the first case where any legal steps were taken being that of John Slidell's property, an inventory of which was filed for confiscation a few weeks since by Mr. Lamont, U. S. prosecuting attorney.

"The Lounger," in Harper's Weekly, is either a liar or a fool. A fool, if he writes for public inspection on a subject of which he knows naught—a liar, if he wilfully perverts facts as he did in an article recently where he speaks of "babies" being sold from their mothers' arms by the slaveholders of the South. I suppose Louisiana is far enough South to be considered a far sample in the way of keeping and selling slaves. Previous to the coming of the Federal army it was illegal to sell a child under twelve years of age from its mother, in this State; and all know many children in New England are severed from their mothers at a tenderer age.

Since the advent of the Union forces I'll not answer for the continuance of any law—as gambling hells have been licensed, pillage of an indiscriminate nature made the order of the day, and the testimony of a negro (which formerly was naught here) given a higher weight in courts of law (?) than that of a white man. ION.

BROTHERLY LOVE.

What might be done if men were wise—
What glorious deeds, my suffering brother,
Would they unite
In love and right,
And cease their scorn of one another.

Oppression's heart might be imbued
With kindling drops of loving kindness;
And knowledge pour,
From shore to shore,
Light on the eyes of mental blindness.

All slavery, warfare, lies and wrongs,
All vice and crime might die together;
And wine and corn
To each man born,
Be free as warmth is in summer weather.

The meanest wretch that ever trod—
The deepest sunk in guilt and sorrow,
Might stand erect
In self-respect,
And share the teeming world to-morrow.

What might be done? This might be done;
And more than this, my suffering brother—
More than the tongue
E'er said or sung,
If men were wise and loved each other.

CHARLES MACKAY.

ANOTHER STARTLING DISCOVERY.—The other day, to our inexpressible grief and amazement, it was reported that the velocity of light has been miscalculated and the sun is farther from the earth—or nearer, which is it?—than has been generally suspected. A correspondent of the Waterville Mail adds the following drop to our bucket of philosophical trouble:—

I have ascertained by very precise and intricate calculations, that the distance between the north pole and the equator at the east is some degrees less than at the west; the two having heretofore been precisely equal. The consequence is, as has been seen by those who have counted, that the year 1863 was some three days shorter than the previous year. I have also ascertained that the distance from the equator to the south pole is some two degrees and ten minutes greater than from the same pole to the equator; thus shortening the distance between east and west some five hundred miles. My inference is that if these changes continue, the earth will in a few years so far lose its balance as to slide off at a right angle directly into the sun, and disappear with all on board.

A man cannot burrow in his counting-room for ten or twenty of the best years of his life, and come out as much of a mun and as little of a mole as when he went in.

Read the following recommendation from the Cashier of the Lake Bank, Wolfboro', N. H.:

WOLFBORO, N. H., Lake Winnipisseogee, Nov. 10, 1862.

Agents Lodi Manufacturing Co., Boston.

GENTS:—I have used the Poudrette made by your Co. for two years. The first year I used about 300 barrels for my own use, and my neighbors. I think some twenty-five different farmers tried and used the Poudrette on my recommendation, and all have this Fall expressed themselves entirely satisfied to use such an increased quantity this next Spring. Planting season comes late, and we have very early frosts, and the Poudrette ripens our corn from two to three weeks earlier. We have also found it a preventative of the wire worm, which oftentimes destroys our entire crops. Our mode of applying the Poudrette is, to put about a handful in each hill, and place the seed in direct contact. I think I shall want double the quantity next Spring that I had this year.

Yours, Respectfully,
ABEL HALEY,
Cashier Lake Bank, Wolfboro, N. H.

MONITOR CLOTHES WRINGER!
THE ONLY PERFECTLY SELF ADJUSTING MACHINE IN THE MARKET!

The pressure in this Machine is put on in putting it on the tub, and removed in taking from the tub, all at one operation, an arrangement which no other Wringer has. It has no rubber bands or thumb screws to take off and unscrew, which may be neglected and spoil the rollers.

It is perfectly SELF-ADJUSTING in every respect.

The many advantages of Wringers are too well known to need any further comments. But we might add that it is almost the only successful labor-saving Machine invented for woman's use. In short, it saves labor, clothes, time and strength, and does the work better. It saves its cost in three months. It only needs a fair trial to convince one that the above is perfectly true.

☞ Call and examine. The money refunded if not perfectly satisfactory.

Local.

NORTH CHURCH, PORTSMOUTH.—Rev. George M. Adams, of Conway, Mass., to whom a call to become their pastor was recently extended by the North Congregational Church and Parish of this city, has signified to the committee his decision to accept the same.

Rev. Mr. Adams leaves a church which, having always, with a single exception, called ministers to their first settlement, has been especially favored in its selections.—It has enjoyed the ministrations of Rev. Pres't Hitchcock of Amherst College, Rev. Mr. Crosby, afterwards of Charlestown, and Rev. Prof. Harris of Bangor Theological Seminary.

He comes to a church which, not to speak of distinguished living clergymen who have been its pastors, numbers in its necrology the names of Rev. Joshua Moody of Puritan memory, of Rogers, Fitch, Rev. Dr. Langdon afterwards President of Harvard College, and Rev. Dr. Buckminister; while Rev. Dr. Stiles, after preaching here a considerable time, only declined a settlement to accept the Presidency of Yale College. COM.

☞ The Elocutionary Entertainment at the Temple, Wednesday evening, was a rare treat. Prof. Briggs is a young man of good address, and pleasant rather than extraordinary voice; and when a longer experience has given him a very little more ease and nonchalance in presence of an audience, he cannot fail of being highly popular. His forte, however, is the comic, humorous, plaintive, rather than the terrible and tragic—as his selections and the rendering of the same, on this occasion, would indicate; and the absence of all the ranting, "maniac" sort of pieces usually so plentiful on such occasions, we think must have conduced to the comfort and enjoyment of nearly all present.

The audience was large, and the sum netted for the Sanitary Commission we understand is about $50,—which must be considered as very successful, considering that the price of tickets was not increased for the object,—when it should always be doubled on such occasions, if people really mean to give a cent more than any good entertainment is itself worth. As it is now, the managers, whoever they are at such times, and the various agencies that must always be employed in getting out and accommodating the public, really show all the interest in the matter, and give all that is given, in the shape of gratuitous labor, or making large discounts from their bills, which if paid in full are none too high; so that really these few contribute ten or twenty times as much each "for the cause," as any other man is expected to, who merely buys his two or five tickets. All right enough, of course, if those most concerned will consent to it; but hardly fair that the dear people should get all the credit, when a few ladies and others deserve most of it.

☞ The Ballot complains loudly that no more repair work is sent to Portsmouth Navy Yard, where it can be done as well and as cheap as anywhere else. It says "our dock is idle, and Government has to hire private docks and let ships wait their turn at that, in Boston." It calls on our Congressional delegation to wake up, and to wake up the Secretary of the Navy.

☞ The States and Union says that at a recent Parish meeting of St. John's Episcopal Society in this city, "some action was taken looking to a change in a portion of the internal arrangements of that beautiful church edifice. It might be easily reconstructed so as to accommodate one quarter more people than can now be seated."

SALE OF BANK STOCK.—A large lot of stock on the Rockingham Bank and Bank of New Hampshire was sold last week at $61 per share for each stock. This is much less than the price these stocks have been sold at recently, and the inference is that either the seller was not posted, or else bank stocks are on the decline.—Ballot.

LADIES' GYMNASIUM.—It will be seen by the notice in another column, that the Portsmouth Gymnasium Co. have made arrangements to allow ladies exclusive use of their room during the forenoon. The apparatus of the gymnasium, though intended for gentlemen, can be used to a great extent by females, who will also find a number of articles in especial favor with Dr. Lewis, and particularly adapted to their use. The ladies should take the matter into consideration, and improve this opportunity at once.

☞ The Ballot says "the Arctic Hand-Organ Company have declared a dividend of ten per cent., payable at the office of the President, John Sise, Esq., No. 5, Market Square, on demand." Glad to hear it—but we presume the dividend is to be paid in shares of the capital stock of fun which has been invested in the machine. "It is better to laugh than be crying."

Among the jurors for the first two weeks of the term of the Court, we notice three of the popular Portsmouth tailors; and we naturally conclude that parties who have suits in their hands will get fits.—Ballot.

☞ The U. S. steamer Agawam will be launched at Portland on Monday morning next. She has been built by the contractor, George W. Lawrence, of Portland,—Mr. George Pierce, of this city, being master builder. After receiving her machinery she will come to the Portsmouth Navy Yard.

A new quartette choir appeared at the Stone Church on Sunday, composed of the Misses Ham and Messrs. Jas. H. Head and T. S. Nowell, Miss Jackson presiding at the organ. The singing was of course excellent, as might be expected from such eminent vocalists.—Ballot.

☞ The grand Bal Masque, in Portland, to which everybody that is anybody had been looking forward for weeks, came off on Wednesday evening, and was a complete success in every detail. The local papers give the most glowing accounts of the magnificent and elaborate materials of the costumes; the loveliness of the bright-eyed belles; and the brilliancy of the gay scene. The Press states that our own State "was represented by one of Portsmouth's fair daughters, Miss J——s, as a Spanish girl."

Among the useful inventions of our townsman, Dr. Samuel Baker, the new Book Holder commends itself alike for its convenience, its cheapness and its durability. It is constructed so that the angle at which the book is held may be changed at will, and for students, copyists, and mothers with work or children in arms, is a perfect model of convenience. It is for sale at Mr. Shores's book store, and is the cheapest article we have seen since the era of high prices.—Ballot.

☞ A monster wolf was poisoned at Carthage, Franklin County, Me., a few days since. The animal owed the farmers in that neighborhood for sundry sheep taken at different times without leave or license.

☞ The Deseret (Utah) News comes to us this week printed on pink paper. It was blue last week, and white the week before—so the three issues embrace "the red, white and blue."

☞ New counterfeits are out, of the 50 cent postal currency notes. They are somewhat blurred and have the word "post-office" printed as one word instead of two.

☞ A resident of Blairsville, Pa., fell 40 feet down an embankment recently, and his foot caught in a fallen tree top, holding him suspended head downward till the next day. He died soon after his removal.

☞ The N. Y. Times states that there is probably six hundred millions' worth of British merchandise now afloat.

☞ It is now asserted that the enrollment of the militia, under the Conscription act, will be made during May.

☞ It is said Gov. Curtin, of Pennsylvania, has been tendered the Spanish Mission.

☞ See yon fair maiden in another column, picking Sambuci Grapes for Speer's Wine. It is an admirable article, used in hospitals, and by the first class families in Paris, London and New York, in preference to old Port wine. It is worth a trial, as it gives great satisfaction. 1y.

THE MODEL COOK

FOR WOOD OR COAL.

The wood—the peculiar feature of the MODEL COOK, that which distinguishes it from all others, is the addition of a Ventilated Roasting Oven within the body of the stove and in front of the fire; so arranged that it can be used separately for a roaster or (by the removal of a simple plate) in connection with the larger oven, for baking; giving an oven nearly 3 feet long; or large enough to take six large plates on the bottom, every part of which will bake evenly at the same time! A check draft is applied to this stove by means of which the consumption of fuel is greatly lessened, and a steady fire can be kept day and night if desired.

The peculiar taint or infection which we call SCROFULA lurks in the constitutions of multitudes of men. It either produces or is produced by an enfeebled, vitiated state of the blood, whereby that fluid becomes incompetent to sustain the vital forces in their vigorous action, and leaves the system to fall into disorder and decay. The scrofulous contamination is variously caused by mercurial disease, low living, disordered digestion from unhealthy food, impure air, filth and filthy habits, the depressing vices, and, above all, by the venereal infection. Whatever be its origin, it is hereditary in the constitution, descending "from parents to children unto the third and fourth generation;" indeed, it seems to be the rod of Him who says, "I will visit the iniquities of the fathers upon their children." The diseases it originates take various names, according to the organs it attacks. In the lungs, Scrofula produces tubercles, and finally Consumption; in the glands, swellings which suppurate and become ulcerous sores; in the stomach and bowels, derangements which produce indigestion, dyspepsia, and liver complaints; on the skin, eruptive and cutaneous affections. These, all having the same origin, require the same remedy, viz., purification and invigoration of the blood. Purify the blood, and these dangerous distempers leave you. With feeble, foul, or corrupted blood, you cannot have health; with that "life of the flesh" healthy, you cannot have scrofulous disease.

is compounded from the most effectual antidotes that medical science has discovered for this afflicting distemper, and for the cure of the disorders it entails. That it is far superior to any other remedy yet devised, is known by all who have given it a trial. That it does combine virtues truly extraordinary in their effect upon this class of complaints, is indisputably proven by the great multitude of publicly known and remarkable cures it has made of the following diseases: King's Evil, or Glandular Swellings, Tumors, Eruptions, Pimples, Blotches and Sores, Erysipelas, Rose or St. Anthony's Fire, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Coughs from tuberculous deposits in the lungs, White Swellings, Debility, Dropsy, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Syphilis and Syphilitic Infections, Mercurial Diseases, Female Weaknesses, and, indeed, the whole series of complaints that arise from impurity of the blood. Minute reports of individual cases may be found in AYER'S AMERICAN ALMANAC, which is furnished to the druggists for gratuitous distribution, wherein may be learned the directions for its use, and some of the remarkable cures which it has made when all other remedies had failed to afford relief. Those cases are purposely taken from all sections of the country, in order that every reader may have access to some one who can speak to him of its benefits from personal experience. Scrofula depresses the vital energies, and thus leaves its victims far more subject to disease and its fatal results than are healthy constitutions. Hence it tends to shorten, and does greatly shorten, the average duration of human life. The vast importance of these considerations has led us to spend years in perfecting a remedy which is adequate to its cure. This we now offer to the public under the name of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, although it is composed of ingredients, some of which exceed the best of Sarsaparilla in alterative power. By its aid you may protect yourself from the suffering and danger of these disorders. Purge out the foul corruptions that rot and fester in the blood, purge out the causes of disease, and vigorous health will follow. By its peculiar virtues this remedy stimulates the vital functions, and thus expels the distempers which lurk within the system or burst out on any part of it.

We know the public have been deceived by many compounds of Sarsaparilla, that promised much and did nothing; but they will neither be deceived nor disappointed in this. Its virtues have been proven by abundant trial, and there remains no question of its surpassing excellence for the cure of the afflicting diseases it is intended to reach. Although under the same name, it is a very different medicine from any other which has been before the people, and is far more effectual than any other which has ever been available to them.

AYER'S
CHERRY PECTORAL,
The World's Great Remedy for Coughs, Colds, Incipient Consumption, and for the relief of Consumptive patients in advanced stages of the disease.

This has been so long used and so universally known, that we need do no more than assure the public that its quality is kept up to the best it ever has been, and that it may be relied on to do all it has ever done.

Prepared by DR. J. C. AYER & CO., Practical and Analytical Chemists, Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all druggists every where.

IMPORTANT TO THE AFFLICTED.

DR. DOW continues to be consulted at his office, No. 7 and 9 ENDICOTT STREET, Boston, on all diseases of a

PRIVATE OR DELICATE NATURE.

By a long course of study and practical experience of unlimited extent, Dr. D. has now the gratification of knowing that the unfortunate victims of disease that have never, since he first introduced them, failed to cure the most alarming cases of

CONSUMPTION AND SYPHILIS.

Beneath his treatment, all the horrors of venereal and impure blood, Impotency, Scrotula, Gonorrhea, Ulcers, pain and dullness in the regions of perspiration, Inflammation of the bladder and kidneys, Hydrocele, Abscesses, Humors, Painful Swellings, and the long train of horrible symptoms attending this class of disease, are made to become as harmless as the simplest stings of a child.

SEMINAL WEAKNESS.

Dr. D. devotes a great part of his time to the treatment of those cases caused by a secret and solitary habit, which ruins the body and mind, unfitting the unfortunate individual for business or society. Some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, are weakness of the limbs, pain in the back, dimness of the head, Dizziness of sight, Palpitation of the heart, Dyspepsia, Nervousness, Derangement of the digestive functions, Cough, symptoms of Consumption, &c. The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded; loss of memory, confusion of ideas, depression of spirits, evil forebodings, aversion of society, self-distrust, timidity, &c., are among the evils produced. Such persons should before contemplating matrimony, consult a physician of experience and be at once restored to health and happiness.

Patients who wish to remain under Dr. Dow's treatment a few days or weeks, will be furnished with pleasant rooms, and charges for board moderate.

Medicines sent to all parts of the country, with full directions for use, on receiving description of your cases. Dr. Dow has also for sale the French Capsules, warranted the best preventive. Order by mail. Three for $1 and a red stamp.

Highly Important!

To Females in Delicate Health.

DR. DOW, Physician and Surgeon, No. 7 & 9 Endicott St., Boston, is consulted daily for all diseases incident to the female system. Prolapsus Uteri, or falling of the Womb, Fluor Albus, Suppressed and painful Menstrual derangements, are all treated upon new pathological principles, and speedy relief guaranteed in a few days. So invariably successful is this new mode of treatment, that most obstinate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted person soon rejoices in perfect health.

No physician in Boston has had greater experience in the cure of Diseases of women and children, than any other physician in Boston.

Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.

Dr. Dow, since 1845, having confined his whole attention to an office practice, for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

N. B.—All letters must contain four red stamps, or they will not be answered.

Office Hours from 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.

CERTAIN CURE

in all cases, or No Charges Made.

Dr. DOW is consulted daily, from 8 A. M. to 9 P. M. as above, upon all difficult and chronic diseases of every name and nature, having by his powerful attention and extraordinary success gained a reputation which calls patients from all parts of the country to obtain advice.

Among the physicians in Boston, none stands higher in the profession than the celebrated DR. DOW, No. 7 Endicott street, Boston. Those who need the services of an experienced physician and surgeon should give him a call.

P. S.—Dr. Dow imports and has for sale a new article, called the FRENCH SECRET. Order by mail. Two for $1 and a red stamp.

THE MAGEE COOKING STOVE.

The subscribers, having received their Fall stock of Stoves, would especially call the attention of the public to the

CELEBRATED AND UNEQUALLED
MAGEE COOK STOVE,

as the very best Stove yet made, and would invite those about purchasing or exchanging Stoves, to examine this, believing it to be far superior to any other Stove yet invented, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual. The oven plates are covered with plaster, which renders it equal to the old-fashioned brick oven for perfection in baking.

There is a new style and very superior broiler and soft iron heater connected by which the odor of broiling meats are prevented from escaping into the room. With the extension top there is a large copper Reservoir for hot water, also a large tin warming closet attached, in which any article can be kept warm, while the other parts of the Stove are occupied for other purposes.

The arrangements for sifting the coal and cleaning the grate are far superior to those of any other Stove now in use, as no dust can possibly escape into the room, and the shoveling up of the ashes is entirely dispensed with. The fire is regulated in the same manner as in the MAGEE PARLOR STOVE, and can be continued day and night for weeks together, thus saving the expense of re-kindling every day.

For economy, durability, ease of management, cleanliness and perfection in cooking, it cannot be surpassed by any other Stove, as hundreds of families in this city and vicinity, who are now using them, are willing to testify, and speak of them in the highest terms of praise.

We would refer to the following purchasers:

"MAGEE'S PATENT" VENTILATING & AIR WARMING FURNACES.

The subscribers, being the Sole Agents in this vicinity for the manufacture and sale of this valuable Furnace, would ask those about remodelling or erecting buildings to examine this truly valuable invention.

For economy, purity of air and ease of management it has no equal, producing a current of warm air, moist and agreeable—and as none of the air which comes in contact with the fire-pot is used for respiration, the tendency to produce headache so much complained of in other Furnaces, is entirely obviated.

The objects aimed at by the constructors of heating apparatus have been to obtain the greatest amount of heat from a given amount of fuel, and to prevent the escape of heat to the smoke pipe or chimney.

To accomplish this many complicated and expensive heating arrangements have been constructed, some possessing but little improvement over former methods, while many have proved a total failure. The reason for this is obvious. The combustible gases being lighter than the air, pass off into the pipe or chimney without being consumed. This objection, so common in other Furnaces, is obviated in the

MAGEE FURNACE.

The flue or pipe in this Furnace being below the fire-pot, the gases, from their specific gravity, cannot descend, and are burned up by the admission of cold air through the fire-pot, which ignites them as they pass off from the gas, thus saving at least 20 per cent. of the properties of the heat in the fuel.

No heating apparatus with the smoke-pipe or flue in the top of the dome can be made to consume the gases of the coal, as they pass off with a large amount of the heat generated, making the chimney the hottest part of your dwelling.

The fire-place does away with the great number of pipes and angles for the radiation of heat, which are so liable to fill up and get out of order, thus simplifying, while it increases the surface of radiation.

These Furnaces consume all the coal, make no clinkers, the sifting of coal is entirely dispensed with, and they will save from 30 to 50 per cent. of fuel over common Furnaces.

For ease of management, economy and purity of air, these Furnaces have no equal. They can be regulated so as to give any amount of heat required, and the fire not to go out, the entire season without once going out.

They give entire satisfaction wherever used. We have in store the different sizes, Brick and Portable, to which we invite the attention of those in want of the best Furnace in the world,—and would refer them to the following named gentlemen, who have them now in use:

Samuel Cleaves, Esq., Albert R. Hatch, Esq.,
Aaron H. Hill, Charles H. Mendum,
Henry F. Wendell, John Sise, and others.

Teeth on Vulcanized Rubber,

SOME OF ITS ADVANTAGES.

1st. It is stronger and lighter than any known material.

2d. From two to six times the amount of suction or adhesion can be obtained by it.

3d. When the arch is irregular we can by building out the depressions which can be found in any extent, give the mouth a more natural appearance.

4th. No bad taste arises in the mouth by its use, as the secretions of the stomach and mouth do not affect it in the least.

5th. Teeth mounted upon this base can be kept clean as easily as a saucer, as when finished the work presents one whole piece.

6th. While in all ways it is better, save in a few peculiar cases, it is much cheaper than Gold.

DR. A. P. STEVENS, Surgeon Dentist,
No. 5 Daniel St., Portsmouth.

Has had four years of practical experience in making this material, and will guarantee satisfaction in all cases entrusted to his care.

Portsmouth, Jan. 1, 1863.

DENTISTRY.

No. 60 CONGRESS STREET,
Portsmouth, Jan. 1st, 1863.

DR. GOODALL.

Would respectfully inform his patrons and the public, that he has at last succeeded in the art of insertingthe patent VULCANIZED RUBBER, that he has purchased the best VULCANIZER in the market, and now prepared to do all the work upon RUBBER, or the finest bases of GOLD and SILVER as formerly, if preferred.

The Rubber has several important advantages, viz.: It is very light and elastic, and consequently is perfectly easy to the muscles of the mouth and cheeks. There are no insertices or open joints to collect food, &c.; consequently they can be worn in day and night, and are very easily kept neat and clean.

Beside all this, the most accurate fit is obtained, as the Rubber is vulcanized directly upon the plaster model, and the suction is of course much stronger than in plates of Gold or Silver.

Any one who is waiting for their permanent teeth will I am confident be perfectly satisfied with the Rubber, as a base. The expense is but a little more than that for Silver, and you get the same teeth (in blocks) that you would pay $60.00 for an upper or lower set on Gold.

In New York and Boston, and throughout the West, Vulcanized Rubber is used almost to the exclusion of the other bases, and by the best Dentists too. I will warrant a perfect fit and teeth from the best manufacturer in the country, S. S. White.

ALL OTHER OPERATIONS IN DENTISTRY I will do at the usual rates. I will have mention that my price for EXTRACTION is 25 cents.

I take pleasure in referring the public to Dr. TREADWELL, Dr. HOARE, Dr. OLIVER, and Dr. ROBERTS, for patient success in extracting Teeth. Teeth extracted without pain and with perfect safety, with Ether. Teeth polished to their natural whiteness without pain or injury to the Enamel. Regulation of Adults' and Children's Teeth will receive particular attention.—All articles and partial sets of teeth repaired with Neatness and Dispatch. All other operations in Dentistry, I will do at the usual rates.

Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on liberal terms, and with dispatch. Researches made into American or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of patents or inventions—and legal or other advice offered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.
The Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing Patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The Testimonials below given prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that no other office of the kind are as charges for professional service so moderate.
The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents.
These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining Patents.
All necessity of a journey to Washington, to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents.
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy; and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.
Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN Applications, on all but one of which patents have been granted, and think is now pending. Such business ability proof of great science and ability in his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges."
JOHN TAGGART.
During eight months, the subscriber, in course of his large practice, made on their rejected applications SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided in his favor, by the Commissioner of Patents.

SATURDAY, APRIL 18, 1863.

THE REBELLION.

The Richmond papers say Wheeler has destroyed two Federal gunboats and three transports, on the Cumberland river.

A dispatch from Gen. Palmer to Maj. Gen. Dix states that Gen. Foster has been relieved. A river steamer with a regiment of troops and supplies of provisions and ammunition succeeded in running the blockade of the rebel batteries on the Tar river, and reached the wharf at Washington on the 14th. The enemy are still investing Suffolk.

The rebels are very active about Suffolk, Va., but thus far have accomplished nothing.

The rebel batteries and sharpshooters fired upon our gunboats on Nansemond river, Va., on the 14th. There was a severe fight, but the batteries were silenced and there were indications that the rebels were retreating. Our loss was five killed and 18 wounded. The steamer Mount Washington, which was grounded, was disabled, but towed off by the Stepping Stones.

The Herald's dispatch says nothing is known in official circles in regard to the rumored withdrawal of the Monitors from Charleston harbor, and their employment on the Mississippi river. While such may be the case, there is reason to believe no orders have been sent to Admiral Dupont as yet for that purpose.

A dispatch from Charleston says our entire iron-clad fleet departed on the afternoon of the 12th, for the South, but the impression prevailed there that they will soon renew the attack.

A Washington letter says Pres. Lincoln is determined to have Charleston or at least that the reconnoissance which accomplished so little shall be followed by a bona fide attack, to be continued so long as an iron-clad can fire a gun. Rebel accounts of the 16th say all was quiet at Charleston. Our troops occupied Coles, Kiawah, and Seabrook Islands, protected by gunboats. Our transports had left.

☞ There was a mutiny on board Gen. Ellet's flag-boat Autocrat, on the Mississippi, a few days since. After several hours' confinement and fasting, the mutineers sent a committee of three from their company to intercede with Gen. Ellet for their release; but the General sent them word that they should remain in irons until they were court martialed, and that if death was awarded they should be shot. He also added that sooner than let a mutiny go unpunished on board one of his vessels, he would blow her up with every soul aboard, not counting his own life anything in the effort to maintain that perfect discipline without which an army or any portion of it is utterly useless to the cause and to the country.

☞ The Traveller says that while fully believing that great inconvenience is felt at the South from the scarcity of food, or rather the high prices at which it is held in those parts where the armies are concentrated, it would be exceedingly injudicious to base our hopes of the suppression of the rebellion on the idea that starvation will do the work of bayonets. The distress which undoubtedly exists in the South in some places, perhaps in large sections of the country, results, from the difficulty of distributing food, rather than the lack of it. Southern railways have deteriorated fast, since the rebellion broke out, from excessive use and want of repair; and the constant demands upon them for the transportation of troops has interfered with the shipment of freight.

NAVY TOBACCO.—The attention of dealers is directed to the advertisement of Clark Brewer & Sons, Boston. They are now manufacturing Navy Tobacco, equal to the best Virginia.

☞ The testimony in the case of the prize steamer Peterhoff is all in. Judge Betts ordered her mail to be opened, but a despatch from Washington interdicted it. It is surmised that she is to be given up.

☞ The Times' Washington dispatch says: The list of Provost Marshals for all the States, except Connecticut, is said to have been made by Col. Fry, and presented to the Secretary of War.

☞ During the last two months 15,000 soldiers have been taken down to the army of the Potomac from the convalescent camps.

☞ The Bangor papers advertise the ice to leave the Penobscot on Monday, in which case a vast number of the burghers will appear in new hats. They bet down there.

☞ The attempts to blow up the snaked gunboat Keokuk, at Charleston, were unsuccessful. She was found to be full of sand.

☞ A letter from Halifax 10th inst. states that $50,000 of the Confederate loan was put up at auction that day, and 60 cents on a dollar found no bidders and was withdrawn.

NEW HAMPSHIRE ITEMS.

——A letter from a member of the 3d N. H. Regiment informs us that among the troops which went with the expedition against Charleston, were the N. H. 3d, 4th and 5 Cos. of the 7th; which with the 7th Conn. formed the 2d Brigade, Terry's Division, under command of Col. H. S. Putnam, of the 7th. The troops were in excellent health and spirits.

—— The 3d N. H., for six weeks previous to embarkation were engaged in good service on Pinckney Island, clearing off the wood, bushes, &c. By the labor thus done, the rebels will be unable to plant any battery or screen themselves on the island, and as Pinckney Island is within a stone's throw of Hilton Head, it is important to keep the enemy from possessing it. The work was done under the direction of Col. John H. Jackson, and the men consider that with what shovelling, chopping, and clearing they have done since they have been in the service, they are as good as an Engineer regiment.

—— The 4th Regiment is to be furnished soon with new Enfield rifles.

—— Mrs. Eunice Hayes, widow of Daniel Hayes, Esq., died at Milton, March 27, aged 101 years, 6 months and 12 days.—Mrs. Hayes was born in Madbury, July 15, 1761, on Friday—was consecrated to God in Baptism on Friday—was married on Friday—moved into Milton on Friday—her husband died on Friday, and she died on Friday as she often affirmed she should.

—— Two more cases of small pox have appeared in Hanover, and the patients have been removed to the Medical Buildings.

—— Hon. E. A. Rollins, of Somersworth, has entered upon his duties as Cashier of the Internal Revenue Department at Washington, a position which he is well qualified to fill.

—— A suggestion has been made to the teachers of New Hampshire, particularly to those who can reach Boston by way of Nashua and Lowell, to visit the museum of Comparative Zoology at Cambridge, and to listen to an address from the great naturalist, Prof. Agassiz. Friday, the first day of May, is suggested as a convenient day for the purpose. Those interested are requested to communicate with Henry E. Sawyer, Superintendent of Schools in Concord, or James O. Adams, Supt. of Schools in Manchester.

—— The American says there has been a sudden diminution of men in Ward Five, Manchester. On the 10th and 11th of March the number of voters appeared to be 593. The Assessors, in making their canvass of taxable polls, have been unusually vigilant, and succeeded in finding only 275 persons in the ward liable to be taxed.

—— The number of soldiers from Claremont is 295, out of a population of 4000, and a check list numbering 1000 voters.

—— The Claremont Eagle states that Capt. C. F. Long, of that town, has a calf, out of the ball of whose right eye grows a little excrescence about two inches long and covered with hair, with a tuft at the end, precisely like a miniature tail. It is an unsightly, but remarkable curiosity.

—— Lieut. F. M. Edgell of Manchester, has been promoted to be Captain in the 1st N. H. Battery, vice Gerrish, resigned.

THE FOURTH REGT. N. H. VOLS.—Capt. Geo. F. Towle of this city, in command of Co. F, sends us a copy of the Free South, containing a series of resolutions which were passed by a meeting of the commissioned officers of that regiment, at Beaufort, S. C., March 31.

The resolutions were drawn by a committee consisting of Capts. Badger and Towle, and Q. M. Kelly,—and are endorsed by the signature of every officer in the regiment, except Capt. Sawyer, who refused.

The resolutions were adopted in consequence of the U. S. order which dismissed Lieut. Edgerly of that regiment, "for circulating copperhead tickets and doing all in his power to promote the success of the rebel cause in his State."

They approve of the dismissal, provided the statements are true;—and say it appears that regardless of his duty to devote his undivided time to recruiting, he subverted the same by electioneering for men notoriously opposed to the war and the whole policy of the executive in conducting the same. Their statement that he was at home as a recruiting officer, and the intimation that he was electioneering exactly in a way to prevent enlistments, remove much of the mystery from his case.

They condemn his conduct,—and express their joy at the late reaction at the North, in favor of a vigorous prosecution of the war.

They contradict and condemn the statements made up and published of scanty and bad fare for soldiers;—and finally "send greeting to the loyal men in New Hampshire, who at the late election, who, against the combined efforts of the copperheads, strengthened as they were by the money of traitors from New York, achieved a signal victory for the nation." Returning thanks for this, they close by pledging their own efforts "to aid in suppressing this diabolical rebellion."

NOTES OF FORMER DAYS.

Collected and Collated—By UNCLE TOBY.

Cranfield's Order on Religion in Portsmouth in 1683;—his finances: He imprisons Major Vaughan.—On the 10th of December, 1683, Cranfield the Governor, and Council, passed an order, which was published, requiring and commanding "that all and singular the respective ministers within this province for the time being do, from and after the first day of January next ensuing, admit all persons, that are of suitable years, and not vicious and scandalous in their lives, unto the blessed sacrament of the Lord's supper, and their children unto baptism. And if any person shall desire to receive the sacrament of the Lord's supper, or their children to be baptized according to the liturgy of the church of England, and that it be done accordingly in pursuance of the laws of the realm of England, and his Majesty's command to the Massachusetts' government. And if any minister shall refuse so to do, being thereto duly required, he shall incur the penalty of the statutes in that case made and provided, and that the inhabitants are freed from paying any duties to the said minister." Mr. Adams in his Annals of Portsmouth, remarks "For what purpose this order was made it is difficult to apprehend. There were not at this time any ministers in the province, who were episcopally ordained; and no others were authorized by law to officiate in the church." [We think there is not much difficulty in apprehending Gov. Cranfield's purpose: he doubtless issued this order as a trap into which Rev. Joshua Moodey must fall, unless he ceased from his ministry. In was sufficiently successful to drive off Moodey, as we have shown in former papers. But it re-acted on Cranfield, and helped to drive him.]

Under pretence of preventing disturbances by unlawful assemblies and meetings to the terror of his Majesty's subjects, Cranfield issued an order "forbidding the trustees or overseers of the several and respective towns, or others, to call any public meeting about any town business, or any other pretence whatever, without leave first obtained from the Justices of the Peace of said town, upon just representation of the necessariness of such town or public meeting, upon such penalty as the law directs to be inflicted upon unlawful assemblies;" which order was directed to the constable of Portsmouth to be published.

Cranfield was greatly disappointed in all his schemes of enriching himself by his office. The fines and forfeitures did not amount to much—and he could obtain nothing from Mason, nor realize anything from his mortgage. And although he could expect no favour from an assembly on account of any personal attachment to himself, he determined to call one, and attempt to raise money by their means under pretence of its being necessary to put the fortress in a proper state of defence, and to guard it against invasion in a case of a war, of which a vague rumor had been spread. The General Court met at Great Island, where the Governor resided, on the 14th day of January, 1684. The Representatives from this town were Richard Waldron, jr., who was chosen Speaker, Philip Lewis, and John Pickering. The Governor had prepared a bill for raising money for the defence of the province and other necessary charges of the government; which was passed by the Council, and sent to the other House for their concurrence. They debated upon it sometime, and adjourned to the morning; when they negatived it, and in that state returned it to the Governor, who was greatly enraged at this proceeding, and immediately dissolved them.

Major Vaughan had accompanied Mr. Weare to Boston, and undertook to procure affidavits on his return to support the petitions, which had been forwarded to the King. But Cranfield, having some suspicion of his design, caused him to be apprehended immediately on his arrival in this town, and brought before him for examination. He enquired of Vaughan for what purpose he went to Boston, and what affidavits he desired to have taken. Vaughan replied that he went on his own business, and the affidavits related to his cause with Mason. The Governor treated him with opprobrious language, and required him to give bonds for his good behaviour; but Vaughan refused, declaring that as he had broken no law, he would not find sureties for his good behavior. Whereupon Cranfield ordered him to be committed to jail, and signed his mittimus with his own hand, the 6th day of February. Vaughan continued in prison about nine months.

☞ It is understood that on the 1st of May the packet ship M. C. Stevens will offer a free passage from Baltimore to Liberia for all free colored people who desire to emigrate. More than two hundred have already signified a determination to join the fortunes of the Liberian Republic.

☞ The Eastport, Me., Sentinel states that the high duty on salt is driving the fish business from Eastport and Lubec, into the Province of New Brunswick.

Can the Editors of the Chronicle inform its readers what has become of the U. S. steam frigate Colorado and of the gunboat Sebago? Some of them would be glad to know.] INQUIRER.

The Sebago, Apr. 4th, was in North Edisto harbor, intending to take part in the recent attack on Charleston. On the 25th of March the Colorado was in the West Gulf blockading squadron, off Mobile Bay, and, we presume, still remains there or in that vicinity.

☞ Do the people of the Northern States realize how much is meant when it is said of the Union men of the Border States that "they do not hesitate to sever the most endearing ties of relationship when they would bind them to one who is a traitor to his country?"

☞ Madame Varian gave one of her superior concerts at Norombega Hall, Bangor, on Tuesday evening. She is to sing in Portland on Tuesday evening next, at a complimentary benefit concert, given by her many admirers.

Read the following recommendation from the Cashier of the Lake Bank, Wolfboro', N. H.
WOLFBORO, N. H., Lake Winnipiseogee, Nov. 10, 1864.
Agents Lodi Manufacturing Co., Boston.
GENTS.:—I have used the Poudrette made by your Co. for two years. The first year I used four barrels, and experimented with it on both corn and potatoes. I was pleased and satisfied with the result, and the past season purchased over 100 barrels for my own use, and my neighbors. I think some twenty-five different farmers tried and used the Poudrette on my recommendation, and all have this Fall expressed themselves entirely satisfied to use each an increased quantity this next Spring. Planting season comes late, and we have very early frosts, and the Poudrette ripens our corn from ten days to three weeks earlier. We have also found it a preventative of the wire worm, which oftentimes destroys our entire crops. Our mode of applying the Poudrette is, to put about a handful in each hill, and place the seed in direct contact. I think I shall want double the quantity next Spring that I had this year.
Yours, Respectfully,
ABEL HALEY,
Cashier Lake Bank, Wolfboro, N. H

☞ The States and Union copies some items from our New Orleans correspondence, and says they were admitted to the columns of this Chronicle by "Uncle Toby." Now any man ought to know, especially if himself connected with newspapers,—that the correspondents of a paper have nothing whatever to do with "admitting" or rejecting articles for its columns "Uncle Toby," as such, is not, and does not pretend or wish to be, one of the editors or managers of this paper; and has no more responsibility for it, of any sort, than any other correspondent who may contribute as much matter over their own signature.

He certainly never did and probably never would or could publish a truly "independent" paper, which should feel toward and treat all parties and sides alike—but that is what the Chronicle professes and intends to be, and not the organ for any man or set of men, or party. Especially, concerning the everlastingly-vexed and vexing slavery question, will it take no side editorially. Slavery to it is nothing, and anti-slavery nothing. But it will not hesitate to give both sides a hearing, if their exponents keep within bounds in all respects. And while yielding to no paper, in its unconditional devotion and loyalty to the Government, now and always,—be it pro or anti-slavery—it sees no harm in occasionally "looking at t'other side," so as to "examine all things."

ACCIDENT. — John Francis Horrocks, about fourteen years of age, was seriously injured while at work in the Portsmouth Steam Factory, on Thursday. He was passing or stepping over a twenty-inch gear, matching into a three-inch gear, when the gears caught in the upper part of the right leg of his pantaloons, pulling him down upon them, tearing the flesh of the thigh half off, on the inside, including the femoral artery (the main artery of the thigh) within three inches of his body. The large gear was about two inches in thickness and took out all the flesh that it caught hold of. His wounds were attended to by Dr. Folsom assisted by Drs. Bennett and Preston. The femoral artery had to be taken up, above and below the wound.

S. J. COURT—EXETER.

In the case of Pickering v DeRochemont on Wednesday, a non-suit was ordered.

The Grand Jury came into court Thursday afternoon, and reported to the Court and were discharged. The Court then adjourned to Monday morning at 10 A. M.

☞ Mr. Alfred Stavers advertises to sell his rare stock of household goods at low prices, to reduce the stock, preparatory to making great alterations and improvements in the building. We understand a new and handsome front is to be put in below, and a spacious stairway has been cut to the chamber above, which will be occupied as a crockery ware and room paper store by Mr. S., and the lower story for the boot and shoe store of Mr. John W. Stavers.

☞ It will be seen that Bradley & Co.'s celebrated Stereopticon is to exhibit in Portsmouth for a couple of days next week. It comes highly recommended, and we have no doubt is a highly interesting entertainment.

☞ We are requested to state that during the illness of Mr. S. B. Marden, Mr. Solomon Jenness will act as Express Messenger to Exeter, and will attend to all business faithfully and promptly.

☞ Madame Anna Bishop, the world renowned Cantatrice, will give a grand concert of vocal and instrumental music, at the Temple Wednesday evening next,—assisted by four distinguished soloists, members of Gilmore's Band.

☞ The Portland papers now say that it was Miss S—s (not J—s) of Portsmouth who so finely represented New Hampshire at the recent Bal Masque in that city.

☞ A heavy collapse in the Confederate loan occurred in London on the 2d, owing to the suspension of J. B. Spence, of Liverpool, in the grain trade. Spence was supposed to be the Confederat financial agent, but he proved not to be the same person nor connected with him, except by family ties. Nevertheless, the loan closed on the 2d at 2 1-2 a 1 1-2 discount.

☞ A reporter describing a local flower show, expresses a fear that he has overlooked much worthy of commendation; but attributes the shortcoming to "the folly of the day, crinoline, which beat upon the spectator in a sort of surf, and rustled, too, like the sea on the sand."

☞ One day last week a man attempted to get outside of the Federal lines beyond Murfreesboro', Tenn. He was hailed by the pickets, but endeavored to escape. He was fired at and killed. Upon his person was found a plan of the fortifications near that place.

☞ A bill which provides that the Government may be sued, is under discussion in the Legislature of New Brunswick.

A NAUGHTY YOUNG SCHOOLMASTER.—The school committee of Becket, in their annual report, tell the following sad story of a naughty pedagogue. "Had he been older and more experienced, he would probably have been more particular in regard to the character of his amusements, and also in the choice of his most intimate associates, and would also have learned that kissing his young lady pupils in open school, is an exercise not recognized by our common school regulations, and one not likely to be appreciated by the people of the district."

☞ A man named Orjuo, residing near Malaga, has invented an apparatus for flying. The Telegrafo of Barcelona thus describes it: "It consists of fans attached to the heels, and large wings extending from the shoulders to the waist, moved by the hands. The inventor, the above named journal states, had already risen to a height of two hundred yards, and moved about in all directions, even against the wind. He had also performed the distance of a league in less than a quarter of an hour!"

☞ Late foreign advices give further particulars of the destruction by the Florida of the Star of Peace, and the schooner Aldebaran. 11 of their crew have reached Greenock. The Star of Peace, bound from Calcutta to Boston with a general cargo, was encountered lat. 15 lon. 52, and burnt. ANOTHER NEW STOVE!

THE MODEL COOK

FOR WOOD OR COAL.

The novel—the peculiar feature of the MODEL COOK, that which distinguishes it from all others, is the addition of a Ventilated Roasting Oven within the body of the stove and in front of the fire; so arranged that it can be used separately for a roaster or (by the removal of a simple plate) in connection with the larger oven, for baking; giving an oven nearly 3 feet long! for large enough to take six large plates on the bottom, every part of which will bake evenly at the same time! A check draft is applied to this stove by means of which the consumption of fuel is greatly lessened, and a steady fire can be kept day and night if desired.

A full set of Claude Duval, and also a large variety of other works, too numerous to mention.

The peculiar taint or infection which we call SCROFULA lurks in the constitutions of multitudes of men. It either produces or is produced by an enfeebled, vitiated state of the blood, wherein that fluid becomes incompetent to sustain the vital forces in their vigorous action, and leaves the system to fall into disorder and decay. The scrofulous contamination is variously called by mercurial disease, low living, disordered digestion from unhealthy food, impure air, filth and filthy habits, the depressing vices, and, above all, by the venereal infection. Whatever be its origin, it is hereditary in the constitution, descending "from parents to children unto the third and fourth generation;" indeed, it seems to be the rod of Him who says, "I will visit the iniquities of the fathers upon their children." This diseases also takes various names, according to the organs it attacks. In the lungs, Scrofula produces tubercles, and finally Consumption; in the glands, swellings which suppurate and become ulcerous sores; in the stomach and bowels, derangements which produce indigestion, dyspepsia, and liver complaints; on the skin, eruptive and cutaneous affections. These, all having the same origin, require the same remedy, viz., purification and invigoration of the blood. Purify the blood, and these dangerous distempers leave you. With feeble, foul, or corrupted blood, you cannot have health; with that "life of the flesh" healthy, you cannot have scrofulous disease.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

is compounded from the most effectual antidotes that medical science has discovered for this afflicting distemper, and for the cure of the disorders it entails. That it is far superior to any other remedy yet devised, is known by all who have given it a trial. This it does combine virtues truly extraordinary in their effect upon this class of complaints, is indisputably proven by the great multitude of publicly known and remarkable cures it has made of the following diseases: King's Evil, or Glandular Swellings, Tumors, Eruptions, Pimples, Blotches and Sores, Erysipelas, Rose or St. Anthony's Fire, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Coughs from tuberculous deposits in the lungs, White Swellings, Debility, Dropsy, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Syphilis and Syphilitic Infections, Mercurial Diseases, Female Weaknesses, and, indeed, the whole series of complaints that arise from impurity of the blood. Minute reports of individual cases may be found in AYER'S AMERICAN ALMANAC, which is furnished to the druggists for gratuitous distribution, wherein may be learned the directions for its use, and some of the remarkable cures which it has made when all other remedies had failed to afford relief. Those cases are purposely taken from all sections of the country, in order that every reader may have access to some one who can speak to him of its benefits from personal experience. Scrofula depresses the vital energies, and thus leaves its victims far more subject to disease and its fatal results than are healthy constitutions. Hence it tends to shorten life, and does greatly shorten the average duration of human life. The vast importance of these considerations has led us to spend years in perfecting a remedy which is adequate to its cure. This we now offer to the public under the name of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, although it is composed of ingredients, some of which exceed the best of Sarsaparilla in alterative power. By its aid you may protect yourself from the suffering and danger of these distempers. Purge out the foul corruptions that rot and fester in the blood, purge out the causes of disease, and vigorous health will follow. By its peculiar virtues this remedy stimulates the vital functions, and thus expels the distempers which lurk within the system or burst out on any part of it.

We know the public have been deceived by many compounds of Sarsaparilla, that promised much and did nothing; but they will neither be deceived nor disappointed in this. Its virtues have been proven by abundant trial, and there remains no question of its surpassing excellence for the cure of the afflicting diseases it is intended to reach. Although under the same name, it is a very different medicine from any other which has been before the people, and is far more effectual than any other which has ever been available to them.

AYER'S
CHERRY PECTORAL,
The World's Great Remedy for Coughs, Colds, Incipient Consumption, and for the relief of Consumptive patients in advanced stages of the disease.

This has been so long used and so universally known, that we need do no more than assure the public that its quality is kept up to the best it ever has been, and that it may be relied on to do all it has ever done.

IMPORTANT TO THE AFFLICTED.

DR. DOW continues to be consulted at his office, Nos. 7 and 9 ENDICOTT STREET, Boston, on all disease of a DELICATE NATURE.

By a long course of study and practical experience of unlimited extent, Dr. D. has now the gratification of presenting the unfortunate with some rules that have never failed to give immediate relief, failed to cure the most alarming cases of

GONORRHŒA AND SYPHILIS.

Beneath his treatment, all the horrors of venereal and impure blood, Impotency, Gleetus, Gonorrhœa, Ulcers, pain and distress in the regions of procreation, Inflammation of the bladder and kidneys, Hydrocele, Abscesses, Tumors, frightful Swellings, and the long train of horrible symptoms attending this class of disease, are made to become as harmless as the simplest ailings of a child.

SEMINAL WEAKNESS.

Dr D. devotes a great part of his time to the treatment of those cases caused by a secret and solitary habit, which ruins the body and mind, unfitting the unfortunate individual for business or society. Some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, are Weakness of the limbs and joints, Dizziness of the head, Dimness of sight, Palpitation of the heart, Dyspepsia, Nervousness, Derangement of the digestive functions, Symptoms of Consumption, &c. The mental effects on the mind are much to be dreaded; loss of memory, confusion of ideas, depression of spirits, evil forebodings, aversion of society, fickleness, timidity, &c., are among the evils produced. Such persons should, before contemplating matrimony, consult a physician of experience, and be at once restored to health and happiness.

Patients who wish to remain under Dr Dow's treatment a few days, will be furnished with pleasant rooms, and charges for board moderate.

Medicines sent to all parts of the country, with full directions for use, on receiving description of your cases. Dr. Dow has also for sale the French Capotte, warranted the best preventive. Order by mail. Three dollars and a stamp.

Highly Important!

To Females in Delicate Health.

DR. DOW, Physician and Surgeon, No. 7 & 9 Endicott street, Boston, is consulted daily for all diseases incident to the female system. Prolapsus Uteri, or falling of the Womb, Fluor Albus, Suppression, or other menstrual derangements, are all treated upon new pathological principles, and speedy relief guaranteed in a few days. So invariably certain is the new mode of treatment, that most distinct complaints yield under it, and the afflicted person soon rejoices in perfect health.

Dr. Dow has no doubt had greater experience in the diseases of females, both married and children, than any other physician in Boston.

Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.

Dr. Dow, since 1845, having confined his whole attention to his profession, for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

Among the physicians in Boston, none stands higher in the profession than the celebrated DR. DOW, No. 7 Endicott street, Boston. Those who need the services of an experienced physician and surgeon should give him a call.

THE MAGEE COOKING STOVE.

The subscribers, having received their Fall stock of Stoves, would especially call the attention of the public to the

as the very best Stove yet made, and would invite those about purchasing or exchanging Stoves, to examine this, believing it to be far superior to any other Stove yet invented, for cooking, being heavier, and the oven larger than usual. The oven plates are covered with plaster, which makes it equal to the old-fashioned brick oven for perfection in baking.

There is a new style and very superior broiler and air iron heater combined, by which the odor of broiling meats are prevented from escaping into the room. With the extension top there is a large copper Reservoir for hot water; also a large air warming-closet attached, in which any article can be kept warm, while the other parts of the Stove are occupied for other purposes.

The arrangements for sifting the coal and cleaning the grate are far superior to those of any other Stove now in use, as no dust can possibly escape into the room, and the shoveling up of the ashes is entirely dispensed with. The fire is regulated in the same manner as in the MAGEE PARLOR STOVE, and can be continued day and night for weeks together, thus saving the expense of re-kindling every day.

For economy, durability, ease of management, cleanliness and perfection in cooking, it cannot be surpassed by any other Stove, as hundreds of families in this city and vicinity, who are now using them, are willing to testify, and speak of them in the highest terms of praise.

We would refer to the following purchasers:

"MAGEE'S PATENT"
VENTILATING & AIR WARMING
FURNACES.

The subscribers, being the Sole Agents in this vicinity for the manufacture and sale of this valuable Furnace, would ask those about remodelling or erecting buildings to examine this truly valuable article.

For economy, purity of air and ease of management it has no equal, providing a constant of warm air, moist and agreeable;—and as none of the air which comes in contact with the fire-pots is used for respiration, the tendency to produce headache so much complained of in other Furnaces, is entirely obviated.

The objects aimed at by the constructors of heating apparatus have been to obtain the greatest amount of heat from a given amount of fuel, and to prevent the escape of heat to the smoke pipe or chimney.

To accomplish this many complicated and expensive heating arrangements have been constructed, some possessing very little improvement over former methods, while many have proved a total failure. The reason for this is obvious. The combustible gases being lighter than the air, pass off into the pipe or chimney without being consumed. This objection, so common in other Furnaces, is obviated in the

MAGEE FURNACE.

The flue or pipe in this Furnace being below the fire-pot, the gases, from their specific gravity, cannot descend, and are burned up by the admission of cold air through the ash pit, which distributes them as they pass off from the coal, thus saving at least 50 per cent. of the properties of the heat in the fuel.

No heating apparatus with the smoke-pipe or flue on the top of the coal can be made to consume the gases of the coal, as they pass off with a large amount of the best heat, leaving the chimney the hottest part of your dwelling.

This Furnace does away with the great number of pipes and angles for the radiation of heat, which are so liable to fill up and get out of order, thus simplifying, while it increases the surface of radiation.

These Furnaces consume all the coal, make no clinkers, the sifting of coal is entirely dispensed with, and they will save from 30 to 50 per cent. of fuel over common Furnaces.

For ease of management, economy and purity of air, these Furnaces have no equal. They can be regulated so as to give any amount of heat required, and the fire may be kept the entire season without once going out.

They give entire satisfaction wherever used. We have in store the different sizes, Brick and Portable, to which we invite the attention of those in want of the best Furnace in the world,—and would refer them to the following named gentlemen, who have them now in use:

Samuel Cleaves, Esq.,	Albert R. Hatch, Esq.,
Aaron H. Hill,	Charles H. Mendum,
Henry F. Wendell,	John Sise, and others.

Teeth on Vulcanized Rubber,

SOME OF ITS ADVANTAGES.

1st. It is stronger and lighter than any known material.

2d. From two to six times the amount of suction or adhesion can be obtained by it.

3d. When the arch is irregular we can by building out the gum supply—which can not be done to any extent—give the mouth a more natural appearance.

4th. No bad taste arises in the mouth by its use, as the secretions of the stomach and mouth do not affect it in the least.

5th. Teeth mounted upon this base can be kept clean and sweet as easy as a saucer, as when finished the work presents one whole piece.

6th. Sets of teeth on this base are by us in a few peculiar cases, it is much cheaper than Gold.

DR. A. P. STEVENS, Surgeon Dentist,

No. 5 Daniel St., Portsmouth,

Has had four years of practical experience in making this material, and will guarantee satisfaction in all cases entrusted to his care.

DENTISTRY.

No. 60 CONGRESS STREET, Portsmouth, Jan. 1st, 1863.

DR. GOODALL:

Would respectfully inform his patrons and the public, having had of late, more than half the teeth upon VULCANIZED RUBBER, that he has purchased the best VULCANIZER in the market, and is now prepared to do all work upon RUBBER, or the other bases of GOLD and SILVER as formerly, if preferred.

The Rubber has several important advantages, viz.: It is very light and easy to the mouth, and is perfectly easy to the muscles of the mouth and cheeks. There are no fastenings or open joints to collect food, &c.; consequently they can be worn night and day, and are very easily kept neat and clean.

Beside all this, the most accurate fit is obtained, as the Rubber is Vulcanized directly upon the plaster model, and the suction is of course much stronger than in plates of Gold or Silver.

Any one who is waiting for their permanent teeth will, I am confident, be perfectly satisfied with the Rubber, as a base. The expense is but a little more than the Silver, and you get the same teeth (in blocks) that you would pay $80.00 for in upper or lower set on Gold.

In New York and Boston, and throughout the West, Vulcanized Rubber is used almost to the exclusion of the other bases, and by the best operators. I will warrant a perfect fit, and teeth from the best manufacturer in the country, S. S. White.

ALL OTHER OPERATIONS IN DENTISTRY I will do best possible. I will here mention that my price for EXTRACTION is 25 cents.

I take pleasure in referring the public to Dr. TRACEY, Dr. BOARDMAN, Dr. OLIVER and Dr. BENNETT, for particular references for extracting Teeth. Teeth extracted without pain and with perfect safety, with Ether. Teeth polished to their natural whiteness without pain or injury to the Enamel. Regulation of Adults' and Children's Teeth will receive particular attention.—All whole and partial Sets of Teeth repaired with Neatness and Dispatch. All other operations in Dentistry, I will do at the usual rates.

The Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing Patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below given prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PRESENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional service so moderate.
The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents.
These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining Patents.
All necessity of a journey to Washington, to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents.
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their applications in form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.
Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications, on all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their patents, as they may be surest having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges."
JOHN LAGGART.
During eight months, the undersigned, in course of his large practice, made on twice rejected applications SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided in his favor, by the Commissioner of Patents.
R. H. EDDY.

MONDAY, APRIL 20, 1863.

THE REBELLION.

A dispatch from Col. Phillips, dated Park Hill, Cherokee Nation, April 11th, says he has swept the north side of Arkansas River clear of rebels. Part of his command hold Fort Gibson. He has had overtures from the rebel Col. Drew, Capt. Vaughn and the Creek Indians. The rebels are gathering on the south side of Arkansas River, and hold all the fords, which are now deep.

Beauregard has issued a congratulatory order to his troops on the issue of the Charleston fight, and communicates to them resolves passed by the S. C. Legislature. The Charleston Mercury says Port Sumter was hit 40 times, and although somewhat pitted is as strong as when the fight began. Nobody was killed. On the 13th, a few blockaders and the Ironsides were off the bar; a steamer from Bermuda, with army equipments, &c., is reported to have arrived on that day.

A steamer from Port Royal, 10th, reports that all the Monitors had returned. It was reported that they would go to attack Port Hudson and Vicksburg. One of the officers of the fleet, however, writes home that the second attack on Charleston will be made at the earliest possible moment.

Gen. Seymour, Chief of Gen. Hunter's staff, left Fortress Monroe on the 16th for Port Royal with despatches.

Rebel dispatches report that large Federal reinforcements have arrived at Grenada, Miss., and say the new plan is to send a large force to each of the three railroads running south. Gen. Grant's army joins Rosecrans by water. Kirby Smith has assumed command of the rebel forces west of the Mississippi.

The rebel account of the destruction of the gunboats and transports on the Cumberland river proves an exaggerated version of an old affair.

It is rumored that the rebel cavalry force which has been hovering around the Bull Run Mountains and Culpepper has been scattered by an expedition sent out by Gen. Stahl.

Gen. Stoneman's cavalry corps, after making a feint at crossing at Kelly's Ford, crossed the Rappahannock some distance higher up, and rapidly pushed on to Culpepper and Gordonsville. They now occupy the latter place, having driven out the enemy, who thus lose the use of the Virginia Central Railroad, and are practically flanked at Fredericksburg. [Later accounts show that this report is false.] The recent severe rain storm has delayed, for a day or two, the projected movements of other troops of Gen. Hooker's Army.

Sunday's dispatch gave a rumor that Admiral Dupont is to be superseded; a statement that a rebel storehouse, containing bacon, flour, and sugar, at Branchville, N. C., was burnt on the 11th; an account of captures by the rebel Gen. Wheeler, which reads very much like one we have already had three times; an assertion that our troops at Lake Providence have moved towards Vicksburg,—an important movement in the South West having commenced on Thursday; and a report that the rebels have been twice repulsed at Suffolk, Va.

INCREASE OF UNION SENTIMENT AT NEW ORLEANS.—A resident of New Orleans just arrived in Massachusetts, expresses the opinion that the Union sentiment in the Crescent City is gradually growing stronger and stronger, and for two good and sufficient reasons: When General Butler ordered that national songs should be sung in the schools of the city, a very large majority of the pupils left by order of their parents. Within a month or two, however, though the order has not been in any way relaxed, the schools have filled up again. The churches also were to a great extent deserted at the time of the trouble with the ministers, but of late the attendance has been much larger, and is increasing.—Trans.

THE REBELLION RECORD, Part 29, contains portraits of Gen. R. H. Milroy, and W. S. Hancock, and brings the record down to the battle of Corinth, Oct. 5, 1862. Published by G. P. Putnam, New York, in parts at 50 cents each. The 5th volume will be ready in May.

THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY, for May, contains articles by Agassiz, Holmes, Whittier and Hawthorne, Harriet Prescott, Rebecca Harding, and Gail Hamilton. Of course it is a capital number.

PETERSON'S MAGAZINE, for May, is before us. The fashion plates and other embellishments are tasty, and will be appreciated by the ladies,—for whom there is much attractive reading matter.

☞ We are requested to state that during the illness of Mr. S. B. Marden, Mr. Solomon Jennes will act as Express Messenger to Exeter, and will attend to all business faithfully and promptly.

☞ The bill providing for taking the votes of the Ohio soldiers in the army has become a law.

☞ Gold sold in New York at 3 P. M., Saturday, at 151 1-2.

NEW HAMPSHIRE ITEMS.

—— J. C. A. Wingate, Esq., of Concord, formerly of Stratham, has been appointed U. S. Consul at Swatow, China—a port between Canton and Amoy.

—— John Hamahan, a lad about eight of age, was drowned at East Concord last Tuesday afternoon.

—— A valuable colt, a steer, and four sheep, which were bitten by a mad dog in Manchester, in December, have died from the effects, and a cow, also bitten, was killed from fear of the consequences. A local paper says "these facts show what we had not previously believed, that mad dogs exist in winter." Down this way we usually hit 'em on the head, winter or summer.

—— A meeting of citizens has been held in Dover to see if some arrangement could be made with the Boston and Maine R. R. to lease the Cocheco road. It is understood that if the latter is leased by the Eastern R. R., the track between Dover and Rochester will be taken up, thus diverting a large amount of trade from the former city. Many of the prominent citizens participated in the meeting, and committees were appointed to confer with the Directors of the Boston & Maine R. R.; to circulate among the citizens a petition to the company; and to obtain signatures of the Stockholders of the Boston & Maine R. R. Company.

ANOTHER PIRATE.—The Liverpool Courier of the 5th inst. says that a good deal of excitement was caused at the Sailors' Home there by the announcement that a hundred able bodied seamen had signed articles to go to sea on board a large vessel, recently built at Greenock, Scotland, and ready to sail from that place. The destination of the ship was said to be the the China seas, but no one doubted she had been built for the Confederate government, and was intended as a pirate such as the Alabama is.

☞ The Virginia Legislature has passed a tax bill taxing everybody and everything considerably more than double the rates of the United States tax under the Internal Revenue law.

The rebel Congress has passed a bill abolishing flogging altogether in the rebel army, substituting the death penalty and imprisonment in the penitentiary.

☞ Mr. Robert Harrower, of Newburyport, advertises that he "will pay $50 to any person who will detect and bring to punishment the miscreant who steals his Morning Herald." Very good; but it would be cheaper for him to cut a small hole in his door, into which the carrier might drop the paper,—as should be done by every one who takes a morning paper.

A LIVE COPPERHEAD.—A regular live American eagle—the eagle of classic fame, and the national emblem of liberty,—has found its way to this city, and has been purchased by one of our prominent citizens, for presentation to the Milwaukee Democratic Club. The head of the bird is a shining copper color, and he measures 3 feet from tip to tip.—Milwaukee News.

☞ Advices from Kentucky, dated April 10, state that Gen. Nagle's brigade, including the 6th and 9th N. H., 3d div. 9th army corps, moved from Lexington on the 8th inst., and marched 20 miles to Winchester, where it remains for the present. It is supposed the 9th army corps will keep along near the border of the State to repel rebel invasions if attempted.

☞ The rebels appear to be concentrating the spoils recently taken by them in Kentucky and Tennessee, at Burksville, Ky., and at Salina, Tenn. They are said to have a force of about 500 at each place.

☞ A boarder at the Shelby House, Louisville, Ky., was out on the porch with a Henry rifle, when the negro at the pump said to him, "You'd make a pretty soldier," whereupon he took aim at him, saying, "Yes, I'll try it," and fired. The ball passed into his head, killing him instantly.

☞ The Boston Post says some of their most sagacious capitalists are picking up, in a quiet way, manufacturing stocks in certain mills in Massachusetts and Maine, where large profits are accumulating for the July dividends.

☞ It is mentioned as a peculiarity of the report of the Augusta, Me., Supervisor of Schools (who, possibly, is a young man,) that in place of the old fashioned Caroline, Sally, &c., we find Carrie, Nettie, Sallie, two Lizzies, Georgie, Clarrie and Hattie.

☞ A Salt Lake City dispatch says Col. Evans attacked and routed 200 Indians entrenched in a canon, 70 miles south of Daybreak, on the 15th, killing 30. He followed them 14 miles, and scattered them in every direction.

☞ Gen. Shields arrived in San Francisco Mar. 20th. He has resigned his commission in the United States army, and has no connection with the military department of the Government.

☞ Two British neutral steamers ran out of Charleston on the 8th,—the day after the "reconnoissance."

Why is a newspaper like an apothecary's shop. Because it contains extracts.

What do we seek redress for? Injuries. Where do we find it? In juries.

A BUBBLE BURST.

ION, in the New Orleans correspondence, says "the great abolition bubble has broken; "—but Uncle Toby "don't see it." On the contrary, those old abolition blowers of the last century, Jefferson, Franklin and Jay on this side the water, with Wesley, Wilberforce and others in England, and Lafayette in France, blew up a great abolition bubble that never broke at all, but floated away into the clouds and became a heavenly bow of promise to the oppressed in all the lands.

Gloriously has this promise been realized. The slave trade is outlawed by all Christian nations save one: the Algerines have quit it: and the U. S. Congress long ago branded it as piracy. The fetters dropped at once from 800,000 bondmen in the British West Indies,—and the driver and his whip have gone to oblivion together. The French, Danish and Dutch governments have freed their slaves; Hayti is a black republic; and St. Domingo, though re-annexed to Spain, has no slave chattels. In Russia to-day the late serfs are classed as men.

In Guinea, Brazil and Cuba, slavery exists; and in the United States, three years ago, it was the peculiar institution of all the States south of Mason and Dixon's line.

Since that time a great bubble has burst, not the bubble of abolition, but the bubble of apparent national prosperity, greatness and wealth, of which the rulers of this land and thousands of the people used to boast themselves, and much of which they counted as the gain and profit of Slavery.

But our condition has met a change. We are in the midst of a gigantic and terrible civil war, opened by the slave power to its own ultimate destruction,—and in its present effects spreading poverty, distress, crime and misery over the land, and especially in the spots formerly supposed to be most favored by it, as New Orleans, Charleston and Richmond.

Our assertion as to what opened the war, is well sustained by such authority as the Boston Post, which said only a few days ago,—"Certainly the secessionists opened and kept up this war; certainly it is right to repel force by force; certainly there must be war for the present or the National Capital will be in possession of the Confederates!"

In the midst of this terrible war, slaves by thousands are forsaken by runaway masters, and the slaves run away from their masters by other thousands. This breaks a bubble:—the New Orleans letter calls it an abolition bubble, and publishes a document to prove it. Let us look carefully at the document. Lt. Hanley, the Supt. of Negro Labor, advertises that he wishes to find places of hired service for "many colored house servants under his charge, who cannot be induced to return to their owners, and who are unfit for plantation labor."

What does this show? Answer, first that house slaves, counted the most favored class, do run away from that blessed condition,—as the opinion is given that N. O. whites will not hire them because they are "runaways." Second, that they are numerous; and third, that they are unwilling to return. Slavery is the bubble that has burst.

Again, "misery and squalor and mortality exist wherever large bodies of contrabands are centered." No doubt of it: how could it be otherwise, when 1000 people of both sexes and all ages, without money, clothing or means of comfortable living, are swept away from their usual huts and fields by the storm of war, huddled together in or near the military camp of one army, and daily exposed to all the chances of war by the movements of two contending armies!

This misery is confirmed by Ion's observation, (see his letter of a few days since.)

The theory there put forth is, that slavery promotes good morals in the negro, while freedom corrupts him;—and therefore he ought to be a slave to the white man. Now let us see how nicely the facts upset this theory, and how the same facts bear on the whites as well as negroes.

We are told to look at the Court Records in the papers sent, to see the great crimes of the negroes. We do so, and in the papers that came with the letter, we find the white criminals twice as numerous as the black ones. The inference is plain, that some of the Anglo Saxon race in New Orleans need no dragging down, and that they ought to be slaves to the black men, that their morals might be improved by the lash.

So of the educated nig who forged the passes: if his fraud be a reason why negroes should not know how to write; then the frauds of Tuckerman and the forgeries and false issues of Railroad Stocks by clerks and presidents, show clearly that all white men should be as ignorant as possible.

That prostitution may have increased in New Orleans among the colored population is possible;—especially as that population has increased greatly and suddenly:—but everybody knows or might know, that mulattoes, quadroons and octoroons are common all over the South, and especially in New Orleans and other cities; that marriage among slaves has no legal force or sanction; and that female slaves have not the slightest legal protection for their lives of innocence or purity.

Read the following recommendation from the Cashier of the Lake Bank, Wolfboro', N. H.
WOLFBORO, N. H., Lake Winnipiseogee, Nov. 10, 1862.
Agents Lodi Manufacturing Co., Boston.
GENTS.:—I have used the Poudrette made by your Co. for two years. The first year I used four barrels, and experimented with it on both corn and potatoes. I was pleased and satisfied with the result, and the past season purchased over 100 barrels for my own use, and my neighbors. I think some twenty-five different farmers tried and used the Poudrette on my recommendation, and all have this Fall expressed themselves entirely satisfied to use each an increased quantity this next Spring. Planting season comes late, and we have very early frosts, and the Poudrette ripens our corn from two to three weeks earlier. We have also found it a preventative of the wire worm, which oftentimes destroys our entire crops. Our mode of applying the Poudrette is, to put about a handful in each hill, and place the seed in direct contact. I think I shall want double the quantity next Spring that I had this year.
Yours, Respectfully,
ABEL HALEY,
Cashier Lake Bank, Wolfboro, N. H.

HUNNEWELL'S ECLECTIC PILLS —The true Type of Cathartic.—By the application of true Pharmaceutical Laws, both Character and Economy are combined in this valuable Pill. To prevent putting such quantities of indigestible drugs into the stomach, the griping pains so erroneously judged to be the evidence of thorough action, and to require from 4 to 6 Pills, to get a decent cathartic, was the study in this development. The dose seldom exceeding One, and never more than Two Pills, settles the question of economy, and character can be best known by confidence to test them in DYSPEPSIA, COSTIVENESS, BILIOUSNESS, LIVER COMPLAINT, all derangements of the stomach and Bowels, and as a Family Pill. spno

Communication.

Mr. Editor:—Does your memory extend back far enough into the past to reach the nights of singing schools, with bass-viols, clarionets, flutes, &c. If not, I must refer to Uncle Toby, for sympathy in such reminiscences. A hall century to him is but as yesterday. His voice had an unforgetable prominence in those days of adult singing schools, and if he would, he could tell us many a good story of the musical celebrities of our town in days past.

The old folks' concerts which we have had a few years ago, awakened many pleasant memories of those good old times.—When I think of those old times there rises a host of pleasing forms and cheerful faces, mingled with a concord of sweet sounds: weekly they gathered, gilding the hours of dark winter nights with kindness, set to music, and many a chord of love there trembled with its first vibrations—for 'tis as easy for Cupid to reach the heart through the ear as through the eye.

I meet venerable men in our streets daily, who have long since hung up the fiddle and the bow, and several other instruments, whose cheeks, once full of youth and wind, blew notes of lofty praise from behind a clarionet, or whose arms once lovingly embraced the great bass-viol, and drew sonorous sounds from out its depths, the sublime sub-bass of my youthful ear. Ah! would that they could be young again, to give us the benefit of their concord in primitive style.

Where is the sonorous bass, the ringing tenor, the rich treble, or the soaring counter of former days?—mantles worthy of the shoulders of the sons and daughters of today. But have they inherited them? If so, why is it true that the material for church choirs is so scarce and poor? It is for want of the singing schools! With a piano in every other house, and music teachers paying visits like the doctors, our girls learn to play "Lincoln's Quickstep," and to sing "Ever of Thee," but they will never learn to lead off in those higher flights of public worship, until the singing school is again opened, and he will do a world of service to the cause of religion and social harmony who will institute and establish as systematic evening school, which shall be permanently maintained, and take part in the education of every girl and boy, young man and maiden amongst us. A short time only would pass under such opportunity before we should find material enough to fill up all the choirs in town with such singers as would make this important part of public worship nearer what it should be.

TURN.

☞ The ladies of Calais, Me., ashamed longer to have their town go without a decent Town Hall, have under consideration a project to raise funds to erect such a building.

Not long since, at a public celebration in this city, a lady, as she glanced with a dissatisfied air around Jefferson Hall, remarked to a gentleman,—"the ladies will have to build a City Hall for you, yet." The editor of the Portland Argus ventures to express the opinion that "if the Calais ladies succeed in building a town-house, he must be a mean man who would object to their voting in it." What is true of Calais is true of Portsmouth, and as some gentlemen in our own city might consider such a result a calamity, it behooves such to bestir themselves; otherwise the ladies may get the start of them. They have done it before, you know.

GOV. LANGDON ENGINE Co., No. 3, Capt. Albert Foye, gave their annual supper at the Jefferson House, Water Street, on Thursday Evening last. A large Company sat down to the table, which was loaded with edibles served in the best style of mine host Cunningham. After the supper, speeches and sentiments were given by Hon. Daniel Marcy, J. E. Rider, Esq., Chief Engineer Moran, Capt. Deering, W. B. Russell, Esq., and the party separated at a late hour, satisfied that 3's boys can do things up in good style when they set about it.—States and Union.

☞ Isn't it singular that customers should have a choice or fashion, or habit, as to the side of a given street, on which they trade, or do their shopping? But such is said to be the fact, here as well as everywhere else. And every shop-keeper knows that "trade," or buyers, are lazy; and if of two stores side by side, otherwise alike in every respect, one has a step or two more than the other at the entrance,—it will quickly be found that a large proportion of the patrons will shirk the climbing of even so slight a step.

Mr. Frank Jones, of this city, is about to erect a huge malt house, some 200 feet long by 60 feet wide, where he will have facilities for converting 75,000 bushels of barley yearly into malt, to be used in the manufacture of Ale, in which he is extensively and successfully engaged. Nobody makes better Ale than he, as his increasing patronage fully proves.

It strikes us that this will make a very good market for all the barley which the farmers in this section of the country may choose to raise. They will do well to heed this fact. War never will stop the people from drinking Jones' Ale. There is none better made.—States and Union.

A MORAL.

Dr. Pusey sits in his Oxford chair,
"With a gloomy brow and dissatisfied air,"
And he says, says he,
"It seems to me
That Jowett is wrong as far as I see;
For, though he can cheerfully sign an Article,
I doubt if he really believe a particle;
In his work there is plenty of evidence
That he holds them in 'a non natural sense;'"
So (to put it in rhymes)
He writes to the Times,
And proposes to cut Mr. Jowett short
By pulling him into the Small Debts Court.

Then up starts Maurice, a reverend knight,
Whose lance is always ready for fight,
And he says, says he,
"I don't agree
Either with Jowett or Dr. P.;"
So he writes a letter,
Very much better
To say the two wrongs should fight a fair bout,
And then from the conflict the truth would come out!

The non-natural sense, perhaps he may mention,
Was Dr. Pusey's own invention;
But he (Mr. M.) is not one of that sort
Who would settle a creed in a Small Debts Court.

Then, rushing in haste over many a mile,
Rides into the lists the Dean of Carlisle;
But Francis Close,
As every one knows,
Appears in small print on account of his style;
And he says, says he,
"I don't agree
With any one of the other three;
For in whatever sense they sign,
It's nonsense if it's not like mine;
And what a non-natural sense they call
Is very much like no sense at all;
So I'd give them an orthodox retort
By putting all three in the Small Debts Court."

Then John Henry Newman continues the story
In a voice from the Birmingham Oratory—
"To believe," says he,
"Too little, to me,
Is worse than believing too much, do you see?
I wrote No 90 to make it appear
That the only sense the Prayer-book will bear
Is that which leads its teachers home
To the feet of the Holy Father at Rome:
And then the Philistines would not sport
Over Doctors at war in a Small Debts Court."

But amongst the spectators is one of the crowd,
A plain, honest man, who is thinking aloud;
And he says, says he,
"It is clear to me
That none of these reverend doctors agree.
Their doctrines puzzle me more and more;
For, as I'm alive,
Here's number five
Tripping up the heels of the other four;
And how can a single man conceive
What are the things he ought to believe?
For the chancel is differing from the nave,
And the churchyard is quarreling with the grave;
And it wouldn't surprise any honest people
If the church should soon fall out with the steeple;"
But he says, says he,
"It's a comfort to me
That about one thing there is no misgiving—
The parson will never run off from his living."

—London Patriot.

☞ Our old friend, the Portsmouth Journal says, "the Chronicle is to our citizens generally, what a lady used to carry by her side, and contains as great a variety as the Partington's pocket." Thank you—and is it fair for any reader to expect that where so many tastes are to be suited, nothing shall ever be printed in its columns, without interest or objection to any?

☞ Improvements are needed at the corner of Fleet and Hanover streets;—first to remove the rotten fish which sends forth a vile odor, and then to widen Fleet street on the eastern side. K.

☞ It will be seen that Bradley & Co.'s celebrated Stereoptican is to exhibit in Portsmouth a couple of evenings this week. It comes highly recommended, and we have no doubt is a very interesting entertainment.

☞ Madame Anna Bishop, the world renowned Cantatrice, will give a grand concert of vocal and instrumental music, at the Temple, Thursday evening next,—assisted by four distinguished soloists, members of Gilmore's Band.

ANOTHER NEW STOVE!

THE MODEL COOK

FOR WOOD OR COAL.

The most—the peculiar feature of the MODEL COOK, that which distinguishes it from all others, is the addition of a Ventilated Roasting Oven within the body of the stove and in front of the fire; so arranged that it can be used separately for a roaster or (by the removal of a simple plate) in connection with the larger oven, for baking; giving an oven nearly 2 feet long; or large enough to take six large plates on the bottom, every part of which will bake evenly at the same time! A check draft is applied to this stove by means of which the consumption of fuel is greatly lessened, and a steady fire can be kept day and night if desired.

The peculiar taint or infection which we call SCROFULA lurks in the constitutions of multitudes of men. It either produces or is produced by an enfeebled, vitiated state of the blood, wherein that fluid becomes incompetent to sustain the vital forces in their vigorous action, and allows the system to fall into disorder and decay. The scrofulous contamination is variously caused by mercurial disease, low living, disordered digestion from unhealthy food, impure air, filth and filthy habits, the depressing vices, and, above all, by the venereal infection. Whatever be its origin, it is hereditary in the constitution, descending "from parents to children unto the third and fourth generation;" indeed, it seems as if the God of Him who says, "I will visit the iniquities of the fathers upon their children." The diseases it originates take various names, according to the organs it attacks. In the lungs, Scrofula produces tubercles, and finally Consumption; in the glands, swellings which suppurate and become ulcerous sores; in the stomach and bowels, derangements which produce indigestion, dyspepsia, and liver complaints; on the skin, eruptive and cutaneous affections. These, all having the same origin, require the same remedy, viz., purification and invigoration of the blood. Purify the blood, and these dangerous distempers leave you. With feeble, foul, or corrupted blood, you cannot have health; with that "life of the flesh" healthy, you cannot have scrofulous disease.

is compounded from the most effectual antidotes that medical science has discovered for this afflicting distemper, and for the cure of the disorders it entails. That it is far superior to any other remedy yet devised, is known by all who have given it a trial. The it does combine virtues truly extraordinary in their effect upon this class of complaints, is indisputably proven by the great multitude of publicly known and remarkable cures it has made of the following diseases: King's Evil, or Glandular Swellings, Tumors, Eruptions, Pimples, Blotches and Sores, Erysipelas, Rose or St. Anthony's Fire, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Coughs from tuberculous deposits in the lungs, White Swellings, Debility, Dropsy, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Syphilis and Syphilitic Infections, Mercurial Diseases, Female Weaknesses, and, indeed, the whole series of complaints that arise from impurity of the blood. Minute reports of individual cases may be found in AYER'S AMERICAN ALMANAC, which is furnished to the druggists for gratuitous distribution, wherein may be learned the directions for its use, and some of the remarkable cures which it has made when all other remedies had failed to afford relief. Those cases are purposely taken from all sections of the country, in order that every reader may have access to some one who can speak to him of its benefits from personal experience. Scrofula does not spare vital energies, and thus it puts its victims far more subject to disease and its fatal results than are healthy constitutions. Hence it tends to shorten, and does greatly shorten, the average duration of human life. The vast importance of these considerations has led us to spend years in perfecting a remedy which is adequate to its cure. This we now offer to the public under the name of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, although it contains a variety of ingredients, some of which exceed the best of Sarsaparilla in alterative power. By its aid you may protect yourself from the suffering and danger of these disorders. Purge out the foul corruptions that rot and fester in the blood, purge out the causes of disease, and vigorous health will follow. By its peculiar virtues this remedy stimulates the vital functions, and thus expels the distempers which lurk within the system or burst out on any part of it.

We know the public have been deceived by many compounds of Sarsaparilla, that promised much and did nothing; but they will neither be deceived nor disappointed in this. Its virtues have been proven by abundant trial, and there remains no question of its surpassing excellence for the cure of the afflicting diseases it is intended to reach. Although under the same name, it is a very different medicine from any other which has been before the people, and is far more effectual than any other which has ever been available to them.

CHERRY PECTORAL,

The World's Great Remedy for Coughs, Colds, Incipient Consumption, and for the relief of Consumptive patients in advanced stages of the disease.

IMPORTANT TO THE AFFLICTED.

DR. DOW continues to be consulted at his office, Nos. 7 and 9 ENDICOTT STREET, Boston, on all diseases of a SPECIAL AND DELICATE NATURE.

By a long course of study and practical experience of unlimited extent, Dr. D. has now the gratification of presenting to the afflicted a remedy for ills that have never, since he first introduced them, failed to cure the most alarming cases of

GONORRHŒA AND SYPHILIS.

Beneath his treatment, all the horrors of venereal and impure blood, Impotency, Scrotula, Gonorrhœa, Ulcers, pain and distress in the regions of procreation, Inflammation of the Bladder and Kidneys, Hydrocele, Abscesses, Humors, frightful Swellings, and the long train of horrible symptoms attending this class of diseases, made to become as healthy as the simplest ailings of a child.

SEMINAL WEAKNESS.

Dr D., devotes a great part of his time to the treatment of those cases caused by a secret and solitary habit, which ruins the body and mind, unfitting the unfortunate individual for business or society. Some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, are weakness of the back and limbs, Dizziness of the head, Dimness of sight, Palpitation of the heart, Dyspepsia, Nervousness, Derangement of the digestive functions, Symptoms of Consumption, &c. The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded; loss of memory, confusion of ideas, depression of spirits, evil forebodings, aversion to society, self-distrust, timidity, &c., are among the evils produced. Such persons should, before contemplating matrimony, consult a physician of experience, and be cured and restored to health and happiness.

Patients who wish to remain under Dr. Dow's treatment a few hours or weeks, will be furnished with pleasant rooms, and charges for board moderate.

Medicines sent to all parts of the country, with full directions for use, on receiving description of your cases. Dr. Dow has also for sale the French Capotes, and other contraceptive preventatives. Order by mail. Three for $1 and a red stamp.

Highly Important!

To Females in Delicate Health.

DR. DOW, Physician and Surgeon, No. 7 & 9 Endicott St., Boston, is consulted daily for all diseases incident to the female system. Prolapsus Uteri, or falling of the Womb, Fluor Albus, Suppression, and other menstrual derangements, are all treated upon new pathological principles, and speedy relief guaranteed in a few days. So invariably certain is he of success in the treatment, that even obstinate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted person soon rejoices in perfect health.

Dr. Dow has been in Boston, continuously for the last 20 years of his career of women and children, than any other physician in Boston.

Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.

Dr. Dow, since 1845, having confined his whole attention to an office practice, for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

N. B.—All letters must contain four red stamps, or they will not be answered.

Office Hours from 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.

CERTAIN CURE

Among the physicians in Boston, none stands higher in the profession than the celebrated DR. DOW, No. 7 Endicott street, Boston. Those who need the services of an experienced physician and surgeon should give him a call.

P. S.—Dr. Dow imports and has for sale a new article, called the FRENCH SECRET. Order by mail. Two for $5 and a red stamp.

THE MAGEE COOKING STOVE.

The subscribers, having received their Fall stock of Stoves, would especially call the attention of the public to the

CELEBRATED AND UNEQUALLED MAGEE COOK STOVE,

as the very best Stove yet made, and would invite those about purchasing or exchanging Stoves, to examine this, believing it to be far superior to any other Stove yet invented, the castings being heavier, and the oven being larger than usual, the oven plates are covered with plaster, which renders it equal to the old-fashioned brick oven for perfection in baking.

There is a new style and very superior broiler and steam heater combined, by which the odor of broiling meats are prevented from escaping into the room. With the extension top there is a large copper Reservoir for hot water; also a large tin warming-closet attached, in which any article can be kept warm, while the other parts of the Stove are occupied for other purposes.

The arrangements for sifting the coal and cleaning the grate are far superior to those of any other Stove now in use, as no dust can possibly escape into the room, and the shoveling up of the ashes is entirely dispensed with. The fire is regulated in the same manner as in the MAGEE PARLOR STOVE, and can be continued day and night for weeks together, thus saving the expense of re-kindling every day.

For economy, durability, ease of management, cleanliness and perfection in cooking, it cannot be surpassed by any other Stove, as hundreds of families in this city and vicinity, who are now using them, are willing to testify, and speak of them in the highest terms of praise

"MAGEE'S PATENT" VENTILATING & AIR-WARMING FURNACES.

The subscribers, being the Sole Agents in this vicinity for the manufacture and sale of this valuable Furnace, would ask those about remodelling or erecting buildings to examine this valuable invention.

For economy, purity of air and ease of management it has no equal, producing a current of warm air, moist and agreeable, and as none of the air which comes in contact with the fire-pot is used for respiration, the tendency to produce headache so much complained of in other Furnaces, is entirely obviated.

The objects aimed at by the constructors of heating apparatus have been to obtain the greatest amount of heat in the given amount of fuel, and to prevent the escape of heat to the smoke pipe or chimney.

To accomplish this many complicated and expensive heating arrangements have been constructed, some possessing but little improvement over former inventions, while many have proved a total failure. The reason for this is obvious. The combustible gases being lighter than the air, pass off into the pipe or chimney without being consumed. This objection, so common in other Furnaces, is obviated in the

MAGEE FURNACE.

The flue or pipe in this Furnace being below the fire-pot, the gases, from their specific gravity, cannot descend, and are burned up by the admission of cold air (through the fire-pot), which ignites them as they pass off from the combustible, thus saving at least 20 per cent. of the properties of the heat in the fuel.

No heating apparatus with the smoke-pipe or flue at the top of the cone can be made to consume the gases of the coal, as they pass off with a large amount of the heat generated, making the chimney the hottest part of the building.

This Furnace does away with the great number of pipes and angles for the radiation of heat, which are so liable to fill up and get out of order, thus simplifying, while it increases the surface of radiation.

These Furnaces consume all the coal, make no clinkers, the sifting of coal is entirely dispensed with, and they will save from 30 to 50 per cent. of fuel over common Furnaces.

For ease of management, economy and purity of air, these Furnaces have no equal. They can be regulated so as to give any amount of heat required, and the fire may be kept the entire season without once going out.

They give entire satisfaction wherever used.

We have in store the different sizes, Brick and Portable, to which we invite the attention of those in want of the best Furnace in the world,—and would refer them to the following named gentlemen, who have them now in use:

Samuel Newman, Esq.,	Albert R. Hatch, Esq.,
Aaron H. Hill,	Charles H. Mendum,
Henry F. Wendell,	John Sise, and others.

Teeth on Vulcanized Rubber,

SOME OF ITS ADVANTAGES.

1st. It is stronger and lighter than any known material.

2d. From two to six times the amount of suction or adhesion can be obtained by it.

3d. When the arch is irregular we can by building out the depressions, which can be done to any extent—give the mouth a more natural appearance.

4th. No bad taste arises in the mouth by its use, as the secretions of the stomach and mouth do not affect it in the least.

5th. Teeth mounted upon this base can be kept clean and sweet as easy as a saucer, as when finished the work presents one whole piece.

6th. When in all ways it is better, save in a few peculiar cases, it is much cheaper than Gold.

DENTISTRY.

No. 60 CONGRESS STREET,
Portsmouth, Jan. 1st, 1863.

DR. GOODALL

Would respectfully inform his patrons and the public, (having had of late many calls to insert teeth upon VULCANIZED RUBBER,) that he has purchased the best VULCANIZER in the market, and is now prepared to do all work upon RUBBER, or the other bases of GOLD and SILVER as formerly, if preferred.

The Rubber has several important advantages, viz.: It is very light and elastic, and consequently is perfectly easy to the muscles of the mouth and cheeks. There are no interstices or open joints to collect food, &c.; consequently they can be worn night and day, and are very easily kept neat and clean.

Besides all this, the most accurate fit is obtained, as the Rubber is Vulcanized directly upon the plaster model, and the suction is of course much stronger than in pieces of Gold or Silver.

Any one who is waiting for their permanent teeth will, I am confident, be perfectly satisfied with the Rubber, as a base. The expense is but little more than for Silver, and you get the same teeth (in blocks) that you would pay $60.00 for an upper or lower set in Gold.

In New York and Boston, and throughout the West, Vulcanized Rubber is used almost to the exclusion of the other bases, and by the best dentists. I will warrant a perfect fit and teeth from the best manufacturer in the country, S. S. White.

ALL OTHER OPERATIONS IN DENTISTRY. I will do in the usual rate. I will here mention that my PRICE FOR EXTRACTION is 25 cents.

I take pleasure in referring the public to Dr. TEBBETTS, Dr. BOARDMAN, Dr. OLIVER and Dr. BENNETT, for particular success in extracting Teeth. Teeth extracted without pain and with perfect safety, with Ether. Teeth polished to their natural whiteness without pain or injury to the Enamel. Regulation of Adults' and Children's Teeth will receive particular attention.

All whole and partial Sets of Teeth repaired with Neatness and Dispatch. All other operations in Dentistry, I will do at the usual rates.

Soldiers, Sailors, and Fishermen, will find this Salve their best friend.

It has none of the irritating, heating properties of other remedies, but cools, cleanses, and heals the most serious Sores and Wounds. Every family, and especially those containing children, should keep a box on hand in case of accident, for it will save them much trouble, suffering, and money. All it wants is a fair trial to cure old and inveterate Sores.

"Bound to no party—to no sect confined:
The world our home; our brethren, all mankind.
Love truth, do good, be just and fair with all;
Exalt the right, though every ism fall."

"Let me warn you in the most solemn manner against the baneful effects of the spirit of Party, generally. It is a spirit not to be encouraged.—Its common and continual mischief is sufficient to make it the interest and duty of a wise people to discourage and restrain it. In governments of the popular form, it is seen in its greatest rankness, and is truly their worst enemy."—Washington's Farewell Address.

American and Foreign Patents.
R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of U. S. Patent Office, Washington, (under the Act of 1837.)
75 State Street, opposite Kilby Street,
BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on liberal terms, and with dispatch. Researches made into American or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of Patents or Inventions—and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.
The Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing Patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The Testimonials below given prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional service so moderate.
The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents.
These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining Patents.
All necessity of a journey to Washington, to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents.
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their applications in due form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents
Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications, on all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that is now pending. Such unmistakeable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their patents, as they may be sured having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges."
JOHN TAGGART.
During eight months, the subscriber, in course of his large practice, made on twice rejected applications SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided in his favor, by the Commissioner of Patents. R. H. EDDY.

TUESDAY, APRIL 21, 1863.

THE REBELLION.

Suffolk letters report that our forces hold Nansemond river for sixteen miles, and have defeated every attempt of the rebels to get in our rear. The rebels apparently fear to risk a general engagement and none if expected at present. The chief of the rebel Gen. French's staff has been captured. It was thought at Suffolk on the 17th that the rebels were retreating.

Gen. Stoneman's force, on the 16th, had taken some rebels, and then held one side of Kelley's Ford, and were strong enough at the Rappahannock Bridge to hold it and prevent its destruction. A portion of the force was at Liberty.

Deserters from Savannah state that Fort Sumter was breached in several places and many of the gunners placed here on the combat. At one time a panic was created in the city, Gen. Ripley having telegraphed that there was a possibility of our fleet forcing the obstructions. There are said to have been 20,000 rebels on James Island alone and twenty-two rebel earth fortifications on James, John and Morris Islands.

A propeller with iron plating has arrived at Port Royal,—it is said to strengthen all the Monitors.

A letter in the N. Y. Herald from Morehead City, announces that Gen. Foster succeeded in passing the rebel blockade in the steamer Escort, with the loss of the pilot (killed) and one wounded. The Escort was riddled by at least 40 shots. Gen. Foster arrived at Newbern on the night of the 15th and was joyfully received. The reinforcements at Washington consist of the 8th Rhode Island regiment. They volunteered to run the rebel blockade, and did. They went on the steamer on which Gen. Foster returned.

Our cavalry occupied New Carthage about two weeks ago, and still hold it.

Great excitement was occasioned in Nashville on Sunday night by a rumored attack by the rebels under Van Dorn.

Fayetteville, Ark., was attacked before daylight Saturday morning by about 3000 armed rebels with four pieces of artillery. Our forces were less than 2000, part of whom were unarmed. The rebels were repulsed with considerable loss. Our loss was five killed and seventeen wounded.

☞ Running the blockade, at Charleston, seems to be a paying business to the British and the rebels,—and taking prices seems to be a paying business to the blockaders. The Newburyport Herald says of this matter:

"It needs only that we should read the list to see the extent of contraband business. It is profitable enough to induce speculators to go into it. Cotton is had in Charleston at from ten to fifteen cents a pound, and sells in Liverpool or New York at from 50 to 70 cents; and the profits on the merchandise landed in the Confederacy is as large. Persons running the blockade can afford to have every other vessel taken and then make a good business. Now, will our blockaders ever stop more than that? Of course, none but the most patriotic motives can actuate the officers and men in the service, but if there was no prize money—when rushing the blockade would no longer be profitable to the navy—would the business not be crushed? As it is, anybody can see that the rebels do have and will have ample supplies.

We have understood that American privateers in the Revolutionary war, had the whole proceeds of their prizes, after paying certain court dues, divided, one half to the owners of the vessel, and the other half to the officers and crew.

In the war of 1812—the privateers had half the proceeds, and the U. S. took the other half.

If now, our Government would commission privateers, giving them a chance to take blockade runners and pirates, they would soon clear the seas of them.

☞ By an accident on the Boston & Worcester R. R., on Monday morning, in consequence of the breaking of an axle, the baggage master was killed and 5 others seriously wounded. A portion of the train was made a complete wreck.

☞ Knights of the Golden Circle have recently disturbed Union meetings in Indiana, and bloodshed has ensued. The Commanding General has issued an address declaring them public enemies, to be dealt with as such.

☞ A lawyer has been arrested in Washington for speculating on the bodies of dead soldiers. He would write to bereaved friends, offer to forward the "departed," pocket the fees in advance, and then send any corpse he could obtain.

☞ A little boy, about 6 years of age, who fell through a hole under a mill at Bath, Me., a few days ago, was carried by the rush of water, under the quarter of a vessel, and was borne one-third the way out the bay before he was discovered. Happening, however, to get on his back he did not sink, and was rescued by a boat.

POTATOES.—The first potatoes grown in this country were from seed brought from Ireland by the Scotch Irish who emigrated from the old country in 1718 and in 1719 settled in Londonderry, N. H. They were first raised in the garden of Nathaniel Walker, of Andover, and gradually but slowly found their way into general cultivation. They are first mentioned in Newbury, in 1732; in Lynn in 1733. In 1738 Rev. Thomas Smith, of Portland, says "there is not a peck of potatoes in the whole Eastern country." So late as 1750, if any person raised so large a quantity as five bushels, great was the enquiry among his neighbors as to how he could dispose of the enormous quantity.—Newburyport Herald.

We remember an old farmer who used to tell us that his father (about 100 years ago) raised a hogshead of potatoes one year; and people came from far and near to see this astounding crop.

☞ The papers state that "the negro law of Indiana is actively enforced. Several negro families have been notified to leave the State, and are making preparations to emigrate to Canada." Many of our most eminent statesmen have held that the two races could not and would not live together, even in nominal equality—and that with attempted general emancipation, would come expatriation. It really looks as though many, if not most of the States would ultimately pass anti-negro edicts. That "unhappy" race appears not to grow in better odor with their white brethren. And this is really much more a matter of taste and opinion, than of principle. Animals, as is well known—some dogs, horses and cattle, have unconquerable aversions to persons of different color or tongue from their owners or masters, without any apparent cause or better known reason than that which often governs the similar antipathies of human kind.

☞ The Concord Patriot newspaper gave a detailed account of the recent threatened attack on their office—which, according to their story, originated in rum, as most such mobs do. It was quelled by the prompt and vigorous action of the police, aided by Col. Bailey of the N. H. 2d Regt. About twenty of his soldiers were present in the rabble, but not more than eight of them were active in threats, and only two made much demonstration; and these being "billied," all soon sneaked off.

The Concord Statesman also denounces the mob spirit, but denies the statement of the Patriot, that prominent citizens were urging on the rioters. We are glad the gallant N. H. Second were not generally concerned in the miserable business of mobbing the press—for soldiers called out to preserve or restore law and order, ought not to rebel against it themselves, under any plea whatever.

DARING CAPTURE OF A BLOCKADE RUNNER. A shot time since U. S. gunboat Octorora captured the fast sailing sloop Rosalie, as she was endeavoring to run the blockade. An officer and four men were placed on board, armed with muskets, with orders to cruise in a certain locality forty-eight hours, at the expiration of which time they were to join the Octorora. Before the time had passed the Rosalie made a strange sail, and bore down upon her, flying the rebel flag. On coming alongside the captain of the schooner (recognizing the sloop as a noted blockade runner and ignorant of her capture) made some inquiries as to the proximity of federal cruisers, the best means of avoiding them, &c. After some conversation the master of the sloop ran down the Confederate rag and hoisted the stars and stripes, at the same time demanding the surrender of the vessel, threatening to blow her out of water if she refused. This disconcerted the captain of the schooner somewhat, and he quickly yielded to the superior force of five men armed with muskets. The prize proved to be a fine schooner with a valuable cargo. She had run the blockade successfully sixteen times previous.

☞ Rev. Charles Spear, the philanthropist, who died in Washington, was a Boston man,—a printer, a Universalist minister, and devoted to philanthropic reforms,—especially the reformation of prisoners and prisons. He was emphatically the Prisoner's Friend, as well as the editor of a periodical of that name. He was a pure, faithful, self-denying christian, whose meat and drink it was to do his Father's will.

AMERICAN DINNER.—The American Ambassador at Brussels, Hon H. S. Sanford, not long since gave a diplomatic dinner. Everything on the table, even to oysters, came from America. The dinner was very much admired.

A conundrum by a cockney contributor, and fully equal to Punch, is the following:—"In case of dissension among the players at a game of whist, what is the best thing to be done? Pour Hoyle upon the troubled waters."

CARPETS.—A great trade is carried on through these times of high prices, by the New England Carpet Company, of Boston. See their advertisement in to day's paper.

WHY A DOG WAGGLES HIS TAIL.—Lord Dundreary tells his friend the solution of this difficult riddle:—"Because the dog is stronger than the tail. If he wasn't, the tail would waggle the dog."

☞ Capt. Worden has been compelled to return to the North from ill health. Commander Fairfax now commands the Montauk.

NEW HAMPSHIRE ITEMS.

—— Some time since certain statements, prejudicial to Lt. Col. Lull, of the 8th N. H. Regiment, were made by a correspondent of the Boston Journal, and copied into the Chronicle. We find in the Nashua Telegraph (republican) of last week, the following denial of the truth of those statements, contained in a letter from the army, and as an act of justice to Lt. Col. Lull, who is known to some of our readers, we copy it:—

"For the honor of old Hillsborough I wish to contradict a statement made by "Agatus" and to which you gave an airing in relation to Lt. Col. Lull's abuse of negroes while Provost Judge at Thibodaux, La. I know the facts from personal observation quite as well as Agatus, and I pronounce the whole thing a base fabrication, gotten up to injure the reputation of as true a patriot as our State has yet sent to the war. Agatus was probably misinformed by somebody whose plans for his own aggrandizement had been thwarted. Col. Lull has nothing whatever to do with the soldiers who were under the immediate control of Gen. Weitzel, against whom, or against whose loyalty no man dares breathe a word. Col. Lull was applied to in scores of cases, to render assistance in keeping and capturing negroes, and in every case he met the applicants with a flat refusal; on the other hand he has severely fined the wealthy planters who have whipped and otherwise dealt harshly with their negroes. He has spent more money for the benefit of negroes than all the officers in the regiment beside, and it has become a household word here, "he likes the negroes as well as Col. Lull."—His office was within five minutes ride of Gen. Weitzel's headquarters, and he was constantly receiving suggestions from him in regard to administering the affairs of the parish; a member of Gen. Banks' staff was also present most of the time, and never a word has been heard of complaint until it reached us through the northern papers.—If Agatus wrote this for political effect in New Hampshire it has done its work, and if he is an honest man he will now retract it over his own signature. I again pronounce it false in every particular.

—— The N. H. Historical Society is about to publish the Records of the Committee of Safety for New Hampshire, during the Revolutionary War, or from 1775 to 1784. It will be a valuable contribution to the history of the State, particularly relative to the manner in which the war was conducted.

—— The order has been issued to merge the fragment of a regiment known as the 17th N. H. V. with the 2d N. H. V., the officers of the 17th to be mustered out of service. Justice will be done to Col. Kent and the other officers of the 17th when new fields of duty are assigned them. They have relinquished their former business at the call of the State, and should not now receive the cold shoulder from the authorities.

Two other persons have died within the limits of the village, but they were non residents, and had only been there a few weeks for medical assistance.—Traveller.

—— A house and barn on Great Hill, near Mr. Benj. Perkins' Farm in Exeter, and formerly the homestead of William F. Gordon, were burnt on Saturday evening, between 9 and 10 o'clock. The house was unoccupied.

—— A man in Manchester, who is in the habit of taking a cup of tea before rising, reached out his hand the other morning to take it from the table by the bedside, when by some means in consequence of his position, his arm was wrenched in such a manner as to dislocate the shoulder.

—— Geese once saved Rome, and the sons of this country seem desirous to obey the Internal Revenue Law. At least the Manchester American states that a pullet in Hollis the other day laid an egg having the exact representation or resemblance of a postage stamp imprinted upon the shell. The mistake in the kind of stamp may be overlooked by the Government under the circumstances.

An Indian philosopher being asked what were, in his opinion, the two most beautiful things of the universe, answered:—"The starry heavens above our heads, and the feeling of duty in our hearts."

WOLFBORO, N. H., Lake Winnipiseogee, Nov. 10, 1862.

Agents Lodi Manufacturing Co., Boston.

GENTS.—I have used the Poudrette made by your Co. for two years. The first year I used four barrels, and experimented with it on both corn and potatoes. I was pleased and satisfied with the result, and the present season purchased over 100 barrels for my own use, and my neighbors. I think some twenty-five different farmers tried and used the Poudrette on my recommendation, and all have this Fall expressed themselves entirely satisfied to use each an increased quantity the next Spring. Planting season comes late, and we have very early frosts, and the Poudrette ripens our corn from two to three weeks earlier. We have also found it a preventative of the wire worm, which oftentimes destroys our entire crop. Our mode of applying the Poudrette is, to put about a handful in each hill, and place the seed in direct contact. I think I shall want double the quantity next Spring that I had this year.

Yours, Respectfully,

ABEL HALEY,
Cashier Lake Bank, Wolfboro, N. H

HUNNEWELL'S ECLETIC PILLS.—The true Type of Cathartic.—By the application of true Pharmaceutical Laws, both Character and Economy are combined in this valuable Pill. To prevent putting such quantities of indigestible drugs into the stomach, the griping pains so erroneously judged to be the evidence of thorough action, and to require from 4 to 6 Pills, to get a decent cathartic, was the study in this development. The dose seldom exceeding One, and never more than Two Pills, settles the question of economy, and character can be best known by conditions to test them in DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPENESS, BILIOUSNESS, LIVER COMPLAINT, all derangements of the stomach and Bowels, and as a Family Pill.

Local.

S. J. COURT,—EXETER.

MONDAY.—Joseph Young and Curtis Crooker, of Portsmouth, were indicted for stealing two black overcoats from the store of Archibald & Mullen in that city. They were arraigned and plead guilty ed.

"Geo. Seaward, for aggravated assault on Peter Smith, in this city, pleaded guilty of a simple assault. John H. Waldron, for an assault on Henry Hopkins with a knife with intent to rob, also pleaded guilty of simple assault.

Peter Farrell, for passing a counterfeit bill on the Bristol County Bank for five dollars on Nath'l Shute of Exeter at the Granite State Bank, and a second indictment for passing a bill of like character and denomination on David M. Quimby. Plea, not guilty.

Ephraim Osgood was arraigned on an indictment for setting fire to dwelling house of Martha M. Ordway in Sandown, on the 16th of February last. Plea, not guilty.

The trial of case No. 94, David Parsbley vs. Samuel M. Marston, was commenced on Monday forenoon. The suit is brought to recover the price of a quantity of apples and cider, purchased by the deft., a resident of Chelsea, Mass. The case has been previously tried before Mr. Bell as Auditor, who reported a balance in favor of the plaintiff of $13.90. The defendant elects a trial by jury, and contests the claim on account of the alleged quality of some of the apples.

Mr. Isaac Woodbury, of Salem, was appointed Foreman of the Jury.

THE "GARIBALDI" has arrived—not the agitator of that name, but the new Hook & Ladder Carriage purchased in New York for the City of Portsmouth. It is a staunch and nice-looking affair, and although it has been used some, appears to be as good as new. The first cost, it is said, was $700; our City paid about $400 for it. We are glad the City and the H. & L. Company have at last got a decent machine; and we are also glad that there has been so little occasion of late to call any of the fire machinery out. We move that the old go-cart be deposited in Jefferson Hall—our City Hall!

☞ The Great Musical Festival just concluded at the Tremont Temple, Boston; is said to have surpassed all similar efforts in Europe or America. The great Prima Donna, Madame Anne Bishop, who the Boston Journal styles the "greatest artist in English song living," performed her parts in fourteen concerts in eight days; (that is afternoons and evenings.) These concerts were for the benefit of the Mass. Volunteers in the Department of North Carolina, and netted them $3000. We shall have a display of the above lady's abilities at the Temple next Thursday evening, with other brilliant artists from Gilmore's celebrated Boston Band, and at a rate of admission within the reach of all, being only twenty-five cents.

☞ The Boston Saturday Gazette thinks the Arctic Hand Organ "had better be let out for organizing purposes. Perhaps Nashua might hire it,—that 'city has had some trouble about organizing its government."

☞ It will be seen that Bradley & Co.'s celebrated Stereopticon is to exhibit in Portsmouth a couple of evenings this week. It comes highly recommended, and we have no doubt is a very interesting entertainment.

☞ Mr. Joseph T. Weeks, while at work on his house in Whidden Place on Saturday forenoon, fell some twenty feet, dislocating his left shoulder and otherwise injuring him.

☞ Writing anonymous letters is not usually considered very honorable business; nor is advice offered in that way, or opinions advanced, or statements made, generally given much heed to. We will simply remind our friend, "a subscriber," if he really be such, that for $4a year we contract to furnish him a copy of our paper so long as he wants, or till the price goes higher, but we do not agree nor propose to let him act as counsellor or assistant editor, for any such sum at present. When we don't feel competent to take care of our own business, we will call on him,—that is, if the Ballot man takes his eye off us by that time.

☞ Lieut. Charles H. Bradford, of the U. S. Marine Corps, who has been stationed at the Portsmouth Navy Yard, has been ordered to the frigate Sabine, to relieve Capt. Haywood, and left on Monday.

☞ Gen. Ypsilano, a distinguished Greek cavalry officer, has arrived to tender his services to the Government.

We think this unfortunate Government has had about "tender" services enough. Give her something a little more severe or tough.

☞ A dry goods firm in New York has lost $50,000 worth of goods since January by shop-lifters.

☞ Union Clubs are being organized in the principal towns in California.

IMMORTELLES.

THE HOUR OF DEATH.

We know when mosses shall wane,
When summer birds from far shall cross the sea,
When autumn's hue shall tinge the golden grain;
But who shall teach us when to look for thee?

Is it when Spring's first gale
Comes forth to whisper where the violets lie?
Is it when roses in our path grow pale?
They have one season—all are ours to die!

Thou art where billows foam,
Thou art where music melts upon the air;
Thou art around us in our peaceful home,
And the world calls us forth—and thou art there.

Thou art where friend meets friend,
Beneath the shadows of the flag we love;
Thou art where foe meets foe, and trumpet rend
The skies, and swords beat down the princely crest.

Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the North-winds' breath,
And stars to set—but all,
Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O Death.

MRS. HEMANS.

HUMAN LOVE.

O, if there is one law above the rest,
Written in wisdom—if there is a word
That I would trace as with a pen of fire,
Upon the unsoured temper of a child—
If there is anything that keeps the mind
Open to angel visits, and repels
The ministry of ill,—'tis human love!
God has made nothing worthy of contempt.
The smallest pebble in the well of truth
Has its peculiar meaning, and will stand
When man's best moments have passed away.
The law of heaven is love, and though its name
Has been usurped by passion, and profaned
To its unholy uses through all time,
Still the eternal principle is pure;
And, in these deep affections that we feel
Unhinted within us, we but see
The lovish measure in which love is given;
And, in the yearning tenderness of a child
For every bird that sings above its head,
And every creature feeding on the hills,
And every tree, and flower, and running brook,
We see how everything was made to love.

WILLIS.

☞ The official report of the evacuation of Jacksonville, Fla. shows that the reports of burnings and outrages by our troops, have been greatly exaggerated. The report says perhaps twenty five buildings were burned, some by rebels, others by the Union forces from a military necessity.—Many Union families came away with our troops, for whom the soldiers freely made all possible room on the transports. The report is made by Col. John D. Rust, of the 8th Maine regiment, who commanded our forces there at the time.

WHAT IS THE "HERITAGE" OF SECESSION?—Jefferson Davis closes his late address by the assurance to his subjects, that under the divine blessing "we shall maintain the sovereignty and independence of the Confederate States, and transmit to our posterity the heritage bequeathed to us by our fathers."

As the rebels have abandoned the Union, the Constitution and all regulated civil liberty, and "the sovereignty and independence of the Confederate States," if it has any existence, is only about two years old, the 'heritage' which is thus piously referred to would seem to be human slavery.—Boston Advertiser.

TIME is an old novelist who takes pleasure in printing his tales on our countenances. He writes the first chapters with a swan's down, and engraves the last with a steel pen.

☞ Ten thousand cows are required to supply Boston with milk. The quantity of milk annually consumed is 5,840,000 gallons, at a cost to the consumers of $1,051,200.

To ease melancholy, set about doing good. One act of kindness will have more influence on the spirit than all the salt-water baths that ever were invented.

☞ The Ironsides will remain off Charleston bar.

THE MODEL COOK
FOR WOOD OR COAL.

The second-the peculiar feature of the MODEL COOK, that which distinguishes it from all others, is the addition of a Ventilated Roasting Oven within the body of the stove and in front of the fire; so arranged that it can be used separately for a roaster or (by the removal of a simple plate) in connection with the larger oven, for baking; giving an oven nearly 3 feet long, or large enough to take six large plates on the bottom, every part of which will bake evenly at the same time! A check draft is applied to this stove by means of which the consumption of fuel is greatly lessened, and a steady fire can be kept day and night if desired.

The peculiar taint or infection which we call SCROFULA lurks in the constitutions of multitudes of men. It either produces or is produced by an enfeebled, vitiated state of the blood, wherein that fluid becomes incompetent to sustain the vital forces in their vigorous action, and leaves the system to fall into disorder and decay. The scrofulous contamination is variously caused by mercurial disease, low living, disordered digestion from unhealthy food, impure air, filth and filthy habits, the depressing vices, and, above all, by the venereal infection. Whatever be its origin, it is hereditary in the constitution, descending "from parents to children unto the third and fourth generation;" indeed, it seems to be the rod of Him who says, "I will visit the iniquities of the fathers upon their children." The diseases it originates take various names, according to the organs it attacks. In the lungs, Scrofula produces tubercles, and finally Consumption; in the glands, swellings which suppurate and become ulcerous sores; in the stomach and bowels, derangements which produce indigestion, dyspepsia, and liver complaints; on the skin, eruptive and cutaneous affections. These, all having the same origin, require the same remedy, viz., purification and invigoration of the blood. Purify the blood, and these dangerous distempers leave you. With feeble, foul, or corrupted blood, you cannot be healthy; with that "life of the flesh" healthy, you cannot have scrofulous disease.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

is compounded from the most effectual antidotes that medical science has discovered for this afflicting distemper, and for the cure of the disorders it entails. That it is far superior to any other remedy yet devised, is known by all who have given it a trial. The it does combine virtues truly extraordinary in their effect upon this class of complaints, is indisputably proven by the great multitude of publicly known and remarkable cures it has made of the following diseases: King's Evil, or Glandular Swellings, Tumors, Eruptions, Pimples, Blotches and Sores, Erysipelas, Rose or St. Anthony's Fire, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Coughs from tuberculous deposits in the lungs, White Swellings, Debility, Dropsy, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Syphilis and Syphilitic Infections, Mercurial Diseases, Female Weaknesses, and, indeed, the whole series of complaints that arise from impurity of the blood. Minute reports of individual cases may be found in AYER'S AMERICAN ALMANAC, which is furnished to the druggists for gratuitous distribution, wherein may be learned the directions for its use, and some of the remarkable cures which it has made when all other remedies had failed to afford relief. Those cases are purposely taken from all sections of the country, in order that every reader may have access to some one who can speak to him of its benefits from personal experience. Scrofula depresses the vital energies, and thus leaves its victims far more subject to disease and its fatal results than are healthy constitutions. Hence it tends to shorten, and greatly shorten, the average duration of human life. The vast importance of these considerations has led us to spend years in perfecting a remedy which is adequate to its cure. This we now offer to the public under the name of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, although it is composed of ingredients, some of which exceed the best of Sarsaparilla in alterative power. By its use you may protect yourselves from the suffering and danger of these disorders. Purge out the foul corruptions that rot and fester in the blood, purge out the causes of disease, and vigorous health will follow. By its peculiar virtues this remedy stimulates the vital functions, and thus expels the distempers which lurk within the system or burst out on any part of it.

We know the public have been deceived by many compounds of Sarsaparilla, that promised much and did nothing; but they will neither be deceived nor disappointed in this. Its virtues have been proven by abundant trial, and there remains no question of its surpassing excellence for the cure of the afflicting diseases it is intended to reach. Although under the same name, it is a very different medicine from any other which has been before the people, and is far more effectual than any other which has ever been available to them.

AYER'S
CHERRY PECTORAL,

The World's Great Remedy for Coughs, Colds, Incipient Consumption, and for the relief of Consumptive patients in advanced stages of the disease.

This has been so long used and so universally known, that we need do no more than assure the public that its quality is kept up to the best it ever has been, and that it may be relied on to do all it has ever done.

THE MAGEE COOKING STOVE.

The subscribers, having received their Fall stock of Stoves, would especially call the attention of the public to the

CELEBRATED AND UNEQUALLED MAGEE COOK STOVE,

as the very best Stove yet made, and would invite those about purchasing or exchanging Stoves, to examine this, believing it to be far superior to any other Stove yet invented, the cast being being heavier, and the oven larger than usual. The oven plates are covered with plaster, which renders it equal to the old-fashioned brick oven for perfection in baking.

There is a new style and very superior broiler and and iron heater combined, by which the odor of broiling meats are prevented from escaping into the room. With the extension top, there is a large upper Reservoir for hot water; also a large tin warming-closet attached, in which any article can be kept warm, while the other parts of the Stove are occupied for other purposes.

The arrangements for sifting the coal and cleaning the grate are far superior to those of any other Stove now in use, as no dust can possibly escape into the room and the shoveling up of the ashes is entirely dispensed with. The fire is regulated in the same manner as in the MAGEE PARLOR STOVE, and can be continued day and night for weeks together, thus saving the expense of re-kindling every day.

For economy, durability, ease of management, cleanliness and perfection in cooking, it cannot be surpassed by any other Stove, as testified by families in this city and vicinity, who are now using them, are willing to testify, and speak of them in the highest terms of praise.

"MAGEE'S PATENT"
VENTILATING & AIR-WARMING FURNACES.

The subscribers, being the Sole Agents in this vicinity for the manufacture and sale of this valuable Furnace, would ask those about remodelling or erecting Buildings to examine this truly valuable invention.

For economy, purity of air and ease of management it has no equal, producing a current of warm air, moist and agreeable—so much so none of the air which comes in contact with the fire-pot is used for respiration, the tendency to produce headache so much complained of in other Furnaces, is entirely obviated.

The objects aimed at by the constructors of heating apparatus have been to obtain the greatest amount of heat from a given amount of fuel, and to prevent the escape of heat to the smoke pipe or chimney.

To accomplish this many complicated and expensive heating arrangements have been constructed, some possessing but little improvement over former models, while many have proved a total failure. The reason for this is obvious. The combustible gases being lighter than the air, greatest power of draft is required to pass them off unconsumed. This objection, so common in other Furnaces, is obviated in the

MAGEE FURNACE.

The flue or pipe in this Furnace being below the fire-pot, the gases, from their specific gravity, cannot descend, and are burned up by the admission of cold air through the fire-pot, which supplies them as they pass off from the coal, thus saving at least 20 per cent. of the properties of the heat in the fuel.

No heating apparatus with the smoke-pipe or flue on the top of the cone can be made to consume the gases of the coal, as they pass off with a large amount of heat unexpended, making the chimney the hottest part of your dwelling.

This Furnace does away with the great number of pipes and angles for the radiation of heat, which are so liable to fill up and get out of order, thus simplifying, while it increases the surface of radiation.

These Furnaces consume all the coal, make no clinkers, the sifting of coal is entirely dispensed with, and they will save from 30 to 50 per cent. of fuel over common Furnaces.

For ease of management, economy and purity of air, these Furnaces have no equal. They can be regulated so as to give any amount of heat required, and the fire may be kept the entire season without once going out.

They give entire satisfaction wherever used. We have in store the different sizes, Brick and Portable, to which we invite the attention of those in want of the best Furnace in the world,—and would refer them to the following named gentlemen, who have them now in use:

Samuel Cleaves, Esq.,	Albert R. Hatch, Esq.,
Aaron H. Hill,	Charles H. Mendum,
Henry F. Wendell,	John Sise, and others.

Teeth on Vulcanized Rubber,

SOME OF ITS ADVANTAGES.

1st It is stronger and lighter than any known material.

2d. From two to six times the amount of suction or adhesion can be obtained by it.

3d. When the mouth is irregular, even by building out the depressions—which can be done to any extent—give the mouth a more natural appearance.

4th No bad taste arises in the mouth by its use, as the secretions of the stomach and mouth do not affect it in the least.

5th. Teeth mounted upon this base can be kept clean and sweet as easy as a saucer, as when finished the work presents one whole piece.

6th. While in all well fitting cases it is better, even in a few peculiar cases, it is much cheaper than Gold.

DR. A. P. STEVENS, Surgeon Dentist,
No. 5 Daniel St., Portsmouth,

Has had four years of practical experience in making this material, and will guarantee satisfaction in all cases entrusted to his care.

Portsmouth, Jan. 1, 1863.

DENTISTRY.

No. 60 CONGRESS STREET, } Portsmouth, Jan. 1st, 1863.

DR. GOODALL

Would respectfully inform his patrons and the public, (having had of late many calls to insert teeth upon VULCANIZED RUBBER,) that he has purchased the best VULCANIZER in the market, and is now prepared to do all work upon RUBBER, or the other bases of GOLD and SILVER as formerly, if preferred.

The Rubber has several important advantages, viz.: It is very light and elastic, and consequently is perfectly easy to the muscles of the mouth and cheeks. There are no interstices or joints to collect food, and consequently they can be worn night and day, and are very easily kept neat and clean.

Besides all this, the most accurate fit is obtained, as the Rubber is Vulcanized directly upon the plaster model, and the suction is of course much stronger than in plates of Gold or Silver.

Any one who is waiting for their permanent teeth will, I am confident, be perfectly satisfied with the Rubber, as a base. The expense is but a little more than for Silver, and you get the same teeth (in blocks) that you would pay $60.00 for an upper or lower set on Gold.

In New York and Boston, and throughout the West, Vulcanized Rubber is used almost to the exclusion of the other bases, and by the best Dentists too. I will warrant a perfect fit and teeth from the best manufacturer in the country, S. S. White.

ALL OTHER OPERATIONS IN DENTISTRY I will do at the usual rates. I will here mention that my price for EXTRACTION is 25 cents.

I take pleasure in referring the public to Dr. TURKWELL, Dr. BOARDMAN, Dr. OLIVER and Dr. BENNETT, for particular success in extracting teeth. Teeth extracted without pain and with perfect safety, with Ether. Teeth polished to their natural whiteness without pain or injury, to the Enamel. Regulation of Adults' and Children's Teeth will receive particular attention.—All whole and partial Sets of Teeth repaired with Neatness and Dispatch. All other operations in Dentistry, I will do at the usual rates.

GRACE'S CELEBRATED SALVE
A SURE RELIEF FOR THE SUFFERER.

This Salve is a vegetable preparation, invented in the 17th century, by Dr. WM. GRACE, surgeon in King James's army. Through the agency he cured thousands of most serious sores and wounds that baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians of his day, and was regarded by all who knew him as a public benefactor.

Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Burns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Scalds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Flesh Wounds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Corns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Felons.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Frozen Limbs.

Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Breast.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Lips.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Erysipelas Sore.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Abscesses.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ulcers.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chapped Hands.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ringworms.

And from Sores and Wounds of the most serious nature down to a common Pimple. It cures Pimples from the face, and beautifies the skin. There is no preparation before the public that can equal this Salve in prompt and specific action for the speedy cure of external diseases, as those who have tried its virtues testify. Soldiers, Sailors, and Fishermen, will find this Salve their best friend.

It has none of the irritating, heating properties of other remedies, but cools, cleanses, and heals the most serious Sores and Wounds. Every family, and especially those containing children, should keep a box on hand in case of accident, for it will save them much trouble, suffering, and money. All it wants is a fair trial to cure old and inveterate Sores.

"Bound to no party—to no sect confined;
The world our home—our brethren, all mankind.
Love truth, do good, be just and fair with all;
Exalt the right, though every law fall."

"Let me warn you in the most solemn manner against the baneful effects of the spirit of Party, generally. It is a spirit not to be encouraged.—Its common and continual mischief is sufficient to make it the interest and duty of a wise people to discourage and restrain it. In governments of the popular form, it is seen in its greatest rankness, and is truly their worst enemy."—Washington's Farewell Address.

American and Foreign Patents.

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of U. S. Patent Office, Washington, (under the Act of 1837.)
75 State Street, opposite Kilby Street,
BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on liberal terms, and with dispatch. Researches made into American or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of Patents or Inventions—and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.

The Agency is not only the largest in New England, but from its intimate relations to advantage for securing Patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below given prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that no other of the kind also the charges for professional service so moderate.

The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents.

These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining Patents.

All necessity of a journey to Washington, to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents.

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they can confidently employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their applications in form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.

Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications, on all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that is now pending. Such uninterrupted proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their patents, as they may be assured of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges." JOHN TAGGART.

During eight months, the subscriber, in course of his large practice, made on twelve rejected applications SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided in his favor, by the Commissioner of Patents. R. H. EDDY.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 22, 1863.

THE REBELLION.

The N. Y. Times' dispatch says Ex-Gov. Hicks, of Maryland, states that a secret organization has been unearthed in one of the counties of that State, sworn to join the Confederates at a favorable opportunity.

Our gunboats on the Nansemond continue to shell the rebels, who are attempting to plant batteries at different points. On Saturday evening Gen. Getty, in conjunction with the gunboats under Lieut. Lamson, stormed a beauty battery at the west branch and captured 6 guns and 200 of the 44th Alabama.

Gen. Wise, with 3000 rebels, still occupies Williamsburg, Va. Gen. Keyes has ordered the citizens to leave the place, being about to shell the town. Fort Magruder has been reinforced by some heavy guns, and a gunboat has gone up the York river, and another up the James river on the other side of the town.

On Saturday Col. Graham attacked the rebels near Celina, Tenn., killing 7 and destroying their camp. On Sunday he crossed the Cumberland and attacked the rebels there, killing 30 and routing the remainder. He is now in hot pursuit. The Federal loss was one killed.

Col. Riley attacked the rebels on Sunday at Crolsboro, on the Cumberland, killing and capturing 16. He is now chasing the remainder. There were no Federal casualties.

Additional advices from Fayetteville, Ark., say the fight there on Saturday lasted about four hours. The rebels were commanded by Gen. Cabell, and retreated in disorder towards Ozark. Our troops were all Arkansas recruits under Gen. Harrison. They were poorly armed and equipped, and without artillery.

Gen. Dodge, commanding at Corinth, attacked the rebels [no date] and drove them from Bear Creek to Crane Creek. Our loss was 100 killed and wounded. The rebel loss is not stated.

It is reported that Gen. Grant is soon to be removed from the command of the army at Vicksburg.

Official dispatches state that a portion o Adm. Porter's fleet, with a large number of Gen. Grant's soldiers, have run the Vicksburg batteries, and can now aid Gen. Banks in attacking Port Hudson, or make an assault on Vicksburg from the South.

Important movements are being made by Gen. Banks, who is in the field at the head of Grover's and Emery's divisions, and Weitzel's brigade, and it is thought he will be able to bring the rebels between two fires; they have thus far retreated. Adm. Farragut's secretary has arrived in New Orleans. He was blockading the mouth of Red river. The rebel gunboat Webb was destroyed in the late fight at Port Hudson.

The rebels have retreated from the vicinity of Washington, N. C., and abandoned their batteries on Tar river.

FOREIGN.—The new gunboat Alexander, recently launched, was seized in one of the Liverpool docks April 5th, by the custom authorities, on suspicion of being intended for the rebels. Another rebel privateer, called the Japan, or Virginia, sailed from Greenock, notwithstanding official efforts to prevent her.

The correspondence between the owners of the Peterhoff and the Foreign Office is published. Russell says he has instructed Lord Lyons to press for the release of the vessel and cargo and compensation, without delay of a prize court, as the examination of her papers showed no prima facie ground of capture; but if any legal ground of capture be alleged, this case, like all others, must follow the ordinary course.

☞ An attempt was made to launch the gunboat Agawam at Portland on Monday, but several attempts to get her off proved ineffectual, the ways not being properly greased. She was, however, successfully launched on Tuesday.

☞ The N. Y. Assembly has adopted the majority report in the case of Speaker Callicot, clearing him of the charges against him.

☞ There was a great freshet on the Saco river, owing to the heavy rains last week, and two or three bridges and one or two mills were carried away.

☞ Gold, in New York, Tuesday, sold at 145 1-4—a decline in 24 hours, of 6 per cent.

☞ The French have suffered a severe defeat at Puebla, Mexico, with heavy losses of men and artillery.

☞ The old steamer Sumter, which was lately "purchased" at Gibraltar by some Englishmen, is about to sail from England, it is said, armed as a rebel privateer.

An army contractor, on reading Gen. Burnside's order in relation for domestic traitors, started immediately to Gen. B.'s department to establish a rope-walk.—Boston Herald.

☞ The Liverpool, Eng. Mercury, of March 13, contains the report of a case in the County Court, where James Breen, a servant, sued Mr. James Griffiths, draper, for a week's wages, 4s. In the trial it appeared that after Breen had served some time, Griffiths struck him on the head with his hand; the servant left; the master withheld the week's pay; the servant brought this suit, and got his money.—His Honor Judge Wheeler said Mr. Griffiths had no right whatever to strike his servant, but the act was cowardly, ungentlemanly and illegal; the servant had a right to leave for this cause, and the master was not thereby released from paying wages due. Had the plaintiff included in his claim damages for the assault, the judge said he would have given exemplary damages, to teach masters that servants have rights. As the case was he gave a verdict for the plaintiff, with costs, and directed the learned registrar of the court to tax the costs liberally! as no doubt he did, showing that English menial servants, who can rue in the courts and prevail there, are freemen with acknowledged and secured rights; being thus far removed from the condition of slaves, with whom they are often classed by ignorant and designing writers.

☞ The ship Ella E. Badger arrived at Greenock, Scotland, on Tuesday evening, Mar. 31st, from Rangoon, in a leaky condition (teak). After she left Rangoon she sprung a leak, and put into the Cape of Good Hope, where she took on board a steam engine for the purpose of pumping, and then proceeded for Greenock, her destination. On Tuesday morning the engine broke down, and a gang of laborers went on board and worked at the pumps all night. The engine was put to rights the next morning, and the vessel was taken alongside the platform at Victoria Harbor to discharge her cargo. She is said to be making 14 inches of water per hour.

☞ The bark B. Colcord, at New York from Remedios, reports: April 10, lat. 30, lon. 80, at 4 P. M., picked up to boats containing 16 men from the rebel steamer Burrosa, Capt. Adams, from St. Mary's bound to Nassau, with cotton and turpentine, who reported leaving their steamer at 12 o'clock, noon, in a sinking condition.—Being short of provisions next day, when abreast of Charleston, let seven of them have a boat to go on shore, and brought the remainder to New York. The steamer Burrosa was of 125 tons burthen, and had a cargo of 78 bales of cotton and 12 barrels of turpentine.

☞ There was an immense mass meeting in New York city on Monday afternoon, under the auspices of the Loyal League of Union citizens. Gen. Scott presided, occupying a chair in the balcony of the Fifth Avenue Hotel. Four stands were erected around Madison Square, fronting the hotel. The attendance at all the stands numbered not less than 20,000. Among the speakers were John Van Buren, Daniel S. Dickinson, Geo. Bancroft, Rev. Dr. Hitchcock, Henry J. Raymond, Geo. Wm. Curtis, and others. The reception of Gen. Scott, when he appeared on the balcony, was exceedingly cordial. He was too feeble, however, to address the meeting, and was only able to occupy the chair for an hour.

MADAME ANNA BISHOP.—This lady, who with other artists appears at the Temple to-morrow (Thursday) evening, is almost too well known to require any extended notice, but the following from the Boston Transcript, in relation to one of her concerts in that city, will interest her many admirers. It says:—

The Madame sang the "Cavanta" from Linda, "Chamounix," such only as one of her acknowledged celebrity could sing it, and her "Home, Sweet Home," "Oft in the Stilly Night," "Last Rose of Summer," and other favorite songs (which, associated with household memories, have a place in every cultivated bosom), were delineated with a pathos and grace it would seem impossible to excel.

In the Post we find the following in reference to another concert:—

Madame Anna Bishop sang most deliciously, and acted with that high dramatic intensity which ever marks her style, and in which she has but few rivals and no superiors. We have rarely heard her voice more beautiful, retaining as it does all its rare melodious sweetness and sympathy, with, it seems to us, much additional strength. She was very warmly greeted throughout the opera, being called out between each act, and at the close receiving many floral tributes.

☞ An officer of one of our steamers in pursuit of the Alabama writes from Nassau, N. P., that plenty of supplies from that port reach the rebels; ten or twelve steamers run constantly, and will run till we have some vessel that has speed. The Tioga chased three steamers whose cargoes were worth a million dollars, but they were too near land to catch. The Tioga has bagged five or six of the blockade runners. Hard coal is sent to Nassau from the United States to supply the rebel steamers. Without it they could not make as great speed and would be caught. [If this latter statement be a fact, the remedy is easy, and should be applied.]

☞ From letters from Gen. Corcoran, and a friend who was by his side at the time of the death of Lieut. Col. Kimball, explanatory of the causes which led to that unhappy occurrence, it appears that Gen. Corcoran acted simply in self defense, not knowing who his assailant was, having never before seen Col. Kimball, who had no right to stop him, and who was deaf to all expostulation. Gen. Corcoran asks for a Court of Inquiry.

IN THE 100TH YEAR.—Mrs. Morgan, who died in New Gloucester, Me., recently, was 99 years old last August. She was a woman of excellent character. Her powers of memory were extraordinary. She could remember the ages of her friends, and name the day of the month and year when they were born. Her daughter, Mary Morgan, a maiden lady sixty years of age, died in the same house the next day after her mother.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE for May completes the 26th volume of that periodical, and is one of the best of the series, in the ability and variety of its contents, and in the excellence of its pictorial illustrations. The publishers promise that every department of the magazine will continue to be conducted upon the same general principles as heretofore, with such additions and improvements as may be suggested by a constantly increasing experience. For sale by J. F. Shores, jr.

CIRCUMSTANCES AND CHARACTER.—Circumstances do not change people. They only develop character. As there are a thousand thoughts lying within a man that he does not know till he takes up the pen to write, so the heart is a secret even to him who has it in his breast. Who hath not found himself surprised into revenge, or action, or passion, for good or evil, whereof the seeds lay within him latent and unsuspected till the occasion called them forth? No man knows himself until he has been tested on all sides. What developments of character and disposition the events of the hour are making!

☞ Capt. Boggs, of "Varuna" fame, now in command of the steamer Sacramento, off Beaufort, N. C., the other day summoned his men before him, and made the following characteristic speech:—

"MEN; I am afraid that you do not keep as good a lookout as you ought to. I am informed that a steamer ran in night before last, and it is supposed, from our side. Now I have got a proposition to make: To the man who reports a sail, and we take her as a prize, I will agree to give one-tenth of my prize money, and will enter into a written obligation to that effect."

☞ Marshal Burt, of Albany, the other day caused considerable merriment to his wife and children by an abortive attempt to kill a cat in his back yard with a revolver, which he snapped six times, the cap missing fire. Disappointed and chagrined he returned to the house, and while examining the pistol, it accidentally went off, killing a little child only 11 months old, which had just learned to walk, and was standing by its mother.

☞ The Portland Press states that Mr. Stephen G. Hodgdon's store, in North Boothbay, was destroyed by fire last Thursday night. The fire was discovered at one o'clock in the morning. Two vessels lying at the wharf were saved with difficulty.—Loss not far from $8000. There was an insurance of $2500 on the goods, in the Portsmouth Mutual Fire Insurance Company. Cause of fire unknown.

☞ Mr. Sibley, the accomplished librarian of the Harvard College Library, in his last report mentions that within a year, through a clergyman, three coins have been restored by a gentleman who received them from a graduate some time since deceased, who stole them while in college more than thirty five years ago.

☞ A general order, emanating from the headquarters of the Army of the Potomac, revokes the dismissals of a large number of officers who have been unjustly deprived of their rank, as we are led to infer from the censure in the latter part of the order, by the negligence or indifference of officers whose duty it is to make returns.

☞ The Bank Committee of the New York Senate and Assembly, after a consultation, have agreed to recommend the Senate gold bill, prohibiting banks from loaning on gold or bills of exchange under a penalty of forfeiture of their charters, and requiring reports to be made to the Bank Superintendent.

☞ The Sioux and Winnebago Indians are to be immediately removed from Minnesota to a tract of land on the Upper Missouri River, near Fort Randall, several hundred miles from any white settlement, where they will be permitted the felicity of cutting each other's throats to their hearts' content.

☞ Through the burning of the Bath Paper Mills, near Augusta, Ga., it is said many of the Southern journals will be able to suspend publication, as it was the only manufactory of consequence in the rebel States.

☞ The bill to endorse the Confederate bonds, which had passed the Georgia House, has been indefinitely postponed in the Senate.

NEW HAMPSHIRE ITEMS.

—— Some of the Manchester Police were armed with rifles and revolvers on Saturday afternoon, and sent forth to slay the dogs. Twenty dogs perished. The work is to be continued till every dog in the city is licensed or killed.

—— At a special school meeting in District No. 2, Manchester, on Saturday afternoon, it was voted to ratify the proceedings of the former meeting, which was declared illegal through the absence of the clerk. $20,000 was appropriated to purchase a lot of land and erect a schoolhouse thereon, suitable for the accommodation of the High School.

—— Maj. Robie, Paymaster, U. S. A., has arrived in Concord to pay off the 2d and 17th consolidated N. H. regiments.

☞ The N. Y. Commercial has a despatch that Secretary Stanton has resigned. It is contradicted, however, by another despatch which states that the matter has been compromised.

☞ The Rutland Herald of the 16th inst. says the ice upon Lake Champlain continued firm and smooth. There was not a crack or an air hole between Plattsburgh and Burlington.

☞ The N. Y. Herald's dispatch says that Gov. Andrew Johnson has been authorized to raise a force of 25,000 men for special service in East Tennessee.

☞ Hair dressing is now accomplished by machinery in London.

WOLFBORO, N. H., Lake Winnipiseogee, Nov. 10, 1862.

Agents Lodi Manufacturing Co., Boston.

GENTS:—I have used the Poudrette made by your Co. for two years. The first year I used four barrels, and experimented with it on both corn and potatoes. I was pleased and satisfied with the result, and the past season purchased over 100 barrels for my own use, and my neighbors. I think some twenty-five different farmers tried and used the Poudrette on my recommendation, and all have this Fall expressed themselves entirely satisfied to use each an increased quantity this next Spring. Planting season comes late, and we have very early frosts, and the Poudrette ripens our corn from two to three weeks earlier. We have also found it a preventative of the wire worm, which oftentimes destroys our entire crops. Our mode of applying the Poudrette is, to put about a handful in each hill, and place the seed in direct contact. I think I shall want double the quantity next Spring that I had this year.

Yours, Respectfully,
ABEL HALEY,
Cashier Lake Bank, Wolfboro, N. H

HUNNEWELL'S ECELCTIC PILLS—The true Type of Cathartic.—By the application of true Pharmaceutical Laws, both Character and Economy are combined in this valuable Pill. To prevent putting such quantities of indigestible drugs into the stomach, the griping pains so erroneously judged to be the evidence of thorough action, and to require from 4 to 6 Pills, to get a decent cathartic, was the study in this development. The dose seldom exceeding One, and never more than Two Pills, settles the question of economy, and character can be best known by confidence to test them in DYSPEPSIA, COSTIVENESS, BILIOUSNESS, LIVER COMPLAINT, all derangements of the stomach and Bowels, and as a Family Pill. spno

THE MUSIC OF FIFTY YEARS.

NO. (BY UNCLE TOBY.) ONE.

To tell much of the old fugue tunes, we must go back a little more than half a century; for in 1813, they were rapidly going out of general use, though they were sung in some choirs years afterwards; and a few of them are used occasionally to this day.

There is some innocent curiosity among younger singers, to know how their elders sung and played before their voices were cracked, their harps untuned, and their style superseded by alterations, perhaps by improvements.

Music has changed in Portsmouth within sixty years, not altogether for the worse, as some may suppose, but in some respects for the better, though not in all.

Some notices are intended, of what it was, in the various departments, fifty years ago or so, and of some changes which have come over it, in the meantime.

First,—Music in the Home Circle. In our household, the nurse was a sweet, soft-voiced singer of hymns, who still lives, and sings, but feebly: the father, a clear, smooth tenor, who sang at his work, especially if a little perplexed; the mother a strong, brilliant treble, that waked the echoes when she sung or spoke; both were prompt and accurate in time: an uncle (father's brother) living with us, sang bass and played a bassoon: five aunts, (father's sisters) frequent visitors, were all singers, four of them reading music well. And some of their performances, when together, seemed to my childish ear, the perfection of musical sweetness and skill: they were probably not so in reality;—but they fastened themselves on my memory in that shape, and it is worth while to correct that error now, if it be one.

There might be many such families: there certainly were some, two of which are now in mind, viz.: five brothers and one sister, the children of Wm. Marden, all good singers, most of them superior: and Asa and Nathaniel Dearborn with two sisters, making a very strong quartette, though the four rarely sang together.

There are such families now,—but they are not so visible now as formerly, for reasons which will appear in subsequent numbers, in which we propose to speak of Church music, choirs, instruments, street music, and singing schools.

Mothers used to sing cradle songs to their babies, as we suppose it always was, is now, and ever shall be. But besides this, there were cradle songs that have disappeared.—Fifty or sixty years ago, the apprentice girls and female hired help in families here, were American born, the daughters of neighbors and friends: in a vast majority of cases were companions and associates, as as well as laborers and servitors. Many of them were singers,—and some of them not only sung to children, but with them, and they learned to sing together. The female hired help of to-day, speak in an unknown tongue, and few of them sing. This change is not for the better: but it is not easy to change back.

Just now a hand organ beneath the window discoursed Yankee Doodle, putting us in mind of two or three things, viz. that the Spring has come,—that we had no hand organs here many years ago,—and that stories as well as songs may be so long as to be tiresome.

[Communication.]

Mr. Chronicle:—Now that the "Garibaldi" new Hook & Ladder Carriage has arrived, you suggest that the old one be laid aside in Jefferson Hall. Well, as Jefferson Hall now looks, it might seem an appropriate place, but we are of an opinion that everything and everybody may be useful if in their right place. So we think if the old hook and ladder wagon (the iron and wood work looks almost as good as new,) should receive a coat of red paint, with the extra touchings, it might be made useful as a sail cart, the old sails to be used to cover build ings and wet with the engines, instead of using carpets. Such sail carts are used in Newburyport and Salem, Mass. It will be remembered by some of our oldest citizens that, at the great fire, many buildings were saved in like manner.

As to Jefferson Hall, now that the city is "head over heels" in debt, building a new hall seems to be out of the question. But how would it do to cut off ten feet of the front, take the same brick and modernise the front, like the Rockingham Bank or North Church? Take off as much space as the front narrow and crooked stairs, and build a recess, semi-circular, back, and you would have as much room in the hall as now. Entrance on one or both sides. Then you would have the front of the building more on the line of the street, or where the line should be, and have a handsome front and windows for the meat stalls. B.

A HUGE PORKER, weighing 860 lbs. dressed, including intestinal fat, we saw at the provision store of J. Holmes & Son in this city, on Tuesday. He was raised by Mr. Warren Brown of Hampton Falls, and is stated at 21 months old. The farmer's grandfather is said to have dressed a round thousand.

☞ Bradley & Co.'s Stereopticon, now on exhibition at the Temple, is an entertainment having very many points of interest, and should be visited by all who enjoy accurate and life like representations of battles, statuary, scenery, etc. There is a great variety of views, thus presenting something especially pleasing to almost everyone; while the representations are so remarkably correct and life-like that, seen by the aid of the powerful Drummond Light, they almost convince the spectator that the picture he thought to gaze upon has been suddenly rolled away, and he has been privileged to see the real scenes which the picture was to present. Let all the children go this afternoon, and go yourselves in the evening. We understand that these will be the last exhibitions given by Messrs. Bradley & Co. in this city.

☞ Our correspondent "Crank" is most respectfully informed, that it won't do to "harp on" any musical instrument too long, without changing the tune,—and even the Arctic Hand Organ plays eight airs. So "Crank's" suggestions, though not without interest, we can hardly find room for.—By the way, a gentleman at the South End, says he heard a hand-organ in that section, Tuesday morning, and asks us if it was the Arctic? We can't say, but wish we had been there if it was.—We commend to our musical readers, and correspondents, Uncle Toby's first article of his series on old music and new, which we publish this morning.

☞ Governor Berry, under instructions from the War Department, has authorized Lt. Col. Charles H. Long, late of the 17th N. H. regiment, to open a recruiting office in Concord, for the enlistment of a company of Heavy Artillery, comprising 140 officers and men, for three years' service at Fort Constitution. It might be advantageous to open a recruiting office in this city for the same purpose.

☞ Joseph M. Parsons, of Salem, MASS., a native of Portsmouth, has been promoted to 2d Lieut. of the unattached Artillery at one of the forts in Boston harbor.

THOUGHTS

On hearing of the death of SUSIE MARIA MELCHER HODGDON.

I had one rose—a tiny bud!
Just sparkling in the morning dew;
No glaring sun its beauties wooed,
Or rifling wind around it blew.
Tinted and formed in Beauty's mould—
And softly folding all its charms,
It shed a fragrance—never told,
While hedged around by loving arms!
And while I thought it all my own,
And in my knew not where it grew—
It drooped and faded and was gone!
I could not its sweet life renew.
Think you the fair bright little flower
So lately gathered to the tomb,
Shall lose its early fragrance there,
And cease to live, expand and bloom?
No! in that upper garden grow—
Trees plauted from the stormy clime;
The choicest plants we ever know,
And reach their full matured prime!
No blight shall ever mar their bloom!
No frost or mildew reach them there;
Far from the portals of the tomb,
They'll need no more your fostering care.
Then dry the tear of anguish deep—
Still the wild throbbings of the heart—
Jesus these precious plants will keep,
And never, never from them part.

THE MODEL COOK

FOR WOOD OR COAL.

The novel—the peculiar feature of the MODEL COOK, that which distinguishes it from all others, is the addition of a Ventilated Roasting Oven within the body of the stove and in front of the fire; so arranged that it can be used separately for a roaster or (by the removal of a simple plate) in connection with the larger oven, for baking; giving an oven nearly 3 feet long! or large enough to take six large plates on the bottom, every part of which will bake evenly at the same time! A check draft is applied to this stove by means of which the consumption of fuel is greatly lessened, and a steady fire can be kept day and night if desired.

The peculiar taint or infection which we call SCROFULA lurks in the constitutions of multitudes of men. It either produces or is produced by a languid, torpid, vitiated state of the blood, wherein that fluid becomes incompetent to sustain the vital forces in their vigorous action, and leaves the system to fall into disorder and decay. The scrofulous contamination is variously caused by mercurial disease, low living, disordered digestion from unhealthy food, impure air, filth and filthy habits, the depressing vices, and, above all, by the venereal infection. Whatever be its origin, it is hereditary in the constitution, descending "from parents to children unto the third and fourth generation;" indeed, it seems to be the rod of Him who says, "I will visit the iniquities of the fathers upon their children." The diseases it originates take various names, according to the organs it attacks. In the lungs, scrofula produces tubercles, and finally Consumption; in the glands, swellings which suppurate and become ulcerous sores; in the stomach and bowels, derangements which produce indigestion, dyspepsia, and liver complaints; on the skin, eruptive and cutaneous affections. These, all having the same origin, require the same remedy, viz., purification and invigoration of the blood. Purify the blood, and the dangerous diseases leave you. With feeble, foul, or corrupted blood, you cannot have health; with that "life of the flesh" healthy, you cannot have scrofulous disease.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Is compounded from the most effectual antidotes that medical science has discovered for this afflicting distemper, and for the cure of the disorders it entails. That it is far supe rior to any other remedy yet devised, is known by all who have given it a trial. This it does combine virtues truly extraordinary in their effect upon this class of complaints, is indisputably proven by the great multitude of publicly known and remarkable cures it has made of the following diseases: King's Evil, or Glandular Swellings, Tumors, Eruptions, Pimples, Blotches and Sores, Erysipelas, Rose or St. Anthony's Fire, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Coughs from tuberculous deposits in the lungs, White Swellings, Debility, Dropsy, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Syphilis and Syphilitic Infections, Mercurial Diseases, Female Weaknesses, and, indeed, the whole series of complaints that arise from impurity of the blood. Minute reports of individual cases may be found in AYER'S AMERICAN ALMANAC, which is furnished to the druggists for gratuitous distribution, wherein may be learned the directions for its use, and some of the remarkable cures which it has made when all other remedies had failed to afford relief. Those cases are purposely taken from all sections of the country, in order that every reader may have access to some one who can speak to him of its benefits from personal experience. Scrofula depresses the vital energies, and thus leaves its victims far more subject to disease and its fatal results than are healthy constitutions. Hence it tends to shorten, and does greatly shorten, the average duration of human life. The great importance of these considerations has led us to spend years in perfecting a remedy which is adequate to its cure. This we now offer to the public under the name of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, although it is composed of ingredients, some of which exceed the best of Sarsaparilla in alterative power. By its aid you may protect yourself from the suffering and danger of these disorders. Purge out the foul corruptions that fret and fester in the blood, purge out the causes of disease, and vigorous health will follow. By its peculiar virtues this remedy stimulates the vital functions, and thus expels the distempers which lark within the system or burst out on any part of it.

We know the public have been deceived by many compounds of Sarsaparilla, that promised much and did nothing; but they will neither be deceived nor disappointed in this. Its virtues have been proven by abundant trial, and there remains no question of its surpassing excellence for the cure of the afflicting diseases it is intended to reach. Although under the same name, it is a very different medicine from any other which has been before the people, and is far more effectual than any other which has ever been available to them.

IMPORTANT TO THE AFFLICTED.

DR. DOW continues to be consulted at his office, No. 7 ENDICOTT STREET, Boston, on all diseases of a

PRIVATE OR DELICATE NATURE:

By a long course of study and practical experience of nineteen years, Dr. D. has now the gratification of presenting the unfortunate with remedies that have never, since he first introduced them, failed to cure the most aggravated cases of

GONORRŒA AND SYPHILIS.

Beneath his treatment, all the horrors of venereal and impure blood, Impotency, Scrotula, Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Strictures, Gravel, Diseases of the Urine, Pain in the Back, Loins and Limbs, Nocturnal Emissions, Loss of Sexual Power, Pimples on the Face, Ulcerations of the Throat and Mouth, Inflammation of the Bladder and Kidneys, Hydrocele, Abscesses, Tumors, Frightful Swellings, and the long train of horrible symptoms attending this class of disease, are made to become as harmless as the simplest ailings of a child.

SEMINAL WEAKNESS.

Dr D., devotes a great part of his time to the treatment of those cases caused by severe and critical habit, which ruins the body and mind, unfitting the unfortunate individual for business or society. Some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, are Weakness of the Back and limbs, Dizziness of the head, Dimness of sight, Palpitation of the heart, Dyspepsia, Nervousness, Derangement of the digestive functions, Symptoms of Consumption, &c. The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded; loss of memory, confusion of ideas, depression of spirits, evil forebodings, aversion of society, self-distrust, timidity, &c., are among the evils produced. Such persons should, before contemplating matrimony, consult a physician of experience, and be at once restored to health and happiness.

Females who wish to remain under Dr. Dow's treatment a few days or weeks, will be furnished with pleasant rooms, and charges for board moderate.

Medicines sent to all parts of the country, with full directions for use, on receiving description of your case. Office fee also for sale the French Capotins, warranted the best preventive. Order by mail. Three for $1 and a 3cd stamp.

Highly Important!

To Females in Delicate Health.

Prolapsus Uteri, or falling of the womb, Fluor Albus, Suppression, and other menstrual derangements, are all treated upon new pathological principles, and a speedy cure effected in a new plan, and more reliably certain is the new mode of treatment, that most obstinate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted are relieved in perfect privacy.

Dr. Dow has no doubt had greater experience in the cure of Diseases of women and children, than any other Physician in Boston.

Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.

Dr. Dow, since 1845, having confined his whole attention to an office practice, for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

N. B.—All letters must contain four red stamps, or they will not be answered.

THE MAGEE COOKING STOVE.

The subscribers, having received their Fall stock of Stove, would especially call the attention of the public to the

as the very best Stove yet made, and would invite those about purchasing or exchanging Stoves, to examine this, believing it to be far superior to any other Stove yet invented, the cast-iron being heavier, and the oven larger than usual. The oven plates are covered with plaster, which renders it equal to the old-fashioned brick oven for perfection in baking.

There is a new style and very superior broiler and sad-iron heater combined, by which the odor of broiling meats are prevented from escaping into the room. With the extension top there is a large copper Reservoir for hot water; also a large tin warming-closet attached, in which any article can be kept warm, while the other parts of the Stove are occupied for other purposes.

The arrangements for sifting the coal and cleaning the grate are far superior to those of any other Stove now in use, as no dust can possibly escape into the room, and the shovelling up of the ashes is entirely dispensed with. The fire is regulated in the same manner as in the MAGEE PARLOR STOVE, and can be continued day and night for weeks together, thus saving the expense of re-kindling every day.

For economy, durability, ease of management, cleanliness and perfection in cooking, it cannot be surpassed by any other Stove. Hundreds of families in this city and vicinity, who are now using them, are willing to testify, and speak of them in the highest terms of praise.

"MAGEE'S PATENT"
VENTILATING & AIR-WARMING FURNACES.

The subscribers, being the Sole Agents in this vicinity for the manufacture and sale of this valuable Furnace, would ask those about remodelling or building buildings to examine this truly valuable invention.

For economy, purity of air and ease of management it has no equal, producing a current of warm air, moist and agreeable,—and as none of the air which comes in contact with the fire-pots is used for respiration, the tendency to produce headache so much complained of in other Furnaces, is entirely obviated.

The objects aimed at by the constructors of heating apparatus have been to obtain the greatest amount of heat from a given amount of fuel, and to prevent the escape of heat to the smoke pipe or chimney.

To accomplish this many complicated and expensive heating arrangements have been constructed, some possessing but little improvement over former methods, while many have proved a total failure. The reason for this is obvious. The continuing against the force of gravity, the passage of into the pipe or chimney without being consumed. This objection, so common in other Furnaces, is obviated in the

MAGEE FURNACE.

The flue or pipe in this Furnace being below the fire-pot, the gases, from their specific gravity, cannot descend, and are compelled to pass through or over the fire-pot, which ignites them as they pass off from the coal, thus saving at least 20 per cent. of the properties of the heat in the fuel.

No heating apparatus with the smoke-pipe or flue on the top of the cone can be made to consume the gases of the coal, as they pass with a large portion of the heat generated, making the chimney the hottest part of your dwelling.

This Furnace does away with the great number of pipes and angles for the radiation of heat, which are so liable to fill up and get out of order, thus simplifying, while it increases the surface of radiation.

These Furnaces consume all the coal, make no clinkers, the ashes of coal is entirely dispensed with, and they will save from 30 to 50 per cent. of fuel over common Furnaces.

For ease of management, economy and purity of air, these Furnaces have no equal. They can be regulated so as to give any amount of heat required, and the fire may be kept the entire season without once going out.

They give entire satisfaction wherever used. We have in store the different sizes, Brick and Portable, to which we invite the attention of those in want of the best Furnace in the world,—and would refer them to the following named gentlemen, who have them now in use:

Samuel Cleaves, Esq;	Albert R. Hatch, Esq.,
Aaron H. Hill,	Charles H. Mendum,
Henry F. Wendell,	John Sise, and others.

Teeth on Vulcanized Rubber,

SOME OF ITS ADVANTAGES.

1st. It is stronger and lighter than any known material.

2d. From two to six times the amount of suction or adhesion can be obtained by its use.

3d. When the arch is irregular we can by building out the depressions—which can be done to any extent—give the mouth a more natural appearance.

4th. No bad taste arises in the mouth by its use, as the secretions of the stomach and mouth do not affect it in the least.

5th. Teeth mounted upon this base can be kept clean and sweet as easy as a saucer, as when finished the work presents one vitreous surface.

6th. While in all ways it is better, save in a few peculiar cases, it is much cheaper than Gold.

DR. A. P. STEVENS, Surgeon Dentist,
No. 5 Daniel St., Portsmouth,

Has had four years of practical experience in making this material, and will guarantee satisfaction in all cases entrusted to his care.

Portsmouth, Jan. 1, 1863.

DENTISTRY.

No. 60 CONGRESS STREET, Portsmouth, Jan. 1st, 1863.

DR. GOODALL

Would respectfully inform his patrons and the public, (having had of late many calls to insert teeth upon VULCANIZED RUBBER,) that he has purchased the best VULCANIZER in the market, and is now prepared to do all work upon RUBBER, or the other bases of GOLD and SILVER to order, if preferred.

The Rubber has several important advantages, viz.: It is very light and elastic, and consequently it is perfectly easy to the mouth; it is durable, and secure in its insertion; it does not allow joints to collect food, &c.; consequently they can be worn night and day, and are very easily kept neat and clean.

Beside all this, the most accurate fit is obtained, as the Rubber is Vulcanized directly upon the plaster model, and the setting of course much stronger than in plates of Gold or Silver.

Any one who is waiting for their permanent teeth will I am confident, be perfectly satisfied with the Rubber as a base. The expense is but a little more than for Silver, and you get the same teeth (in blocks) that you would pay $60.00 for on upper or lower set on Gold.

In New York and Boston, and throughout the West, Vulcanized Rubber is used almost to the exclusion of the other bases, and by the best Dentists too. I will warrant a perfect fit and teeth from the best manufacturer in the country, S. S. White.

ALL OTHER OPERATIONS IN DENTISTRY I will do at the usual rates. I will here mention that my price for EXTRACTING is 25 cts.

I take pleasure in referring the public to Dr. TREADWELL, Dr. BOARDMAN, Dr. OLIVER and Dr. BENNETT, for particular success in extracting teeth. Teeth extracted without pain or injury with perfect safety, with Ether. Teeth polished to their natural whiteness without pain or injury to the Enamel. Regulation of Adults' and Children's Teeth will receive particular attention.—All whole and partial Sets of Teeth repaired with Neatness and Dispatch. GRACE'S CELEBRATED SALVE.
A SURE RELIEF FOR THE SUFFERER.

This Salve is a vegetable preparation, invented in the 17th century, by DR. WM. GRACE surgeon in King James's army. Through its agency he cured thousands of most serious sores and wounds that baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians of his day, and was regarded by all who knew him as a public benefactor.

And from Sores and Wounds of the most serious nature down to a common Pimple. It eradicates Pimples from the face, and beautifies the skin. There is no preparation before the public that can equal this Salve in prompt and energetic action for the speedy cure of external diseases, as those who have tried its virtues testify. Soldiers, Sailors, and Fishermen, will find this Salve their best friend.

It has none of the irritating, heating properties of other remedies, but cools, cleanses, and heals the most serious Sores and Wounds. Every family, and especially those containing children, should keep a box on hand in case of accident, for it will save them much trouble, suffering, and money. All it wants is a fair trial to cure old and inveterate Sores.

Portsmouth, N. H.

THURSDAY, APRIL 23, 1863.

THE REBELLION.

A letter from Port Royal, April 16th, to the Boston Herald says another expedition, supposed for Charleston, was being organized as rapidly as possible. Orders had been sent to Col. Putnam, of the 7th N. H. at St. Augustine, to return and take command of the Brigade he commanded in the last expedition. One of Gen. Terry's brigades was then embarking, and orders had been issued to other troops to be in readiness.

A Washington letter to the N. Y. Post says the time for the second attack on Charleston will be left to Adm. Dupont's discretion.

Adm. Lee reports that the number of field pieces taken in the captured battery on the Nansemond river, was 5, and the exact number of prisoners 161; also that Lieut. Cushing reports that a new and heavy battery, commanding the lower Nansemond, in the direction of Portsmouth, had been removed, and that the enemy was in retreat.

Adm. Porter ran the Vicksburg batteries with 7 fine gunboats and 3 transports. The only damage was the burning of one transport, the temporary disabling of another, and a shot through the Benton's hull. Our loss was one man killed and two wounded. On reaching Warrenton, Adm. Porter bombarded the village.

Governor Wise has been called from the command of the rebels in front of Williamsburg, and Gen. Hood is placed in command of the rebel forces.

The rebels are reported to have evacuated their works at Centreville, La., on the 13th, leaving their guns and ammunition behind them. Gen. Grover's forces are on one side of them and those of Gens. Emory and Weitzel on the other. The N. Y. Herald's letter says the steamer Diana, lately taken from us, would certainly be recaptured, as the U. S. steamer Clifton had removed the obstructions in the river, and was rapidly approaching her. The Ram Queen of the West was captured from the enemy in Grand Lake on the 14th. Capt. Fuller, her commander, and all her crew and officers, numbering 30 persons, are prisoners at Berwick Bay.

Gen. Hurlburt telegraphs from Memphis that he has information from the rebels that the enemy are evacuating Vicksburg.

Four Union regiments, on a reconnoissance from Memphis, met and repulsed some rebel cavalry, who fled in confusion across the Coldwater. Both sides being reinforced, our troops crossed and again attacked the rebels, the fight lasting till sundown. Our troops hold a strong position. Our loss was 5 killed and 15 wounded: the rebel loss in the first fight was 20 killed, 40 wounded, and 80 captured.

COUNTER REBELLION.—A refugee from Choctaw county, Miss., reports that the people of that county have declared their county out of the rebel Confederacy. The impressment for subsistence for the rebel army is still going on vigorously. The orders are, to allow each family only sixty days' rations. This has enraged the people, and they denounce the rebel government as a miserable failure. The people are hiding their meat and corn, to save it. The conscription is mercilessly enforced, and there is a reign of terror everywhere. There is probably some truth in these reports, but they must be received with allowance.

☞ Notwithstanding the confident assertions of the English journals, the Polish insurrection seems to be increasing in various directions. Sundry conflicts are reported with varying success. At the latest dates it was asserted that France, Austria and England had come to an understanding, and had sent separate notes to Russia, identical in sense, but avoiding anything like pressure. The nobility at St. Petersburg had adopted an address to the Czar in favor of the maintenance of the integrity of the Empire at all costs.

☞ The N. Y. World's dispatch says the Peterhoff case was up in the Cabinet on Tuesday. All the official documents were on the table. The impression derived from indications after the breaking up was that the majority of the President's constitutional advisers were in favor of holding on to the vessel and opening her mail. A later dispatch states that the mail has been delivered to the British Consul.

☞ Gold opened in New York Wednesday at 145. The fall is probably owing to legislation in New York, the bill agreed upon by the N. Y. Senate and Assembly prohibiting banks from loaning on gold or bills of exchange under a penalty of forfeiture of their charters, and requiring reports to be made to the Bank Superintendent.

At 3 P. M. gold, however, sold at 147¾-4.

☞ A full grown magnificent panther, measuring seven feet from nose to tip of tail, was killed within five miles of Lexington, Ky., recently.

PARTISANSHIP.—Speaking of the contested Congressional election case in Boston, between Rice and Sleeper, that independent and outspoken paper, Newburyport Herald, says "the committee of Congress on contested elections will decide which contestant is entitled to the seat. If the political character of the next House shall be clearly decided before Congress assembles, we shall be able to guess whether Rice or Sleeper is to succeed. The Rhode Island and Connecticut elections have been in favor of the Republicans." Of course—for whoever knew of a case of this kind, of the least real importance to the dominant party, being decided in any way but in its favor? And this is all natural enough, too, for no man, especially, no partisan, can see with his neighbor's eyes.

And to us, the fact of so many closely contested and doubtfully-resulting elections, constantly recurring, goes to show that no party has or can have all the right or all the decency on their side—that "there is two sides to every story," and that it is not well to believe all the good a man, especially a politician, says of himself and his friends, nor all the evil he may say of his opponents. Always "look at t'other side," while you "hurrah for our side!"

NEW HAMPSHIRE ITEMS.

—— The dry house connected with Buck & Co.'s peg manufactory, in Lebanon, was consumed by fire on Friday night. Loss $1000. Insured.

—— The American states that one-half of the income under the national tax law, in that Congressional District, embracing Hillsborough and Merrimack counties, is collected from individual and corporate interests in Manchester.

—— Lt. Col. Coughlin, of the 10th regiment, is sick in Manchester. He was unable to return to his post at the expiration of his furlough.

—— Sergt. E. G. Adams, of the 2d regiment, was advertised to lecture in Manchester on Wednesday evening.

—— J. J. Donohue, of Manchester, who was lately promoted to First Lieutenant in Co. C, 3d N. H. Regiment, has since received the appointment of Adjutant of the 10th Regiment.

THE KEYNOTE OF THE NEXT POLITICAL CAMPAIGN.—The New York World, in its issue of yesterday, gives the keynote for the opposition, we suspect, in preparing for the next political campaign. The World says:—

"Or if, by the loss of the next presidential election, it should be made certain that conciliation will not be practiced towards the South after its armies are subdued, thus precluding the possibility of its government without a subversion of our republican institutions, we should then be for peace, whether acting with a majority or against a majority."

That is to say, if anybody but the opposition candidate is elected in 1864, the opposition party is then to take ground for peace and the dissolution of the Union. It is well that this is frankly announced so long in advance.—Boston Adv.

☞ The only marriage which the N. Y. Tribune, of Tuesday, publishes is the following, which was placed under the usual head and in the customary place. It is to be hoped that it was "accompanied by a responsible name":

"NOTABIT—LITTLEWITT—On Wednesday evening, March 6, at the residence of the bride's mother, by Rev. Mr. Kruckshanks, Mr. Quessda J. Notabit to Almira Elizabeth Littlewitt. No cards. No friends."

☞ The printing of postal currency has been stopped, and will not probably be resumed, as it is hoped that the new fractional currency will be ready before the supply of teh old is exhausted. Of the $19,316,095 of postal currency which have been printed about $15,000,000 are in circulation.

MANNER OF SHAKING HANDS.—Bulwer thinks a man's nature is shown by the way he shakes hands; that he may have the manners of Chesterfield, and smile very sweetly, but who chills or steels your heart against him the moment he shakes hands with you. But there is, he says, a cordial clasp which shows warmth of impulse, unhesitating truth, and even power of character—a clasp which recalls the classic trust in the "faith of the right hand."

☞ A letter from the Nansemond says the well known "Ned Buntline" is attracting attention for his bravery in delivering despatches to the gunboat commanders down the river while heavily engaged with our foes. He has done this on two or three occasions, and been highly complimented by those who sent him on this perilous mission.

☞ The Union Association of New Orleans have held a meeting and adopted resolutions to petition Congress to allow the people to hold a Convention to form a State Government. The movement is opposed by some of the most thoughtful citizens.

There may be as honest a difference between two men as between two thermometers. The difference in both cases may arise from a difference in positions.

☞ Gen. Ellet's flotilla of river rams and the Marine Brigade are at Cairo, preparing for an expedition.

☞ The price of shingles, says the Houlton Times, was never so high in Aroostook as now.

☞ This Chronicle never advises its readers to buy out of town, what they can buy at home,—although we very well know that this favor has not always been reciprocated on the part of some others whose interests, like our own, lie in the prosperity of Portsmouth. But we noticed at the store of Beal & Hooper, in Boston, the other day, that this enterprising firm had been making considerable alterations and improvements, in their extensive furniture warehouse on Haymarket Square, to accommodate their increasing retail trade in nice goods; and we therefore improve this occasion to say that at the invitation of our old friend Hooper, we looked through the immense stock contained in their great double store and the spacious halls over the same. They have a very extensive manufactory at Somerville, and as they import their own upholstery goods and trimmings, and go into the business so largely, purchasers can depend on getting the very best as well as the richest and most fashionable furniture for parlor or chamber, at the lowest prices.—As the Boston Saturday Gazette remarked, a short time since,—"the difference in price of a nice parlor suite or chamber set, between Beal & Hooper's rates and some of the lighter but more pretentious up-town dealers, would leave quite a sum to donate to the Union cause,"—or something like this, if we recollect aright.

And speaking of this firm, reminds us, that George H. Hooper, though not a Portsmouth boy, was one of our old acquaintances in days lang syne; and we are "happy yet" to number him among our friends.—How well we remember when we used to blow the little old organ in the auld North Church, (not the oldest structure, bless you) together; and what good times we had then, "backing up" the music, of a Sunday, and on other occasions—and both of us have "done what we could" for the cause of music, ever since. (Pity we have forgot all about "blowing" since that, isn't it, George?) What changes since then! but though the cares of life have come to both, yet they have not obliterated the love of either for a good time, nor the capacity for enjoying it, and we don't believe they will, "so long as we stay." But we mustn't get on our musical horse, at this time; and will close by referring our readers to the advertisement of that staunch firm alluded to, and giving it as our opinion, that there is no better place in Boston or elsewhere, to buy nice furniture.

☞ An editorial in the Richmond Examiner predicts a continuance of the war for two years more, and makes an earnest call on the people to make every sacrifice for patriotism. It is particularly hard up on the ladies for wearing fine dresses of foreign manufacture, and reminds them that while they are patronizing "Yankee" goods, the soldiers are half starving upon short rations of bacon.

☞ The weekly publication of Vanity Fair will be resumed on the 1st of May. It will "lend its humble aid," says the publisher, "to sustain the Government, and at the same time pay attention to our enemies without, making the paper in every particular thoroughly national."

☞ The London Times has an article to the effect that California rings with preparations for offensive and defensive war against England, probably under the inspiration of Mr. Seward, for the capture of British Columbia; and says the Federal Government is building three Monitors for California use, and exporting thither large quantities of shell and gunpowder.

☞ Capt. A. S. Parker, alleged to be in the employ of the rebel Government and detailed to bring over one of the iron-clads building in England for the "Emperor of China," has been arrested in New York and sent to Fort Lafayette.

☞ Among the significant financial facts which attract attention at present as a consequence of the easy money market, the N. Y. Post instances that a considerable number of mortgages are being paid off in all parts of the country; and secondly, that manufacturing enterprise is being developed with amazing rapidity.

☞ The Union and Emancipation Society of Manchester, Eng., at a meeting to protest against the building of war ships for the rebels, adopted a memorial calling on the Government to vindicate the honor of England by stopping such proceedings.

☞ Last week $130,000 was stolen between Aquia Creek and Washington. The money was in separate packages and belonged to the soldiers, who were forwarding it to their families.

☞ A great fire at Denver, Ka., on the 19th, destroyed the greater part of four blocks. The loss will reach nearly a million and a half, the loss in flour and other provisions being very heavy:

☞ A young pistol-shooter in Cincinnati shot the ashes off a cigar held at twenty paces distant from the marksman by a comrade.

☞ The Merrimack corporation in Lowell, Mass., are erecting a new mill this season, 286 feet long by 72 feet wide, two stories high.

FEMALES ADMITTED TO DICTIONARIES. Routledge, the London publisher, advertises a new work as "Men of the Time: a Biographical Dictionary of Eminent Living Characters, including Women." This first formal recognition of ladies in a business advertisement, as characters, is an expressive exponent of the progress of our time!

☞ The steamer Alar arrived at Plymouth, Eng., on the 11th, and reports speaking the steamer Japan, alias Virginia, on the 9th of April, and received from her 17 men, two of whom had been wounded from an explosion in the machinery on the 4th of April. The Japan had been lying off the French coast for three days, and proceeded on the 9th. She is said to have received a large supply of arms and ammunition.

☞ The election for city officers in Chicago on Tuesday was closely contested.—The total vote was 20,300. Official returns from all the wards in the city give Mr. Sherman, Democrat, for Mayor, 118 majority. The balance of the Democratic ticket is elected. The Council stands 20 Democrats to 12 Republicans.

☞ The Vanderbilt captured the steamer Gertrude on the 16th inst., off Harbor Island, after a chase of several hours. She is 250 tons burthen and has a cargo of powder and military stores.

☞ At a large Union League meeting in Sacramento on Saturday, Senator Conness pledged himself to sustain the Administration in its most radical measures for suppressing the rebellion, and not follow the lead of Senators McDougal and Nesmith.

☞ Rev. James Walker, D. D., has accepted an invitation to deliver the oration at the next triennial meeting of the Alumni of Harvard College.

☞ See you fair maiden in another column, picking Sambuci Grapes for Speer's Wine. It is an admirable article, used in hospitals, and by the first class families in Paris, London and New York, in preference to old Port wine. It is worth a trial, as it gives great satisfaction. 1y.

HUNNEWELL'S ECLECTIC PILLS —The true Type of Cathartic.—By the application of this Pharmaceutical Law, both Character and Economy are combined in this valuable Pill. To prevent putting such quantities of indigestible drugs into the stomach, the griping pains so erroneously judged to be the evidence of thorough action, and to require from 4 to 6 Pills, to get a decent cathartic, was the study in this development. The dose seldom exceeding One, and never more than Two Pills, settles the question of economy, and character can be best known by confidence to test them in Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, all derangements of the stomach and Bowels, and as a Family Pill. spno

MADAME ANNA BISHOP's concert is to be given at the Temple to night, and presents a rare combination of Artists and Soloists. Of a concert which was given by Madame Bishop in Boston, the Journal of that city says:—

Of course it was a triumph. Indeed, it could not have been otherwise, for "grand successes" are a matter of course with this prima donna. The audience was just such a one as could heartily appreciate the sublimest efforts of musical genius, and they gave way to their feelings in the sincerest expressions of enthusiasm. Neither time nor space permit us doing justice to the artist, but we cannot forbear saying that we believe that a more satisfactory concert has never been given in this city. The selections from Italian operas were most artistically rendered, but the heart and feelings were excited to enthusiasm when Madame sang the charming English songs, "Oft in the Stilly Night," etc. 'Tis some time since we last heard her. We think she sings better now than then.

☞ The exhibitions of Stereopticonic Views at the Temple, Tuesday and Wednesday, were, on the whole, very enjoyable entertainments. Being sun-pictures or photographs, greatly enlarged, the scenes represented must be accurate and truthful; and they were shown in the most strikingly perfect manner. Especially did statuary seem as if "starting right out" in actual relief; and in several instances appeared as if actually figures of life. And light and shade, and so perspective, were given to perfection. And the selection of scenes was mainly very judicious—pictures of interesting places and buildings in the old and new world, with war scenes, and a comicality occasionally interspersed. The imitations, or rather intimations, of cannon and musketry, did not add interest to the performance; and we would advise the delineator to leave these out, and attend a little more carefully to reading his notes of description.

☞ "In the midst of life we are in death," says the burial service, and so it is. On the one hand, close to us, and by rapid decay, falls as a flower broken from its stem, a young woman, full of promise and of hope. And now on the other, as in a moment, almost in the twinkling of an eye, falls a mature but active woman:—we are called to look on the lifeless clay of a neighbor and former schoolmate, Mrs. Zerriah P. Rand, aged 68, widow of Henry S. Rand, lately deceased. Mrs. R. died very suddenly in this city, on Wednesday afternoon, though in the forenoon as well as usual, and doing a forenoon's work.—She was a valuable and highly esteemed member of a large domestic circle, and as a christian friend her loss will be felt by all who knew her. U. T.

☞ Some months ago, a long time after she lost it, a lady requested us to advertise a stray Scroll Breast Pin. We did so, and presently a man called at our counting room and said he had it at home and would bring it to us. So we withdrew the notice and told the owner we would send her pin in a day or two. But nothing more have we seen or heard of said man or pin, and we didn't know him and can't find him, though we have advertised for him till our readers have probably begun think "that gentleman who found the lady's Scroll Pin," had been stereotyped for our columns, like "yon fair maiden in another column." But then the blooming damsel is on hand—not "binding shoes," exactly, but "picking grapes for Sambuci Wine—(for the merits of which see the "glowing" advertisement, and try the wine,—which really "is not bad to take" many folks think,) while the pin, we don't see it, nor the man who has it.

☞ In a litter of Pigs which were born on the City Farm this week, were eleven pigs of the usual size, bright and promising. Besides these there was one double pig, exhibiting only one head, but having four ears, eight legs, two backbones, and two tails. This double pig was of the feminine gender, (lat. sus scrofa,) weighed 1 1-4 lbs., and about the usual length. It was probably stillborn.

☞ A "parliamentary" juror in a Court in Western New York interrupted the proceedings last week, by remarking that he considered the labors imposed upon the jury unjustly severe, and believing that a motion to adjourn was always in order, he would move that the Court now adjourn.

WHERE THEY GO.—Pleasant enough was the reply of the little urchin, who, on being arraigned for playing marbles on Sunday, and sternly asked, "Do you know where those little boys go to who play marbles on Sunday?" replied, very innocently, "Yes; some on 'em goes to the common, and some on 'em goes down by the side of the river!"

☞ The Bangor Whig says somebody has discovered that law is more remarkable for its close shaving than for always shaving the right one.

☞ Gen. Pemberton, in command of a rebel force near Vicksburg, recently sent Gen. Sherman a very fine boquet as an evidence of good will.

☞ It is reported that the entire Russia army is to be placed on a war footing, and that Cronstadt has been placed in a state of defence.

Read the following recommendation from the Cashier of the Lake Bank, Wolfboro', N. H.

WOLFBORO, N. H., Lake Winnipisseogee, Nov. 10, 1862.

Agents Lodi Manufacturing Co., Boston.

GENTS.—I have used the Poudrette made by your Co. for two years. The first year I used four bagrels, and experimented with it on both corn and potatoes. I was pleased and satisfied with the result, and the past season purchased over 100 barrels for my own use, and my neighbors. I think some twenty-five different farmers tried and used the Poudrette on my recommendation, and all have this Fall expressed themselves entirely satisfied to use each an increased quantity this next Spring. Planting season comes late, and we have very early roots, and the Poudrette ripens our corn from two to three weeks earlier. We have also found it a preventative of the wire worm, which oftentimes destroys our entire crops. Our mode of applying the Poudrette is, to put about a handful in each hill, and place the seed in direct contact. I think I shall want double the quantity next Spring that I had this year.

Yours, Respectfully,

ABEL HALEY,

Cashier Lake Bank, Wolfboro, N. H

Morning Chronicle

A Good Story is told of a private in the 14th Mass. Regiment, who had a strong inclination for trade, though under the most unfavorable circumstances:

A certain captain in this regiment is noted somewhat for his love of the good things even in camp life, and several days since despatched one of his "live Yankees" off to Alexandria for some fresh oysters, giving him, in his usual jocose way, the command, "Don't come back without them."

Off goes the man, and no more is seen of him for several days. The indignant and disappointed captain reports him a deserter and gives him up as a "lost child." But lo! after the lapse of nine days the captain beholds his reported deserter, Baily, coming into camp, leading in a train of four horse wagons loaded with oysters. Approaching and respectfully saluting the amazed captain, Baily "reports:"

"Here are your oysters, Captain; couldn't find any at Alexandria, so I chartered a schooner and made a voyage to Fortress Monroe and Norfolk for them. There's about two hundred bushels—where do you want them?"

Baily, it seems, did really make the trip, hired his men, and sold oysters enough in Georgetown, before "reporting," to pay all expenses, and leave him a profit of $159. The "two hundred bushels" were divided among the company, and Baily returned to his duty as if nothing unusual had transpired.

☞ ATTENTION, THE WHOLE! ☜

Rye, N. H., Feb. 26, 1846. "I hereby certify that my daughter was half the time from her school for a number of years, on account of the time so badly as to prevent her labor, or even rest—as it affected her hands very much. A large sum had been expended in the most celebrated physicians, for Sarsaparilla, Syrup, &c., &c., but she obtained no relief until I procured some ten or twelve bottles of Dr. Swett's Panacea, and several bottles of his Humor Wash, which have effected a cure. There can be no mistake, as this cure was effected more than three years ago. No other medicine can equal Dr. Swett's in removing the various kinds of humors. I have sold it to a number of my acquaintances, who were afflicted, and witnessed many full cures effected by it since I have acted as agent for the sale of it. Josiah Jenness.

Portsmouth, April 21st, 1852.

I have for several years been afflicted with distress at my stomach, pain in my side, and often vomited up all of my food immediately after eating it, and all medicine failed to give any relief until about a year ago, when I took one bottle of Dr. S. Swett's Panacea, which fully cured me, so that I have not had the least trouble from any of these complaints since, and I enjoy good health. M. Lowd.

From Elder I. Chesley, Lee, May 31, 1841.

Dr. Swett:—Permit me to testify, as I feel in duty bound to do, that my daughter was afflicted with scrofulous tumors, and that previous to your visiting our house in the spring of 1840, she had been confined for a number of months, without her natural rest by day or night. She had applied to a number of physicians, but continued to grow weaker till she commenced using your Panacea and Humor Wash. Since then she has recovered her health so far as to rest quietly by night, and labor by day. I esteem your medicine one of the best that can be found for the disease above named. H. Chesley witnessed

☞ Any one returning the remainder of a bottle or box of Dr. Swett's medicines shall have pay for it, if it do not agree with his case, or if not worth the price. All orders directed to Dr. S. Swett, Portsmouth, N. H., promptly attended to. may20o

American and Foreign Patents.

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of U. S. Patent Office, Washington, under Act of 1836.

75 State Street, opposite Kilby Street,
BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continued to secure Patents to the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on liberal terms, and with despatch. Examinations made into American or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of patents or inventions—and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.

The Agency is not only the largest in New England, but it is the only one which has facilities for securing Patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions unsurpassed by, if not unequalled by any other agency which can be found in them elsewhere. The Testimonials below given prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE; and that the extent of SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional service so moderate.

The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has put him in possession of a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents.

These, besides the extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and the models of all patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining Patents.

All necessity of a journey to Washington, to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and necessary practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse.
CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents.

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration of the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.

Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications, on all but one of which patents have been granted, and that is now pending. The unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART.

During eight months, the subscriber, in course of his large practice, made on new rejected applications SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided in his favor, by the Commissioner of Patents. R. H. EDDY.

THE MODEL COOK

FOR WOOD OR COAL.

The novel—the peculiar feature of the MODEL COOK, that which distinguishes it from all others, is the addition of a Ventilated Roasting Oven within the body of the stove and in front of the fire; so arranged that it can be used separately for a roaster or (by the removal of a simple plate) in connection with the larger oven, for baking; giving an oven nearly 3 feet long; or large enough to take six large plates on the bottom; every part of which will bake equally at the same time. THE MAGEE
COOKING STOVE.

The subscribers, having received their Fall stock of stoves, would especially call the attention of the public to the

CELEBRATED AND UNEQUALLED
MAGEE COOK STOVE,

as the very best Stove yet made, and would invite those about purchasing or exchanging stoves to examine this, believing it to be superior to any other Stove yet invented, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual. The oven plates are covered with plates, which renders it equal to the old-fashioned brick oven for perfection in baking.

There is a new style and very superior broiler and sad iron heater combined, by which the odor of broiling meats is prevented from escaping into the room. With the extension top there is a large copper Reservoir for hot water; also a large tin warming closet attached, in which many article can be kept warm, while the other parts of the Stove are occupied for other purposes.

The arrangements for sifting the coal and cleaning the grate are far superior to those of any other stove now in use, as no coal can possibly escape into the room, and the shoveling up of the ashes is entirely dispensed with. The fire is regulated in the same manner as in the MAGEE PARLOR STOVE, and can be continued day and night for weeks together, thus saving the expense of re-kindling every day.

For economy, durability, ease of management, cleanliness and perfection in cooking, it cannot be surpassed by any other Stove, as hundreds of families in this city and vicinity, who are now using them, can testify. Call and speak of them in the highest terms of praise.

We would refer to the following purchasers:

"MAGEE'S PATENT"
VENTILATING & AIR WARMING
FURNACES.

The subscribers, being the Sole Agents in this vicinity for the manufacture and sale of this valuable Furnace, would ask those about remodelling or erecting buildings to examine this truly valuable invention.

For economy, purity of air and ease of management it has no equal, producing a current of warm air, moist and agreeable;—and as none of the air which comes in contact with the fire-pot is used for respiration, the tendency to produce headache so much complained of in other Furnaces, is entirely obviated.

The objects aimed at by the constructors of heating apparatus have been to obtain the greatest amount of heat from a given amount of fuel, and to prevent the escape of heat to the smoke pipe or chimney.

To accomplish this many complicated and expensive heating arrangements have been constructed, some possessing but little improvement over former methods, while many have proved a total failure. The reason of these failures. The combustible gases being lighter than the air, pass off into the pipe or chimney without being consumed. This objection, so common in other Furnaces, is obviated in the

MAGEE FURNACE.

The flue or pipe in this Furnace being below the fire-pot, the gases, from their specific gravity, cannot descend, and are burned up by the admission of cold air through the fire-pot, which ignites them as they pass off from the coal, thus saving at least 20 per cent. of the properties of the heat in the fuel.

No heating apparatus with the smoke-pipe or flue on the top of the cone can be made to compare with the Magee Furnace, which will burn a large amount of the heat generated, making the chimney the hottest part of your dwelling.

This Furnace does away with the great number of pipes and angles for the radiation of heat, which have hitherto been the perfection of ugliness, thus simplifying, while it increases the surface of radiation.

These Furnaces consume all the coal, make no clinkers, the sifting of coal is entirely dispensed with, and they will save from 30 to 50 per cent. of fuel over common Furnaces.

For ease of management, economy and purity of air, these Furnaces have no equal. They can be regulated so as to give any amount of heat required, and the fire may be kept the entire season without relighting.

They give entire satisfaction wherever used. We have in store the different sizes, Brick and Portable, to which we invite the attention of those in want of the best Furnace in the world,—and would refer them to the following named gentlemen, who have them now in use:

Samuel Cleaves, Esq.,	Albert R. Hatch, Esq.,
Aaron H. Hill,	Charles H. Mendum.
Henry F. Wendell.

1st. It is stronger and lighter than any known material.

2d. From two to six times the amount of suction or adhesion can be obtained by it.

3d. When the arch is irregular we can by building out the depressions—which can be done to any extent—give the mouth a more natural appearance.

4th. No bad taste arises in the mouth by its use, as the secretions of the stomach and mouth do not affect it in the least.

5th. Teeth mounted upon this base can be kept clean and sweet as easy as a saucer, as when broken they break never one whole piece.

6th. While in all ways it is better, save in a few peculiar cases, it is much cheaper than Gold.

DENTISTRY.

No. 60 Congress Street,
Portsmouth, Jan. 1st, 1853.

DR. GOODALL

Would respectfully inform his patrons and the public, (having had of late many calls to insert teeth upon Vulcanized Rubber,) that he has purchased the best VULCANIZER in the market, and is now prepared to do all work upon RUBBER, or the other bases of GOLD and SILVER as formerly, if preferred.

The Rubber has several important advantages, viz.: It is very light and elastic, and consequently is perfectly easy to the muscles of the mouth and cheeks. There are no interstices or open joints to collect food, &c.; consequently they can be worn night and day, and are very easily kept neat and clean.

Beside all this, the most accurate fit is obtained, as the Rubber is Vulcanized directly upon the plaster model, and the suction is of course much stronger than in plates of Gold or Silver.

Any one who is waiting for their permanent teeth will, I am confident, be perfectly satisfied with the Rubber, as a base. The expense is but a little more than for Silver, and you get the same teeth (in blocks) that you would pay $60.00 for on upper or lower set on Gold.

In New York and Boston, and throughout the West, Vulcanized Rubber is now almost to the exclusion of the other bases, and by the best Dentists too. I will warrant a perfect fit and teeth from the best manufacturer in the country, S. S. White.

All other operations in Dentistry I will do at the usual rates. I will here mention that my price for Extraction is 25 cents.

I take pleasure in recommending the public to Dr. Treadwell, Dr. Boardman, Dr. Oliver and Dr. Bennett, for particular success in extracting Teeth. Teeth extracted without pain and with perfect safety, with Ether. Teeth polished to their natural whiteness without pain or injury to the Enamel. Regulation of Adults' and Children's Teeth will receive particular attention.—All whole and partial Sets of Teeth repaired with Neatness and Dispatch. All other operations in Dentistry, I will do at the usual rates.

☞ Please call and examine specimens of Artificial Teeth upon Vulcanized Rubber, Gold and Silver.

"Bound to no party—to no sect confined;
The world our home; our brethren, all mankind.
Love truth, do good, be just and fair with all;
Exalt the right, though every item fall."

"Let me warn you in the most solemn manner against the baneful effects of the spirit of Party, generally. It is a spirit not to be encouraged.—Its common and continual mischief is sufficient to make it the interest and duty of a wise people to discourage and restrain it. In governments of the popular form, it is seen in its greatest rankness, and is truly their worst enemy."—Washington's Farewell Address.

HEALTH has much more to do with godliness than used to be supposed. Of course, health is not in itself piety, nor can it ever engender piety; but it is a condition very favorable to it—sometimes, perhaps, essential. Hence, all innocent amusements that serve to exhilarate, and all innocent games and exercises that tend to invigorate a man, deserve the most cordial encouragement from all who desire the social and spiritual elevation of the people. The volunteer drill may be doing as much for healthy religion, in an indirect way, as a tract society.

We are told that David was ruddy and of a beautiful countenance, and we believe his personal courage and his faith in God were all the stronger because of the bodily vigor indicated by his face. A man loves better, prays better, and reasons better, in health than in sickness. A climb up a hill warms a man's heart while it braces his nerves; and a good game of cricket does far more to strengthen one's moral principles than a lecture in moral philosophy.—Ladies' Standard, Scotland.

☞ The New York Legislature has agreed upon a bill appropriating $1,000,000 for the defence of New York harbor and frontier of the State, the money to be expended under the direction of the Governor, the Comptroller of the State, and Senator Morgan.

☞ The Medical Department statistics show the number of rebel prisoners who have died in Union hospitals, since the commencement of the war, to be over five thousand.

☞ The newly commissioned black surgeon, Dr. Augusta Canada, appeared on the streets of Washington in Major's uniform. He has been assigned to Ullman's brigade.

☞ A debating club in Worcester lately discussed the important question,—"Whether a rooster's knowledge of daybreak is the result of observation or instinct."

We would invite the attention of dealers to the above Tobacco made by us. It is warranted to be of BETTER QUALITY than any in the market, and as good as the best from Virginia. FRIDAY, APRIL 24, 1863.

THE REBELLION.

Official dispatches have been received from the Sec. of Adm. Farragut, giving an account of his passage down the river from Warrenton.' He engaged the batteries there and passed below them,—Mar. 27th; on the 31st the remaining vessels followed. The rebel wharf boat Vicksburg, which broke adrift and floated down during a storm, was found to have been stripped of her machinery, etc. She was burnt by the rebels on the night of the 30th, while aground. Our fleet proceeded down the river to the point where, on the passage up, they had seen the wreck of the Indianola: but no traces of it were found. They feared that it had slid off into deep water during the gale. Subsequently they engaged the battery at Grand Gulf, of two or three heavy guns, one mounted on a steam car,—the rebels also having a light field battery. These they passed in about 15 minutes, losing one man killed. On the 1st they proceeded to the mouth of Red river, which they blockaded until the 6th, when they proceeded to Bayou Sara, where they stopped, seized upon and threw into the river about 10,000 sacks of corn, and then proceeded on their way to Port Hudson where they anchored about five miles above the batteries at 3 P. M. on the 6th inst.

There are now eleven gunboats below Vicksburg, including the three under Farragut.

A dispatch says our gunboats have destroyed the rebel battery at Warrenton, below Vicksburg, and that the fleet were at anchor at Carthage on the 17th. Gen. Grant was to go down on the same day.—Gen. Ellet has nearly swept the Comberland of rebel cavalry, who were on both sides the river. Some severe fighting occurred and many prisoners were taken.

The Mumfordsville expedition to Celina has returned to Glasgow, having destroyed the town of Celina, 100,000 lbs. bacon, 200 bushels wheat, and over 100 bbls each of whiskey and flour, a considerable quantity of sugar, tea, coffee, salt and other stores, an 140 teams used by the rebels for transporting supplies. The rebels admit a loss of 90 killed. The Federal loss was one killed and one missing.

Deserters report that the rebels have a large number of workmen engaged in removing the obstructions from James river near Fort Darling, where the Merrimac No. 2 is lying.

Three weeks ago Gen. Lee held Fredericksburg with 60,000 men. With the forces within call, these might be made up to 100-000 now. Gen. Hooker is reported to have 120,000 or more.

The commanding officer of the rebel Black Horse Cavalry and six men have been captured at Waterloo, Va.

Gen. Foster has started out from Newbern in pursuit of the rebels who have raised the siege of little Washington and are on their way to Virginia.

Advices from Port Royal per Ericsson state that all the Monitors are having their decks iron plated. A number of citizens from the army are assisting the naval men in this duty. Attempts have been made by the rebels in Charleston to raise the Keokuk, but with what success is not stated.

A Port Royal letter of the 17th in the Boston Herald gives the following important intelligence:

Troops commenced embarking yesterday, and it now seems probable that every transport will have sailed by two days' time.—Brig. Gen. Terry, as before, will have command of the Division. It will consist of two brigades. The Second brigade will be composed of regiments that have not been regularly brigaded, as follows: 3d and 4th N. H., and 6th Conn. Col. Bell, of the 4th N. H., will have command. It was at first understood that Col. Putnam of the 7th N. H. would command the 2d brigade, as before, but it was deemed inadvisable to take any portion of the 7th N. H. from St. Augustine. Col. Bell is amply qualified for the position. Capt. Hamilton's and Lieut. Henry's batteries of artillery are also to go. Six monitors were lying in Charleston harbor yesterday, and it is supposed the others have been ordered there.

☞ James L. Addison, clerk in the Adj. General's office, Washington, and Anthony Addison, chief clerk of the Pension Bureau, have been caught in the act of carrying rebel mails. The former has been in the War Department 30 years, and has had access to all important orders and movements.

☞ In the rebel House of Representives, a few days since, a motion by Mr. Foote to change the seat of Government from Richmond, was rejected by an almost unanimous vote. During a recent debate in the same body, it was stated that in a short time the Confederates would have sixty-two vessels afloat.

☞ E. H. Howard, a clerk in Earl's hotel, New York, has absconded with $22,000, belonging to a guest of the house, and which was deposited in the safe. The police are on his track.

NEW HAMPSHIRE ITEMS.

—— The Wolfborough News, of April 22d says, the late heavy rains, together with the rapid melting of the snow, has caused quite a freshet in that vicinity. The water in the lake is said to be higher than for several years past, while the smaller ponds are higher than for many years before.

—— The American gives a report that notice has been served on the Representatives elect of Ward 5, Manchester, to the effect that their seats in the House will be contested.

—— Lieutenant Robert Swinoy, of Co. K, 8th New Hampshire regiment, shot himself through the head at Berwick, La., on the 9th inst.

—— The Ballot states that Mr. Moses Hall, a colored man in Exeter, made a small wager with a young Canadian named Burnham, that he (Hall) could chop, split and pile one cord of wood more than the other could in a day. The match came off on Wednesday last. Hall chopped 4 cords 7 1-2 feet. Burnham chopped 4 cords 4 ft., thus beating Hall 3 1-2 feet of the bet.—This is considered in those diggings tall chopping.

—— Seth Tanner, of Exeter, has been sent to jail for 60 days, for an assault on his wife.

—— The official reports of the killed and wounded in the attack at Suffolk, on the 17th and 18th, includes the following names: Wounded — J. W. Place, 13th N. H., Charles F. Gerrish, do., Sidney Case, do.

—— At the adjourned meeting of the stockholders of the Cocheeho Railroad, held on Wednesday, the act to incorporate the Dover & Wiunipiseogee Railroad was approved, and the Directors of the Cocheeho Road were authorized to sell the same to the new Company.

—— Mr. Samuel B. Stewart, a graduate of the Cambridge Divinity School in the last class, will be ordained as Pastor of the Unitarian Church in Nashua on Wednesday next.

☞ At Rome, recently, Miss Hosmer, the American "sculptress," challenged Mr. Spiers, an English gentleman, and the master of the hounds, to ride a steeple-chase match. The event came off in presence of a pretty numerous field of British, American and sporting Roman spectators. Miss Hosmer rode well, and took all her leaps, stone walls, rails, and hurdles very pluckily, and led until near the winning post, when Mr. Spier's jockeyship overcoming his gallantry, he called on his horse, and came in a winner.

ROMAN MONUMENTS.—Nothing is more remarkable, as connected with Roman monuments, than the absence of the mournful element. The skull and cross-bones belong to a period of corrupted taste. The dead are thought of by the classics as those who ceased to labor, as death is symbolised on a Pompeian monument by a ship entering the port. With a beautiful simplicity Christian Germany still speaks of the departed as "those who have gone home."

☞ The Rev. Mr Martin, residing in Maryland, opposite Alexandria, has been arrested by order of the military authorities, on the charge that he and his family have been holding secret correspondence with the rebels and freely avowing that they are Secessionists. Orders have been given to send them beyond our lines.

A young lady, residing not far from Boston, lately purchased and sent home a photographic copy of Palmer's "Indian Girl." The kitchen maid chancing to see it, and knowing that several members of the family has just been sitting for their likenesses, took this for one of them, and inquired whose picture it was. "Miss Julia's," was the reply. "Faith," said the servant, glancing at the face,—"and it doesn't look at all like her!" A second glance revealed the demi-draped figure, and completed the measure of the poor girl's astonishment. "Holy Saints preserve us!" she exclaimed, "and did Miss Julia sit that way?"

☞ Two sisters, Mrs. Rowe and Mrs. Rogers, and three children were drowned at New Bedford on Wednesday afternoon while on a sailing excursion in the bay. A child of one of the ladies fell overboard accidentally, a gentleman jumped in to save it, when the whole party rushed to one side of the boat, which capsized and they all fell into the water. Two ladies and a gentleman were saved. The bodies of Mrs. Rowe and Mrs. Rogers and one child have been recovered.

☞ On the 9th inst. the Government stables at Baton Rouge were burned. So rapid was the progress of the flames, that twenty-five of the horses were burned before they could be cut loose from their stalls. The stables were filled with valuable quartermaster's stores, consisting of saddles, bridles, harnesses, hay and feed. The building and its contents were a total loss.

☞ The Postmaster at Harrisburg, Pa., has been using postage stamps with a looseness that has placed him in an awkward position.

☞ A Milwaukee lawyer has recovered $16,000 of a man for professional advice and service.

[Communication.]

PERSONAL.—Uncle Toby does not feel it at all important to write his Autobiography to-day, though it might amuse the reader if it did not instruct him. But as he seems to be called out and characterized in a negative way, it may be worth while to make some positive statements of principle, opinions, and policy.

He has supposed himself to be an independent writer, if by this term is meant, "not subject to control, free, easy," as Webster defines it. In actual practice he has given his opinions from the platform, the pulpit and press, freely and plainly, on subjects moral and religious, social and political; so plainly that very few of his readers or hearers ever doubted what he meant. And he has edited and published some papers that were independent in this sense,—and that were also independent of sects or parties.

This independence, however, though valuable in some respects, we deem far less important than Impartiality, Fairness and Candor. These he has endeavored to exercise, with what success his bearers and readers can judge.

Impartiality is not indifference; and it does not call upon us to make vice equal to virtue, war to peace, or slavery to liberty. There is not only a distinction, but a wide difference between good and evil, truth and falsehood, honesty and dishonesty; between right and wrong. If we try to put this difference out of sight, we only blind our own eyes, as the ostrich does when she hides her head in the sand. The hunter sees the bird: our fellow men see us, with pity or with sneers, as the case may be. And above all, God, by whom actions are weighed, looks with impartial eye on the oppressor and the oppressed, on the deceiver and the deceived.

Acting on these principles, many years ago he condemned slavery, because he would not like himself to be a slave, and because he learned from the gospel that men should do as they would be done by. He condemned it openly and plainly, from pulpit and press: but he examined the subject thoroughly, and quoted in his papers, time and again, every argument and plea that was offered in defence of slavery, either in England or this country, adding suitable comments.

He did this when no political party in this country, and no religious sect (except the Quakers) was professedly anti-slavery. The outspoken opponents of slavery were comparatively few, and the expressed public voice being directed, controlled and befooled by the slave power, crowded them down, and strove to crush them out, not by arguments and facts, but by mobs and attempted penal statutes.

It was not possible to feel toward and treat both sides and parties on this question alike. They were the right and the wrong, the oppressor and the oppressed. No man can help having an opinion that slavery is either right or wrong; though he may not think it politic or prudent to express it. He may be silent, or neutral, or may speak contrary to what he thinks:—but he cannot help thinking; and if he happens to be a slave, he can't help thinking it is wrong. If he happens to be a slaveholder, he may say as Mr. Cobb of Georgia did here, I will not discuss the slavery question, — as to its right or wrong. And if he happens to be an ally of the slave power, he can doubtless utter a few senseless flings at abolitionists, "niggers," and fanatics.

But of sound argument for slavery none exists: the old pleas for it are stale: and the reasons against it, brought up by this war, are conclusive.—Its friends at the South have given it a mortal wound, and its worshippers at the North cannot save it.

And now, having condemned the system when it was unpopular and unsafe to do so, Uncle Toby hears without dismay the "thunder" of divine justice, spoken of by Mr. Jefferson, and looks with pity on the efforts of scribblers to write up a vile system, which an overruling Providence decrees shall go down. U. T.

☞ The Central Congregational Society of Boston have sold their real estate on Winter street, including the church, parsonage house in the rear, and 11,600 square ft. of land, to Mr. James French, for the sum of $105,000—the Society retaining the right to occupy the church one year upon the payment of interest on the purchase money. The estate has a front of 44 feet on Winter street. The locality is ultimately to be improved for business purposes.

☞ Crispus Attucks, who was killed in the Boston massacre, March 5, 1770, has generally been supposed to be a negro, but Hon. Caleb Cushing, a Lowell paper says, lately stated in the Legislature that Attucks was not a negro, but a Natick Indian. He was held as a slave, and ran away from Mr. Brown of Framingham, his owner, just before the massacre.

☞ The comparatively new States of Illinois, Iowa, Michigan and Wisconsin, are being rapidly populated, they say, by crowds of fugitives from the war desolated scenes of Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee and Missouri.

☞ Lieut. Col. Kimball, who was shot by Gen. Corcoran, was years ago a printer in Concord, N. H.; afterwards he was editor of a paper in Woodstock, Vt., where he raised a company for the Mexican war, and served in Col. Ransom's regiment. He won great distinction in that war and has the reputation of having been the first to mount the battlements of Chepultapec and pull down the Mexican flag.

☞ Daniel S. E. Starr, who emigrated to Alabama from Connecticut twenty-five years ago, was hung by a mob at Montgomery, Ala., on the 14th ult., for having written a book against the South. The book was in manuscript.

☞ Intelligence from England leads to the belief that the departure of privateers from British ports will hereafter be arrested by the English Government. Better late than never.

☞ The Portland Evening Courier has been much enlarged, and otherwise improved. It is an independent paper, giving the evening telegraphic news, and if the citizens of those towns on the K. & P. R. R. can only be made to realize that gives later news than is contained in the Boston papers, it will succeed.

☞ Thursday, April 23, was the 247th anniversary of Shakespeare's birth.

One of Hunnewell's Preparations.

HUNNEWELL'S ECELCTIC PILLS —The true Type of Cathartic.—By the application of true Pharmaceutical Laws, both Character and Economy are combined in this valuable Pill. To prevent putting such quantities of indigestible drugs into the stomach, the griping pains so generously judged to be the evidence of thorough action, and to secure from 4 to 6 Pills, to get a decent cathartic, was the study in this development. The does seldom exceeding One, and never more than Two Pills, solves the question of economy, and character can be best known by confidence to test them in DYSPEPSIA, COSTIVENESS, BIUOUSNESS, LIVER COMPLAINT, all derangements of the stomach and Bowels, and as a Family Pill. spno

S. J. COURT—Exeter.

In the case Parshly v. Marston the jury returned a verdict for the deft.

The case Swamscott Machine Co. v. John W. Elliott was commenced on Wednesday. This is a suit to recover the sum of $1000, the price of the old ferry boat formerly run by the Piscataqua Ferry Co.; defence that there was no delivery, &c. Small for pltf., Hatch for deft.

William P. Walker, Esq., was appointed Foreman of the Jury.

Joseph Young and Curtis Crooker, for stealing clothing from Archibald & Mullen, were each sentenced to 4 months' imprisonment in the county jail, $10 fine, and costs, and to pay Archibald & Mullen $36,—three times the value of the goods stolen, after deducting the value of goods returned.

Geo. S. Rundlett v. Rob't Thompson—action of assumpsit to recover of deft. his contributive share of $627.22, paid by pltf. in May, 1862, on a judgment recovered by Pawtuckaway Bank v. Sam'l P. Ladd, and the deft. and the pltf., on the second Tuesday of April, 1862, to wit $418.14 and interest on the same. Ladd being insolvent and unable to pay the debt, Rundlett paid the full sum and interest to C. M. Norris, assignee of the judgment, and seeks to recover half amount paid by him, of this deft. The case, after it had occupied a few hours' time, was adjusted by the parties. Frink for pltf. Small for deft.

Daniel W. Ladd v. Winthrop H. Dudley,—action to recover possession of certain real estate in Brentwood, the title to which the pltf. claims by virtue of a levy of an execution against Dudley and T. S. Robinson. Defence that it is a homestead. Stickny for pltf. Small for deft.

Monday next has been assigned for the fifth trial of the flowage case—Bassett v. Salisbury Manufacturing Co.

POLICE COURT.—Francis Burnham, for drunkenness, was fined $2 and costs, $2.92, for non-payment of which he was committed.

Eliot Emery, same offence, was sentenced to pay an equal fine and costs.

John Woodman, for an assault, was fined $5, and costs, $4.09.

James Kehoe, for an assault, was fined $3 and costs, $4.86.

Two boys, accused of stealing copper from the pilot boat Sybil, were discharged for want of evidence to convict them.

☞ We are informed that a rowing regatta is to take place on Portsmouth river this (Friday) evening, about half past six o'clock. The two rival boats—one named "Joe Hooker," Stephen A. Dixon, coxswain, and the other wanting a name, but generally known as the "Sculpin," John Knight, coxswain,—are to meet at the beacon, and at a given signal, start for Portsmouth Bridge, the boat reaching it first to be considered "game." This race is prompted by a desire of the parties concerned to test the merits of their respective boats; therefore no money is at stake, although there may be some outside betting. The "Joe Hooker" was built in Portsmouth a few months since, is a fourteen oared boat, and a good model for speed. Her competitor was built at Eliot Neck a few weeks since, and is likewise a beautiful boat. As the matter stands, it is Portsmouth against Eliot in regard to boats, and Eliot against Eliot in relation to crews, the oarsmen of both boats being most of them residents of Eliot. Capt. Isaiah Hanscom and William D. Freeman, Esq., Master of the Yard, are the umpires, one at the Beacon, the other at the Bridge.

☞ Mr. Dennett, the old and popular Hackman, has purchased a new and very handsome carriage, for the accommodation of his customers and the public—who may thus, for a trifle, ride in a better coach than many a man keeps who is worth his millions. Mr. D. is one of the best and most careful drivers who ever drew reins over a team; and we would rather be his horse than most anybody's we know of. Such a driver deserves a good rig-out.

☞ We learn that Mr. Edward D. Coffin, one of the most skilful young painters, who has recently recovered from a severe illness—has sold out his painting establishment to Mr. Lewis A. Bruce, of Boston, well known here as a good workman and courteous gentlemen, who will be warmly welcomed back by hosts of friends. We understand that Mr. Coffin will remain at the old place of business with Mr. Bruce, for the present.

☞ That Double Pig with one head, four ears, eight legs and two tails, may be seen, day and evening, for a few days at Jefferson Hall. Admission 5 cents.

☞ A refectory keeper in Old Cambridge, Mass., who furnished the inspectors of election of that ward with victuals on election day, has presented his bill to the city government for "ten meals of vitals."

An honest man's the noblest work of God — but the edition is small, suggests the N. O. Pic.

☞ Prince Napoleon has visited Egypt, to meet there the Sultan of Turkey and the Viceroy, to favor the completion of the Suez canal.

☞ The Amendment to the Massachusetts Constitution, repealing the Two Years amendment, has a majority of 4,000, ten thousand yeas to six thousand nays. Essex was the only county that gave a majority against it—677 yeas to 1028 nays. The number of votes cast shows that the people cared nothing about it.

☞ Mrs. Phelan, of Ellenville, N. Y., a woman just married, was murdered on Thursday of last week, by William Willis, with whom she had broken former engagement of marriage. He met her at the door of her house and cut her throat.

☞ The present ordnance instructions of the navy are to be changed. Secretary Welles has appointed Com. Misroon, Com. Bradford, and Lieut.-Com. Jeffers to constitute a Board for their revision.

☞ See yon fair maiden in another column, picking Sambuci Grapes for Speer's Wine. It is an admirable article, used in hospitals, and by the first class families in Paris, London and New York, in preference to old Port wine. It is worth a trial, as it gives great satisfaction. 1y.

☞ ATTENTION, THE WHOLE! ☜

RYE, N.H., Feb. 26, 1846. "I hereby certify that my daughter has had the salt rheum for a number of years—some of the time so badly as to prevent her labor, or even rest—as it affected her hands very much. A large sum had been expended to the most celebrated physicians, for Sarsaparilla Syrup, &c., &c., but she obtained no relief until I procured some ten or twelve bottles of Dr. SWETT'S PANACEA, and several bottles of his Humor WASH, which have effected a cure. There can be no mistake, as this cure was effected more than three years ago. No other medicine can equal Dr. Swett's in removing the various kinds of humors. I have sold it to a number of my acquaintances, who were afflicted, and witnessed many full cures effected by it since I have acted as agent for the sale of it. JOSIAH JENNESS.

PORTSMOUTH, April 21st, 1862.

I have for several years been afflicted with distress at my stomach, loss of appetite, and often vomited up all of my food immediately after eating it, and all medicine failed to give any relief until about a year ago, when I took one bottle of DR. S. SWETT'S PANACEA, which fully cured me, so that I have not had the least trouble from any of those complaints since, and I enjoy good health. M. LOWD.

From ELDER I CHESLEY, Lee, May 31, 1841.

DR. SWETT: Permit me to testify, as I feel in duty bound to do, that my daughter was afflicted with scrofulous humor, and that previous to your visiting our house in the spring of 1840, she had been confined for a number of months, without her natural rest by day or night. She had applied to a number of physicians, but continued to grow weaker till she commenced using your PANACEA and HUMOR WASH. Since then, she has recovered her health so far as to rest quietly by night, and labor by day. I esteem your medicine one of the best that can be found for the disease above named." ISRAEL CHESLEY

☞ Any one returning the remainder of a bottle or box of Dr. Swett's medicines shall have pay for it, if it do not agree with his case, or if not worth the price. All orders directed to DR. S. SWETT, Portsmouth, N. H., promptly attended to. may26o

Read the following recommendation from the Cashier of the Lake Bank, Wolfboro', N. H.

WOLFBORO, N. H., Lake Winnipiseogee, Nov. 10, 1862.

Agents Lodi Manufacturing Co., Boston.

GENTS.:—I have used the Poudrette made by your Co. for two years. The first year I used four barrels, and experimented with it on both corn and potatoes. I was pleased and satisfied with the result, and the past season purchased over 100 barrels for my own use, and my neighbors. I think some twenty-five different farmers tried and used the Poudrette on my recommendation, and all have this Fall expressed themselves entirely satisfied to use such an increased quantity this next spring. Planting season comes later, and we have very early frosts, and the Poudrette ripens our corn from two to three weeks earlier. We have also found it a preventative of the wire worm, which oftentimes destroys our entire crops. Our mode of supplying the Poudrette is, to put about a handful in each hill, and place the seed in direct contact. I think I shall want double the quantity next Spring that I had this year.

Yours, Respectfully,
ABEL HALEY,
Cashier Lake Bank, Wolfboro, N. H

BORROWED TROUBLES. — "Borrowed troubles!" The last thing in the world, it would seem, we would think of borrowing; and yet more of this than anything else in the world is borrowed. Of which there is most, real or borrowed trouble, in the world, it would be difficult to tell. Of the least, it would seem that we could have enough without borrowing. We are to expect our daily trials, as our "daily bread." We have no need of to morrow's evils here to-day. They have been by Providence more wisely distributed as we are able to bear them. Do not insult a wise Providence by complaining of the troubles you have already, while you are but trying to borrow more.

"Which," asks Zimmermann, putting a very pertinent question to his correspondent, "is the real hereditary sin of humanity? Do you imagine that I shall say pride, or luxury, or ambition? No. I shall say indolence. He who conquers that can conquer all."

American and Foreign Patents.

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of U. S. Patent Office, Washington, (under the Act of 1837.)
75 State Street, opposite Kilby Street,
BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Reports, specifications, Deeds, Assignments, and all Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on liberal terms, and with despatch. Researches made to ascertain the validity of patents or inventions—and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar. Assignments reported at Washington.

The Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing Patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions submitted by them, not enjoyed by any other Agency in Boston, or elsewhere in New England. The Testimonials below given prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT PATENT OFFICE THAN the subscriber, and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundantly merited the confidence he can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional service so moderate.

The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents.

These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, give him facilities not possessed by any other Agency in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining patents.

All necessity of a journey to Washington, to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents.

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they can safely employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their applications in form to secure for them an early and favorable decision at the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.

Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN Applications, on all of which Patents have been granted, and that is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend those who intend to apply to him to procure their patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges."
JOHN TAGGART.

During eight months, the subscriber, in course of his large practice, made on twice rejected applications SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided in his favor, by the Commissioner of Patents.

SEMINAL WEAKNESS.

Dr. D. devotes a great part of his time to the treatment of those secret diseases, the result of solitary habit, which ruins the body and mind, unfitting the unfortunate individual for business or society. Some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, are Weakness of the Back and limbs, Dizziness of the head, Dimness of sight, Palpitation of the heart, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the digestive functions, Symptoms of Consumption, &c. The mental effects on the mind are much to be dreaded; loss of memory, confusion of ideas, depression of spirits, evil forebodings, aversion of society, self-distrust, timidity, &c., are among the evils produced. Such persons should, before contemplating matrimony, consult a physician of experience, and be at once restored to health and happiness.

Patients who wish to remain under Dr Dow's treatment a few days or weeks, will be furnished with pleasant rooms, and charges for board moderate.

Medicines sent to all parts of the country, with full directions for use, on receiving description of your case. Dr. Dow's celebrated Indian Female Capsules, warranted the best preventive. Order by mail. Three for $1 and a red stamp.

It is now totally certain is the new mode of treatment, that most obstinate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted person soon regains its former health.

Dr. Dow has no doubt had greater experience in the cure of diseases of women and children, than any other physician in Boston.

Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.

Dr. Dow, since 1847, having confined his whole attention to an office practice, for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

N. B.—All letters must contain four red stamps, or they will not be answered.

Office Hours from 8 to 9 A. M. 1 to 3 P. M. 6 to 9 P. M.

Among the physicians in Boston, none stands higher in the profession than the celebrated DR. DOW, No. 7 Blackstone street, Boston. Those who need the services of an experienced physician and surgeon should give him a call.

P. S.—Dr. Dow imports and has for sale a new article, called the FRENCH SECRET. Order by mail. Two for $1 and a red stamp.

THE MAGEE COOKING STOVE.

The subscribers, having received their Fall stock of Stoves, would especially call the attention of the public to the

CELEBRATED AND UNEQUALLED

MAGEE COOK STOVE,

as the very best Stove yet made, and would invite those about purchasing or exchanging Stoves, to examine this, believing it to be far superior to any other Stove yet invented, the castings being heavier, and the over larger than usual. The oven plates are covered with plates, which renders it equal to the old-fashioned brick oven for perfection in baking.

There is a new style and very superior broiler and steel iron heater combined, by which the odor of broiling meats are prevented from coming into the room. With the extension top there is a large copper Reservoir for hot water; also a large tin warming oven attached, in which many articles can be kept warm, while the other parts of the stove are occupied for other purposes.

The arrangements for sifting the coal and cleaning the grate are far superior to those of any other Stove now in use, as no dust can possibly escape into the room, and the shoveling up of the ashes is entirely dispensed with. The fire is regulated in the same manner as in the MAGEE PARLOR STOVE, and can be continued day and night for weeks together, thus saving the expense of re-kindling every day.

For economy, durability, ease of management, cleanliness and perfection in cooking, it cannot be surpassed by any other Stove, as hundreds of families in this city and vicinity, who are now using them, are willing to testify, and speak of them in the highest terms of praise

"MAGEE'S PATENT"

VENTILATING & AIR WARMING

FURNACES.

The subscribers, being the Sole Agents in this vicinity for the manufacture and sale of this valuable furnace, would ask those about remodelling or erecting buildings to examine this truly valuable article.

For economy, purity of air and ease of management it has no equal, producing a current of warm air, moist and agreeable;—and as none of the air which comes in contact with the fire-pot is used for respiration, the tendency to produce headache so much complained of in other furnaces, is entirely obviated.

The objects aimed at by the constructors of heating apparatus have been to obtain the great est amount of heat from a given amount of fuel, and to prevent the escape of heat to the smoke pipe or chimney.

To accomplish this many complicated and expensive heating arrangements have been constructed, some possessing but little improvement over former methods, while many have proved a total failure. The resistance to the passage of combustible gases being lighter than the air, pass off into the pipe or chimney without being consumed. This objection, so common in other Furnaces, is obviated in the

MAGEE FURNACE.

The flue or pipe in this Furnace being below the fire-pot, the gases, from their specific gravity, cannot descend, and are burned up by the admission of cold air through the fire-pot, which ignites them as they pass off from the coal, thus saving at least 50 per cent. of the properties of the heat in the fuel.

No heating apparatus with the smoke-pipe or flue on the top of the cone can be made to consume the smoke or gases, as they pass off with a large amount of the heat generated, making the chimney the hottest part of your dwelling.

This Furnace does away with the great number of pipes and angles for the radiation of heat, which are liable to fill up and get out of order, thus simplifying, while it increases the surface of radiation.

These Furnaces consume all the coal, make no clinkers, the sifting of coal is entirely dispensed with, and they will save from 30 to 50 per cent. of fuel over common Furnaces.

For ease of management, economy and purity of air, these Furnaces have no equal. They can be regulated so as to give any amount of heat required, and the fire may be kept the entire season without once going out.

They give entire satisfaction wherever used. We have in store the different sizes, Brick and Portable, to which we invite the attention of those in want of the best Furnace in the world,—and would refer them to the following named gentlemen, who have them now in use:

Samuel Cleaves, Esq.,	Albert R. Hatch, Esq.,
Aaron H. Hill,	Charles H. Mendum,
Henry F. Wendell,	John Sise, and others.

Teeth on Vulcanized Rubber.

SOME OF ITS ADVANTAGES.

1st. It is stronger and lighter than any known material.

2d. From two to six times the amount of adhesion or adhesion can be obtained by

3d. When the gum is irregular we can by building out the depressions—which can be done to any extent—give the mouth a more natural appearance.

4th. No bad taste arises in the mouth by its use, as the secretions of the stomach and mouth do not affect it in the least.

5th. Teeth mounted upon this base can be kept clean and sweet as easy as a saucer, as when finished the work is perfectly smooth.

6th. While in all ways it is better, save in a few peculiar cases, it is much cheaper than Gold.

DR. A. P. STEVENS, Surgeon Dentist,

No. 5 Daniel St., Portsmouth,

Has had four years of practical experience in making this material, and will guarantee satisfaction in all cases entrusted to his care.

DENTISTRY.

No. 60 CONGRESS STREET,
Portsmouth, Jan. 1st, 1863.

DR. GOODALL

Would respectfully inform his patrons and the public, (having had of late many calls to insert teeth on Gold and Silver Plates,) that he has purchased the best VULCANIZER in the market, and is now prepared to do all work upon RUBBER, or the other bases of GOLD and SILVER to the satisfaction of patrons.

The Rubber has several important advantages, viz.: It is very light and elastic, and consequently it is perfectly easy to the muscles of the mouth and cheeks. It is free from the seams or open joints to collect food, &c.; consequently they can be worn night and day, and are very easily kept natural and clean.

Beside all this, the most accurate fit is obtained, as the Rubber is Vulcanized directly upon the plaster model, and the suction is of course much stronger than in plates of Gold or Silver.

Any one who is waiting for their permanent teeth will, I am confident, be perfectly satisfied with the Rubber, as a base. The expense is but a little more than for Silver, and you get the same teeth (in blocks) that you would pay $60.00 for on upper or lower set on Gold.

In New York and Boston, and throughout the West, Vulcanized Rubber is used almost to the exclusion of the other bases, and by the best Dentists too. I will warrant a perfect fit and teeth from the best manufacturer in the country S. S. White.

ALL OTHER OPERATIONS IN DENTISTRY I will do at the usual rates. I will here mention that my price for EXTRACTING is 25 cents.

I take pleasure in recommending the public to Dr. TREADWELL, Dr. BOARDMAN, Dr OLIVER and Dr. BENNETT, for particular success in extracting teeth. Teeth extracted without pain and with perfect safety, with Ether. Teeth polished to their natural whiteness without pain or injury to the Enamel. Rooms for Adults' and Children's Teeth will receive particular attention.—All whole and partial Sets of Teeth repaired with Neatness and Dispatch. All other operations in Dentistry, I will do at the usual rates.

☞ Please call and examine specimens of Artificial Teeth upon Vulcanized Rubber, Gold and Silver.

VOL. 22. PORTSMOUTH, N. H. SATURDAY APRIL 25, 1863. NO 59

The Chronicle.

"Bound to no party—to no sect confined;
The world our home; our brethren, all mankind.
Love truth, do good, be just and fair with all;
Exalt the right, though every law fall."

"Let me warn you in the most solemn manner against the baneful effects of the spirit of Party, generally. It is a spirit not to be encouraged.—Its common and continual mischief is sufficient to make it the interest and duty of a wise people to discourage and restrain it. In governments of the popular form, it is seen in its greatest rankness, and is truly their worst enemy."—Washington's Farewell Address.

THE GOVERNMENT OF JEFF. DAVIS. We command the following extract from the London Daily News to the especial consideration of those of our friends who sympathize with the government attempting to be established by Jeff. Davis and his compeers:

"The government established at Richmond is not only a novelty, but a pretentious anomaly and anachronism in the history of civilized States. Despotic and oppressive as many forms of rule are in the old world, happily there is nothing in the political system of Europe wholly comparable to the deliberate and resolute malignity of this new power, which is seeking to establish itself on the other side of the Atlantic. So far from professing or attempting to seek the good of the governed, this Power is formed for the express purpose of condemning a large proportion of the population beneath its rule, to be the absolute prey, the helpless victims, the instruments and property of a tyrannical majority.—Considerably more than a third of the whole population of the Confederate States is, by the very constitution of this new power, formally adjudged to a condition of permanent and hopeless bondage. The new government is not only ostentatiously founded on slavery, but it seeks to become established for the avowed purpose of perpetuating and extending this abomination. It is the first time in the history of the world that men have deliberately set themselves to form a state on this basis and for this object. It is in fact neither more nor less than a dark and daring compact formed to protect artificially, and propagate by a powerful organization, a system embodying the worst forms of social evil and individual wrong. Such a Confederation is of necessity fatal to all freedom and enlightened advancement.—Without a single element of genuine hope or a solitary germ of rational progress, it is condemned by its own act to a condition of intellectual degradation, social corruption, and moral death. In a word, it is, as it has justly been described, a gigantic conspiracy against civilization, humanity and religion; and the very attempt to establish such a Power at this time of day is an insolent outrage against reason and conscience of mankind.

SATURDAY, APRIL 25, 1863.

THE REBELLION.

It is stated that five transports have succeeded in running the blockade up the Yazoo, and, it is said, are now above Haines' Bluff. The rebels occupy the south, and the federals the north side of the Coldwater.

Gen. Reynolds is reported to have made a highly successful expedition, having taken McMinnville, Tenn., capturing two railroad trains, and a train of wagons. Among a number of prisoners taken was Mrs. John Morgan. The federal army was on the march beyond Franklin, Tenn., April 15th.

The rebels anticipate an immediate attack on Vicksburg from opposite and below the city. They also expect Gen. Grant to make demonstrations south of Corinth at the same time. Rebel dispatches also confirm the report of the destruction of the ram Queen of the West, and the Diana, which was burnt; also the evacuation of Centreville, La. 106 privates and seven commissioned officers were captured from the Queen of the West, among them Capt. Turner, the commander of the rebel fleet.

The rebels have again invaded Missouri, and have occupied Frederick, 22 miles east of Pilot Knob. Gen. McNeil's command arrived at Cape Girardeau on Thursday, and that place is now safe from attack: Pilot Knob is also regarded as secure, and it is thought the rebels will be speedily driven out of the State.

Much interest is felt in Richmond in regard to matters at Suffolk. The papers admit that a battery has been captured. The tone of the editorials is desponding.

The N. Y. World's dispatch says it is thought that the main body of the rebel army lies just this side of the North Anna river, some 10 or 12 miles from Fredericksburg, and that not more than 10 or 15,000 men are in the immediate vicinity of the latter place.

The Charleston Courier of the 18th says some rebels, while endeavoring to dismantle the wreck of the Keokuk, were driven away by the fire of our gunboats. The Mercury of the 15th says her guns had all been recovered by the rebels.

The Wilmington, N. C., Journal, of the 18th inst., admits with mortification that Gen. Hill has abandoned the siege of Washington, and that the expedition turned out a failure.

Gen. Naglee left Newbern, N. C., April 18, at the head of an expedition in pursuit of the rebels.

A Washington correspondent says Asst. Sec. Fox is in New York arranging for a second attack upon Charleston.

THE EAGLE.—The Bald Eagle was chosen as the emblem of the United States, because of its untamable courage, and because it is an inhabitant equally of torrid, frigid, and temperate climes and zones; and for its capability of collecting its food on the sea and on the land. For these and other reasons, it came gradually to be considered, (contrary, however, to the expressed wish of Dr. Franklin) the animal most emblematic of the North-American Republic. The Romans used the eagle on the banners of their legions. The French, under the Empire, adopted it from the Romans. The double eagle of Austria is the union of the eagles of the Eastern and Western Empire—and the Emperors of Austria consider themselves the head of the Holy Roman Empire. Russia has her black eagle, and Poland her white eagle. Prussia also has her eagle. England chose a beast (the lion) instead of a bird, for her emblem; but America, her daughter, went back to the imperial and triumphant eagle.

☞ It is reported that the British Government has resolved to take further and more efficient steps for preventing the fitting out of privateers, and that orders have been given to detain every vessel when the circumstances are so suspicious as to require the advice of the Law Officers of the Crown. Some of the English papers further report that the great establishment of Laird & Brothers at Birkenhead, the builders of both the Alabama and the Florida, is to be put under a kind of surveillance. There is reason, therefore, to hope that the aid hitherto furnished to the rebel cause, from England, is at an end so far as a navy is concerned. Every success of our arms upon the field of war, and the progress, no less, which we are making in the art of ship building, is likely to promote and to confirm the conversion of our British friends.

☞ The pirate Florida has captured two more vessels—the barques M. J. Colcord and Lapwing, of Boston. A Danish brig, which landed their crews at St. Croix, reports that the Lapwing, from Boston, was captured Mar. 27, in lat. 31, lon. 32. The pirate placed 2 guns and 18 men on board, and appointed a place of rendezvous in case they should be separated. The M. J. Colcord was captured on the 30th, lat. 28, lon. 33;—did not know if she was burnt.

—— The Nashua Gazette has the following concerning the clerkship of that city: Mr. Kimball has petitioned the Supreme Court that a writ of mandamus be issued requiring Mr. Marshall to deliver to him the city keys and records and refrain from exercising the duties of city clerk. The petition is returnable to the next, law term of the court, which will be held at Manchester on the first Tuesday in June. So who is to be city clerk will soon be settled by the proper legal tribunal.

—— Concerts will be given in Dover and Lancaster on Fast Day evening by the Cornet Bands of those places respectively.

NEW YORK SOLDIERS TO VOTE.—Judge Low's bill enabling all soldiers who are legal voters in the State of New York, but absent in the military or naval service of their country, to vote by proxy at each State election hereafter, passed the Assembly April 22, by a constitutional vote—Yeas 65; Nays 59: Absent or silent, 4.—Every Republican Unionist and Speaker Callicot voted for it; while the others voted No or (what amounted to the same thing) failed to vote at all. As the bill had already passed the Senate by a heavy majority, it only requires the Governor's signature to make it a law.

☞ A Chicago dispatch says a terrific tornado occurred in the vicinity of Grundy county, on Saturday. Houses were torn from their foundations and dashed in pieces, trees were torn to fragments, horses and cattle scattered through the fields, and household furniture carried a distance of half a mile. Near Mayon, forty acres of timber were blown down. But one person, a resident of Mayon, was killed. Several were injured, but none, as far as heard from, seriously.

☞ The New-York Methodist Epicopal Conference met on Wednesday. Among the applicants to be admitted into the ministry was Mr. Philip Germond, of Connecticut, who had served the usual two years of probation as a preacher. All the other agreeable favorite features of this Lady's Magazine are retained.

☞ Thomas Sims, who was returned from Boston to his master in Savannah, Ga., under the Fugitive Slave Law, in 1851, arrived in that city, Thursday night, having escaped from the vicinity of Vicksburg, three weeks ago, in a "dugout" boat, with his wife and child. He intends to remain in Boston. It is stated that none of the persons remanded to slavery from Boston are now held in servitude.

☞ The N. Y. Times has a letter which says that within 24 hours after Gen. Thomas' speech at Helena, Ark., declaring the purpose of the Government to adhere to the emancipation proclamation, 1500 negroes in that vicinity were recruited. The greatest enthusiasm prevailed among the white soldiers at this remarkable display of military spirit among the negroes.

☞ The Augusta Journal states that the Mixing powder mill at Bockfield, Me., of J. C. Marble, Esq., was blown up at about half past ten o'clock, Friday night, April 17. The mill was a new one, having run only about ten days. No cause can be assigned for the disaster. The loss is about $1000, which falls peculiarly hard upon Mr. Marble this being the fifth mill at that place that has blown up within ten months.

NOTES OF FORMER DAYS.

Collected and Collated — By UNCLE TOBY.

Close of Cranfield's career in New Hampshire, 1684.—5.—Cranfield's imprisonment of six days took place in 1684. As we have given a full account of the matter elsewhere, we do not repeat it here.

Cranfield, having found that he could not supply himself with money through the intervention of an assembly, undertook to raise it on his own authority by virtue of a clause in his commission empowering him with the Council in cases of emergency "to continue such taxes as had been formerly levied until a general assembly could be called."

To prepare the minds of the Council to assist him in this business, reports were industriously circulated that the eastern Indians were preparing for war, which would probably break out in the Spring. A great show of preparation was made; every precaution was taken; supplies of ammunition and other warlike stores were ordered; the alarm was spread, and every method adopted to convince the Council of the Governor's anxiety to p[illegible]

The Council met on the [illegible] of [illegible]ry, 1684. Having stated the [illegible] which the province was exposed, and the necessity of being prepared to meet them, they passed an order for continuing "all such taxes and impositions as have been formerly laid upon the inhabitants, commanding and requiring all and singular the constables and collectors forthwith to perform their duty in levying and collecting the same, and paying it into the treasury."

Before this money could be collected, the Governor received a letter from the Lords of Trade directing him not to raise money from the people, unless by grant of an assembly. This greatly embarrassed him; it would expose him to censure, if he proceeded contrary to his instructions, and he had but little hopes of succeeding if he followed them. He issued writs for the choice of Representatives, and the Assembly met on the 27th day of May. Finding it composed principally of persons who were members of the former Assembly, and with whom he had had some personal altercations, he thought it improbable that they would comply with his request and vote to raise the money wanted. He immediately dissolved them.

Not long after this, the Governor was obliged to call another Assembly. The West Indies and Southern coasts of America were greatly infested with pirates. The King had issued orders to the several Governors and Colonial Assemblies, directing them to pass laws and adopt other necessary measures for the suppression of piracy and robbery on the high seas. In pursuance of these orders, Cranfield issued his warrants for calling an assembly, which met on the 22d of July; and having passed the acts required in the orders of the King, the Governor dissolved them without their acting upon any other business. Various attempts were made to collect the taxes, according to the order of the Governor and Council, but without success.

The complaints which had been exhibited against Cranfield, were referred to a committee of the Lords of Trade and Plantations, who heard the parties and made their report to the King in Council, on the 27th day of March, 1685, "That Cranfield had not pursued his instructions with respect to Mason's claims in the province, but that he had caused courts to be held, and permitted titles of land to be decided, and unreasonable costs to be allowed, without first representing the particular cases to your Majesty. That his determining the price and value of coins was an assumption of power, and an encroachment upon the royal prerogative." Which report was approved by the King on the 8th day of April, and signified to Cranfield by the Lords of Trade by command of the King. Vaughan had likewise the right of appeal allowed him in all his actions, provided he claimed the same within a fortnight, which he accordingly did.

During these proceedings in England, Cranfield, through his agent, obtained leave of absence from the province, and as soon as he received information of the decree against him, he embarked privately for Jamaica, whence he took passage for England, and never again returned to New Hampshire.

Cranfield had accepted the government with an expectation of accumulating a large estate; and he used very unjustifiable means to effect his purpose. But he was greatly disappointed. His temper, naturally irritable, was easily excited by opposition; the arbitrary manner in which he exercised his authority, had a tendency to render him unpopular, and he was continually engaged in altercations with the people. He indulged his vindictive disposition in seeking revenge whenever an opportunity offered. On arriving in England, he was appointed Collector of Barbadoes, and in the execution of that office, he was particularly attentive and civil to every person he met there belonging to this place.

After Cranfield left, the government the administration devolved on Barefoote, who was deputy Governor or President of the Council.

☞ A mob, said to be comprised of Union soldiers, have destroyed the office of the Sacramento, Cal., Republican, a democratic newspaper.

☞ Burt's reaper factory, with all its contents, was burnt at Dunleith, Canada, on Thursday morning. Loss $40,000; uninsured.

☞ A large Anglo-Confederate steamer is reported to have run out of Charleston on the night of 13th.

Special Notices.

One of Hunnewell's Preparations.

HUNNEWELL'S ECLECTIC PILLS—The true Type of Cathartic.—By the application of true Pharmaceutical Laws, both Character and Economy are combined in this valuable Pill. To prevent putting such quantities of indigestible drugs into the stomach, the griping pains so erroneously judged to be the evidence of thorough action, and to require from 4 to 6 Pills, to get a decent cathartic, was the study in this development. The dose seldom exceeding One, and never more than Two Pills, settles the question of economy, and character can be best known by confidence to test them in DYSPEPSIA, COSTIVENESS, BILIOUSNESS, LIVER COMPLAINT, all derangements of the stomach and Bowels, and as a Family Pill.

Local.

IN BOARD OF ALDERMEN, on Thursday evening, the subject of the culvert at the Creek was referred to a committee with instructions to require the C. & P. Railroad to furnish free course for the water above the road at the Creek.

Mr. Israel Marden presented a claim for $500 damages for injuries sustained by being thrown from a carriage on Haymarket Square on the 10th of November last.

The committee on military affairs reported, in relation to the Portsmouth members of the 2d N. H. regiment for a bounty of $100 each, that they had obtained the opinion of the City Solicitor, which was to the effect that these volunteers having enlisted before bounties were given, a bounty paid to them now would be equivalent to a gratuity; and that there did not appear to be any law authorizing the city to tax the individual citizens for the purpose of bestowing a gratuity, however worthy the recipients might be.

☞ The boat race advertised in Friday morning's issue, came off as announced, notwithstanding the rain, the "Joe Hooker" coming in several boats' lengths ahead of her competitor. There was but little excitement, the storm dampening the ardor and thinning the crowd of spectators.—It was a very pretty regatta, the oarsmen of both boats pulling splendid strokes, and each doing their best to win. Large sums of money were staked by outsiders, but none by the parties immediately concerned. The "Joe Hooker" is a double-banked boat, carrying 14 oars: of her crew the coxswain and three others reside in Eliot; the remainer reside in this city. The other boat, six oared, had a crew from Eliot.

☞ The Portsmouth Cornet Band are to give a Concert at the Temple, on Fast Night, next Thursday evening. Their notes were always above par, and there is no better or surer investment than their stock of tickets at a quarter apiece.

☞ It will be seen by the advertisement that Madame Young, M. D., will deliver a free lecture to ladies at the Temple on Monday afternoon next. Madame Young has practiced as Indian Doctress for many years, and has previously visited Portsmouth. She is highly recommended. She has given useful lectures throughout the United States, and also in Canada, the place of her residence.

AN ANGEL IN THE HOUSE.

How sweet it were, if without feeble fright,
Or dying of the dreadful, beauteous sight,
An Angel came to us, and we could hear
To see him issue from the silent air,
At evening in our room, and bend on ours
His divine eyes, and bring us from his bowers
News of dear friends, and children who have never Been dead indeed, as we shall know forever.
Alas! we think not that we daily see,
About our hearths, angels that are to be,
Or may be if they will, and we prepare
Their souls and ours to meet in happy air—
A child, a friend, a wife, whose soft heart sings
In unison with ours, breeding its future wings.

☞ It was reported in Ireland that the able bodied young men of the island were leaving for the United States, to the number of 1500 a week, and that the emigration was likely to continue. English writers and officials acknowledge, in their anger, that these men go under the hope of ultimately liberating Ireland from England, with the aid of Americans.

☞ Among a number of deserters, who, the other day came over to the Army of the Potomac, was a young man whose ignorance of affairs on the other side aroused suspicion, and it was finally discovered that he was a deserter from our own army, who had escaped to the enemy, thinking that he could then enter our lines as a rebel deserter, be paroled and sent home. He is now in irons.

☞ That Double Pig with one head, four ears, eight legs and two tails, may be seen, day and evening, for a few days at Jefferson Hall. Admission 5 cents.

☞ See yon fair maiden in another column, picking Sambucii Grapes for Speer's Wine. It is an admirable article, used in hospitals, and by the first class families in Paris, London and New York, in preference to old Port wine. It is worth a trial, as it gives great satisfaction. 1y.

S. J. COURT—EXETER.

In the case, Swampscot Machine Co. vs. John W. Elliot, the jury returned a verdict in favor of the plf. for $1099.29.

In the case Ladd vs. Dudley a formal verdict in favor of the plf. was ordered.

John H. Waldron, for an assault on Henry Hopkins in Portsmouth, was sentenced to imprisonment in the common jail for 60 days, and to pay costs of prosecution.

George Seawards, for an assault on Peter Smith, also in Portsmouth, was sentenced to imprisonment in the common jail for 40 days, and to pay costs of prosecution.

Nathaniel Stevens and Moses G. Stevens vs. Stephen Fessenden,—action on new docket, to foreclose a mortgage of land in Windham,—was next tried. Defence, general issue. Verdict for plf.

The Court having disposed of the business of the docket, except the case Bassett vs. Salisbury Manufacturing Company, adjourned, on Friday afternoon, till Monday.

☞ Don't talk to us of war, or politics, or wrangling or discussion of any sort. We have been "Maying." And to our astonishment and delight, we found the roads "as nice as could be," the air balmy as in June, the woods charmingly fragrant as ever, and the trailing arbutus lovely as only it can be. Amid the tempests and cold of winter around us, and the sadder tempests of human passions almost among us,—we had about forgotten in this war of the elements and conflict of men and opinions, how lovely Nature was, at her loveliest. But a drive or two, to "the wild old woods," and along old ocean's shores,—listening to the breeze soughing through the trees, or the lulling chant of the deep blue sea,—has awakened us once more, and as we gazed and admired, or listened and enjoyed, we could but

"Oh for a lodge in some vast wilderness,
Some boundless contiguity of shade,
Where rumor of oppression and deceit,
Of unsuccessful and successful war,
Might never reach me more."

☞ "Painting the Lily" has sometimes been classed among the extraneous works of art, like gilding refined gold, or perfuming the rose. But just look in at Mr. Shores' bookstore window, as you're passing; and there, among other pretty things, you will see a beautiful full-blown calla, done by Mrs. Lamprey. It is pronounced by the judges here and in Boston, to be a very fine piece of water-coloring; and if it don't beat all creation, it seems as if it would take nature herself to eclipse it.

And speaking of beautiful flowers, reminds us that we have, on one or two occasions, chanced to be favored with a look at the exquisite Wax Flowers made by Miss C. A. Cheever; and though formed merely as a pastime, and seen only at a private residence, yet we cannot but express our admiration for them, and the wish that all who would also enjoy and admire them, could see them. We never saw anything of the sort so true to nature, in form and tint, and general naturalness of appearance. In all save odor, they will almost defy the closest scrutiny, till you touch them; and to make up for this lack, the fair artist can make a bouquet much faster than your most "crowding" hot-house, and in almost as great variety as old Sol himself.

☞ Madame Anna Bishop's Concert at the Temple, Thursday evening, doubly disappointed us,—for the instrumental portion was excellent, much better than we expected; the flute-playing was good, the cornet execution brilliant and satisfactory, and the violin playing delightful—either of the two last being worth a ticket. But the lady's performances were not up to what the laudations of the Boston press and Mr. Gilmore had led us to expect. She is in more than one sense a "finished" solo performer, and though admirable in execution, her voice is not so pleasing as many others of less note. The audience was large, but the entertainment would have been more generally satisfactory if it had begun earlier and not been quite so long. "Too much of a good thing" even is not relished.

THE OPERA.—Our citizens are to be regaled next Wednesday evening with the performance of an Opera Troupe new to this locality—but who have won an enviable fame in other parts of the country, if half that our exchanges tell us on the subject be true, and not the exaggerated encomiums of a transient enthusiasm, the Holman Opera Troupe will not only win but retain extraordinary popularity in Portsmouth. The opera selected for the occasion is the undying favorite of the "Daughter of the Regiment"—with the popular comic operetta of "Mrs. Partington." It is seldom we have a first class opera, and we trust our citizens will extend to them the liberal patronage that has been vouchsafed them elsewhere.

☞ The Boston correspondent of the Ballot says:—

"Business is quite dull. Stocks are declining quite as rapidly as they advanced. Arctic Hand Organs quoted at 94, dividend off. Large sales reported."

☞ See Mr. Wendell's Auction advertisement this morning.

Also, a notice of Boarding place wanted.

J. F. SHORES, JR., No. 1 Congress Block, has now on hand a large supply of this valuable manure. The price this year will be $1.75 per Barrel, without regard to quantity, delivered at any wharf or depot in this city. ☞ A discount from this price to those who buy to sell again.

Read the following recommendation from the Cashier of the Lake Bank, Wolfboro', N. H.

WOLFBORO, N. H., Lake Winnipiseogee,
Nov. 10, 1862.

Agents Lodi Manufacturing Co., Boston.

GENTS.:—I have used the Poudrette made by your Co. for two years. The first year I used four barrels, and experimented with it on both corn and potatoes. I was pleased and satisfied with the result, and the past season purchased over 100 barrels for my own use, and my neighbors. I think some twenty-five different farmers tried and used the Poudrette on my recommendation, and all have this Fall expressed themselves entirely satisfied to use each an increased quantity this next Spring. Planting season comes late, and we have very early frosts, and the Poudrette ripens our corn from two to three weeks earlier. We have also found it a preventative of the wire worm, which oftentimes destroys our entire crope. Our mode of applying the Poudrette is, to put about a handful in each hill, and place the seed in direct contact. I think I shall want double the quantity next Spring that I had this year.

Yours, Respectfully,
ABEL HALEY,
Cashier Lake Bank, Wolfboro, N. H

PLEASANT BAGGAGE TO TRAVEL WITH The Providence Post of the 22d is responsible for the following:—

"As the mid-day Worcester train was about leaving the depot, yesterday, a man of the Johnsonian type of manners entered one of the cars, and gruffly requested two young ladies occupying separate seats should sit together, that he and his friend might enjoy a tete-a-tete on the other seat. But, said one of the damsels, blushing, 'this seat is engaged.' 'Engaged, is it?' brusquely replied the man, 'who engaged it?' 'A young man,' said the conscious maiden.—'A young man, eh! where's his baggage?' persisted Uriah Major. 'I'm his baggage, Old Hateful,' replied the demure damsel, pursing up her rosy lips into the prettiest pout. Old Hateful subsided; the young man came in and extended an arm protectingly, almost caressingly around his baggage, and Mr. Conductor Capron started the train."

American and Foreign Patents.

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of U. S. Patent Office, Washington, (see Act the Act of 1837.)
75 State Street, opposite Kilby Street, BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on the shortest terms, and with dispatch. Researches made into American or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of patents or inventions—and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.

The Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing Patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions more extended, by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The Testimonials below given prove that none be more SUCCESSFUL. AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber, and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe he can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional service so moderate.

The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents.

These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him, he will venture to say, to offer superior facilities for obtaining Patents.

All necessity of a journey to Washington, to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and conscientious practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents.

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their applications in form to secure them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.

Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications, on all but one of which patents have been granted, and that is now pending. Such unmistakeable proof of great talent and ability on his part seems me to recommend all who have to apply to him to procure their patents, as they may be saved having the most initial attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges."
JOHN TAGGART.

During eight months, the subscriber, in course of his large practice, made on twice rejected applications SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided in his favor, by the Commissioner of Patents.

IMPORTANT TO THE AFFLICTED.

DR. DOW continues to be consulted at his office, Nos 7 and 9 ENDICOTT STREET, Boston, on all diseases of a

PRIVATE OR DELICATE NATURE.

By a long course of study and extensive experience of unlimited extent, Dr. D. has now the gratification of presenting the unfortunate with remedies that have never failed to cure, introduced them, failed to cure the most alarming cases of

GONORRHŒA AND SYPHILIS.

Beneath his treatment, all the horrors of venereal and impure blood, Strictures, Secretion, Gonorrhœa, Lovers pain and distress in the region of procreation, Inflammation of the bladder and Kidneys, Hydrocele, Gravel, Rheumatism, Syphilitic Swellings and the long train of horrible symptoms attending this class of disease, are made to become as harmless as the simplest ailings of a child.

SEMINAL WEAKNESS.

Dr. D. devotes a great part of his time to the treatment of those cases caused by a secret and solitary habit, which ruins the body and mind, unfitting the unfortunate individual for business or society. Some of the evils produced by early habits of youth, are Weakness of the Back and limbs, Dizziness of the head, Indigestion, Palpitation of the heart, Dyspepsia, Nervousness, Derangement of the digestive functions, Symptoms of Consumption, &c. The mental effects on the mind are such to be dreaded; loss of memory, confusion of ideas, depression of spirits, evil forebodings, aversion of society, self-doubt, timidity, &c., are among the evils produced. Such persons should, before contemplating matrimony, consult a physician of experience, and be at once restored to health and happiness.

Patients who wish to remain under Dr. Dow's treatment a few days or weeks, will be furnished with pleasant rooms, and charges for board moderate.

Medicines sent to all parts of the country, with full directions for use, on receiving description of your cases. Dr. Dow has also for sale a French Capotine, warranted the best preventive. Order by mail. Price $1 and a red stamp.

Highly Important!

To Females who Desire Health.

DR. DOW, Physician and Surgeon, No 7 & 9 ENDICOTT STREET, Boston, is consulted daily for all diseases incident to the female system. Prolapsus Uteri, or falling of the Womb, Fluor Albus, Suppression, and other menstrual derangements, are all treated upon new and improved principles, and speedy relief guaranteed in a few days, the most reliably certain in the new mode of treatment, that most obstinate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted person soon rejoices in perfect health.

Dr. Dow has no doubt had greater experience in the cure of diseases of women and children, than any other physician in Boston.

Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.

Dr. Dow, since 1845, having confined his whole attention to an office practice, for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

N. B.—All letters must contain four red stamps, or they will not be answered.

Office Hours from 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.

CERTAIN CURE

in all cases, or No Charge Made.

Dr. Dow is consulted daily, from 8 A. M. to 9 P. M. as above, upon all difficult and chronic diseases of every name and nature, having by his unwearied attention and extraordinary success, gained a reputation which calls patients from all parts of the country to obtain advice.

Among the physicians in Boston, none stands higher in the profession than the celebrated DR. DOW, No. 7 Endicott street, Boston. None whom need the services of an experienced physician and surgeon should give him a call.

P. S.—Dr. Dow imports and has for sale a new article, called the FRENCH SECRET. Order by mail. Two for $1 and a red stamp.

THE MAGEE
COOKING STOVE.

The subscribers, having received their Fall stock of Stoves, would especially call the attention of the public to the

CELEBRATED AND UNEQUALLED
MAGEE COOK STOVE,

as the very best Stove yet made, and would invite those about purchasing or exchanging Stoves, to examine this, believing it to be far superior to any other Stove yet invented, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual. The oven plates are covered with plaster, which renders it equal to the old-fashioned brick oven for perfection in baking.

There is a new style and very superior broiler and sad-iron heater combined, by which the odor of broiling meats are prevented from escaping into the room. With the common top there is a large copper Reservoir for hot water; also a large tin warming-closet attached, in which any article can be kept warm, while the other parts of the Stove are occupied for other purposes.

The arrangements for sifting the coal and cleaning the grate are far superior to those of any other Stove now in use, as no dust can possibly escape into the room, and the unloveling up of the ashes is entirely dispensed with. The fire is regulated in the same manner as in the MAGEE PARLOR STOVE, and can be continued day and night for weeks together, thus saving the expense of re-kindling every day.

For economy, durability, ease of management, cleanliness and perfection in cooking, it cannot be surpassed by any other Stove, as hundreds of families in this city and vicinity, who are now using them, are willing to testify, and speak of them in the highest terms of praise.

We would refer to the following purchasers:

"MAGEE'S PATENT"
VENTILATING & AIR WARMING
FURNACES.

The subscribers, being the Sole Agents in this vicinity for the manufacture and sale of this valuable Furnace, would ask those about remodelling or erecting Dwellings to examine this truly valuable invention.

For economy, purity of air and ease of management it has no equal, producing a current of warm air, moist and agreeable;—and is the only of the air which comes in contact with the fire-pot is used for respiration, the tendency to produce headache so much complained of in other Furnaces, is entirely obviated.

The objects aimed at by the constructors of heating apparatus have been to obtain the greatest amount of heat from a given amount of fuel, and to prevent the escape of heat to the smoke pipe or chimney.

To accomplish this many complicated and expensive heating arrangements have been constructed, some possessing but little improvement over former methods, while many have proved a total failure. The reason for this is obvious. The combustible gases being lighter than the air, pass off into the smoke pipe or chimney without being consumed. This objection, so common in other Furnaces, is obviated in the

MAGEE FURNACE.

The flue or pipe in this Furnace being below the fire-pot, the gases, from their specific gravity, cannot descend, and are burned up by the admission of cold air through the chamber, which renders them as they pass off from the coal, thus saving at least 20 per cent. of the properties of the heat in the fuel.

No heating apparatus with the smoke-pipe of flue on the top of the cone can be made to consume the gases of the coal, as they pass off and a large amount of the heat generated in burning the bottest part of your dwelling.

This Furnace does away with the great number of pipes and angles for the radiation of heat, which are so liable to fill up and get out of order, thus simplifying, while it increases the surface of radiation.

These Furnaces consume all the coal, make no clinkers, the sifting of coal is entirely dispensed with, and they will save from 20 to 30 per cent. of fuel over common Furnaces.

For ease of management, economy and purity of air, these Furnaces have no equal. They can be regulated so as to give any amount of heat required, and the fire may be kept the entire season without once going out.

They give entire satisfaction wherever used. We have in store the different sizes, Brick and Portable, to which we invite the attention of those in want of the best Furnace in the world,—and would refer them to the following named gentlemen, who have them now in use:

Samuel Cleaves, Esq.,	Albert R. Hatch, Esq.,
Aaron H. Hill,	Charles H. Mendum,
Henry J. Wendell,	John Sise, and others.

VOL. 22. PORTSMOUTH, N. H. MONDAY APRIL 27, 1863. NO. 60.

The Chronicle.

"Bound to no party—to no sect confined;
The world our home; our brethren, all mankind.
Love truth, do good, be just and fair with all;
Exalt the right, though every ism fall."

"Let me warn you in the most solemn manner against the baneful effects of the spirit of Party, generally. It is a spirit not to be encouraged.—Its common and continual mischief is sufficient to make it the interest and duty of a wise people to discourage and restrain it. In governments of the popular form, it is seen in its greatest rankness, and is truly their worst enemy."—Washington's Farewell Address.

NAVAL.—Commander Worden has been ordered to report to Admiral Gregory, at New York, to assist in fitting out the iron-clads at that point.

Despatches received from Admiral Wilkes states that he was at Eleuthera, one of the Bahama Island, on the 16th inst., having left Havana, on the 11th. As Admiral Wilkes make no mention of his having been on parole at Havana, the report to that effect is doubtless untrue.

By a new regulation, persons enlisted during a war, at the naval rendezvous nearest their residence, will, on presenting an official certificate from the town clerk signifying that they are residents of such town, and have left there to enter the navy, receive allowance of three cents a mile for travelling expenses.

☞ The agent of Maine, who has been sent to the camps to look after the interests of the soldiers from that State, writes home as follows:—"Don't send mince pies; they make well men sick, and sick men worse. They spoil before reaching here, yet they eat them because they are from home.—Send dried apples, dried or smoked fish, pickles, well put up in kegs, butter, cheese, and all kinds of dried fruit."

☞ The largest steamboat in the world was launched in New York on Thursday. Her dimensions are as follows: length, 407 feet; breadth of beam, 83 feet; depth 10-1-2 feet. She is called the Dictator, and is to run between New York and Albany.

☞ The New York paper manufacturers held a meeting on Wednesday and agreed to stop half of their work on writing paper and quarter of their work on printing paper. The object is to raise prices.

☞ The Union League of Andover, Mass., in which town ex-President Pierce spends a considerable portion of his time, have unanimously invited him to deliver an address on the state of the country.

Navy Tobacco.

We would invite the attention of dealers to the above Tobacco made by us. It is warranted to be of SUPERIOR QUALITY than any in the market, and as good as the best from Virginia. Those disposed to encourage HOME MANUFACTURES, and all in want of GOOD TOBACCO in place of the very inferior quality with which the market is flooded, can obtain it in any quantity for trial.

☞ Orders by mail or express promptly attended to.

MONDAY, APRIL 27, 1863.

THE REBELLION.

It is estimated that the rebel loss in the late attack near Suffolk, Va., was at least eight to our one.

Gen. Schenck reports that an expedition in Western Virginia, under Gen. Elliot, took about 20 prisoners and 30 horses. 9 rebels were killed: we lost two killed.

Gen. Foster has returned to Newbern, with upwards of 50 prisoners.

A Newbern letter of the 23d mentions a gallant charge on rebel cavalry near Washington, N. C. They fled en masse, their captain and several men being taken prisoners. It was believed at Newbern that Hill's forces had gone towards Richmond.

The Richmond Whig has a report of a repulse of some of our troops on the Coldwater.

A Nashville dispatch of the 24th says it is reported that our forces are in possession of McMinnville, Tenn. About 250 prisoners were taken. Nearly the whole of Morgan's force were stationed at McMinnville, and upon the attack sought safety in flight. By a later dispatch this victory seems to be fully confirmed. Gen. Reynolds moved towards Liberty, but Morgan is moving towards Carthage, near Alexandria. Gen. Reynolds destroyed a mill at Liberty which had been doing good work for the rebels.

After the destruction of Celina, Tennessee, by our forces, the rebels entered Tomkinsville, Ky., on Wednesday, burned the Court House, half a dozen other buildings, killed five or six Union men, and then retreated.

It is reported that Holly Springs has been reoccupied by our forces.

Gen. Burnside reports that the expedition to Celina, Ky., destroyed the town, 10,000 lbs. bacon, 10,000 bushels of wheat, 10,000 bushels corn, 100 bbls. flour, 100 bbls. whiskey, a considerable quantity of sugar, coffee, tea, salt and other stores, and 40 boats used in transportation. The rebels admit a loss of 90 killed. We lost 1 wounded and 1 missing.

By Telegraph, Sunday, to Messrs Hutchings, Illsley, and others.

On Thursday 4 or 5 persons were arrested in a house in Falmouth, Va., while sending messages to the rebels in Fredericksburg by means of a submarine telegraph.

Marmadake is reported to be at Fredericktown, Mo., with 6000 or 8000 rebels, and an engagement is imminent. A squad from them, attempting to destroy some bridges, were repulsed, and 25 of them killed.

Memphis dispatches of the 23d make no mention of a repulse on the Coldwater, but say there had been no fighting since the 19th when the rebels were driven back. It was reported from rebel sources that Gen. Loring had arrived from Fort Pemberton with several thousand troops for Gen. Chalmers. 24 transports have landed at Eastport, 8 miles from Iuka, Miss., with 4000 Federals, chiefly cavalry. A squadron of Federal cavalry, estimated at 1500, were advancing on Pontotoc, Miss., and the rebels were concentrating to resist them on the 19th.

Advices from Nashville say the rebel citizens ordered south by Gen. Rosecrans, almost without exception have asked to go north; all their advices from their friends in rebeldom urge them to this course; everything there is going to ruin and destruction, and the rebellion itself is in the last stages of a galloping consumption. Refugees at McMinnville testify to the same effect; they say it is almost impossible to embark at the south, and they quote flour at $80 a barrel and shoes at $35 a pair.

Bragg is at Tullahoma, rapidly concentrating his men, who are said to be in good condition and spirits. The rebels admit that 180 prisoners were taken when the Queen of the West and the Diana were recaptured by our forces, but say that they destroyed the vessels to prevent their falling into our hands.

☞ The brave young men who ran away to Canada that they might avoid the draft, will be called upon to pack up "duds" and return home, to stand their little drafts, for the reason that a bill has been introduced into the Canadian Parliament providing for a return to the United States of all deserters from our army, and by the new Conscription law every man whose name is drawn, and who fails to appear, is called a deserter, and when caught will be punished as being one.

☞ A dispatch says the President is about to confer the rank of Brevet Brigadier General upon meritorious Colonels commanding brigades.

☞ Gen. B. F. Butler said in his speech at New York that on the 28th of December, 1860, he shook hands in personal friendship with Jeff. Davis, and on the 28th of December, 1862, he had the pleasure of reading Jeff. Davis' proclamation that he (Butler) was to be hanged at sight.

☞ Commodore Stewart has acknowledged the receipt of a commission as Rear Admiral.

NEW HAMPSHIRE ITEMS.

—— The Amherst Cabinet says much damage has been done to roads and bridges in that vicinity by recent freshets.

—— In the Order consolidating the 17th regiment with the 2d, dated Apr. 16, Governor Berry says:—

In carrying into execution this order, the Governor regrets the necessity that disbands the 17th regiment the more, that during its uncertain delay in camp, its conduct has been such as to reflect credit upon its officers and men. The discipline, neatness and general behavior of its members, fully warrant the belief of its efficiency could its ranks have been filled.

—— The Second Regiment (Lt. Col. Bailey) is yet in camp on the Fair Ground, Concord. It now numbers 650 men. The 200 soldiers recently transferred from the 17th are a fine body of men, and are under the best of discipline.

—— The Northern Railroad are to erect the present season, a large and commodious freight depot at Concord.

—— Arlond Carrol, Esq., formerly of this State, died at Albany, N. Y., on the 14th inst., aged 55 years. He was a native of Pittsfield. He resided in Concord for several years, and held the office of High Sheriff of Merrimac county.

—— The Unitarian Society in Concord are arranging for a May morning breakfast in Phenix Hall.

—— The Washington correspondent of the Concord Statesman says the following persons have been recommended for officers in our State under the Conscription Law: First District: John F. Godfrey, Hampton Falls, Provost Marshal; J. F. Hall, Wolfborough, Surgeon. Second District: Lt. Col. R. N. Batchelder, of Manchester, for Provost Marshal, and for the same office in the Third District, Chester Pike, Cornish. The other officers for the Second and Third Districts have not been named.

—— At the town meeting in Webster in March there were present, and voting, fifteen between the ages of 70 and 80, seven between 80 and 90, and one between 90 and 100; making 23 upwards of 70 years of age. The whole vote polled was 195, of which this is nearly one eighth.

—— George H. Backus, of Claremont, tailor, has been prosecuted on a charge of making false and fraudulent monthly returns of the amount of his sales, etc., to the Deputy Assessor. The penalty is five hundred dollars, or less, according to the aggravation of the circumstances. The writ was served by direction of U. S. District Attorney C. W. Rand, of Littleton, by Marshal Ela, of Rochester, and is returnable to the U. S. District Court at Portsmouth, the 8th of May.

—— The Claremont Eagle suggests the propriety of holding a Spring exhibition of fruit, under the auspices of the Town Agricultural Society. It would show what fruit keeps best, and by what methods.

—— There was no election of Senator in the 10th district, there having been three candidates. The republican candidate will be chosen by the Legislature.

—— The Peterborough Transcript says: There has been a great run of sap this year and large quantities of maple sugar is being made. Some farmers in this vicinity will make nearly, or quite, 1000 lbs.

—— The N. H. 14th regiment passed through Georgetown and Washington on the evening of April 21, looking finely, and ready for active service.

—— The Statesman says the parsonage of the Congregational Society in Boscawen, an ancient dwelling, had a large chimney ascending from the centre, occupying great space upon the ground, as was common in olden times. This building is now undergoing repairs, and on taking down the chimney, a few days ago, an apartment was found in the centre, sufficient to convene three or four men in a standing posture.—In this room was found a kettle, set in brick, which appeared as if white metals had been fused in it, and an empty jug. The supposition is that counterfeit coin was made there.

☞ A correspondent of the "Northwestern" says that at the recent session of the Missouri Conference "the Committee on Temperance offered a very stringent resolution on the use of tobacco by ministers of the Gospel, which called out a spirited debate. The Conference finally passed this resolution:—

Resolved—That hereafter we will require all young men who apply for admission into this conference, to pledge to abstain from the use of tobacco, except when prescribed by a physician."

All right, no doubt,—but why not exclude tea and coffee also, as well as wine and other strong drinks, and tobacco? Physiologists condemn all stimulants or excitants, and moralists and christians certainly ought not to discriminate in favor of any; altho' almost all people use them, in some form or other, while each and all consider "those they have no mind to" use themselves, and find reason or excuse for their own favorite indulgences. There is certainly no accounting for tastes, and one man's meat is actually another's poison; but religious discipline should hardly tolerate any evil indulgence.

☞ A young woman, about 19 years of age, arrived at Cairo several days ago with the 14th Iowa regiment, dressed in soldiers' uniform, and serving the Captain of Co. H in the capacity of servant. While at a theatre, the searching eye of the Provost Marshal penetrated her disguise, but the Captain, who had not previously known her sex, saved her from incarceration by promising that she should resume her proper dress. The woman, however, discovering that the secret had leaked out, on the next day, and that her presence in such a garb was the theme for a thousand tongues, took up the Captain's revolver, stepped from his room, and placing the muzzle to her heart, fired, and fell a corpse upon the open parade ground, without a groan or an exclamation.

☞ An old preacher, in Edinburgh, was rather absent-minded and much given to the taking of snuff. One day he was going two miles from his house in the face of a very strong wind, to preach, and when he got near the church where the congregation were waiting to hear him, he turned about his back to the wind to take a pinch of snuff. But by the time he had put his box in his pocket he forgot that he had changed his position, and so marched off straight ahead home again, leaving the congregation without a sermon.

☞ A little boy went to a wharf in Philadelphia on Saturday, got upon a canal boat, and undressed himself. Later in the day the clothes still lay upon the boat.—The lad was no more seen. Next day his dead body was found floating in the water. It was drawn to the shore. The boy was scarce more than a child—about twelve years old. An examination of the body showed the marks of very severe flagellation—livid weals crossing each other at every inch of his back. The Coroner's Jury rendered a verdict, "Found drowned," but the probability is that the little fellow ended his misery by suicide.

☞ Brigham Young, in a recent sermon to the Saints, was very severe on the conduct of the federal government in interfering with their domestic relations. He claims that the Mormons are and always were a loyal people. But as for helping the government of the United States with men, to fight in the present battle fields of the nation, while there is a camp of soldiers in the corporate limits of the city, he says he would "see them in hell first."

☞ Wm. Hanson, a colored man, 70 yrs. of age, was on Thursday evening united in marriage to Chloe Green, 80 years old, at the residence of the latter, in Joy street, Boston. Mr. Hanson has been married twice before, and is the father of twelve children; and Chloe takes a husband for the fourth time, and has had eighteen children, most of whom are living.

Lt. Col. Lull, of the N. H. 8th, has written a letter to the Manchester American, in which he fully vindicates himself against the charges of oppression and injustice, as Provost Judge at Thibodauxville, La. As we have already published a good vindication of him, written by another hand, we think it needful to copy only a few sentences from his long and able letter:—

"I flatter myself I have a little local notoriety for hearing a man, though he be white, rich, and the owner of negroes, patiently and attentively, and of rendering to him what I believe to be the strictest justice. Also for hearing a man, though he be black, ragged and ignorant, more patiently, and more kindly, and rendering to him more scrupulous justice, since he is weak, and cannot help himself.

I have punished the rich master for offences against his slave. I, too, have punished the vicious negro. I believe in observing the laws as I find them."

In respect to the case about which a letter writer made complaints, Col. Lull offers the following clear statement:—

"A quiet old gentleman went to a negro encampment, to look after a little girl that had been taken from him. A burly negro seized an iron, and swore he would kill every d——d white man that came into the encampment, and he beat the old man. A guard near by arrested him to bring him before me; he would not come and they put him into a cart; he jumped out and ran, and the guard (cavalry men) caught him and bound him and brought him into my room. I immediately caused him to be unbound, heard the evidence—pro and con, thought him at fault and punished him.—Still I admired his spirit and courage. He thought he was fighting for the rights of his race. He was just that material of which heroes are made—wanting perhaps the single element of power to make him one.

I was asked perhaps a thousand times for soldiers to aid in taking slaves home, and as many times I refused, informing the applicant that it was not the mission of the federal army to be negro managers for the South. I never allowed a soldier under my control to aid a master in returning his slave.

I entered the army with the sole purpose of aiding in the restoration of the power of the Government. I limit the duration of my services by the duration of this war, and the period when every traitor shall bow in obedience to the laws and constitution of the country. I know that the path of success is that alone which is pursued by the united energy of the North. I have no political principles to promulgate, no political prejudices to indulge in, in this war."

☞ The citizens of Rockland, Me., are making a move to close up the liquor shops in that city. A petition signed by about 500 citizens was presented to the City Council at its last meeting, asking for an immediate enforcement of the law for the suppression of drinking houses and tippling shops, and pledging the city authorities their firm support and influence in all efforts to that end.

☞ Col. Wilder's brigade of mounted infantry, now with Rosecrans' army, are well armed with one of the most novel and formidable weapons in the service. Instead of the sabre, they carry a hatchet. They are so well drilled that they can throw it a distance of fifty yards and not miss the mark.

☞ The New York Harbor defence bill, appropriating a million dollars, has passed the Legislature.

☞ The pirate Florida was spoken Mar. 25th, off the Western Isles, which is near the route of our European commerce.

☞ We heard of a grocer the other day who recommended his lard because it had been tried.

HUNNEWELL'S ECLECTIC PILLS—The true Type of Cathartic.—By the application of true Pharmaceutical Laws, both Character and Economy are combined in this valuable Pill. To prevent putting such quantities of indigestible drugs into the stomach, the griping pains so erroneously judged to be the evidence of thorough action, and to require from 4 to 6 Pills, to get a decent cathartic, was the study in this development. The dose seldom exceeding One, and never more than Two Pills, settles the question of economy, and character can be best known by confidence to test them in DYSPEPSIA, COSTIVENESS, BILIOUSNESS, LIVER COMPLAINT, all derangements of the stomach and Bowels, and as a Family Pill. spno

QUEER MISPRONUNCIATION.—It is a striking fact that names of places are oftenest mispronounced by the inhabitants or people of the neighborhood. Some of these distortions are amusing enough from their wide departure from the true pronunciation. In La Salle half the people call their city, "La Sell," (and a "dead sell" it is to the reluctant wayfarer, compelled to wait half a day for the train.) Bellfontaine is pronounced "Bell fountain," and everybody in or about Indianapolis calls it "Indianopolis," without scruple or apparent remorse. Evansville goes often by the name of "Jeansville," and Terre Haute (a pretty French name for a fine Yankee town in Indiana—and signifying "High land,") what do you think they call that? Why, "Terry Hut," to be sure,—a sound which seems portentously indicative of mud cabins, instead of the civilized, and even elegant architecture which honors the city.

But the vice is not peculiar to the West. The older natives of Hartford, Conn., speak of it as "Har'ford" to this day; many citizens of Brunswick, Me., continue to shock the ears of the Bowdoin boys by allusions to "Brum*swick*;" while half the inhabitants of Portsmouth, N. H., call it—what do you suppose? You couldn't guess in a month of Sundays. You give it up?—of course you do; what can they call it but Portsmouth? Why, "Porchmouth," by all that is ridiculous.—N. Y. Argus.

The above, like many newspaper items of the kind, makes general statements, which should be received with some degree of allowance. We know that it is a standing joke among the Bowdoin boys that those whom they, with an utter disregard of courtesy, are wont to call "Yaggers," call the name of the town "Brumswick,"—but if there are any persons there who really do so, they are very few in number and not of high cultivation.

So in regard to the name of our own city—it is pretty broad assertion to say that "half the inhabitants" call it Porchmouth. We have heard that pronunciation, but it has generally been out of the city. Indeed, a friend once told us that it was confined to a few employees on the railroad lines; although they occasionally "improved" even on that and called it Porchsmith. This friend used to assert that the abbreviation "P. S.," which is used to designate this railroad station was, derived from this version—Porch-Smith. Perhaps his statement is as true as those from the Argus.

The veteran stageman, Sandyman B. Marden, a long time on the road between this city and Portsmouth, over the South Deerfield route, is dangerously ill in Portsmouth.—Concord Statesman.

It will please "Sandy's" many friends to learn that he is gradually recovering his health and strength. "The old whip still goes on."

☞ At the ordination of Mr. Samuel B. Stewart as Pastor of the Unitarian Society in Nashua, Wednesday next, the Right Hand of Fellowship will be given by Rev. James DeNormandie, of this city. The services commence at 11 o'clock, A. M.

☞ By the will of the late Mrs. Mary E. Rider, admitted to Probate, the sum of one thousand dollars was bequeathed to St. John's Episcopal church in this city.

☞ Gov. Seymour of New York vetoed the bill allowing soldiers from that State to vote by proxy, on the ground of its unconstitutionality, but the Senate passed the bill over the veto.

The Assemby refused to pass the bill over the Governor's veto by a vote of 37 to 49. Both branches subsequently passed resolutions for an amendment to the Constitution so as to allow soldiers to vote, by a vote of 20 to 9 in the Senate, and 70 to 3 in the Assembly. The Senate passed a resolution characterizing the Governor's veto as extra official and unauthorized. Both branches passed Dean's gold bill, limiting operations in loans on gold or exchange to par of currency. The Legislature adjourned on Saturday sine die.

☞ The Legislature of Ohio has before it a bill excluding from the privilege of voting any soldier from that State who shall be convicted of desertion. The same bill provides that any person who shall entice a soldier to desert or attempt to resist the enrolment law, shall likewise be excluded from the privilege of voting at any election held under authority of that State.

☞ It is understood that there are British parties in Washington who are endeavoring to make arrangements with the government for the colonization of negroes in Honduras.

☞ The N. Y. World's Washington dispatch says the Dahlgren guns are to be removed from all the iron-clads and an entirely new 13-inch gun substituted, which is capable of using 75 lbs. of powder at a load.

☞ The N. Y. Tribune's dispatch asserts that no letters of marque will be granted unless a war should arise with a foreign power.

☞ Gen. Rosecrans has issued an order prohibiting any officer, soldier, camp follower, or citizen, within the limits of the department, from dealing in Confederate scrip.

☞ The cost of preparations for the marriage of the Prince of Wales is computed at £23,455.

☞ A malignant disease, of which a large number have died, prevails in the factories near Philadelphia, employed in manufacturing army blankets. It is called a congestive fever, and is supposed to have been introduced by filthy rags, imported for conversion into shoddy.

Capt. Worden says in the most emphatic manner that everything which Admiral Dupont has done in the matter of Charleston and the iron clads, receives his approval.—N. Y. Tribune.

STREET TRAPS.—Two young ladies fell down a hatchway in Broadway, New York, Thursday evening. Both were killed.—The city of Boston has just paid $2200 to a young lady of Worcester for damages sustained by a fall on the ice on one of its sidewalks.

The shoe trade is slowly but steadily growing duller. A few shoes have been sold the past week, but the profits have been small. The cost of getting up shoes is so high, and the risk of a limited market and the prospect of the fall of stock, are great checks on manufacturers. From present prospects, there is every indication to discourage rather than encourage manufacturing of shoes.—Haverhill Banner.

☞ The Fine Street Congregational Society of Auburn, Me., have given up for the present the project of having only one preaching service on the Sabbath, and will hereafter have the usual two services.

☞ A drover from South Berwick had his pocket relieved of about $3400 in Boston, Wednesday.

☞ The paper dollar at the South continues quite steady at about 20 cents, or $5 in paper for $1 in gold.

Read the following recommendation from the Cashier of the Lake Bank, Wolfboro', N. H.

WOLFBORO, N. H., Lake Winnipiscogee, Nov. 10, 1862.

Agents Lodi Manufacturing Co., Boston.

GENTS.—I have used the Poudrette made by your Co. for two years. The first year I used four barrels, and experimented with it on both corn and potatoes. I was pleased and satisfied with the result, and the past season purchased over 100 barrels for my own use, and my neighbors. I think some twenty-five different farmers tried and used the Poudrette on my recommendation, and all have this Fall expressed themselves entirely satisfied to use such an increased quantity the next spring. Planting season comes late, and we have very early frosts, and the Poudrette ripens our corn from two to three weeks earlier. We have also found it a preventative of the wire worm, which oftentimes destroys our entire crops. Our mode of applying the Poudrette is, to put about a handful in each hill, and place the seed in direct contact. I think I shall want double the quantity next Spring that I had this year.

Yours, Respectfully,
ABEL HALEY,
Cashier Lake Bank, Wolfboro, N. H

Morning Chronicle

FOUND DEAD.

Found dead—dead and alone;
There was nobody near, nobody near,
When the outcast died on his pillow of stone;
No mother, no brother, no sister dear,
Not a watching eye or pitying tear.
Found dead—dead and alone,
In the roofless street on a pillow of stone.

Many a weary day went by,
While wretched and worn he begged for bread,
Tired of life and longing to lie
Peacefully down with the silent and dead.
Hunger and cold and scorn and pain
Had wasted his form and scared his brain,
Till at last on a bed of frozen ground,
With a pillow of stone on his outcast mound.

Found dead—dead and alone,
On a pillow of stone in the roofless street;
Nobody heard his last faint moan,
Or knew when his sad heart ceased to beat.
No mourner lingered with tears and sighs,
But the stars looked down with pitying eyes,
And the chill winds passed with a wailing sound
O'er the lonely spot where the form was found.

Found dead—dead and alone;
There was somebody near, somebody near,
To claim the wanderer as his own,
And a home for the homeless here;
One when every human door
Is closed to children accursed and poor,
Who opens the heavenly portal wide,
And God was near when the outcast died.

American and Foreign Patents.

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of U. S. Patent Office, Washington, (under the act of 1837,)
75 State Street, opposite Kilby Street,
BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure the patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all papers relating to Patents, executed on liberal terms, and with dispatch. Researches made into American or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of patents or inventions—and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.

The Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantage for securing Patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The Testimonials below given prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the undersigned, and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional service so moderate.

The immense practice of the subscriber during the last twenty years, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents.

These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining Patents.

All necessity of a journey to Washington, to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable as a measure practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHARLES MASON,
Late Commissioner of Patents.

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their applications into form to secure for them a speedy and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.

Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications, on all but one of which patents have been granted, and that is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges."
JOHN TAGGART.

During eight months, the subscriber, in course of his large practice, made on twelve rejected applications SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided in his favor, by the Commissioner of Patents.

IMPORTANT TO THE AFFLICTED.

DR. DOW continues to be consulted at his office, Nos. 7 and 9 ENDICOTT STREET, Boston, on all diseases of a

PRIVATE OR DELICATE NATURE.

By a long course of study and practical experience of unusual extent, Dr. D. has now the gratification of presenting the most perfect remedies that have ever, since he first introduced them, failed to cure the most alarming cases of

GONORRHŒA AND GLEETS.

Beneath his treatment, all the horrors of venereal and impure blood, impotency, Scrotula, Gonorrhœa, Gleet, painful strictures the region of procreation, Inflammation of the testicles and Kidneys, Hydrocele, Abscesses, Humors, frightful Swellings, and the long train of horrible symptoms attending the class of disease, are made to become as harmless as the simplest stirings of a child.

SEMINAL WEAKNESS.

Dr D., devotes a great part of his time to the treatment of these cases caused by a secret and solitary habit, which ruins the vigor of his mind, unfitting the unfortunate individual for business or society. Some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by this baneful habit of youth, are Weakness of the back and limbs, Dizziness of the head, Dimness of sight, Palpitation of the heart, Dyspepsia, Nervousness, Derangement of the digestive functions, Pimples on the face, Emissions, &c. The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded; loss of memory, confusion of ideas, depression of spirits, Nervous Prostration, Distrust in society, self-distrust, timidity, &c., are among the evils produced. Such persons should, before contemplating matrimony, reflect that a knowledge of experience, and be at once restored to health and happiness.

Persons who wish to remain under Dr Dow's treatment a few days or weeks, will be furnished with pleasant rooms, and charges for board moderate.

Medicines sent to all parts of the country, with full directions for use, on receiving description of your case. Dr Dow's Ale also for sale the French Capotine, warranted to prevent pregnancy. Order by mail. Three for $1 and a red stamp.

Highly Important!

To Females in Delicate Health.

DR. DOW, Nos. 7 & 9 Endicott Street, Boston, is consulted daily by females in delicate health, or those who are about to become mothers, on the management of their health during pregnancy, and all related upon new pathological principles, and speedy relief guaranteed in a few days. So invariably certain is the superiority of this treatment, that most obstinate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted person soon rejoices in perfect health.

Dr. Dow has no doubt the most extensive experience in the cure of diseases of women and children, than any other physician in Boston.

Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.

Dr. Dow, since 1845, having confined his whole attention to an office practice, for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

N. B.—All letters must contain four red stamps, or they will not be answered.

Office Hours from 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.

CERTAIN CURE

in all cases, and No Charges Made.

Dr. Dow is consulted daily, from 8 A. M. to 9 P. M. as above, upon all difficult and chronic diseases of every name and nature, having by his unwearied attention and extraordinary success gained a reputation which calls patients from all parts of the country to obtain advice.

Among the physicians in Boston, none stands higher in the profession than the celebrated DR. DOW, No. 7 Endicott street, Boston. Those who need the services of an experienced physician and surgeon should give him a call.

P. S.—Dr. Dow imports and has for sale a new article, called the FRENCH SECRET. Order by mail. Two for $1 and a red stamp.

A check draft is applied to this stove by means of which the consumption of fuel is greatly lessened, and a steady fire can be kept day and night if desired.

THE MAGEE COOKING STOVE.

The subscribers, having received their Fall stock of Stoves, would especially call the attention of the public to the

CELEBRATED AND UNEQUALLED
MAGEE COOK STOVE,

as the very best Stove yet made, and would invite those about purchasing or exchanging Stoves, to examine this, believing it to be far superior to any other Stove yet invented, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual. The oven plates are covered with plaster, which renders it equal to the old-fashioned brick oven for perfection in baking.

There is a new style and very superior broiler and sad iron heater combined, by which the odor of broiling meats are prevented from escaping into the room. With the extension top there is a large copper Reservoir for hot water; also a large tin warming-closet attached, in which any article can be kept warm, while the other parts of the Stove are occupied for other purposes.

The arrangements for sifting the coal and cleaning the grate are far superior to those of any other Stove now in use, as no dust can possibly escape into the room, and the shovelfuls of the ashes is entirely dispensed with. The fire is regulated in the same manner as in the MAGEE PARLOR STOVE, and can be continued day and night for weeks together, thus saving the expense of re-kindling every day.

For economy, durability, ease of management, cleanliness and perfection in cooking, it cannot be surpassed by any other Stove, as hundreds of families in this city and vicinity, who are now using them, are willing to testify, and speak of them in the highest terms of praise.

We would refer to the following purchasers:

"MAGEE'S PATENT"
VENTILATING & AIR WARMING
FURNACES.

The subscribers, being the Sole Agents in this vicinity for the manufacture and sale of this valuable Furnace, would ask those about remodelling or erecting buildings to examine this truly valuable article.

For economy, purity of air and ease of management it has no equal, producing a current of warm air, moist and agreeable;—and as none of the air which comes in contact with the fire-pot is used for respiration, the tendency to produce headache so much complained of in other Furnaces, is entirely obviated.

The objects aimed at by the constructors of heating apparatus have been to obtain the greatest amount of heat from a given amount of fuel, and to prevent the escape of heat to the smoke pipe or chimney.

To accomplish this many complicated and expensive heating arrangements have been constructed, some possessing but little improvement over former methods, while many have proved a total failure. The reason for this is obvious. The combustible gases being lighter than the air, pass off into the pipe or chimney without being consumed. This objection, so common in other Furnaces, is obviated in the

MAGEE FURNACE.

The flue or pipe in this Furnace being below the fire-pot, the gases, from their specific gravity, cannot descend, and are burned up by the admission of cold air through the fire-pot, which ignites them as they pass off from the coal, thus saving at least 20 per cent. of the properties of the heat in the fuel.

No heating apparatus with the smoke-pipe or flue on the top of the cone can be made to consume the gases of the coal, without mixing with a large amount of the heat generated, making the chimney the hottest part of your dwelling.

This Furnace does away with the great number of pipes and angles for the radiation of heat, which are so liable to fill up and get out of order, thus simplifying, while it increases the surface of radiation.

These Furnaces consume all the coal, make no clinkers, the sifting of coal is entirely dispensed with, and they will save from 30 to 50 per cent. of fuel over common Furnaces.

For ease of management, economy and purity of air, these Furnaces have no equal. They can be regulated so as to give any amount of heat required, and the fire may be kept the entire season without once going out.

They give entire satisfaction wherever used. We have in store the different sizes, Brick and Portable, to which we invite the attention of those in want of the best Furnace in the world,—and would refer them to the following named gentlemen, who have them now in use:

Samuel Cleaves, Esq.,	Albert R. Hatch, Esq.,
Aaron H. Hill,	Charles H. Mendum,
Henry F. Wendell,	John Sise, and others.

Teeth on Vulcanized Rubber,

SOME OF ITS ADVANTAGES.

1st. It is stronger and lighter than any known material.

2d. From two to six times the amount of suction or adhesion can be obtained by it.

3d. When the arch is irregular we can by building out the depressions respectably, be done by half any extent—give the mouth a more natural appearance.

4th. No bad taste arises in the mouth by its use, as the secretions of the stomach and mouth do not affect it in the least.

5th. Teeth secured upon this base can be kept clean and sweet as easy as a saucer, as when finished the work presents one whole piece.

6th. It will be in all ways little better, save in a few peculiar cases, it is much cheaper than Gold.

DR. A. P. STEVENS, Surgeon Dentist,

Has had four years of practical experience in making this material, and will guarantee satisfaction in all cases entrusted to his care.

DENTISTRY.

No. 60 CONGRESS STREET,
Portsmouth, Jan. 1st, 1863.

DR. GOODALL

Would respectfully inform his patrons and the public, (having had of late many calls to insert teeth upon VULCANIZED RUBBER,) that he has purchased the best VULCANIZER in the market, and is now prepared to do all work upon RUBBER, or the other bases of GOLD and SILVER as formerly, if preferred.

The Rubber has several important advantages, viz.: It is very light and elastic, and consequently is perfectly easy to the muscles of the mouth and gums. There are no insertices or open joints to collect food, and consequently teeth can be worn night and day, and are very easily kept neat and clean.

Beside all this, the most accurate fit is obtained, as the Rubber is Vulcanized directly upon the plaster model, and the suction is of course much stronger than in plates of Gold or Silver.

Any one who is waiting for their permanent teeth will, I am confident, be perfectly satisfied with the Rubber, as a base. The expense is but a little more than for Silver, and you get the same teeth (in blocks) that you would pay $60.00 for an upper or lower set on Gold.

In New York and Boston, and throughout the West, Vulcanized Rubber is used almost to the exclusion of the other bases, and by the best Dentists too. I will warrant a perfect fit and teeth from the best manufacturer in the country.
S. S. White.

In all the various OPERATIONS IN DENTISTRY I will do at the usual rates. I will here mention that my price for EXTRACTION is 25 cents.

I take pleasure in referring the public to Dr. TREADWELL, Dr. BOARDMAN, Dr. OLIVER and Dr. BENNETT, for particular success in extracting teeth. Teeth extracted without pain and with perfect safety, with Ether. Teeth polished to their natural whiteness without pain or injury to the Enamel. Regulation of Adults' and Children's Teeth will receive particular attention.—All whole and partial Sets of Teeth repaired with Neatness and Dispatch. All other operations in Dentistry, I will do at the usual rates.

GRACE'S CELEBRATED SALVE,
A SURE RELIEF FOR THE SUFFERER.

This Salve is a vegetable preparation, invented in the 17th century, by DR. WM. GRACE surgeon to King James's army. Through its agency he cured thousands of most serious sores and wounds that baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians of his day, and was regarded by all who knew him as a public benefactor.

Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Burns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Scalds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Flesh Wounds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Corns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Felons.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Frozen Limbs.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Scurvy.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Callouses.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Salt Rheum.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chilblains.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Breast.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Lips.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Erysipelas Sores
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Abscesses.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ulcers.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chapped Hands.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ringworms.

And from Sores and Wounds of the most serious nature down to a common Pimple. It eradicates Pimples from the face, and beautifies the skin. There is no preparation before the public that can equal this Salve in prompt and energetic action for the speedy cure of external diseases, as those who have tried its virtues testify. Soldiers, Sailors, and Fishermen, will find this Salve their best friend.

It has none of the irritating, heating properties of other remedies, but cools, cleanses, and heals the most serious Sores and Wounds. Every family, and especially those containing children, should keep a box on hand in case of accident, for it will save them much trouble, suffering, and money. All it wants is a fair trial to cure old and inveterate Sores.

The Chronicle.

"Bound to no party—to no sect confined;
The world our home; our brethren, all mankind.
Love truth, do good, be just and fair with all;
Exalt the right, though every ism fall."

"Let me warn you in the most solemn manner against the baneful effects of the spirit of Party, generally. It is a spirit not to be encouraged.—Its common and continual mischief is sufficient to make it the interest and duty of a wise people to discourage and restrain it. In governments of the popular form, it is seen in its greatest rankness, and is truly their worst enemy."—Washington's Farewell Address.

MR. RUSKIN ON SLAVERY.—Ruskin, the author of "Modern Painters," has an article in the April number of Fraser's Magazine, in which he makes an elaborate defence of slavery, which is, he says, "not a political institution at all, but an inherent, natural and eternal inheritance of a large portion of the human race." Ruskin also is a champion generally of that form of government by which the "ignorant many" are under the domination of "the wise few."

☞ The German Reformed Messenger ascribes the including of ministers in the draft to the infidelity of Congress, and says that a like thing was never done in the Protestant-Catholic wars, in wars among the heathen, or even in that of Jeff. Davis against our Government. The Christian Intelligencer, on the other hand, accepts the conscription of ministers as a sign of their liberty to engage in politics.

☞ How is it that Slidell manages to live so expensively in Paris? The trial before the Commissioner of Confiscation at New Orleans disclosed the cunning process. An advocate appeared in court to resist the application of the law, on the ground that the property belonged substantially to a foreigner. It was alleged that Slidell had mortgaged the whole of it to a Frenchman of Paris, in consideration of four or five hundred thousand francs, paid down; and that it belonged, of right, not to a rebel subject, but a foreign ally or neutral.

☞ The other day a well known New York "swell" laid a wager that he would collect twenty dollars in one day by sweeping a Broadway crosswalk. Arrayed in fashionable style, he took his station on a crossing near Grace Church, plying his rugged broom industriously, and holding his hat humbly to his contributors, until toward sundown he cast his broom across the street, jumped into a carriage, and was whirled away with $27.15 in honest pennies and postal currency in his pocket.

☞ John Van Buren, in a recent speech in New York, said that by well recognized principles of law it is as clear as the sun at noon, that if this war goes on twelve months more there will not be a slave legally held in one of the States and territories, excepted by the President's proclamation. Speaking of politics, he expressed his belief that the next President would be a Democrat, but not the candidate of the Democratic party.

Navy Tobacco.

We would invite the attention of dealers to the above Tobacco made by us. It is warranted to be of BETTER QUALITY than any in the market, and as good as the best from Virginia. Those disposed to encourage HOME MANUFACTURES, and all in want of GOOD TOBACCO in place of the very inferior quality with which the market is flooded, can obtain it in any quantity for trial.

TUESDAY, APRIL 28, 1863.

THE REBELLION.

Accounts from Gen. Banks are cheering. A steamer at New York brings dates to the 19th. On the morning of the 14th, our troops entered the rebel works at Bethel Place. The rebels left their numerous dead unburied, and evidences were plenty of bloody work in their ranks. Large stores of ammunition, some Enfield rifles, and other arms were captured. Our army then marched through Pattersonville, skirmishing continuously, and reached Franklin on the 15th. Prior to Thursday night, 15th, some thousand prisoners had been brought into Franklin, captures of whole companies of rebels being made at a time. At Franklin the steamboat Cornie was captured, with three officers of the late gunboat Diana on board. The rebels destroyed 10 steamboats and 2 large gunboats—among them being the Diana. Immense stores of provisions, 20,000 pounds of bacon, and 1000 cases of ammunition were also destroyed. Gen. Grover's expedition had also been successful at Indian Bend. The rebels there were defeated. Their force at Bethel Place and Indian Bend numbered some 10,000, posted in a highly advantageous position, under command of Gen. Dick Taylor, son of the late Zachary Taylor. Large captures of horses, mules, and beef cattle were made. The celebrated salt mine or salt rock was captured and the rebel works destroyed. The rebel soldiers were not loth to be captured; over 1500 are in our hands, and more are being taken. An abandoned rebel iron foundry was found near New Iberia, containing a quantity of shot and shell. Our fleet has reduced the rebel fortifications at Butella Bone, an important Point. Our wounded, numbering 179, have nearly all reached New Orleans. All were doing well. A large number of rebel wounded were in the hospitals at Franklin and Iberia. Gen. Banks was still advancing. A Memphis dispatch of the 23d says that his army was at Point Coupee on the Mississippi. If this be true, he must have taken Opelousas, and then marched across the country.

Memphis dispatch says 6 more transports have run by the batteries at Vicksburg.

A collision occurred at Cape Girardeau, Mo., on Saturday morning, between our forces and the rebels. The fight continued 3 hours, and resulted in the repulse of the enemy, who, 8000 strong, were under Marmaduke and Borbridge, and attacked our forces at 11 o'clock A. M. Their loss was severe. Our loss was less than 20 killed and wounded.

A special dispatch from Paton, Bolier Co., Mo., 26th, says Marmaduke, with 3000 men and 6 pieces of artillery, left there Saturday night. He had robbed the Unionists and Secessionists, and had a train of 150 wagons loaded with plunder. Cannonading was heard in the rear of Cape Girardeau on Sunday.

Deserters report that Bragg has been largely reinforced from Vicksburg, and has occupied Manchester, Tenn.

There are indications that there will be more fighting on the Nansemond.

The Government are said to have purchased a fleet of steamships at San Francisco for coast and harbor service. The authorities have warned large dealers in arms and ammunition not to sell cannon without first informing them.

A force under Gen. Corcoran, on the 24th, took some rifle pits on the Edenton road at the point of the bayonet. The cavalry took a number of prisoners. The rebels were driven several miles and fell back on the main column of Longstreet's army.

☞ It is matter of history, that many political conventions, six or eight months ago, denounced the ministers of the free states generally, for their activity and zeal in aid of the government to put down the rebellion, and, as they said for preaching politics. Some newspapers took up the same line of denunciation, and suggested a withdrawal of patronage and personal countenance: in some cases, perhaps in many, this advice was followed, with effects more or less unpleasant in some cases, in others beneficial, in others still, ludicrous. It would seem that the Methodists might be as much injured by this movement, as any religious people; but we observe by a report of the New York Conference of the M. E. Church, that "for the first time in many years, the Collections in the Churches have been equal to the appropriations!" In the superannuated fund, there was a deficit of $100 before the meeting; but at the meeting, a brother, C. C. North, Esq made up the deficiency, and the old ministers all received their pensions. So the Methodists of New York are somewhat prosperous, though an effort was made to weaken them. Its failure has made them stronger.

☞ At 3 P. M., Monday, gold sold in New York at 150, a decline in one hour of 3 1-2 per cent.

There is in the world at large, increasing inclination to stretch unduly the powers of society over the individual, both by the force of opinion and even by that of legislation; and as the tendency of all the changes taking place in the world is to strengthen society, and diminish the power of the individual, this encroachment is not one of the evils which tend spontaneously to disappear, but on the contrary, to grow more and more formidable. The disposition of mankind, whether as rulers or as fellow citizens, to impose their own opinions and inclinations as a rule of conduct on others, is so energetically supported by some of the best and some of the worst feelings incident to human nature, that it is hardly ever kept under restraint by anything but want of power; and as the power is not declining, but growing, unless a strong barrier of moral conviction can be raised against the mischief, we must expect, in the present circumstances of the world, to see it increase. The spirit of improvement is not always a spirit of liberty, for it may aim at forcing improvements on an unwilling people; and the spirit of liberty, in so far as it resists such attempts, may ally itself locally and temporarily with the opponents of improvement.

EFFECT OF THE CLIMATE AND CUSTOMS OF THE NORTH UPON THE NEGROES.—A writer in one of the Philadelphia papers, says the Northern States can never be a home for the negro, as is evidenced by the decrease in their numbers shown by the census tables. In New York city, where if in any place at the North negroes would increase, by the census of 1850 there were 13,815 colored people, namely, 10,752 blacks and 3,063 mulattoes. In 1860 there were only 10,881 colored people, of which 7,826 were blacks and 3,005 mulattoes. So rapid is this decrease that should it continue for forty years only, at the same rate, there would not be left one solitary negro, mulatto, quadroon, or octoroon in New York, to show what the chattel was. The truth is that on the whole the Indians have not disappeared from the West so rapidly as the negroes from their Northern headquarters, New York. Northern people prefer white servants. The negro is generally a good domestic only in rich families, and among people of aristocratic tastes and habits. He likes luxury, hospitality and display; high living and showy liveries. He is a Southerner. Almost all the families of the Middle and Northern States who keep servants are either only moderately rich, or else live with little display as compared to the Southern aristocracy. People who have only one or two or even three domestics, find that in the long run white servants are the most economical for them.—True.

☞ The young ladies of Schenectady, N. Y., to raise funds for the relief of sick and wounded soldiers, procure subscribers who pay each a weekly contribution of three or five cents. Stock in the enterprise is taken very readily, because the payments are easily made; the investment is safe, the dividends constant, and the collectors succeed in obtaining fifty dollars or more every week. What won't the young ladies accomplish when they set about the work;

☞ A man named John Turner, who has been employed on the farm of Mr. Mason near the Creek, complained about 5 o'clock on Friday afternoon of being unwell and started for home. He had gone but a short distance, when he fell dead in the road, where he was subsequently found by a son of Mr. Mason. He was about 50 years of age.

☞ The London Mechanics' Magazine states that, after an expenditure of $40,000,000 on experiments with the Armstrong gun, the inventor has failed to produce a naval gun superior for practical purposes to the old 68 pounder; and that Mr. Whitworth, of Manchester, a private manufacturer, has, by his own skill and means, achieved a success which Sir William Armstrong has failed to do, though backed by the long purse of government patronage.

☞ The Bertrand Morrill stallion, known as the Hill colt, raised at St. Johnsbury, Vt., has been sold to parties in Chicago for $2,160, and has since been sold by them for $3,175.

LETTER FROM NEW YORK.

From our Regular Correspondent.

NEW YORK, April 24th.

* * * At the "Loyal League" meeting, so called, many distinguished gentlemen have been present, among others Gen. Sigel,—in whose appearance I was disappointed. He is a small, slim, rather insipid looking man, with light eyes, red or sandy hair, high cheek-bones and forehead—the last, almost the only redeeming feature.

Gen. Fremont I found to be a very pleasant, conversational gentleman, with low forehead, deep set, glittering, serpent-like black eyes, firmly compressed lips, iron-grey hair, parted in the middle,—said to be his "best part"—and all in all, bearing sufficient resemblance to the photographed and printed representations of him throughout the country, to dispel the popular "illusion" that they are copied from the pictures of the Saviour.

Others among the speakers were Montgomery Blair, Daniel S. Dickinson, Geo. W. Curtis, Blair, as you well know, is a tall, elderly man, with massive brow, clear eye, features well defined,—a forcible speaker, but prone to argument irrelevant to the subject. Dickinson is a slender, sharp-featured man, with long flowing white hair, a fair speaker, and a deep and crafty reasoner. Curtis is an easy, graceful orator, and a perfect linguist—but has the fault of talking a great deal, but saying very little.

At the last meeting, Gen. Scott was present, and very inconveniently filled the largest arm-chair that could be found in the neighborhood, and got in position on the balcony of the Fifth Avenue. Being a few feet behind him a portion of the afternoon, I was observant of a trifling incident which wreathed in smiles the lips of the spectators.

The old warrior feeling, or pretending to be chilly, whispered to one of the committee to have the American flag brought up, to throw over his shoulders, as was perhaps pre-arranged. The word was passed to one of the hotel attendants, who, with great alacrity rushed down stairs, but not having conceived the importance of an exact fulfillment of his orders, soon returned with an immense horse blanket, resembling the "last rose of summer all faded and torn," which ruffled the General's temper a little, and he shook his cane at the unintentional offender, who made all haste to rectify the mistake, by producing the "Star Spangled Banner." The veteran chief enveloped himself in the folds of red, white and blue, and the crowd below ceased their laughter with a cheer.

The remains of Col. Kimball, of the "Hawkins Zouves," shot by Gen. Corcoran, were escorted down Broadway yesterday by a brilliant pageant of our citizen soldiery—one regiment of cavalry and two of infantry—the 71st and 69th, with Dodworth's first and second bands, followed by carriages containing the Mayor, City Government, &c.

Some interesting details of the street railroad schemes, which I have not time to add now, will form a topic for another letter.

HUNNEWELL'S ECLECTIC PILLS —The true Type of Cathartic.—By the application of true Pharmaceutical Laws, both Character and Economy are combined in this valuable Pill. To prevent putting such quantities of indigestible drugs into the stomach, the griping pills so generously judged to be the evidence of thorough action, and to require from 4 to 6 Pills, to get a decent cathartic, was the study in this development. The dose seldom exceeding One, and never more than Two Pills, settles the question of economy, and character can be best known by confidence to test them in DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, BILIOUSNESS, LIVER COMPLAINT, all derangements of the stomach and Bowels, and as a Family Pill.

THE MUSIC OF FIFTY YEARS,

NO. TWO. BY UNCLE TOBY.

Church Music, the singing of psalms and hymns in the great congregation, was considered of great importance fifty years ago, and is quite as important now. Efforts were made to improve it then, in the several congregations in Portsmouth, and such efforts have been renewed at intervals with various success. And there seems to be an impression, in many minds, that "the former days were better than these," in respect to church music.

It is true that there has been, at some times since the year 1800, very good singing in some of the churches in Portsmouth; and these cases, in which sweet sounds and strong chords have prevailed for a year or for a Sunday, are remembered with great pleasure, and contrasted sometimes with a feeble and tasteless performance of the present time.

But there is another side to the picture; and there have been Sundays, months, and perhaps years, when the music in the churches has been of inferior quality: but these seasons of musical depression and dilapidation are readily forgotten; for very few persons care about calling them to mind; and fewer still feel pleased or proud to say, "I helped to do some very poor singing for a number of years."

Thus the good singing of a former day is brought up and placed on the canvass to be compared with the poor or bad singing of to-day: but the bad singing of the former day does not appear on the canvass at all, and so the comparison misleads the mere lookers on.

One of the oldest singers in the place informs us that in 1790 the music in the North Parish was quite run down; but the parish engaged Mr. Babcock, a teacher, to keep a singing school, which he did for some years: and in 1799 they had a large free singing school for the parish, which was taught by Mr. Law, which gave quite an impulse to music there. Mr. Blanchard, a fine tenor and bass viol player, was also a teacher there, along in 1806—7. Though he was not a first-rate teacher, his musical performances in public were very good,—and our first recollections of a choir look back to the days when he led it, and when Rev. Dr. Buckminster, standing in his pulpit, sung finely, and as the old singer now tells us, usually sung the counter.

The choir was large, rarely less than twenty singers, often thirty and over, with bass viol, clarionet and flute, sometimes more than one each, to which was shortly after added a bassoon. Usually, the music was good, sometimes very good; but failures would sometimes take place.

Without pretending to be complete in the list, the singing there was led in succession by Messrs. Hathaway, Gilman, Moulton and Jackson, the latter as recently as 40 years ago; and at that time the choir often numbered over 30, with 2 clarionets, flute, 1 and sometime 2 bass viols, and a double bass.

Let this suffice for a notice of what one choir was in former years,—and as that was one of the largest, many things said of it are true of the others to some extent.

The reader need not suppose that in any choir where several instruments were used, the musical strings were always all in tune; that every instrument was played every Sunday; nor that every singer was always in his place and in good voice, forenoon and afternoon. It was not so: strings would break, screws would be loose; a clarionet would squeak, or a flute would be blown a little out of tune, just enough to make a very bad noise. Some viol player would be late, and find his instrument not exactly right in the first hymn in the morning, and so he would be gently snapping or rubbing the strings during the long prayer, and screwing the instrument up to the sticking point. Some singers would happen to be absent, some careless and some ignorant but self-sufficient, who did more hurt than good.

Generally, this latter class did not last long as members of one choir. And it may be said here as well as elsewhere, that the musical period of most singers' lives is only a few years; say of girls from 15 to 25 or marriage;—and boys from 18 to 30, or some affront or change. But then parishes or societies also change rapidly as to the people who actually attend meeting. A few singers use their voices forty years or a life time—and a portion, comparatively small, of every congregation, are old and constant hearers.

Usually congregations do not know any more about music than singers do; but every hearer can criticise, and if the choir be any other than perfect, the remarks are sometimes quite sharp. It has thus often happened that the dissensions and dissatisfactions which have scattered a choir, came into it from the outside.

This was often a trouble when choirs were large, and when half a dozen or more sensitive people played on instruments: the critics used their names as freely as the papers now-a-days use those of officers in the cabinet or field.

Then the choirs would sometimes fal from the pitch, even as they will occasionally now, in spite of a good strong organ to keep them up.

We had one advantage in the days before organs came to our aid, viz. that if we fall a little from the key, the instruments could change enough to follow us,—and there are some of our old bass viol players in this city now who used to do this very successfully. Besides, we were all so accustomed to sing without instruments, that if we fell from them, or if they were not played, we often made tolerable music with voices alone.

These remarks apply to all the choir singing in the place prior to 1825, except that in St. John's church, which contained the only church organ in Portsmouth, until that time, when the Stone Church was built, and an organ introduced.

POLICE COURT.—Louisa Perkins, for keeping a disorderly house, was fined $5 and costs, $8.50, and ordered to leave the city within ten days.

———, for fast driving in the streets, was fined $3 and costs, $4.80.

Augustus Fernald, common drunkard, was sentenced to 30 days in the House of Correction.

Six young men charged with aiding and abetting in the committal of a rape in a house in Rye, commonly known as the Pine Tree Cottage, were held in the sum of $500 each, to appear before the S. J. Court in this city in October next.

☞ Mr. Charles W. Lolly, a U. S. volunteer from this city, as we stated last fall, left a wife and seven children, to go out to the war. He was in the battle of Antietam, and in that of Williamsburg, where he received three wounds; and has since been honorably discharged, being entirely disabled from military duty, and not able to do much of any kind of work. This is another of the many calls for real charity.

HORN AND NEWCOMB'S MINSTRELS are to give one of their popular entertainments at the Temple on Monday evening next. The great original Eph Horn, whom all lovers of fun and Ethiopic wit will welcome, and W. W. Newcomb, who was here two years since and has recently returned from Europe, are the well known managers.—They have a large and first class company of artists, and the programme is laughter-provoking and attractive.

☞ We are informed that the Lecture to Ladies by Madame Young, at the Temple on Monday afternoon was largely attended; and that the lecture, which was upon Physiology, etc., was well received.—Mad. Young will remain at the Franklin House for a few days where she may be consulted.

☞ There was a large audience at the Stone Church on Sunday evening, to whom Rev. John Dudley, one of the Secretaries, made an appeal in behalf of the "National Freedman's Relief Association." This association affords what aid it can, to the new freed men and women and children, who come, as loyal fugitives, under the U. S. flag at the rate of about 1000 per day,—and who number now, in the whole, about 300,000. Those at Port Royal, who came last year, have by their labor supported themselves, and their superintendents have paid the U. S. a profit of $422,000. This sum is now drawn upon to pay for needed tools, superintendents, &c. The Association proposes to take the NEW-COMERS, and put them on the right track, viz. 1, feed them 2d, clothe them; 3d, put them to work under proper regulations and pay; 4th, teach them to read and write, to keep house, to keep clean and neat, &c.

To carry on this work, donations in money, school books, clothes, table knives, &c., are solicited. A meeting of ladies will be held THIS AFTERNOON at 3 o'clock in the Unitarian Chapel in Court street, to devise ways and means. A committee of gentlemen who were chosen on Sunday evening, will also meet at the same time, and in the same building.

☞ See advertisement of Mr. Wendell's adjourned auction this morning: also of large sale of Dry Goods on Friday next.

☞ The steamer Sonoma sailed from Key West on a cruise on the 21st.

☞ In one of the recent engagements on the Nansemond river the gunboat Washington was disabled by a heavy fire from the rebel artillery and sharpshooters, while aground. She lay so near that the rebels could not depress their guns to sink her; but was rendered helpless. She was bravely defended by her officers and men, and was at last towed off, under a heavy fire, by the gunboat Stepping Stones, commanded by Capt. Thomas A. Harris, of this city, whom the accounts speak of as a heroic and skillful officer.

WOLFBORO, N. H., Lake Winnipisseogee,
Nov. 10, 1862.

Agents Lodi Manufacturing Co., Boston.

GENTS.—I have used the Poudrette made by your Co. for two years. The first year I used four barrels, and experimented with it on both corn and potatoes. I was pleased and satisfied with the result, and the past season purchased over 100 barrels for my own use, and my neighbors. I think some twenty-five different farmers tried and used the Poudrette on my recommending, and we have very early roots, and the Poudrette ripens our corn from two to three weeks earlier. We have also found it a preventative of the wire worm, which oftentimes destroys our entire crops. Our mode of applying the Poudrette is, to put about a handful in each hill, and place the seed in direct contact. I think I shall want double the quantity next Spring that I had this year.

Yours, Respectfully,
ABEL HALEY,
Cashier Lake Bank, Wolfboro, N. H

THE PURCHASE OF BRITISH STEAMERS. The Washington correspondent of the New York Commercial Advertiser has the following statement:

Since it has been announced that Messrs. Appleton and Forster (John M.) have gone to Europe to purchase the steamers now building on the Clyde and the Mersey for the "Emperor of China," the agents of several English houses have made offers, often mysteriously couched, to sell steamers which they hint may otherwise be used as privateers. It will require a long purse to purchase all the steamers which John Bull may choose to make us purchase, or threaten to arm against us.

THE CONTINENTAL MONTHLY FOR MAY.—This magazine, while not disregarding the claims of literature, devotes much space to the discussion of national affairs, and thus occupies a position which has heretofore been too much neglected. One of its political articles, republished in pamphlet form, has had thus far a circulation of one hundred and six thousand copies. The number for May will increase the reputation of the magazine.

—The dry goods store of John C. Moulton, Esq., in Laconia was broken, into on Monday night last and robbed of goods to a large amount, and the store set on fire, probably to cover up the burglary. The fire was discovered at about five o'clock Tuesday morning, and was extinguished before it had done much damage.

American and Foreign Patents.

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of U. S. Patent Office, Washington, (under the Act of 1837.)
75 State Street, opposite Kilby Street,
BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Reports, Assignments, and all Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on liberal terms, and with despatch. Examinations made to ascertain Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of patents or inventions—and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any Patent may be had by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.

The Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing Patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions unknown elsewhere, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below given prove this step is NO SUCCESS BUT FAIL THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and so SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY. Inventors should find that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional service so moderate.

The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents.

Also, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, reaching back, for many quarters, to offer superior facilities for obtaining Patents.

All recently for a journey to Washington, to procure a patent, and the usual great delay thereby, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and honorable practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents.

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and more worthy of their confidence of getting their applications in form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.

Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications, on all but one of which patents have been granted, and the exceptional case is unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part to be so recommended all inventors to apply to him to procure their patents, as they may be warmly having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges."
JOHN LAGARE.

During eight months, the subscriber, in course of his large practice, made some twenty rejected applications SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided in his favor, by the Commissioner of Patents.

THE MAGEE COOKING STOVE.

The subscribers, having received their Fall stock of Stoves, would especially call the attention of the public to the

CELEBRATED AND UNEQUALLED
MAGEE COOK STOVE,

as the very best Stove yet made, and would invite those about purchasing or exchanging Stoves, to examine this, believing it to be far superior to any other Stove yet invented, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual. The oven plates are covered with plates, which renders it equal to the old-fashioned brick oven for perfection in baking.

There is a new style and very superior broiler and cold oven heater combined, by which the odor of broiling meats are prevented from escaping into the room. With the extension top there is a large copper Reservoir for hot water; also a large tin warming-closet attached, in which any article can be kept warm, while the other parts of the Stove are occupied for other purposes.

The arrangements for sifting the coal and cleaning the grate are far superior to those of any other Stove now in use, as no dust can possibly escape into the room, and the shovelling up of the ashes is entirely dispensed with. The fire is regulated in the same manner as in the MAGEE PARLOR STOVE, and can be continued day and night for weeks together, thus saving the expense of re-kindling every day.

For economy, durability, ease of management, cleanliness and perfection in cooking, it cannot be surpassed by any other Stove, as hundreds of families in this city and vicinity, who are now using them, are willing to testify, and speak of them in the highest terms of praise.

We would refer to the following purchasers:

"MAGEE'S PATENT"
VENTILATING & AIR-WARMING
FURNACES.

The subscribers, being the Sole Agents in this vicinity for the manufacture and sale of this valuable Furnace, would ask those about remodelling or erecting buildings to examine this truly valuable invention.

For economy, purity of air and ease of management it has no equal, producing a current of warm air, mild and agreeable;—and as none of the air which comes in contact with the fire-pots is used for respiration, the tendency to produce headache so much complained of in other Furnaces, is entirely obviated.

The objects aimed at by the constructors of heating apparatus have been to obtain the greatest amount of heat from a given amount of fuel, and to prevent the escape of heat to the smoke pipe or chimney.

To accomplish this many complicated and expensive heating arrangements have been constructed, some possessing but little improvement over former methods, while many have proved a total failure. The object of this is obvious. The combustible gases being lighter than the air, pass off into the pipe or chimney without being consumed. This objection, so common in other Furnaces, is obviated in the

MAGEE FURNACE.

The flue or pipe in this Furnace being below the fire-pot, the gases, from their specific gravity, cannot descend, and are burned up by the admission of cold air through the fire-pot, which ignites them as they pass off from the coal, thus saving at least 20 per cent. of the properties of the heat in the fuel.

No heating apparatus with the smoke-pipe or flue on the top of the fire can be made to do the same the gases of the coal, as they pass off, with a large amount of the heat generated, making the chimney the hottest part of your dwelling.

The Furnace does away with the great number of pipes and angles for the radiation of heat, which are so liable to fill up and get out of order, thus simplifying, while it increases the surface of radiation.

These Furnaces consume all the coal, make no clinkers, the sifting of coal is entirely dispensed with, and they will save from 30 to 50 per cent. of fuel over common Furnaces.

For ease of management, economy and purity of air, these Furnaces have no equal. They can be regulated so as to give any amount of heat required, and the fire can be kept the entire season without once going out.

They give entire satisfaction wherever used. We have in store the different sizes, Brick and Portable, to which we invite the attention of those in want of the best Furnace in the world,—and would refer them to the following named gentlemen, who have them now in use:

Samuel Cleaves, Esq.,	Albert R. Hatch, Esq.,
Aaron H. Hill,	Charles H. Mendum,
Henry F. Wendell,	John Sise, and others.

Teeth on Vulcanized Rubber.

SOME OF ITS ADVANTAGES.

1st. It is stronger and lighter than any known material.

2d. From two to six times the amount of solidity or substance can be obtained by it.

3d. When the arch is irregular we can by building out the depressions—which can be done to any extent—give the mouth a more natural appearance.

4th. No bad taste arises in the mouth by its use, as the secretions of the stomach and mouth do not affect it in the least.

5th. Teeth mounted upon this base can be kept clean and sweet as easy as a saucer, as when finished the work presents one whole piece.

6th. While in all ways it is better, save in a few peculiar cases, it is much cheaper than Gold.

DR. A. P. STEVENS, Surgeon Dentist,
No. 5 Daniel St., Portsmouth,

Has had four years of practical experience in making this material, and will guarantee satisfaction in all cases entrusted to his care.

DENTISTRY.

No. 60 CONGRESS STREET,
Portsmouth, Jan. 1st, 1863.

DR. GOODALL

Would respectfully inform his patrons and the public, (having had of late many calls to insert teeth upon VULCANIZED RUBBER,) that he has purchased the best VULCANIZER in the market, and is now prepared to do all work upon RUBBER, or the other bases of GOLD and SILVER as formerly.

The Rubber has several important advantages, viz.: It is very light and elastic, and consequently perfectly easy to the muscles of the mouth and cheeks. There are no joints or crevices for joints to collect food, &c.; consequently they can be worn night and day, and are very easily kept sweet and clean.

Beside all this, the most accurate fit is obtained, as the Rubber is Vulcanized directly upon the plaster model, and the suction is of course much stronger than in plates of Gold or Silver.

Any one who is waiting for their permanent teeth will, I am confident, be perfectly satisfied with the Rubber, as a base. The expense is but a little more than for Silver, and you get the same teeth (in blocks) that you would pay $50.00 for an upper or lower set on Gold.

In New York and Boston, and throughout the West, Vulcanized Rubber is used almost to the exclusion of the other bases, and by the best Dentists too. I will warrant a perfect fit and teeth from the best manufacturer in the country, R. H. Ridle, Boston.

ALL OTHER OPERATIONS IN DENTISTRY I will do at the usual rates. I will here mention that my price for EXTRACTION is 25 cents.

I take pleasure in referring the public to Dr. TREADWELL, Dr. BOARDMAN, Dr. OLIVER and Dr. HUNTER, for particular success in extracting teeth. Teeth extracted without pain and with perfect safety with Ether. Teeth polished to their natural whiteness without pain or injury to the Enamel. Regulation of Adults' and Children's Teeth will receive particular attention.—All whole and partial Sets of Teeth repaired with Neatness and Dispatch. All other Operations in Dentistry, I will do at the usual rates.

GRACE'S CELEBRATED SALVE.

A SURE RELIEF FOR THE SUFFERER.

This Salve is a vegetable preparation, invented in the 17th century, by Dr. WM. GRACE surgeon in King James's, army. Through its agency he cured thousands of most serious sore and wounds that baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians of his day, and was regarded by all who knew him as a public benefactor.

Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Burns.

Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ulcers.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chapped Hands.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ringworms.

And from Sores and Wounds of the most serious nature down to a common Pimple. It eradicates Pimples from the face, and beautifies the skin. There is no preparation before the public that can equal this Salve in prompt and energetic action for the speedy cure of external diseases, as those who have tried its virtues testify. Soldiers, Sailors, and Fishermen, will find the Salve their best friend.

It has none of the irritating, heating properties of other remedies, but cools, cleanses, and heals the most serious Sores and Wounds. Every family, and especially those containing children, should keep a box on hand in case accident, for it will save them much trouble, suffering, and money. All it wants is a fair trial to cure old and inveterate Sores.

VOL. 22. PORTSMOUTH, N. H. WEDNESDAY APRIL 29, 1863. NO. 62.

The Chronicle.

"Bound to no party—to no sect confined;
The world our home; our brethren, all mankind.
Love truth, do good, be just and fair with all;
Exalt the right, though every ism fall."

"Let me warn you in the most solemn manner against the baneful effects of the spirit of Party, generally. It is a spirit not to be encouraged.—Its common and continual mischief is sufficient to make it the interest and duty of a wise people to discourage and restrain it. In governments of the popular form, it is seen in its greatest rankness, and is truly their worst enemy."—Washington's Farewell Address

☞ The Pacha of Egypt has just had made for himself in Paris, a dessert service consisting of twelve gold plates, richly inlaid with diamonds, costing 60,000 francs each; six champagne glasses, costing 30,000 francs each; six small wine glasses, at 18,000 each, and a dozen spoons and forks at 6000 francs each. The plates and champagne glasses each contain more than a thousand diamonds.

MARRYING "FOR THE WAR."—We learn by a letter from Corinth, Miss., that a new "social arrangement" has been gotten up between our soldiers and the sesesh women of that locality. The soldiers get to courting the women, and when a match is struck up, they get married in regular style, with the condition 'while the war lasts.' Some twenty of our soldiers have entered into the arrangement lately. The question that occurs to us is, will these little treaties of peace be conducive to a short or a protracted war?—a question that we respectfully submit to the ladies' debating society.—Chicago Journal.

☞ The Washington correspondent of the Journal of Commerce says that the Court Martial upon Gen. Porter debated the question whether he should be shot or cashiered.

Navy Tobacco.

We would invite the attention of dealers to the above Tobacco made by us. It is warranted to be of better quality than any in the market, and as good as the best from Virginia. Those disposed to encourage HOME MANUFACTURES, and all in want of GOOD TOBACCO in place of the very inferior quality with which the market is flooded, can obtain it in any quantity for trial.

☞ ATTENTION, THE WHOLE! ☜
EYE, N.H., Feb. 26, 1846. "I hereby certify that my daughter has had the salt rheum for a number of years—some of the time so badly as to prevent her labor, or even rest—as it affected her hands very much. A large sum had been expended to the most celebrated physicians, for Sarsaparilla Syrup, &c., &c., but she obtained no relief until I procured some ten or twelve bottles of Dr. SWETT'S PANACEA, and several bottles of his Humor Wash, which have effected a cure. There can be no mistake, as this cure was effected more than three years ago. No other medicines can equal Dr. Swett's in removing the various kinds of humors. I have sold it to a number of my neighbours, who were afflicted, and witnessed many full cures effected by it since I have acted as agent for the sale of it. JOSIAH JENNESS.
PORTSMOUTH, April 21st, 1862.
I have for several years been afflicted with distress at my stomach, loss of appetite, and often vomited up all of my food immediately after eating it, and all medicine failed to give any relief until about a year ago, when I took one bottle of DR. S. SWETT'S PANACEA, which fully cured me, so that I have not had the least trouble from any of these complaints since, and I enjoy good health. M. LOWD.
From ELDER I. CHESLEY, Lee, May 31, 1841.
DR. SWETT: Permit me to testify, as I feel in duty bound to do, that my daughter was afflicted with scrofulous humor, and that previous to your visiting our house in the spring of 1840, she had been confined for a number of months, without her natural rest by day or night, she had applied to a number of physicians, but continued to grow weaker till she commenced using your PANACEA and HUMOR WASH. Since then, she has recovered her health so far as to rest quietly by night, and labor by day. I esteem your medicine one of the best that can be found for the diseases above named.! ISAAK CHESLEY.
☞ Any one returning the remainder of a bottle or box of Dr. Swett's medicines shall have pay for it, if it do not agree with his case, or if not worth the price. All orders directed to DR. S. SWETT, Portsmouth, N. H., promptly attended to. may20d

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 29, 1863.

THE REBELLION.

A dispatch from Gen. McNeil, at Cape Girardeau, Mo., states that Gen. Van Dever attacked the repulsed enemy on Monday night, taking a large number of prisoners, horses, arms, &c. Gen. McNeil says—"I am in pursuit of the flying enemy, who are retreating towards Bloomfield."

A part of Gen. Green Clay Smith's brigade, consisting of 250 cavalry, made a dash upon the rebel camp of the 1st Texas Legion, eight miles south of Franklin, Tenn., on Monday, and captured 128 rebels, including 3 captains, 5 lieuts.; also 5 horses, 50 mules, and 1 ambulance loaded with medical stores—and burned 8 wagons and the arms of the rebels. Col. Brooks, commanding the rebel camp, was captured, but subsequently escaped. Five rebels were mortally wounded. There were no casualties on our side.

Official dispatches of the running of the Vicksburg and Warrenton batteries by Gen. Grant with 6 gunboats and 12 transports on the night of the 22d, have been received. Over 500 shots were discharged at the fleet. We lost only two men mortally wounded and a few more—not exceeding ten—severely wounded. Gen. Grant telegraphs that he considers this movement, in view of its importance, the terrible fire to which the boats were exposed, and the slight loss of property and men, a magnificent success.

Adm. Porter reports that Lieut. Com'g Selfridge has passed through the new cut-off above Alexandria. It shortens the distance between the Arkansas and White rivers at least ten miles, and enables our officers to concentrate their strength very completely.

An expedition from Gen. Dudley's brigade, of Gen. Banks' forces, on the 14th, crossed a point of land opposite Port Hudson, and communicated with Adm. Farragut. They found the Admiral in good spirits and believing that the enemy had but four days' supply of provisions at Port Hudson. The ram Switzerland was still in company with the Hartford and Albatross. The blockade of Red river and the movement of Gen. Banks' forces toward the same point will tend materially to cut off the rebel supplies from Texas and West Louisiana.

A new movement on Charleston has already been entered upon, or will be immediately. The attack, it is said, will be made by the the fleet, in co-operation with the land forces. The rebels are hard at work strengthening their land defences on the islands south of Charleston. Troops have been sent from Savannah to assist them.—The N. Y. Tribune's dispatch says Chief Eng. Wood, U. S. N., now on duty in connection with the iron-clads, offers to take a Monitor up the harbor of Charleston, removing any obstructions that may impede the progress of the ships, or if the Department only desires the destruction of Fort Sumter he will accomplish that.

A small craft, supposed to be a rebel gunboat, has escaped from Savannah, thro' Warsaw Sound.

Adm. Bailey reports a naval expedition to Cedar Keys, Fla., resulting in the burning of some vessels by the rebels, to prevent their falling into our hands, and the disabling of some of our guns.

The N. Y. World's dispatch says that Lee is sick, and Jackson is in command, and that the rebels are now 15,000 weaker than at the Fredericksburg fight. The rebels are fortifying Richmond still more.

Considerable excitement has been occasioned by the appearance of a force of rebel guerrillas at Morgantown, Va., near the state line of Pennsylvania. It was thought that they were on their way to destroy the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. On Sunday a movement of 8000 troops was made on the road to strengthen it, and other arrangements to check them were made. The accounts are very much confused.

It is rumored that Gen. Hooker's army is moving.

☞ The bark Gen. Cobb, at New York, from Palermo, reports 8th inst., lat 37 07, lon. 39 15, was boarded by a boat from the ship Morning Star of Boston, from Calcutta, for London, who reported that she had been captured in lat. 2 min. North, and released after giving bonds to the amount $60,000.

☞ In the case of the British steamer Peterhoff, Judge Betts has granted an order that the cargo be opened and examined by the Prize Commissioners, with the view to ascertaining whether it is of a suspicious nature.

☞ Nashville was enlivened on Monday by a rumor that Gen. Bragg was shot and instantly killed by Breckinridge, at Tullahoma on Sunday. The same report prevailed at Murfreesboro'.

☞ Radsky, who has been on trial in New York for the murder of the few diamond merchant, Sigismund Fellner, has been found guilty.

DRY GROUND AND SUNSHINE.

Messrs. Editors:—I wish to call the attention of the public, through your paper, to an address read before the Massachusetts Medical Society recently, by Henry J. Bowditch, M. D., on consumption in New England, or locality one of its chief causes.

The address embraces the results of the labors of Doct. Bowditch on the subject for the last ten years.

It should be read by all persons, particularly those predisposed to consumption. It can be had of Ticknor & Fields, Boston, for less than $1. MED.

Dr. Bowditch, in the light of much practice and observation, considers that elevated, verdant spots on the south slopes of hills, with gravelly or sandy soil, are the healthiest building sites,—while low, boggy spots are bad, and tend to consumption.—He is also very fond of sunshine. He says:

We may meet with a patient suffering under what is sometimes inaptly called the "pretubercular condition," where there is a general disturbance of the system—a good-for-nothingness—a languor, in fact, of body and soul, in the performance of their functions, perhaps a slight dispepsia, some emaciation and debility—a little cough, but without physical signs of pulmonary disease. If such a patient has been residing under the circumstances named in this Address, as promotive of consumption, it will be our first duty to urge him to leave the spot. If he be living in the northern rooms of the house, where no sun can reach him, especially if the rooms have a damp, bleak exposure, he should remove to one which is bathed with the warm rays of noon. I have, in two cases of debility analogous to that described, seen great and immediate benefits result. One patient delighted in sitting hour after hour with the full force of the sun lying upon her whole form below the head. She seemed to imbibe strength and life from this, to her, novel sun-bath.

Do we not all of us, even while in perfect health, unconsciously recognize by our lungs, if in no other way, the oppressiveness of a room which, during any period of the year, has been, for any reason, shut from the sun's rays, even for a single day? We do not breathe as easily, and the mind becomes sluggish in such a place. How much more, then, should we guard those whose lungs are threatened with disease, from this extra suffering? Yet how utterly regardless is this community of all consideration of the influence of sun-light on health, tho' very earnest, perhaps, when the question arises of preserving the color of a fine painting or the brilliant hues of an expensive carpet! I write not poetry, but simple fact, when I say that on these occasions, sometimes, in our gross ignorance of God's laws, we risk blanching the human "face divine," in our eager desire to preserve a mere work of art or an expensive luxury.—Pardon this apparent digression from the main current of our investigations, to which I now return.

Still more should a removal be urged if any, even the most trivial, of physical signs of pulmonary disease may be found. A short distance, even of half or quarter of a mile may do much good; but I should prefer to have such a patient remove at once to one of the places already known, or which may hereafter be found to be drier and more favorable for him. It has been stated that, in my zeal for retaining my patients in Massachusetts, I oppose entirely their removal to the more southern climates of Florida, Cuba, and of Europe. Nothing could be further from the truth; but where one is able to travel for health, thousands are fastened by the iron grasp of necessity to their native soil, and to but a very small space of even that. They cannot leave their own villages. This law offers up some chance for even these.

☞ A correspondent of the Scientific American argues that as there are primitive sounds and primitive colors, so there are primitive odors. The primitive colors are violet, indigo, blue, green, yellow, orange and red—seven in number. The primitive sounds are also seven in number. The primitive odors, as evolved from plants, he says, appear also to be seven. These are camphor, lemon, jessamine, rose, almond, clove, and santal. All perfumes from flowers are either analogies of these primitive odors or are harmonious combinations. As there are various shades of one color and various pitches of one sound, so there are definite octaves of the primitive odors. Actual experiment establishes that there are several octaves of lemon, also of the almond and camphor. Thus far but two octaves of the rose have been discovered, and one only of the jessamine. Experiments are being made with the clove and with santal.

☞ Before the Supreme Court, in Salem, last week, a case was decided in favor of Rowley, Mass., against one of its citizens—Mr. Todd, who claimed damages to the amount of $20,000 for injuries received by a defect in the road. The town of Rowley ought to invite that jury to "sit for their pictures," and place said pictures in the Town Hall;—a jury which decided a case in favor of a town against an individual, ought to be remembered.

A NARROW ESCAPE.—Miss Mary Clark, residing in Bethel, Me., on Wednesday last, discovered a place where the track was covered by a slide, and at the same time heard a train approaching. She waved her shawl and shouted so as to gain the attention of the engineer, who was able to stop the train when within a few feet of the slide, where there was six feet of dirt and stone on the track.

☞ Capt. John L. Swift, of the 41st Mass. regiment, has resigned his commission.

NEW HAMPSHIRE ITEMS.

—— The 63d annual convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the diocese of New Hampshire will be held in Trinity Church at Sanbornton Bridge on the last Wednesday in May. This denomination has now eighteen societies in this State.

—— A man named Young, of Gilmanton, but calling himself Capt. Brown, or Mr. J. G. Brown, was arrested by City Marshal Yeaton, of Manchester, for passing counterfeit bills on the bank of Bennington, Vt., in Deerfield and Chester. He was sent to Exeter jail to await his trial at the next term of the Court in this county.

EDUCATION OF THE FREEDMEN.—The following extract from a letter of C. C. Leigh, Esq., Home Secretary of the National Freedmen's Relief Association, who has just returned from Port Royal, presents a cheering aspect of the state of things there, and the extensive usefulness of the Association. The letter is dated New York, April 17th, 1863.

"The cause of education at Port Royal among the Freedmen there is in a very prosperous condition. We have forty female teachers there, all diligent in their labors and attached to their work. The pupils are earnestly pursuing their studies, are learning very fast and redeeming their time.

"They are in want of almost all kinds of books. I have just made large purchases of between 4000 and 5000 volumes, which, with $1000 just given to the Orphan Home for colored children in Washington, D. C., has nearly exhausted our treasury. We shall have to trust to the people of the North to sustain us. We are nearly out of funds. I found at Beaufort, S. C., sewing schools in active operation.

"At St. Augustine and Fernandina, Fla., the children and women are anxious to learn. I found 120 in one of the schools, diligent in their studies, and under the excellent care and instruction of the ladies we have sent out.

"We have six Sabbath Schools, which are in a very flourishing condition. Maj. Gen. Saxton told me repeatedly that our teachers were doing more for the South than all the appliances used there. Truly, my dear brother, the work is of the Lord. May He help you to plead the cause of these thousands thus thrown upon our hands."

☞ Auctioneer McGilvray, of Boston, writes us a long letter, stating that his advertising that square æolian piano as round cornered, was his clerk's mistake—that it had rosewood case, and was a nice instrument—and that it had been bought previously at his rooms by a speculator, and was fixed up and sent to the house-sale by him. He says we misrepresented him, and requests a correction in these columns, as he always intends doing business "on the square." We accept his amendments, and give him the benefit of this disclaimer; tho' he or that erring clerk ought to pay the expenses of that useless trip to "the city," to make all square.

☞ Com'r George Colvocoressis has been detached from the command of storeship Supply, and Acting Master David G. McRitchie ordered thereto.

Screw sloop Kearsarge, Capt. Pickering, was at Fayal 6th inst.

☞ The 10th Maine Regiment is about to return home, the two years for which they enlisted having expired. The regiment may be expected on Friday or Saturday.

☞ The Regiments of New York two years' men, the 7th and 8th, have been mustered out of service by the expiration of their terms. New York has 38 such Regiments.

☞ The Tribune has reason to know that while Mr. Chase was in New York he declined an offer for one hundred millions of bonds from continental capitalists, payable in gold.

☞ The Express learns that there are private letters in New York city, stating that the policy of the British Government is now settled, viz: resolutely to stop the fitting out of any more privateers or vessels of war in British ports.

☞ A dispatch says the pilot of the iron-clad Keokuk is under arrest, charged with running her ashore on Morris Island that the rebels might capture her.

☞ The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has decided that all promissory notes, whether under or over $20, are subject to a stamp.

☞ A Washington despatch says that Addison has been removed from the Chief Clerkship in the Adjutant General's Department.

TALES OF THE DAY, for April, contains the concluding chapters of the Strange Adventures of Captain Dangerous, by George Augustus Sala, besides many other interesting Stories and articles. Published by William Carter & Brother, Boston.

This certifies that I have used in my family Grace's Salve with very satisfactory results.—It is in my opinion the best salve that I have ever used, and worthy of a place in every family.

Amesbury, June 5, 1862.

☞ The N. Y. Herald says official accounts from Mexico to the 31st ult., show that the Mexicans, so far from being defeated at Puebla, as reported through French sources, have frequently repulsed the enemy, and are probably still in safe possession of that city.

☞ In a few weeks, the entire Lilliputian quartette, the two Thumbs, the little Nutt and Minnie, are to sail for England, in pursuance of the provisions of a four years' contract, of which Barnum is the party of the first part. Their little bits of lives are insured for twenty thousand dollars each, or eighty thousand dollars in all.

☞ The steamer Tubal Cain, which was captured on July 24, 1862, while attempting to run the blockade, and which was sold in New York city, has been re-seized by the Government. It appears that she had been fitted out for another blockade voyage having on board a mixed cargo of flour, powder, caps, muskets, &c. The only two officers found on board, Sutton and Bloome, were sent to Fort Lafayette.

☞ Gen. Curtis, in Missouri, has issued an order of similar purport to that of Gen. Burnside, but far more elaborate in the definition of the offences enumerated. He quotes copiously from the highest military authorities and articles of war. All officers of the Department are strictly enjoined to carry out the provisions of the order.

☞ The Legislature of Georgia has passed a law authorizing the State to make one appropriation to meet the Confederate debt, the same to be subject to the vote of the people at the next October election.

☞ The St. James Episcopal Church in Pittsburg, Pa., on Sunday took fire during the morning service from a defective flue and was nearly destroyed. The congregation got out safely.

To prevent putting such quantities of indigestible drugs into the stomach, the griping pains so frequently judged to be the evidence of thorough action, and to require from 4 to 8 Pills, to get a decent cathartic, was the study in this development. The dose seldom exceeding One, and never more than Two Pills, settles the question of economy, and character can be best known by confidence to test them in DYSPEPSIA, COSTIVENESS, BILIOUSNESS, LIVER COMPLAINT, all derangements of the stomach and bowels, and as a Family Pill. spno

POLICE COURT, Tuesday.—Fmmf Langdon pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing two dress patterns and two parasols from the store of Messrs. Simes & Co., and was ordered to pay a fine of $6 and costs, and to pay Messrs. Simes & Co., three times the value of the property stolen—amounting in all to $41.06.

John Varrell, and Maria Varrell, his wife, occupants of the notorious "Pine Tree Cottage" in Rye, being charged with keeping a house of ill-fame, were ordered to find bonds in the sum of $200 each, for their appearance before the S. J. Court, and in default thereof were committed to jail.

☞ A day or two since, Albert Laighton's touching little poem, "Found Dead," was clipped from some of our exchanges, and without examination, printed in these columns. But a friend of ours and of the author, and a lover of true poetry—called our attention to it; and as a matter of justice to ourselves, no less than to A. L., we re-print the verses to-day on our fourth page, with the numerous errors we believe all corrected, save in the last verse "accursed" is substituted for "scorned and poor;" and, third verse, "tears and sighs" should be "tears or sighs"—and proper credit given the author. It is not easy to see how such stupid alterations could be made, even in circulating through the papers.

☞ In our mention, yesterday, of the disabled and needy Volunteer, Chas. William Lolley, of this city—better known by his middle name—Williamsburg was erroneously substituted for Fredericksburg, in the battle at which latter place he received his honorable wounds.

☞ The Holman Family, whose Operatic Entertainments have won great applause elsewhere, appear at the Temple this (Wednesday) evening. They will no doubt richly entertain their audience,—if one may judge from anything else save his own eyes and ears.

☞ Those who wish to enjoy a good Dance at a low price, will not forget Mr. Lamprey's Social Assembly, advertised for to-night, Wednesday.

☞ The Portsmouth Cornet Band are certainly entitled to a full house to-morrow night. It is rarely they offer their name for a "benefit;" while it is not so rare for them to confer more benefit (in their line,) on our citizens and the city than the comparative pittance amounts to, which they can claim as direct pay for their services. No matter how much the members may enjoy it—there is no end to the time and toil which any Band must devote, to attain anything like proficiency in performance; and our Cornet Band is beyond question, an honor and an advantage to the city, as well as a great convenience and never-ending source of pleasure. Let them be sustained, liberally—not more for their sakes, than our own. And we have no doubt they will be, for everybody who is anybody, regards them as one of our most necessary institutions—though probably all are not aware how much encouragement such a Bands needs, to ensure its permanance and reasonable success. If any interested parties can't attend themselves, why just distribute tickets among your friends, "for the cause."

☞ We are requested to state that the Alms House will be open on Fast Day, from one till six o'clock, P. M., for all who choose to visit it.

☞ The alarm of fire on Tuesday evening was false.

☞ Among the appointments for the ensuing year, announced at the Maine Conference of the M. E. Church at Portland, are the following for towns in this vicinity: Kennebunk, J. M. Caldwell; Kennebunkport, Geo. Wingate; York, F. C. Ayer; Scotland, Geo. W. Barbor; Kittery, T. J. True; Eliot, S. G. Gray; South Berwick, W. Rideout; Berwick, A. R. Sylvester.

PRICES OF FOOD.—The prices of leading articles of food in Quincy Market, Boston, are as follows:—Beef from 13 to 22 cents per pound; veal, 7 to 10; mutton 8 to 18; corned beef and pork, 8 to 10; fish, 5 to 10; early shad, 40 cents a piece. Flour can be bought in the vicinity of the market, the very best O'Fallon brand at $10.25 a barrel, and other St. Louis and the best Canada at $10. Butter in the market is worth 25 cents for the best, with extra lump at 28. Eggs 19 cents a dozen. These prices show meat to be higher, and other articles lower than common.

☞ It is rumored that Mrs. Stephen A. Douglas never joined her husband in the execution of mortgages on his Chicago real estate, and that she is consequently entitled to her rights of dower. She resides in the house which Mr. Douglas occupied before he built his mansion, now used as a hospital, and it is said devotes much of her time to the relief of the sick and wounded, looking even more majestically beautiful than ever.

☞ Mr. Kinglake, the historian of the Crimean war, an observant statesman and member of Parliament, gives it as his conviction that the London Times alone caused that war.

FLOWERS.

"A flower but place near thy window glass,
And through it no shadow of evil can pass.
Abroad must thou go? on thy white bosom wear
A nosegay, and doubt not an angel is there;
Forget not to water at break of the day,
The lilies, and thou shalt be fairer than they;
Place a rose near thy bed nightly, sentry to keep,
And angels shall rock thee on roses to sleep."

BOSTON THEATRICALS.—Mrs. Barrow's fine new combination Comedy Company commenced a very successful season at the "Boston Theatre" on Monday evening of last week, giving the play of "Town and Country." Mrs. Barrow, Mrs. Sedley Brown, Miss Mary Carr, Miss Rachel Johnson, Messrs. Geo. Vandenhoff, W. R. Blake, Sam Emery and others of celebrity, served to make the cast as near perfection as one may hope to see. The "School for Scandal," "Money," and "The Rivals" have been brought out during the week. Sir Peter Teazle was most capitally represented on Tuesday evening, in School for Scandal, by Mr. Blake, who was probably the finest representative of old gentlemen on any stage. His rendition was admirable throughout, and full of vigor: but immediately after the performance he was taken seriously ill and received medical assistance at the Theatre: was afterwards removed to the Parker House, where he died Wednesday evening. His loss is almost irreparable to the profession.

Several important additions have been made to the company to enable them to bring out "London Assurance."

The "Florences" appear at the Howard Atheneum this week.

Miss Ritchings is attracting crowds to the Boston Museum by her fine acting and delightful singing. Why can't we hear her in Somnambula, or some opera which will afford her scope for her fine talents? REP.

☞ See yon fair maiden in another column, picking Sambuci Grapes for Speer's Wine. It is an admirable article, used in hospitals, and by the first class families in Paris, London and New York, in preference to old Port wine. It is worth a trial, as it gives great satisfaction. ly.

Read the following recommendation from the Cashier of the Lake Bank, Wolfboro', N. H.

WOLFBORO, N. H., Lake Winnipiseogee, Nov. 10, 1862.

Agents Lodi Manufacturing Co., Boston.

GENTS:—I have used the Poudrette made by your Co. for two years. The first year I used four barrels, and experimented with it on both corn and potatoes. I was pleased and satisfied with the result, and the past season purchased over 100 barrels for my own use, and my neighbors. I think some twenty-five different farmers tried and used the Poudrette on my recommendation, and all have this Fall expressed themselves entirely satisfied to use such an increased quantity this next Spring. Planting season comes late, and we have very early frosts, and the Poudrette ripens our corn from two to three weeks earlier. We have also found it a preventative of the wire worm, which often times destroys our entire crops. Our mode of applying the Poudrette is, to put about a handful in each hill, and place the seed in direct contact. I think I shall want double the quantity next Spring that I had this year.

Yours, Respectfully,
ABEL HALEY,
Cashier Lake Bank, Wolfboro, N. H
